Total Filed Originally
Was $282,000,000

Expectation that the total creditors' claims provable against Paramount Public can be scaled down to between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 was voiced yesterday by the principal protective committee for bondholders of the company.

Total claims filed against Paramount aggregated $282,000,000. Of this amount it is hoped that all will be withdrawn or disallowed except approximately $25,000,000 in bonds.

pared by the attorney general, Johnson and Chairman Ferguson of the Federal Trade Commission, will be made public next week, it was promised at the White House.

Looking 'Em Over

"Glamour"

(Universal)

A wilful woman, craving romance after her husband has raised her from obscurity to fame as an actress, leaves her husband and child to begin what she thinks will be a new emotional life with a crooner. He, too, craves new conquests, and she returns to the husband after their child has died.

Baldly stated, it does not sound like an unusual story, but it has its moments and is splendidly handled by the three principals—Paul Lukas, as the husband; Constance Cummings, as the wife, and Philip Reid as the crooner.

Sympathy is with the husband throughout. He is a producer and composer. Reid tells him of his love for his wife and quits the show rather than carry on a clandestine romance. Miss Cummings follows him to London and obtains a divorce.

Situations are handled deftly. The dialogue is smart. Reid, as the cabaret singer who becomes famous on both stage and radio, is a tall, dark individual who probably will go over in a big way with women.

It's adult entertainment.

"In Love With Life"

(Chesterfield)

This Invincible production has those sentimental touches that win the hearts of women in neighborhood audiences. Revolving around the theme of a mother's separation from her son, the film has many moments that bring moisture to the eyes, and its story is told simply and acted out with capability, particularly on the part of Onslow Stevens and Dickie Moore. The picture has been splendidly mounted and photographed and well directed by Frank Strayer.

Lila Lee, the mother, returns to her father (Claude Gillingwater), from whom she ran away to marry a rotter, with a plea for forgiveness. Her husband is dead and she is desperately in need. Her father, a man of tremendous wealth, is willing to take in the boy but not the mother, whom he asks never to see the child again. Out of love for the youngster she accepts the bargain. The grandfather lavishes all his affection on the boy.

He hires Stevens as his tutor. Stevens, drawn to Miss Lee, does all in his power to keep relations between mother and son alive. It takes the stock market crash to stir Gillingwater to forgiveness. Sick and faced with ruin, he allows his paternal instincts to get the better of him.

The end sees Stevens and Miss Lee married and all united in a modest household as one happy little family.

"The Crime Doctor," now current at the Rialto, was covered on March 9 by wire from Hollywood.

"Change of Heart," now current at the Music Hall, was covered on May 4 by Hollywood wire.

Campi Backs Board in Its First Appeal

Leslie Thompson, Walter Vincent and R. H. Cochrane. Harold S. Bareford and W. C. Michel did not vote, as their companies were involved. The vote was unanimous.

Elias Mayer, attorney for Ashley, contended that his clients did not overbuy and that the product it had bought for the season was necessary for the company's three houses in Madison, namely the Parkway, Strand and Orpheum. He also stated that there never was enough product for houses in Madison and that of the 323 pictures bought, 312 were needed for the policies at the trio.

The counselor for Ashley contended that duals at the Ashley houses are not unfair competition.

Mayer then contended that the Milwaukee board had not found out the financial status of the Saxe company when it handed down a decision. He also stated that Saxe had 38 pictures and if given 30 additional could not use all of them.

Asked to Explain Why

Division Administrator Sol. A. Rosenblatt interrupted at this point and asked Mayer what made him so sure the Capitol in Madison would have too much product. The attorney stated the present season was near an end and if granted the 30 films could not play them all before the new selling period got under way. At this point, Vincent and Yamins asked Mayer questions pertaining to the policy of the Parkway. It was described as a helter skelter and "sluff" house.

I. Levenson, representing Vitagraph, was not so much concerned with the decision of the Milwaukee board as he was with the financial status of the Saxe Amusement Management Co., Inc. During the hearing it was stated that the circuit operates 11 houses and has unqualified credit ratings with all branch managers in Milwaukee.

It was also pointed out that Tom Saxe owns 49 per cent of the common stock of the Capitol Investment Co., which built the theatre involved. A financial statement submitted by E. H. Hallas, attorney for Saxe, showed that during the 10 weeks of operation of the Capitol there has been a total profit of $3,235. Saxe gets two and one-half per cent of the gross, it was stated.

Says Only 218 of 325 Needed

Hallas pointed out that of the 325 pictures for the Parkway and Orpheum, only 218 films were needed under the policies from Oct. 8, 1933 to Feb. 8, 1934. He stated the Orpheum played 32 single attractions during that period and would require 96, plus a 10 per cent cancellation privilege under the policy. The Parkway, a "B" house, combination policy, played 28 single attractions and had three double feature programs in the four months. He contended that the Ashley company changed the policy of the Parkway when it was learned Saxe was about to open the Capitol.

Several questions anent the management deal of Saxe were raised by crat, threatened a senatorial investigation if any white-washing was attempted.

The report of the Recovery Administration is expected to be based, in part at least, upon a study of the board's findings to be made by Rosenblatt and officials responsible for the other seven codes covered in the initial investigations.

That the reading of the report will be no pleasure for Rosenblatt is indicated by statements made during and after the hearings by board members, particularly Darrow, relative to code provisions, the authority and the manner in which the document was negotiated. It is understood Darrow demands Rosenblatt's resignation, revamping of the authority to provide 15 members equally divided among the government, the majors and the independents and elimination or rewriting of a number of provisions relating to the leasing of pictures.

Vitagraph, with the result that Levenson asked that his company be protected in any decision the board might hand down. This was done when the body affirmed the grievance findings.

Rosenblatt was more than a casual government observer. He, at various times, interrupted the lawyers and took copious notes. He also objected to objections raised by the attorneys.

Al Kvoole, general manager of the Saxe company, as well as Tom Saxe, were present. They leave for Milwaukee today.

R. H. Cochrane will be chairman of the next meeting, May 18.

National Board Gets Consolidated Strike

The labor difficulties of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., were turned over to the National Labor Board yesterday at Washington.

Fifty workers in the company's plants at Fort Lee, N. J., have been on strike since April over a 10 per cent wage increase which has been approved three times by the Regional Labor Board here. When the company's directors rejected the agreement, the board referred the case to Washington.

Most of the strikers are members of Printing Pressmen's Union, Local 51.

Attempts to secure a statement from Consolidated yesterday were unsuccessful.

Uncounted Theatres Delay Union Check

Omission of a number of metropolitan theatres from the recent checkup of the proportion of service employees in Loew's and RKO houses who are members of Local 118, Theatre & Amusement Employees Union, was given yesterday as the reason for the inability of Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt to make public results of the checkup.

A second meeting will be held Tuesday night at which it is expected the final count will be made known. If the checkup reveals a majority of union service employees in the union, the circuits are expected to negotiate new wage contracts with Local 118.

Nowhere in the report, it is said, is any favorable reference to the Recovery Administration to be found, and publication of the document will, it is feared by administration officials, be the signal for a bitter attack upon the NRA.

It is understood the dissolution of the board as soon as possible was desired by administration leaders because of the strong tone of the initial report. However, upon publication of the report the damage will have been done and it is expected that the charges the Review Board will level against the few codes it has investigated will result in a strong demand that it be continued for a study of all other codes.

Responsibility for delay in publication of the report was assumed today by Johnson, who explained he "was on the spot" and asked permission to read the report and prepare an answer.

More Salary Jumps Opposed in Report

Further increases in salaries for film employees, whether in production, distribution or theatres would be "unbearable," it is stated in a report of a special committee to Code Authority.

The committee was named after President Roosevelt suggested several weeks ago that industries should seek to raise wages further to meet rising price levels. Signers of the report are H. S. Bareford, Charles L. O'Reilly and George J. Schaefer.

The report says there is "no substantial unemployment" in the industry; that the industry has "gone as far as it can go in reducing hours and raising wages; that any further moves along this line would 'reduce production and therefore diminish the supply of available product.'" exhibitors which when signed will become so binding that their violation will mean appearance before the grievance board for offenders. Ben Bernstein, chairman of the committee, predicts the support of 90 per cent of independents. These pledges will be thrown into the lap of Charles Skouras upon his arrival here, they have been assured.

Producers will be requested to stage previews in the outlying towns so that singles may be made unanimous in the Los Angeles area.

through his attorney, Arnold M. Goldstein, claims that he has a contract with RKO for a number of first runs, but cannot get them because Skouras and Century are "forcing RKO to break the contracts with us." Goldstein yesterday told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that he "charges the defendants with getting together to freeze us out." He added: "This is a conspiracy to prevent us from getting first run product in violation of the anti-trust law."

The Skouras houses involved are the Freeport and Grove in Freeport. The Century theatre is the Fantasy, Rockville Center. Goldstein states he will bring with him a half dozen witnesses when the grievance comes before the board.

Miss Jennie Jelin, operating the Opera House, New Brunswick, N. J., stated yesterday she will shortly file a grievance with the board charging overbuying against one of the major circuits. She attended the Rogowsky-Skouras hearing this week before the grievance board.

Efforts to reach George Skouras and Louis White, his attorney, during the past two days have been unavailing.

Chicago 15¢ Rates Due for Showdown

CHICAGO, May 11.—A showdown on 15-cent admissions and double bills is scheduled for vote Monday before the local clearance and zoning board. Fireworks in generous proportions loom.

Postponed because of the absence of Judge Hugo Friend, impartial board member, it is expected the session will set loose a local bombshell.

Seven grievances already are on tap for Tuesday's meeting of the grievance board. One is a B. & K. complaint on alleged premature advertising of coming attractions by neighborhood houses which may have a far-reaching effect on the trade here.

Premiums Classed Price Cuts in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, May 11.—Any kind of premiums will be considered a price cut under the terms of the new clearance and zoning schedule promulgated here by the code board. More than one double bill a week also is to be regarded as a price cut of five cents and the house will be set back accordingly.

BOSTON, May 11.—Objectionable films will be boycotted by the members of the Knights of Columbus in Massachusetts, according to vote of the State Council at its annual meeting at Hotel Somerset. Four hundred delegates attending the session unanimously voted for a resolution and agreed to back a nation-wide movement.

Rev. Russell M. Sullivan, S. J., of Boston College, spoke against pictures having "a serious, detrimental effect on the morals of the younger generation."

"Synchronized so that the eyes may see and the ears hear, these crime-supporting, sexy movies in which the criminal is glorified and nudity flaunted, are being shown over and over again," Father Sullivan said.

Under the terms of the resolution state officers are constituted a central committee whose duty it will be to cooperate with other Catholic organizations.

Block booking and blind buying were also opposed in a resolution.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Gangster films were called "the supporting pillars if not the foundations of the modern school of crime" by Dr. Bernard Sachs, president of the N. Y. Academy of Medicine, speaking here today at a luncheon instituting the Philadelphia Chapter of the M. P. Research Council. The gathering was held at the Bellevue-Stratford.

Editor Denies Plan To Petition President

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Father Daniel A. Lord, editor of The Queen's Work, today denied he is circulating petitions among exhibitors protesting against block booking with a view to presenting them to President Roosevelt. He stated he is not interested in block booking and his only concern so far as pictures are concerned is the Catholic crusade against objectionable pictures.

He said information has come to him that of 40 recent Hollywood productions 20 are in direct violation of the Will Hays code of morals adopted in 1931 and 1932 which all producers solemnly pledged rigidly to observe. He added he has only sympathy for the theatre owners, for he realizes that under existing conditions they are not able to help themselves and are thoroughly in sympathy with the movement to clean up the screen.

The subject of morals in pictures and theatre advertising was brought up at a conference of clergymen of all creeds and theatre representatives held in the office of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann yesterday. Another meeting will be held in the near future in an effort to cooperate in eliminating conditions complained of.

Fox Holds James Dunn

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—Fox has extended James Dunn's contract.

Looking 'Em Over

"Three on a Honeymoon"

(Fox)

Pleasant entertainment. Zasu Pitts gets across some good laughs, and there are some moments when the love interest becomes serious that ought to put it over with the younger generation. Also, the picture is staged nicely.

Most of the background is on shipboard with Sally Eilers, spoiled daughter of the president of the line, commended by the captain to the special care of Charles Starrett, second officer. He is one of those serious-minded types with an aversion to spoiled darlings who falls in love in spite of himself. Miss Eilers handles her role well and is charming, but fills a lot of space on the screen.

About the time romance starts to bloom, she visits the stateroom of a blackmailer to get some letters that are hanging over the head of an old friend, Eileen Hervey, who is on her honeymoon with John Mack Brown. Emotional complications develop, but these are straightened out after Sally is injured by a dive into a half-empty pool.

Production value is gained by a cabaret scene at Algiers, one of the stopping places for the ship. Russell Simpson is effective as a dour Scot who falls in love with Miss Pitts, and Henrietta Crosman, as an understanding dowager from Oklahoma, contributes both to the serious and lighter moments.

James Tinling directed with a deft appreciation of comedy values. John Stone was the producer.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Money Means Nothing"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—Using romance between a girl of wealthy parents and a poor shipping clerk as a plot basis, "Money Means Nothing" emerges as fair entertainment.

Gloria Shea, following some gangsters in her auto for adventure, thinks her life is saved by Wallace Ford as his tire truck is held up and hijacked. Despite family objections, she proposes to Wally, and he, sensing her family's dislike of him, accepts her proposal. The married life of the youngsters beset by curious neighbors, the difficulty of making ends meet, the coming of an heir, his loss of job and her sacrifices until skies clear are the highlights.

Miss Shea's performance stands out and her personality augurs well for her future. The cast, including Edgar Kennedy, Betty Blythe, Edward Tambllyn, Richard Tucker, Tenen Holtz and Ann Brody do nicely.

The picture should appeal to family trade, neighborhood houses and on dual bill programs.

Hitler Film Moves

"Hitler's Reign of Terror" moved from the Mayfair to the Columbia, formerly the Central, yesterday. Samuel Cummins, the producer, stated he had leased the house for 13 weeks.

$13,000,000 in bank loans and from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000 of general creditors' claims. Claims standing against the company at this time are estimated to total $88,000,000.

The committee reports that progress vitally helpful to the early submission of a reorganization plan for Paramount is being made, but declined to make any estimate of how soon the plan would be ready. The committee is cooperating with the reorganization group represented by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Reports published yesterday that Paramount's earnings for the first quarter of this year would approximate $1,500,000 and that the company's cash on hand aggregates more than $12,000,000, could not be verified inside Paramount.

Para. Wins Three Arbitration Cases

CINCINNATI, May 11.—The first arbitration cases under the voluntary arbitration clause of the standard exhibition contract for 1933-34 were heard here today. Paramount was the plaintiff in each and won all three. The first was against the Park Hall Theatre, suburban, charging failure to play and pay for shorts contracted for. The second was against the Hollywood, also a suburban, for failure to play and pay for features under contract. The third was against the Third Avenue Theatre Co., operating the Rialto, Huntington, W. Va., and charged failure to play and pay for shorts under contract.

The board deciding the first two consisted of Stanley C. Jacques, Radio, and James Grady, Fox, representing distributors, with Willis Vance, head of the Ohio Valley Independent Exhibitors League, and Harold Bernstein as exhibitor representatives. In the third case the board was the same, except for the substitution of Maurice White, Warner-First National, for Jacques.

Chase Move Seen as Developing Policy

The divorcing by Chase National Bank from two of its investment affiliates was regarded in film circles yesterday as an indication of progress in the announced Chase policy of confining itself ultimately to banking business only.

The policy is expected to result within a reasonable time in the disposal by Chase of its entire Fox Film and theatre holdings, which apparently was begun several weeks ago with the sale to the British Fleming interests and the Atlas Corp. of 200,000 shares of Fox Film, and the delivery of options for 400,000 additional shares.

Chase Harris Forbes Corp., a securities affiliate of Chase National, is to be divorced by June 16, under the bank's plans, and the Chase Corp., a holding company for various investments of the bank, will be divorced on June 14.

Zukor Decries Criticisms of Cohen's Work

Intends to Back Him Up At Studio, He Says

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—"Unwarranted criticism" of Emanuel Cohen, Paramount production head, was attributed to the studio chief's refusal to "play Hollywood's politics," Adolph Zukor, head of Paramount, stated on his arrival here today.

"It takes years to become familiar with all angles of production," Zukor said, and recalling that Cohen had been in charge of production only two years, declared that for that reason alone "he should receive all possible

Detroit Catholics' Ban Hits 63 Films

DETROIT, May 13.—Local Catholic publications currently carry the first list of films which are banned for members of the Legion of Decency, which was organized locally last Sunday by Bishop Michael J. Gallagher in a drive for cleaner pictures.

The following are the pictures banned:

"All of Me," "A Man's Castle," "Blood Money," "Bombay Mail," "Bolero,"

TACOMA, May 13.—Resolutions condemning objectionable films and commending the movement begun in the Catholic Church have been adopted by the Washington Baptist Convention in session here.

The resolution calls upon parents to keep their children away from "harmful" films.

Has a Rothschild

A member of the House of Rothschild starts work in Paramount today. V. Henry Rothschild, II, direct descendant of the banker, is assigned to the new legal department being opened in Paramount today by Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine to handle litigation for the Paramount Public trustees in bankruptcy. Samuel S. Isseks of the Root, Clark office is in charge of the department.

Soon in Clear

Hollywood, May 13.—Reorganization of Paramount is making "very satisfactory progress," declared Adolph Zukor upon his arrival from New York today. He confidently expects the company to emerge from bankruptcy later this year.

George J. Schaefer's most recent promotion is a step toward reorganization of theatre properties, he continued. On reports moving S. A. Lynch into a higher post and N. L. Nathanson into a home-office post, Zukor said he knew nothing.

Para. Claim Against FWC Compromised

Settlement of a Paramount Public claim of approximately $2,000,000 against Fox West Coast under an agreement which replaces defunct leases on five Pacific Coast theatres with new leases, has been completed, it was learned yesterday.

The agreement gives F. W. C. new 10-year leases on the St. Francis, Paramount and California, at San Francisco, and a 10-year Paramount pictures franchise for the houses; a new lease on the Paramount at Oakland and the Paramount at Portland.

NRA Pressing Boards to Set For Speed on Districts for Code Hearings Premium Votes

Board Delays to Be Held Down to Minimum

No unnecessary delays in hearing and disposing of cases before local clearance and zoning and grievance boards as well as Campi will be tolerated, it is learned. This holds for code board members as well as the government.

Several attempts have been made by litigants in some parts of the country to procrastinate, claiming they have had insufficient time to prepare cases. Code secretaries notify all litigants about a week in advance.

In New York and Philadelphia the boards have posted "no postponement" rulings. The NRA's attitude is that all cases coming before code boards are to be disposed of with all possible expedition and attempts to delay consideration and secure postponements, except for acceptable reasons, will be frowned upon.

Enforcement of codes, it was said at

Roselle Merchants Seeking First Runs

ROSELLE, N. J., May 13.—Local business men are supporting a move to obtain a share of first runs for the Roslyn here and, through the Roselle Business Ass'n., have obtained authorization from the City Council for the appointment of a committee to further the move.

The bulk of the first runs now open at the Park, in neighboring Roselle Park, threatening a loss of local trade the business men declare. Operators of the Roslyn say they will also protest the present first run apportionment to the code grievance board.

Code Authority Decides Upon Procedure

Local clearance and zoning boards will define the areas to which voting will be confined on the subject of exhibitor bans on rebates in the form of premiums. Code Authority decided this at its last meeting by adopting a resolution of the committee on administration of local grievance boards.

The resolution establishes the procedure to be followed in carrying out the code provision under which 75 per cent of the theatres of any territory may vote on abolishing rebates in the form of premiums. On request of exhibitors, the local clearance and zoning board is to define the area to be affected by the proposed vote and file its definition with the local grievance board and advise the petitioning exhibitors of its findings within seven days after the request is made.

Exhibitors may then proceed with the vote on the premium ban, and if HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—Edwin G. Robinson has signed a new long term contract with Warners which permits him to do one outside picture yearly. The first will be "Four Walls" for M-G-M. Muni was the original selection for this film.

Warners are planning a big Russian picture based on a story idea developed by Muni while he was on a visit there some weeks ago.

Showmanship in the Booth

San Francisco, May 13.—Here's one that may become a local classic:

Toward the tail end of a feature running beyond the usual closing time, a careless operator in an outlying but crowded theatre discovered that he had misplayed the sixth and last reel. Frantically he looked for the last reel as the fifth neared its end. The picture at this stage was crammed with suspense. In almost the last second his bungling fingers picked up an old dust-covered slide used in the primitive days for just such emergencies. Desperately he flashed it on the screen. The slide, depicting a beautiful, romantic moonlight scene, read:

"And So This Story Ends. . . And We Bid You All Good Night." The projectionist is still looking for a job and the suspense of the audience continues unsatisfied.

Insiders' Outlook

Hollywood.

RALPH A. KOHN, veteran Paramounter who recently resigned his numerous vice-presidencies together with his posts as head of the home-office theatre departments, is not considering any of the offers—some of them pretty important ones—that he has received since leaving Paramount, according to the chatter filtering through to those who should know whereof they speak. The reason? The company's reorganization is not so far off and six of eight highly reputable accounting firms have held Kohn to be blameless for his part, as treasurer of Paramount, in the deals for repurchase of stock issued in the acquisition of theatres. The stock deals are the basis of the suit recently filed against members of the Paramount board in that period. Kohn's resignation was an aftermath of the suit, but after the suit, what? That's the point, exactly. . . .

Somewhat strangely did Hollywood react to the suit. Paramount, having approved and authorized the repurchase of its own stock from various stockholders from September, 1931 to March, 1932, agreed to pay $80 a share to former theatre owners. However, the stock sold much below that on the Stock Exchange in that period. Hollywood, not pronouncedly gifted in the ways of finance although its constituents have been known to do right smartly by themselves, expresses itself in varied mood on the question. . . .

For instance, one group crystallized its thoughts by comparing the corporate action to the mail clerk who mailed some letters with three cent stamps, forgetting that on that day Jim Farley had authorized the reduction to two cents. Contemplating the fate of the mail clerk, they wondered if he'd be fired or just elevated to higher post. Others, with a motion picture smile, agreed that "a contract is a contract," giving the benefit of the doubt to purchasers. . . .

Impartial observers concur that if the stock was selling for $100 a share on the exchange at the time Paramount repurchased the shares at $80, the directors now being sued would be hailed as smart operators, big men. After all, they argue, why pick on the celluloid mighty for ignoring or passing up the rumbles of thunder which went into the real thing in October of '29? There were some other industrial giants who did the wrong kind of guessing, too. . . .

It seems there are too many boleros in Hollywood and that explains current nasty looks exchanged between Lou Brock of Radio and the Warners. The former staged a South Sea bolero dance in "Down to Their Last Yacht," which Paul Sloane is directing. Warners are using a Hawaiian bolero in "Dames" and both are said to be similar, according to local dance masters. And so the Radio producer paid a visit to the Brothers Warner in an effort to get them to cut out the bolero business in their film, but they have other ideas. Brock claims he was 10 days ahead with his bolero and rates priority. This is the sort of thing that precipitates wars—Hollywood style. . . .

It was months ago when a certain writer completed a script, plus dialogue, for a noted director's current opus now ready. The film is of a kind where this director only could be the cook. Delivering the script to the super show-builder, the writer wore the seat of his pantaloons shiny awaiting the verdict. Then the director called him and the conversation ran something like this: "Your dialogue was marvelous," complimented the director. "I liked it so well that I used several words of it in my revision. Here it is. Read it." Writer discovered the lines, not his own, had been re-concocted a la James Joyce minus punctuation. . . .

"I can't read this," protested Mr. W. "It doesn't make sense." Replied Mr. D., "That is as it should be. You are not supposed to understand it. This script is not for you, it is for me. This is only the brush with which I will paint a beautiful picture. And as for the dialogue being written without punctuation, I have a very excellent reason for such procedure. I will not have any actor or actress working for me on the set with any preconceived idea of how to speak a line. I will tell them how to speak and how to act." There's Hollywood for you. . . .

signatures of 75 per cent of the theatres in the defined territory are obtained, the ban must be filed with the local grievance board and becomes effective 90 days thereafter. The completed vote, however, must be filed with the local grievance board within 60 days after the first signature is obtained for the petition in order to be valid.

The official statement on Campi's deliberations, issued Saturday, at its last meeting made no mention of the possibility that non-assentors will be accorded another opportunity to sign.

Appointment Confirmed

Campi on Saturday confirmed MOTION PICTURE DAILY's exclusive story of appointment of Major Joseph R. O'Donovan as paid secretary for the coast office. O'Donovan starts today with offices at the Guaranty Building in Hollywood. His initial duties will be in connection with organizing the work of the Studio Agency Committee.

As of May 10, exhibitors totalling 3,179 paid $31,755 as the first half of their assessments, it was stated.

The committee on unfair competition composed of Ed Kuykendall, Charles L. O'Reilly and George Skouras was authorized to investigate necessary legal steps to be taken "to safeguard exhibitor interests throughout the country against the practice of baseball parks and other places of popular amusement of giving away premiums such as automobiles and other prizes which is a practice prohibited under the Motion Picture Code."

Application for approval to set up divisional regional or labor agencies to adjust the industry's own labor disputes will be made immediately to the NRA.

Replacements Made

Charles Weigel, independent exhibitor, has been named to replace John Elliott, resigned, on the Cincinnati grievance board. Harry Nelson, independent theatre owner of St. James, Minn., replaces O. A. Lee, resigned, on the Minneapolis grievance board. Reeves Espy, affiliated exhibitor, has been appointed to replace J. J. Sullivan on the Los Angeles clearance and zoning board. Charles Stern, assistant eastern division manager for United Artists, replaces Moe Streimer on the Manhattan, Bronx and Staten Island advisory board, as exclusively reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Saturday.

Permanent alternates on the coast agency committee were named as follows:

Nat Levine for Trem Carr, Louis B. Mayer for B. B. Kahane, Joseph M. Schenck for Emanuel Cohen, Harry Cohn for Jack L. Warner and Carl Laemmle, Jr., for Winfield R. Sheehan.

O'Donovan Secretary For Campi on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—Major Joseph R. O'Donovan's duties here will be as secretary for the coast Campi office. He will be answerable to John C. Flinn in New York. O'Donovan was appointed Friday by Code Authority. Campbell McCullough was also competing for the job.

No definite instructions have reached O'Donovan up to today as to the form of operation of the coast office, but the expectation here is the sphere of influence will encompass handling of the code as it concerns production and exhibition problems. No staff has yet been set by O'Donovan, who is awaiting appropriations from Campi before he lines up his co-workers.

Mrs. Belmont Hits Films' "Vulgarity"

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Mrs. August Belmont, president of the M. P. Research Council, says American audiences have been given an "absolutely unbalanced diet of vulgarity in the name of recreation."

Mrs. Belmont addressed a meeting at the Bellevue-Stratford where a drive was launched to start a Philadelphia branch of the council.

She asserted that 37 percent of audiences were either children or minors. "No one wants the films brought to the level of the child mind," she stated, "but we are asking the industry that we may go with the children to the theatre and not be shocked or horrified by seeing portrayals of the most despicable side of life."

"The subject matter of films is steadily growing worse," she contended. "Studios today are accepting material that would have been unthinkable three years ago."

Production Up as Allied Heads Meet

CHICAGO, May 13.—Production and distribution were among the chief topics of discussion of Allied's regional vice-presidents and unit heads as the convention opened yesterday. Sidney E. Samuelson, president, refused to say what production propositions are on the fire, but it is known at least six are on tap, all of which will be discussed.

The presence of J. P. McPherson, district manager for National Screen, indicated his organization is eyeing the possibility of distributing any deal closed.

Leaders of the organization are in sympathy with Allied's program and have been invited to participate in discussions of the code. About 35 are here. Among early arrivals were Samuelson, Abram F. Myers, chairman of the session; Al Steffes, Col. Harry A. Cole, Fred Harrington, Fred McWilliams and Herman Blum.

Ontario Exhibitor Parliament Nominee

TORONTO, May 13.—At the Conservative Party convention, Ernest L. Marks, president of Associated Theatres, Ltd., cooperative exhibitor organization, was nominated as candidate for the riding of South Ontario in elections to be held June 21 for the Ontario Parliament. He will also be the official candidate of the independent theatres.

Marks is proprietor of the New Martin at Oshawa, is prominent with Ontario Allied and also is former mayor of Oshawa.

NRA Pressing For Speed on Code Hearings

the NRA Washington office, necessitates the prompt settlement of complaints, and the same absence of legal tactics which the administration demanded during negotiation of codes is to prevail in the operation of code boards.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt brought this point home at the appeal hearing last Friday by Campi of the Saxe-Vitagraph-Ashley case in Milwaukee. At least twice he reminded attorneys they were not in a court of law and to eliminate objections on technicalities. He said it would expedite matters if the lawyers would get down to the facts of the case.

Disposition of cases as they are docketed will prevent clogging of calendars and at the same time will hold down legal expenses. In instances where there is a dearth of product, quick discharge of cases may aid complaining exhibitors.

Holding meetings on specified dates is also required by the government. In two instances, New York and Philadelphia, Thursday meetings agreed upon were changed to Tuesday. Some of the board men were not advised. The NRA viewpoint on this is that code bodies setting specific dates must adhere to them, since any sudden changes result in confusion and dissatisfaction.

Films to Saxe at Once

Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., will immediately get 39 pictures from the Ashley Amusement Co. for its Capitol, Madison, Wis., as a result of Campi's decision Friday upholding the Milwaukee grievance board award. It was learned Saturday. Of this number 30 are Warner-First National films and the balance are divided among other distributors, including Paramount and Columbia.

Rosenblatt West in June

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has advised Campi he plans to leave for Hollywood the end of June to do some more work on the code.

Hanson for Theatre Protest on Charges

TORONTO, May 13.—Oscar Hanson of Ontario Allied has sent out a second letter to all exhibitors in Canada on 'score charge agitation. Independents are complaining over the delay in calling a meeting of the M. P. Distributors' Ass'n. to consider the demand.

Boston Adds Another Dual Spot to List

BOSTON, May 13.—Another Boston first run has joined the "double feature bill" ranks, this time the RKO Boston. Vaudeville has been supplanted with a twin feature bill, making three of the first runs now operating on that policy. If grosses warrant, this policy may be continued indefinitely.

This leaves Loew's State the only first run showing vaudeville, while the Metropolitan continues alone with stage shows.

Metropolitan with "We're Not Dressing" tops the week's grosses with $6,000 above average and with Magician Thurston as the stage attraction. A well arranged tieup between the press and Thurston helped to roll up the totals.

"Catherine the Great" at RKO Keith's was good for $4,000 above par, closely followed by Loew's State with "Sorrel and Son," the old favorite coming back in talking form to the tune of $3,500 above average. RKO Boston, with its new policy, was up $3,000.

Total first run business was $111,000. Average is $95,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending May 3:

"FINISHING SCHOOL" (Radio)

cooperation and support instead of opposition. And I am going to see he gets it," Zukor added.

"Cohen is a very capable individual," he said. "He is an honest, sincere and hard worker. I believe he has done well and is the right man for the position."

Zukor intimated that Cohen's refusal to play Hollywood's politics was sufficient ground for arousing opposition to him in this community. He said his current studio visit will strengthen Cohen's status, and declared his intention of remaining here until September.

"I have always kept an eye on production," he said "and am able to do so more extensively now because Paramount's affairs are in a condition now that permits me to spend increased time at the studio."

Zukor will attend the company's sales convention here next month and said that the session would take up exhibition and production problems as well as those of distribution, "because we want our men to be familiar with phases of all three."

He expressed the belief that one major convention would be more advantageous than the several divisional meetings held in the past, but indicated that Paramount may hold regional meetings following the national one. He was enthusiastic over "The Scarlet Empress," which opened in London late last week and which will have its New York premiere about June 15.

Para. Claim Against FWC Compromised

with Paramount franchises for both houses.

On the three San Francisco theatres, Fox is to pay to Paramount $114,299 in back rent for the period from Dec. 1, 1932, to Feb. 28, 1933. Additional rent from that date to April 30, 1933, is to be adjusted on the basis of the net income of the houses for the period. The new 10-year leases are retroactive to May 1, 1933, and call for an average annual rental of $98,000 for the Paramount; $75,000 for the St. Francis, and $41,000 for the California. In addition, Paramount is to receive 37½ per cent of the net earnings of all downtown San Francisco houses in which West Coast has an interest during the period from May 1, 1933, to June 30, 1943.

Form New Corporation

A new corporation is to be organized to take over all the F. W. C. interests in downtown San Francisco houses including the three under lease from Paramount to carry out this part of the agreement. In the event losses are sustained by this corporation, Paramount receives no payment in addition to rent until such time as the losses have been recouped out of subsequent net earnings.

In the case of the Paramount, Oakland, the landlord withdraws a claim of $2,211,500 filed against Paramount Publix for breach of lease on the house and receives, in consideration, a new lease from Fox. Title to the furnishings and equipment in the house is transferred to Paramount by Fox and, in accordance with the agreement, Paramount is to sell the title to Solano Theatre Corp., a West Coast subsidiary, for $390,000. Fox receives a 15-year Paramount franchise for the house.

The Oakland Paramount was constructed for Paramount in 1930 and was equipped and furnished by Paramount before being sub-let to West Coast. The landlord is the Broadway & Twentieth St. Corp., whose petition put Paramount Publix into equity receivership in Jan., 1933.

Under the agreement, Fox also pays Paramount $35,030 in defaulted rent on the Paramount and Rialto, Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle. The Rialto has been repossessed by the landlord and is not included in the new leases involved in the present agreement.

Fox-Paramount to Share Stock

A new corporation to be known as the Paraport Theatre Leasing Corp. takes over the Paramount, at Portland, on a new lease. Fox will own 75 per cent of the capital stock of the new corporation and Paramount the remaining 25 per cent. Fox gets a 10-year Paramount franchise for its Portland and Seattle houses in connection with the arrangement. The Liberty, at Portland, is also to be controlled by the new Paraport Leasing Corp.

In the readjustment of the Paramount, at Seattle, new arrangements are to be made with the First National Bank of Seattle, in return for which all claims against the theatre will be withdrawn by the bank. Operation of the house has not been settled yet.

The Paramount claim against F. W. C. is an outgrowth of defaults by the latter in its agreement for leasing the theatres involved from Paramount. The original leasing agreement between the two was made in 1930.

Also involved in the settlement of the Paramount claim is a Fox agreement to renew Famous Players Canadian notes which it holds, in the event a request for renewal is made by Famous on the maturity of the notes, next July 8. The notes aggregate $693,000 and represent the balance of a $1,155,000 purchase of Fox properties in Canada in 1931.

The settlement is contingent upon Federal court approval, which will be sought May 21 by Charles D. Hilles and Eugene W. Leake, Paramount trustees in bankruptcy. Trustee Charles E. Richardson took no part in the settlement because of his former association with Fox.

the Wyandotte County Soldiers' Memorial trustees from leasing the auditorium for wrestling matches.

The appeal is from a ruling by Judge E. L. Fischer in the District Court at Kansas City, Kan., who denied an injunction against the trustees on the ground the wrestling exhibitions are not a commercial enterprise. Petition for an injunction was filed in the name of Paul F. Rodenbeck, a taxpayer. The American Legion, which sponsors the matches Tuesday nights, was made a defendant along with the trustees. After the suit was filed, the Veterans of Foreign Wars inaugurated wrestling at the memorial on Thursday nights. The matches are put on by professional promoters, the veterans' organizations receiving a share of the proceeds.

Several years ago the Supreme Court issued a restraining order preventing the showing of commercial films in the memorial auditorium, and it has acted similarly in the case of Hiawatha and Independence memorial buildings.

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—Eddie Cantor last night flayed the Academy as a "company union" which, he said, must be destroyed because its one purpose is an apparent attempt to divide the ranks of the actors. His denunciation was made at a meeting of the Screen Actors' Guild at which he was reelected to the presidency.

The Academy's supplemental contract for artists, he said, was granted producers by a committee without "A good deal of nonsense has been written and said on the double feature problem," he said.

"Exhibitors and producers and distributors have been equally guilty of making brash statements. They are going to run the other fellow's business if it kills them. The spirit of the hour seems to be, 'I'm going to have my way, even if I wreck the other fellow. I'm all right and he's all wrong.'"

Hollywood
THE colony has its stooges, tipsters and feeders who funnel facts to various sources, all depending. Stooges are of a strange ilk, ranging from comics to snoopers. . . .

Not too long ago, one studio accused another of planting stooges on its lot. The defendant studio retorted it had to protect itself against stooges placed on its own terrain by the plaintiff. . . .

A New York executive recently took on a stooge with instructions to check and double check, then airmail, the lowdown on one of his studio executives. After reading the reports, the New Yorker hurried west, huddled with the stooge who suggested the guillotine for the executive under fire. . . .

Up on the carpet, the executive, sensing something was out of focus, drolled right up to New Yorker. "If you're getting reports on me, and it looks as if you were, they're phoney. Let's go over the record. You admit I'm competent, honest and loyal. What are you after? Who doesn't like the way I part my hair or who wants my job?"

The counter-attack stymied New Yorker. He stalled. Then checking better sources, more first-hand, he got the lowdown. The stooge ferreted out the facts, but supplied New Yorker something else. The reason had to do with a run-in somewhere along the line between executive and stooge. . . .

New Yorker, by that time, had learned, then asked the stooge who might be a good replacement for the executive on the spot. He mentioned a former business associate with whom, the suspicion goes, he was still in business. Espionage is not peculiar or exclusive with Hollywood or films. It's part of the big business scheme, international style. . . .

The summer here looks like the most active in many. Major studios are arranging their schedules to avoid the customary shutdown between seasons. This reminds of the inside report, current in Hollywood a few weeks ago, by private advices, the NRA had requested—this was the word—the studios to side-step dark days by staggering production and thus maintain whatever their level of employment happened to be. Subsequently, nobody ever admitted and such word had emanated from Washington. Now comes the plan to keep stages busy right through the warm weather. . . .

Hollywood is losing out on some of Walter Winchell's gossip about Hollywood. His stuff runs daily here in the Herald-Express, Hearst-owned, but the sheet has been known to edit out or forget many paragraphs which run in New York. Therefore, Hollywood eyes, usually primed wide to catch this and that, are missing out, unless they scan the New York Mirror. Outstanding instances: The "If I were the Roosevelt of Hollywood" column which discoursed on stars, critics, supervisors, agents. . . .

Among the wall decorations in Harry Cohn's office, a handbill. The text:

"Mr. Rubinstein is the best piano man in his line and he would rather play than eat. And the same can be said about Mr. Cohn—only that he is a singer that can sing and he is not backward about it. Admission 5 cents."

The theatre was the Claremont, 174th St. and 3rd Ave, in New York. The "Rubinstein" is Harry Ruby, now of Kalmer and Ruby. Close by on the same wall is a shot of Mussolini, autographing his best to the Columbia president. . . .

Joe Von Sternberg set out to make a pageant when he launched "The Scarlet Empress." He succeeded. . . . Dorothea Wieck leaves Hollywood, presumably for Germany. That's on the surface of the news. Were those recent stories tying her sympathies directly with the Nazi cause responsible? That's the moot question not on the surface. . . . Boy drives by girl. Girl drives by boy. As they pass, big smiles and expansive hellos. Thereafter, boy discovers he doesn't know girl; likewise, in reverse. The conclusion seems to be that nobody in Hollywood likes to pass up anyone else. It might mean offense to someone of no account Monday, but of much account Tuesday. . . .

Cooper-Radio Riddle May Be Solved Today

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—Merian C. Cooper spent the week-end conferring with J. R. McDonough on his future status with Radio. Authoritative sources have it that he and the studio will arrive at some agreement as to whether he resumes entire charge of production or produces a series of four or six independently for Radio. General opinion is Cooper is inclined to shake off studio detail and concentrate on his own productions. A decision is expected tomorrow.

No Slash in Code Levies Planned Now

was proportioned according to the atres assenting.

The fact that complaints would follow was not overlooked. It was felt that remedies can only be made as an outgrowth of protests. Where exhibitors find the tax excessive they must file complaints with grievance boards. These boards, in turn, recommend changes, if any, to Campi.

From various recommendations by boards and suggestions from exhibitors, Campi members will sit down again in the near future and re-allocate the assessments. Suggestions along these lines are being invited for guidance, but for the present the first half assessment stands.

Method of raising the $180,000 production-distribution half of code cost has not yet been worked out.

Two Cases Are Heard By Board in Capital

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Gift nights, passes and premature advertising were up for discussion as unfair trade practices in two cases before the grievance board today.

Robert Smeltzer presided, with Sam J. Flax substituting for Sam A. Galanty, who was out of town.

A complaint of Max Cluster, operating the Cluster, against Moe Kohn, operator of the Elite, both in Baltimore, on charges of indirect price cutting through passes, was heard. Another Baltimore complaint was that of Louis Tunick, Brooklyn Theatre, against Al Kahn, Pennington Theatre, for the alleged running of gift nights. A decision in the Cluster-Kohn case will be rendered tomorrow.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The showdown on 15-cent admissions and double bills here which had been scheduled for vote today will have to wait several days, the clearance and zoning board having deferred its meeting to Thursday. This is the second postponement of the meeting.

CINCINNATI, May 14.—The clearance and zoning board here held its first meeting today, with Maurice White of Warners as chairman. The gathering discussed zoning, but no schedule was set up and no vote taken. The next meeting is May 22.

CLEVELAND, May 14.—The grievance and clearance boards took up permanent headquarters in Room 441, Statler Hotel, effective today. Mrs. Georgia Moffett is secretary.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—The grievance board will hold hearings each Monday afternoon and the clearance and zoning board will convene on Tuesday afternoons.

Willard C. Patterson has been asked to resign from the code labor committee, which also has on it Charles L. O'Reilly and Leslie E. Thompson. Patterson, until recently handled labor for Warners and joined Publix in Detroit.

Theatre Acquisition Up to Campi Friday

In the first case of its kind to come before the body, Campi will act as jury Friday on the complaint of John T. Rennie against Felstein & Dietrich in the matter of acquisition of the Oxnard, Oxnard, Cal.

Rennie claims the defendants signed a lease for the theatre while he was negotiating for the house. He declares such action is contrary to the code. Affidavits by both parties have been submitted.

Fox West Coast's appeal from the Los Angeles grievance board which ordered 20 pictures turned over to the Garfield, Alhambra, has been set for the Campi session after May 28, which will probably be June 1. Principals in the case are coming to New York to appear before the board.

Cleveland First Run Plaint Up on Friday

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Upon request from Judge Keough, representing Loew's Ohio Theatres, and Nat Wolf, representing Warner Theatres, the clearance board meeting has postponed to Friday hearing of the case of the Cedar-Lee Theatre Co., against Loew's Ohio Theatres, involving the Stillman, Park and Granada, and against Warners, involving the Lake, Uptown and Variety. The Cedar-Lee Theatre Co., in a petition filed with the clearance board, asks that first run protection at the houses named, be reduced. Claim is made that when the present protection policy was adopted, all first runs played single features and charged admissions in excess of admissions at subsequent run houses.

Recommendation in On Jersey Dispute

Having heard the protest of the Washington, Washington, N. J., against Wilmer & Vincent, in Easton, Pa., on alleged unfair clearance, the New Jersey advisory board on clearance and zoning yesterday submitted a recommendation to the main board which meets Thursday.

Earle Swigart, branch manager for Paramount; Ben Appelgate of M-G-M, and Robert Mochrie, Warner branch manager in Philadelphia, appeared before the board and stated they were not interested in the case because the Wilmer & Vincent account pays anywhere from $400 to $800 for a picture while the Washington house pays around $25.

Fred V. Green, Jr., appearing for the Washington, asked that the Easton protection be cut, but J. D. Egan, acting for Wilmer & Vincent, stated his theatre is not being served by New Jersey exchanges but by Philadelphia.

Al Suchman, head booker and buyer for Consolidated Amusements, asked that the protection by Loew's against the Forum, Fleetwood and Luxor be changed because the Loew house is not in competition with the trio. David Loew and Eugene Picker appeared for Loew's. The Manhattan, Bronx, Westchester and Long Island advisory group meets tomorrow to draft a recommendation to the main board.

Joseph Lee of Fox and Harry Hecht were absent from the New Jersey board, while Charles Stern and Jack Steinman were missing from the Manhattan board.

New Haven Grievance Hears First Cases

NEW HAVEN, May 14.—The local grievance board heard its first complaints today. One was that of the Pequot Theatre against the Dreamland, on a charge that free admittance is given Tuesday evenings to women accompanied by men. Another was that of the Whalley Theatre, also in this city, which charged Paramount with forcing shorts.

The Pequot also has on file with the clearance and zoning board a complaint charging the Garden, Lyric and Strand, competing houses, with extending Sunday matinee prices into the evening.

schedule at a general hearing here, or the board may forward them to Campi for a review of the entire matter.

The appeal procedure and the time allowed for filing protests will be decided by the clearance and zoning board tomorrow. The tentative ruling is that protestants have 30 days to appeal.

The clearance and zoning board tomorrow will hear complaints by H. L. Dunnuck, of the Madrid, Atchison, Kan., and O. F. Sullivan, West Theatre, Wichita, charging distributors allow Fox Midwest prior runs excessive protection, in some instances said to be 180 days, over unaffiliated subsequent. Dunnick withdrew his original complaint with the grievance board charging that Fox Midwest had overbought. He is unable to obtain product, he says, and may file a new complaint on overbuying after the clearance matter has been decided.

Independent suburbans at a meeting this afternoon drafted a protest against the new clearance.

Mrs. Walton Quits MPTO

MEMPHIS, May 14.—Mrs. Alma Walton resigns tomorrow as secretary of the M. P. T. O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee and the Memphis Film Board, having been informed by Campi she cannot hold these posts and remain as secretary of the local code boards.

the spot any persons with whom we may be working."

With this disposed of, the conferees departed this afternoon for a regional meeting in the Syracuse Hotel tomorrow. Another session will be held in New York on June 13.

Most of the talk here centered about a program for a campaign on block booking, duals, clean pictures and the development of opposition to a trailer monopoly for major distributors.

As part of the public appeal, a resolution was passed and made available to newspapers stating that Allied is in sympathy with the M. P. Research Council's fight on block booking "which makes it impossible for independents to refuse to show filthy pictures."

Another angle in what Samuelson terms the building of a "technical organization that can put on the pressure" was the appointment of Samuelson, Myers, Walter Littlefield and Arthur Price to take any action deemed necessary on the Darrow report covering the findings of the National Recovery Review Board. Another committee which includes H. M. Richey, Al Steffes and Col. H. A. Cole was named to study the sound equipment situation.

The conference attitude on double features was in favor of voluntary arrangements by exhibitors in any situation. A definite stand was taken against arbitrary fixing of minimum prices as part of contracts.

$1,600,000 and constitute liens on the California, San Francisco, and the Paramount, Seattle. Under the plans filed the Paramount trustees enter into agreement with the bondholders' protective committee for the San Francisco property and the First National Bank of Seattle, as trustee under the bond issue of the Paramount there, by which the bondholders agree to withdraw pending claims and accept bonds in an equal amount from new companies to be organized in accordance with the agreement.

Reorganization of the two issues is essential to the completion of a plan for settlement of Paramount Publix claims against Fox West Coast arising out of alleged non-performance of lease obligations by the latter. The San Francisco and Seattle theatres are two of seven houses on the west coast leased to F. W. C. by Paramount. Referee Davis set May 21 for a hearing on the reorganization plans.

An order authorizing Paramount Publix trustees to proceed with the settlement of an $85,250 rent claim on the Riviera, Anderson, Ind., filed against the company by Anderson Amusement Enterprises, was signed yesterday by Referee Oscar W. Other claims set for early hearings are those of St. Louis Properties Corp., for a rent claim of $43,333 on the Missouri, St. Louis, to be heard May 17; a claim of the Indemnity Insurance Co. for $229,842, to be heard May 28; a claim of $816,666 by the Citizens' National Trust & Savings Bank, Los Angeles, on two notes of Paramount Land Corp., to be heard June 13; two additional claims by the same bank for $28,550 in connection with Paramount property at Third and Broadway, Los Angeles, to be heard May 28, and a claim of $58,749 by the First National Bank of Boston, for the same date.

"As far as Universal is concerned, we intend to deal with double features with a good deal of sympathy and plenty of facts.

"I am going to consider just two things in each and every local situation. First, the welfare of Universal's customers and the welfare of Universal. Second, the needs of Universal's customers and the needs of Universal.

"I cannot be much more candid. I am well aware of the fact that much of the loud shouting against double features is being done by the very people who practice it in one territory and not in another.

"There are so many thousands of exhibitors situated in so many different circumstances that it is foolish to try to establish one law or one rule to fit them all. What is food for one is poison for another.

"If I find that I am hurting more theatres than I am helping by selling on a double feature basis, I shall not sell on that basis. But if, on the other hand, I discover situations where my customer simply has to have double features and in selling him on that basis I am saving his life and not killing off someone else, I shall sell double features till the cows come home."

Pathe Exchange Net On Quarter $14,168

Pathe Exchange, Inc., showed a net profit of $14,168.61 for the three months ending March 31 and cut its deficit by that amount, according to figures just made public. This compares with a net of $17,849.50 for the same period in 1933.

Application of the net to the deficit cut the total in that column from $4,971,405.61 to $4,957,237.

A profit of $14,938.81 from laboratory operations was cut by a depreciation item on other properties and an item of $1,708.62 for selling and administrative expenses, producing a net loss from this source of $1,708.62. This was offset by dividends from Du Pont Film Mfg. Corp.

Capital surplus on March 31, carried to balance sheet, was $7,571,865.78. Total assets are given as $7,100,458.23.

Insiders' OutlookHollywood

OVER on Gower Street where is housed the Columbia plant and around the luncheon table one day recently developed a discussion on double features, although there is nothing unusual in that. The question continues to intrigue Hollywood, which has ideas, some strange, on what should be done and how to do it. . . .

Geared up high now as a result of the smashing success of "It Happened One Night," the Columbia bunch deplored the circumstance which combines its big baby with features of admittedly inferior grade. It happened elsewhere and on plenty of nights with other important pictures from other important studios, but that's the other studios' worry. Spoke Frank Capra, the capable director whose record as a picture-maker is recognized and hailed far and wide here by friends, of course, but what's more to the point, by competitors as well. . . .

He thinks the smaller theatres ought to recognize progress and make way for the larger houses. Granting that were true, we attempt to point out the smaller houses won't view it that way at all; that they have as much right to their business existence as the de luxe first runs. We get over our point without difficulty, which is strange for us. Capra has an idea the more representative houses might veer away from doubles and toward singles, but we tell him what's been happening at producer-owned or affiliated theatres everywhere to disprove his observation. . . .

Having argued it back and forth with Bobby North, Felix Young, Jack Holt, Sam Jaffe, Hubert Voight and Vic Shapiro dipping oars in and out, the argument on doubles remains where everyone has left it, which is nowhere. "Good pictures have no trouble at the box-office," says Capra, who has made them and so is qualified to speak his mind. "The main trouble today is mass production of mediocrity. Studios should cut down on their cheap pictures or 'cheaters' and theatres should abolish block booking, which enables producers to put out 'cheaters.'" . . .

Capra is being told now that, if some exhibitors had their say, block booking would go. Others—many others, too lazy, too indifferent and, by lucky breaks, too confident that their luck will continue—would oppose any such idea if they had their say. Sales managers and sales organizations, well-oiled and well-experienced under the block selling plan, won't agree with Capra and will put down what he says as another Hollywood man talking—through his hat. "I am for unit production of fine pictures," continues Capra. "One year's output of quality would do away with censorship and all kindred ills that our business is heir to." The final quotation may leave the result it argues for in some doubt, but on the former there remains little doubt but that the way to make them is in units and not in mass formation. . . .

Not all of interest is to be found in the modest studio dining room, however. Harry Cohn's office with its generous windows overlooking the patio, the patio's tinkling fountain and the writers' building beyond is something. Harry has, beyond all question, the most complete desk in Hollywood, which means elsewhere as well. It has a battery of phones, but that's not unusual. It has compartments that swing out from all corners; they are apt to floor the innocent bystander if he doesn't watch out. One contains scripts. Another the requisites for hard liquor. A third, a hidden phone. A fourth, books. Piped for practically everything, only hot and cold running water are among the missing. . . .

When Harry wants to confer with the writers, time is saved by yelling across the office to patio to writers' building, but not before the fountain and its gurgling are turned quiet long enough for the message to get through. On his desk is a curious metal arrangement, and nearby, buttons. Cohn may, by going through the proper button pushings, learn what's happening on any and all sets. He can even hear a director or a lead swear at him. He can even press more buttons and yell back. . . .

This is the office where much Columbia business goes on. This is the office where supervisors and key men on the lot meet every Thursday night to wrangle back and forth on how this or that might best be handled. Here is the scene where the boys match Cohn's lung power, his arguments and his desk-pounding. They treat him as they would each other, arguing for what they hold best for the company and not for Cohn, although that to a large extent is one and the same thing. Harry is president of Columbia. Make no mistake about it, he's president only six nights a week. Never on Thursday. . . . KANN

London Films Will Limit Future List

With a maximum of six features for United Artists release on its new season schedule, London Films, producers of "The Private Life of Henry VIII" and "Catherine the Great," will continue a policy of turning out a limited number of pictures in the hope of attaining quality product, Etienne Pallos, general sales manager for the company, said yesterday.

Pallos, who is here from London to complete talent arrangements for the company's new schedule, related that following the success of London Films' first two productions, company heads had to wage a battle with their bankers to retain the "fewer and better" pictures policy. The bankers, he said, reasoned that if two pictures made the profit they did, a schedule of 25 for next season would return a profit that much greater.

Pallos estimated that "Henry VIII" has grossed $1,000,000 in the United Kingdom and $300,000 in Germany to date. No estimates are available on the American gross as yet, he said.

First for 1934-35 Set

London Films' first release of the new season will be brought here in September by Douglas Fairbanks. It will be "The Private Life of Don Juan," with Fairbanks starred. Following it on the schedule are "The Scarlet Pimpernel," for which either Ronald Colman or Fredric March is being sought. A Hollywood director will be signed for this picture, with all American talent arrangements to be completed by Pallos before his return to London in two weeks.

Lewis Milestone has been signed to direct H. G. Wells' "100 Years to Come," third on schedule. The fourth will be Robert E. Sherwood's "The Marshal," with Maurice Chevalier. Alexander Korda, London Film head, will direct. Charles Laughton is set for a Frederick Lonsdale story and the company has signed Elizabeth Bergner, star of "Catherine the Great," for one picture. This, however, may be deferred to the following season's schedule if Miss Bergner's arrangements for American stage and screen work interfere. In that event, Rene Clair, French producer, would make one picture for the company.

The complete London Films deal with United Artists is for 16 pictures, to be made in accordance with whatever schedule is set by the British company.

Pallos stated that he did not believe that Nazi Germany's ban on "Catherine the Great" would be rescinded, due to the fact that it was banned because of public disturbances at its exhibition.

Looking 'Em Over

"He Was Her Man"

(Warners)

Gangster revenge motivates the story, but its application is varied by something bordering on martyrdom when James Cagney goes back to save the girl, Joan Blondell, from the men who are pursuing him.

Cagney, fresh from jail, charges two cronies $15,000 for opening a safe, and before starting the job tips off the police. It's his revenge for their failure to split on a previous job. A policeman is killed.

Fleeing from gangster revenge, Cagney appears in a San Francisco hotel, but is recognized by a racetrack tout who tips off the gang. In a weak moment Cagney falls for a streetwalker who is distraught because she can't get south to a fishing village where her prospective bridegroom, Victor Jory, is waiting for her. Cagney pays her way and goes with her. The day before the wedding she can't make up her mind to run away with Cagney or stay and get married. Cagney solves the problem by departing, but at a bus station learns the girl is in danger. He goes back.

In the closing sequences she is married and he is walking down a cliff followed by two men with drawn guns.

Jory's work as the prospective bridegroom is splendid. Sarah Padden is surprising as a Spanish mother with an accent. Cagney is his alert, peppery self at all time.

"Murder in Trinidad"

(Sol M. Wurtzel-Fox)

Good mystery drama with enough of action and suspense to satisfy audiences that favor productions of the kind. The story is well constructed, motives for the murder are logically established and suspicion is placed on enough members of the cast to conceal the real murderer until the last. With a setting for a large part of the story in tropical swamps outside of Trinidad, South America, the plot is enhanced by a sinister atmosphere.

Nigel Bruce, as a detective, is brought from London by the governor of Trinidad to apprehend the leader of a gang of diamond smugglers operating through the island. Bruce's aide is murdered when he comes upon a clue to the secret hiding place of the gang—an island in the heart of a treacherous swamp. Soon after, the governor is murdered and the trail leads Bruce and his new aide, Victor Jory, to the gang's hideout. The subsequent shooting of the leader there reveals that he had an accomplice close to the governor in Trinidad. A trap is set and the accomplice reveals himself in stepping into it.

Bruce turns in a fine performance as the detective. Others in the cast, which includes Heather Angel, J. Carrol Naish, Douglas Walton and Francis Ford, satisfy.

B. F. Keith Losses For 1933 $580,387

BOSTON, May 15.—Net loss of $580,387, after taxes, depreciation amortization of capital assets, interest, loss on investments and capital assets and provisions for losses of affiliated companies, is reported by the B. F. Keith Corp. and subsidiaries (controlled by Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp.), according to a report filed with the secretary of state. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1933, shows current assets of $766,077; current liabilities of $42,141, and working capital of $344,836, compared with working capital of $221,575 at the close of the previous year.

Fascist Film Goes To Cummins for U. S.

Samuel Cummins stated yesterday he had acquired American distribution of "The Black Shirts," produced in Italy under direct guidance of Premier Mussolini. The picture, as it now stands, is in 13 reels.

"Forgotten Men" will follow "Hitler's Reign of Terror" at the Columbia which Cummins has under lease for 13 weeks with "The Black Shirts" and a film dealing with world revolutionary movements spotted in thereafter.

Cummins alleged yesterday the Nazi Government had set aside $3,000,000 to propagandize its cause in the United States and is making efforts to block his Hitler picture.

HOLLYWOOD REPORTER says:

"A smart honey. A sophisticated wow. This picture will have millions of customers well satisfied and with that well-fed look. A murder story with a brilliant cast, brilliant script, brilliant direction and photography that tells story in no mean terms. Let it be shouted from roof-tops that writing, acting and direction all spell movie with capital M. So let us hasten good work of handing out bouquets. Wm. Powell has time of his life, elegant detective who never finds himself sober enough to have it interfere with his work. Powell is great and your patrons will revel with him. Myrna Loy makes positive the fact that she should stick to being a comedienne."

COAST VARIETY says:

"'Thin Man' is sure-fire ace entertainment. Rating is cinched for all type houses by top names, class production, expert direction, outstanding performances and smart balance of humor and murder mystery in a story which holds suspense in masterly fashion. It is perhaps screen's best approximation of that brand of exciting mystery which has given this type of tale sustained vogue in literary field and for this achievement Hunt Stromberg deserves big share of credit. Wm. Powell gives strikingly human and suavely humorous performance. Myrna Loy is superb."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY says:

"Smartly concocted for big audience reactions with a confident tempo and sly, boisterous humor, 'The Thin Man' is one of the finer mystery melodramas. Adapted from Dashiell Hammett's widely publicized novel, the film attains a nonchalant unfoldment, carefree surface action with volcanic smouldering underneath. W.S. Van Dyke's direction is a model of plot movement and laughter. Hunt Stromberg's production is topnotch. All together, it is a swell, satisfying show."

Skouras, introduced into the record a denial of MOTION PICTURE DAILY's story of the attempted settlement. Skouras, it is understood, would not consider any settlement, preferring to have the case decided by the board.

Weber brought Sam Rinzler of the Randforce circuit and Joseph Seider of the Prudential circuit before the hearing to give their opinions on duals. Both agreed duals were necessary in some situations, depending on the calibre of pictures purchased and booked. Peskay stated that 75 per cent of the country's houses today are showing duals.

Edward Schnitzer, branch manager for Columbia, testified that after his first negotiations with Skouras had failed, he offered the company's product to Rogowsky, but couldn't get together with him on price. He then sold Skouras and later entered into a contract with Rogowsky for a number of pictures Skouras may not play.

Herbert Rogowsky introduced contracts with RKO, Columbia, Universal, Warners and Paramount for 1931-32, showing he bought 158 films for that season.

Bought 160 Pictures

For the season following, Rogowsky introduced contracts showing he had purchased 160 pictures, but stated that for the current 1933-34 season all companies, with the exception of Paramount, had refused to do business for first runs with him before selling Skouras. He stated he managed to get about 64 films from the various major companies, 32 of which were from Paramount.

Moe Streimer, manager of the U. A. branch, testified that the Proctor Theatre was in Port Chester before Rogowsky's Embassy.

In summing up his case, Nizer stated Skouras had not overbought and that if the board determined to transfer distributors' contracts by rendering an award in favor of the plaintiff, the contract "is not worth the paper it is written on." He added there was nothing illegal in playing duals in opposition to a competitor and concluded it was not the function of the board to parcel out product of distributors to an exhibitor who has not bought it.

I. Levenson, attorney for Vitagraph, asked that if the board decided to grant Rogowsky relief, provision should be made for paying and playing Warner pictures. He referred to MOTION PICTURE DAILY's official text of Campi's decision in the appeal of Ashley Amusement Co. against Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., where Code Authority stated provision for payment of Warner pictures will be provided.

Weber stated Rogowsky "was a wolf in sheep's clothing" and that Skouras needed the 303 pictures bought.

Robert R. Rosan, attorney for Rogowsky, in summing up, stated that the board was the only one which could give him relief and every attempt to deal with major exchanges, except Paramount, for first run out-

Cullman Apologizes

Howard S. Cullman, receiver for the Roxy, personally apologized to the New York grievance board yesterday for his letter to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in which he stated the local body was unable "to intelligently interpret" the cut rate provisions of the code. Cullman said he did not think the board would be slighted, but since it had taken this attitude he was sorry about the letter.

The Mayfair, defendant in the case, will be ordered today to stop the cut rate practice in its present form.

The independents' telegram reads: "We request permission to retract our approval of the code and ask that we be relieved of its financial obligations, but we will remain under the blanket code of the industry and abide by all its labor provisions."

Bard says his group comprises 80 per cent of the independents in the territory.

Executive Secretary John Flinn of Code Authority says there is no provision in the code allowing anyone to withdraw an assent. He had not received the Omaha wire up to late yesterday, he said.

FWC, U. A. Circuits Named in Complaints

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Two more grievances have been filed here for hearing Thursday.

Frances Wright Mellinger, operating the Maywood Egyptian, charges Fox West Coast with buying all major product from the Farwest Exchange to run at its Alcazar at Bell, forcing the complainant to play 28 days after the opposition. It is also charged the circuit house instituted a widespread advertising campaign when its scale was cut to 15 cents. Major distributors declared they would refuse the Egyptian service if it lowered prices to 10 cents for front row seats.

The other complaint was filed by G. L. Smith and Lloyd Beard, operating the Cosmo, Glendale, against United West Coast, United Artists circuit, charging buying up of all major product for four runs. The complainants say the circuit cannot use all the product, while they cannot get any until 63 days' clearance has elapsed.

The case of Harry Popkin against three Main Street theatres charging five cent admission was held over until Thursday for further investigation.

Answer to Darrow Started by Johnson

Administration would be delayed in order that attack and reply might be made public simultaneously.

As he began the writing of his defense, Johnson had before him the views of Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and other officials who participated in the negotiation of the codes attacked by the Darrow board. Faced with the first crucial test to which the NRA has been subjected, Johnson must either so justify the actions of his subordinates as to disarm criticism or be the target of a bitter attack by Congress.

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—Comments on the work of the zoning board have been invited from any exhibitor or group of exhibitors. Suggestions also are sought.

The first was the Roxy complaint against the Mayfair on distribution of cut rate courtesy tickets, the second that of the Roxy against the Casino for advertising four stars on "Finishing School" when the Daily News only gave it two, and the last complaint was that of the Little Picture House against the Windsor for advertising "Carolina" while the picture was playing at the plaintiff's house. No one appeared before the board to defend the last grievance.

Decisions will be handed down today.

Allied Asks Cutts Quit

PORTLAND, May 15.—William Cutts, member of the clearance and zoning board, has been asked by Allied to resign. It is said Allied may reconsider the request, however, because of the absence of a number of members of the board of directors from the meeting at which the action was taken.

Nizer-Thompson in Clash on Contracts

A heated argument started yesterday between Louis Nizer, attorney for seven major distributors, and ex-Senator George F. Thompson, impartial member, when the latter insisted on the Skouras contracts with exchanges and the Fox franchise with the circuit.

Nizer held that introduction of the contracts and franchise would make public Skouras confidential dealings and that exchanges would be given an opportunity to know what prices Skouras was paying for film.

Thompson contended that the board had a right to know all the dealings in the case. The windup was that if the contracts and franchise were necessary for deliberations, they would be produced for the private scrutiny of board members only.

czar of the movies." Declaring the NRA was no assistance in elevating the tone of pictures, he blamed the heavy loss in theatre patronage on "dirty" product, promising a country-wide war on "sexy" films. He charged block booking with being the cause of Hollywood's dwindling number of producers and praised the M. P. Research Council for doing "a swell job."

The state unit approved the "clean screen" resolution promulgated at the Chicago Allied meeting over the weekend and was addressed by speakers, including Nathan Yamins, head of New England Allied.

"We are surveying the field to see how much revenue can be derived throughout the country for the production of pictures with a standard of decency the public wants," Samuelson said in an interview this afternoon. "If we get the right answer and prospects of enough return to cover the cost, we will go into production before the end of 1934. There will be no hookup with any producer now in the field. We will start fresh. If and when we start, financial backing will be ready to see us through."

right to exhibition were declared unfair practices by the local grievance board in a decision yesterday upholding Max Cluster, operating the Cluster, in his complaint against Moe Kohn, operator of the Elite, both in Baltimore. The board ordered the practices discontinued.

The next meeting of the grievance board will be on May 28. The clearance and zoning board meets on May 22.

C. E. Williams Quits Omaha Zoning Board

OMAHA, May 15.—Charles E. Williams, veteran president of the M. P. T. O. in Nebraska and western Iowa, late yesterday resigned from the clearance and zoning board due to poor health.

The board expects to begin a series of daily meetings to continue until the territory is zoned as soon as Williams' successor has been appointed.

Agency Body in Parley

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—The agency code committee will meet tomorrow for its first actual work with the subcommittee appointed to establish a code of fair practice. Major Joseph R. O'Donovan has been appointed to an administrative and secretarial position with the committee.

"NRA" Nights Stopped

Non-Lightman Suburbans Drop Memphis Zone Fight

was decided to draw up a formal complaint.

It had hardly been filed when owners not affiliated with Lightman held a second meeting and decided to withdraw their names from the formal complaint.

"We realize this gives unprecedented protection to first run circuit houses," said one exhibitor who refused to allow the use of his name, "but they deserve protection. The chief trouble of the single-theatre suburban exhibitor here has been his inability to compete with Lightman's buying power. He has had to wait not only on downtown theatres, but on all of Lightman's suburban houses before he has secured product. The new setup gives downtowns an added advantage, but at the same time makes it possible for subsequents to get the same break that Lightman gets. Admission price, not buying power, is the chief factor under the new setup."

Eastern Secretaries In Parley With Flinn

Code secretaries from 10 eastern cities were instructed in code affairs and duties in a routine meeting with Executive Secretary John C. Flinn at Code Authority headquarters yesterday. The meeting was a replica of others conducted with the field secretaries throughout the country by Flinn in recent weeks.

Attending yesterday's session were Benjamin Strosberg, Albany; Olive Bursiel, Boston; Jane Holloran, Buffalo; Harry Lander, New Haven; Emaline Fineberg, Pittsburgh; Basil Zeigler, Philadelphia; James B. Fitzgerald, Washington; Florence Abramson, New York; Love B. Harrell, Atlanta, and Mrs. Georgia Moffett, Cleveland.

Subsequents in K. C. Act on New Clearance

KANSAS CITY, May 15.—Independent subsequents today took decisive measures to scrap objectionable portions of the new local clearance schedule promulgated by the clearance and zoning board last week.

A scorching protest signed by 22 independents was adopted at a protest meeting yesterday. At a meeting this afternoon a committee was named to draft a schedule to be presented to the board incorporating the demanded changes. The committee consists of Stanley Schwartz, chairman; William Parson, Mrs. A. Baier, W. D. Fulton and E. S. Young.

We did not realize this until the complaint had been filed."

This bears out MOTION PICTURE DAILY's original Memphis code story that the chief squabbles here would be Lightman and anti-Lightman.

Directors of the M. P. T. O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee today drafted zoning and protection plans which they consider fair and will present to the zoning and clearance board with the request they serve as a substitute for the arrangement recently announced.

R. X. Williams of the Lyric, Oxford, Miss., was named secretary of the organization, succeeding Mrs. Alma Walton, who has resigned to become code secretary here.

R. McDougall, Monticello Ark., and Charles Mensing of the local Orpheum have replaced respectively T. W. Sharp of Little Rock, Ark., and Roy Pierce, former Orpheum manager, on the local clearance and zoning board.

Dime Scales Figure In Cleveland Cases

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Dime admissions were ordered stopped in one case before the grievance board and decision was reserved for three days in another. Six cases have now been heard by the board and none are on file.

In the case where dime scales were ordered ended, Max Kaplan, Grand Central Theatre, charged Morris Israel, Erie, with violating the 15-cent minimum provisions of his contracts. He admitted it.

In the other case Frank Gross, Grand Amusement Co., against Sam Barck, Market Square Theatre, Inc., Barck was accused of maintaining a 10-cent bargain hour from 6:30 to 7:30 P. M. He claimed he played only independent product during this period.

H. C. Bissell, Columbia branch manager, presided.

Clears Extras' Complaints

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—All extras' complaints, numbering 50, have been disposed of by the extras' code committee, which is now engaged in deciding who shall be among the 1,500 permanent extras to be retained under code requirements. This list will not be ready for several weeks.

Sutherland Returns

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—Edward Sutherland returned from Panama today fully recovered from a long illness. He will start work soon directing Joe Cook's picture for Fox.

Another Rental Protest Parley

A second meeting between independents to discuss protest of high rentals and preferred playing time will be held at the M. P. Club Friday. The move is sponsored by the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware.

At the next session, exhibitors from as far west as the Mississippi are being invited. The first session, also held at the M. P. Club, included only eastern exhibitor leaders.

loans from their usual banking connections, which could rediscout the paper with the reserve banks.

Under the RFC plan the corporation would be authorized to advance money on promissory notes, acceptances or other collateral until Jan. 31, next, to any established industrial or commercial business to enable it to obtain working capital, reduce or refinance its outstanding indebtedness, or make plant improvements or replacements.

Under either method the loans might run for as long as five years.

Dubinsky Row First To Arbitration in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, May 15.—This city's first arbitration under the code will be Ed Dubinsky's dispute with the local operators' union. Arbitration was agreed upon today. Dubinsky withdrew his demand that a Federal judge be the impartial third member of the arbitration board. The union accepted his suggestion that A. W. Dubirney, special assistant U. S. attorney general in charge of the NRA here, be the impartial member.

The argument is over Dubinsky's demand for a reduction in manpower at his two local houses from seven to five operators. He wants the same consideration given other subsequents in the same price classification.

Dubinsky denies the St. Louis Regional Labor Board ordered him to reinstate operators and stagehands at his St. Joseph theatres at salaries in force last November. He says the National Labor Board instructed the regional board to modify the original ruling ordering reinstatement of the I. A. T. S. E. men pending arbitration. He adds that the national board ruled he did not have to reemploy men adjudged guilty of violence.

Score Charges Up to Theatre Men—Cooper

exchanges and companies in Canada to deal with and is not the direct concern of the M. P. Distributors of Canada was asserted here today by John A. Cooper, its president, following a meeting of the organization.

He said that in the case of various Canadian companies all contracts have to be submitted to the home offices in New York for approval, a procedure which, he asserted, gives producers there final say in the elimination of score charges after July 1, as has been urged. It was added that each company would have to consider the demand as affecting its private business arrangements.

The admission was made by Cooper that the distributor organization as well as exchanges were receiving many communications from exhibitors on the subject.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—Decrying the imposition of the 10 per cent admission tax, Meyers Y. Cooper, former governor of Ohio, in an address before the local Variety Club, said there was less excuse for this taxation than for any of the other levies assessed by the state.

In the first overbuying case to come before the New York grievance board, Rogowsky Brothers won against Skouras Theatres Corp., which operates the Capital, Port Chester, in opposition to the independents' Embassy.

According to the unanimous decision, the Embassy will be granted two pictures a week from Skouras until the total reaches 22, which, it was figured by the board, will keep the Further, Rogowsky and Skouras will agree between themselves what two pictures will go to the Embassy every week. In the event they disagree, the grievance board will make the decision.

HOLLYWOOD—For years it was Broadway and 41st St., New York. Now the goings on are the same, only the address is 7th and Spring, Los Angeles.

Large and small, from the days when Herman Wobber, now a power in the Fox organization, became California distributor for Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen" and Mabel Normand in "Mickey" down the line have film men turned to A. H. Giannini with their troubles and their financing. "Doc," as he is known to customers and employees alike, for years has been a sort of father confessor to a large and important segment of the production business and likes the job.

Fifty millions, which is plenty of money, have been passed through the wickets of Giannini banks on both coasts to wend their way to studios that have turned out many important pictures. "Doc" has gotten it all back, at legal rates of interest, nary the loss of a solitary cent. That's been his experience in this industry.

All German Theatres Now Under Goebbels

BERLIN, May 16.—In a law promulgated last night by the cabinet all theatres in Germany were placed under the direct guidance of Dr. Paul Goebbels, Nazi Minister of Propaganda and Public Entertainment.

Goebbels is now empowered to open and close theatres, appoint or dismiss directors and stage managers, ban plays or order performances. The law applies to all theatres, regardless of ownership, and empowers Goebbels to control the Prussian state theatres which heretofore have been under the jurisdiction of General Hermann Goering.

Fox Met. Set For Sale to Bondholders

Acquisition of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses by bondholders at a foreclosure sale is provided for in the reorganization plan just completed by the committee representing holders of 6½ per cent convertible gold notes and 6½ per cent sinking fund gold debentures, it was learned yesterday.

The committee represents more than 85 per cent of the bondholders of Fox Metropolitan, or $10,000,000 of the approximately $13,000,000 of the company's bonds. The committee is prepared to bid the full amount of the bonds held by it against any outside bidder, it was learned, thus making it necessary for any other bidder to put up approximately $13,000,000 in cash in order to acquire the circuit at foreclosure. It is reliably stated that the committee's stand has the effect of shutting out all other prospective bidders, of whom there are known to have been three, at least.

Irving Trust Co., receiver for Fox Metropolitan, reported yesterday that it had received inquiries from Warners and Walter Reade as to the operating results of the circuit during the two years of receivership, the inquiries ostensibly being made for the purpose of arriving at a bidding price for the properties at such time as they might be sold at foreclosure.

Third Bidder Revealed

David W. Kahn, downtown attorney, representing undisclosed interests, has revealed to the bondholders' committee what is apparently a third bidder for the properties at foreclosure. Declining to identify his clients prior to the sale of the properties, Kahn has stated that they are prepared to offer $3,000,000 in cash for Fox Metropolitan assets, constituting leaseholds in approximately 75 theatres.

Under the bondholders' plan Skouras and Randforce would continue to operate the circuit, as they have done for the receiver. The plan, which is now awaiting approval of the U. S. District Court here, provides for sale of the assets at foreclosure and their purchase by the noteholders. A new company would be organized which would exchange new debentures for 50 per cent of the outstanding bonds and would issue 20 shares of new common stock for each $1,000 of Fox Metropolitan debentures.

In this way both the stock and debentures of the new company will be held together so that in order to obtain control of the new company any outside interest would be obliged to buy up the debentures as well as the stock.

Unmortgaged cash of Fox Metropolitan would be pro-rated among the $1,000-bond holders under the reorganization. A board of voting trustees is provided for in the plan, to be composed of Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox; Herbert Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co., and Richard C. Hunt, investment banker. They, with the president of the new company, would be members of, and would control, a new board of directors of seven members. The new company would sublet the theatres to Skouras and Randforce.

What "CONVENTION CITY"
did for me

CONVENTION CITY: One of the best comedies we ever played. Seldom a comedy gives general satisfaction, but this one did in a big way. People laughed at this that had not grinned in years. And it gave 100 per cent satisfaction. Played Jan. 28.—Bert Silver, Silver Family Theatre, Greenville, Mich. Town and country patronage.

and me

and me

CONVENTION CITY: Excellent entertainment for both young and old. A wonderful program picture that will appeal to all and should go over good in the small towns as well as in the large ones. Plenty of stars in this one and it is sure to please everyone who sees it. Played Jan. 22-23.—J. J. Medford, Orpheum Theatre, Oxford, N. C. General patronage.

Public Bodies Being 'Used,' Says Schaefer

that compulsory block booking has gone, for the very simple reason that compulsion upon the exhibitor to show every picture that he rented has never existed."

Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel for the Hays office, indulged in biting sarcasm. Among other things he said: "If the industry or the art were ever to surrender to the demands that all pictures be produced down to the level of child intelligence, the organization of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Adults would become pressingly necessary."

Reviews Block Booking

In reviewing the history of block bookings, Schaefer said it grew out of the "desperate need of the theatre owner for a week-in and week-out supply of pictures."

"A break in the continuous operation of his theatre might mean commercial life or death to him, particularly in highly competitive territories," he continued.

Later he described the system as simply a "wholesale system of offering a number of pictures as against the retail system." Courts have reviewed the system, he declared, and have decided it does not restrict an exhibitor's freedom of choice. In addition, he went on, the code confers the privilege of 10 per cent cancellation.

"I defy any group or individual to offer the slightest proof," he went on, "that under this system of wholesale selling a good picture—good from your standpoint, the social standpoint—has ever been stopped from exhibition, or that any bad picture—bad, again, from the social standpoint—has ever been forced upon any exhibitor."

Schaefer read a list of pictures most often cancelled, most of them those highly praised by social groups.

"You are told that it's the little man, the individual exhibitor, who would be protected by the destruction of these industry practices," he continued. "The hypocrisy of such statements is evident from the slightest consideration."

Retail selling, he declared, would pit the little fellow against the buying power of the big operator on every picture.

Discusses "Better Pictures"

Pettijohn covered much of the same ground traversed by Schaefer in his discussion of the advantages of wholesale selling, but made bitter remarks about what would happen if "the better picture movement in the United States is ever allowed to fall into the hands of professional fund-raisers, anti-movie orators or trade racketeers."

"To jingle the tin cup before the public and weep crocodile tears over the alleged demand for the child audience for pictures which the cruel 'movie-barons' allegedly refuse to supply may be an effective technique of fund-raising for those whose real motive is the censorship of every form of news, artistic and literary expression. But better and better pictures can only be produced by progressively higher standards of public appreciation," Pettijohn declared.

"Nothing could be more absurd than the proposition that the basic problem of better pictures lies in the method or manner by which the industry distributes its entertainment products or by which the exhibitor rents his pictures.

Loans $50,000,000; Losses Zero, Giannini's Balance

New York ultimately to turn the Bank of America into virtual banking headquarters for dealers in various forms of celluloid, happens to be a combination of hard-headed business man and sentimentalist.

He travels far for friends and applies the brakes on others. He has a wide literary range from paper-back novels to the classics and spills phrases from the extremes of that range with equal ease. He talks the language of the man in the street, understands the roughnecks and converses with savants on the same footing.

Plays Hunches in Men

He thinks the genus banker rates pretty low on the ladder and, unlike most of his banking confreres, plays hunches in men. He is often considerably more interested in how those who are, or would be, his customers, treat caddies on the links, secretaries in their businesses, and messenger boys in their offices than the front they affect when trying to borrow money. "It demonstrates what they really have on the ball," is Giannini's conclusion.

He may appear to take chances in his loans, but trust "Doc" to know what he is about at every stage of the game. What has endeared him to those who know him—they are many and important—is the humanness of his demeanor, the understanding in his deliberations and the sportsmanship in his business conduct. To illustrate:

Giannini recently celebrated his sixtieth birthday. That was the day on which a prospective borrower dropped in. He wanted only $300,000 and thought four and a half per cent interest was enough. "Doc" wanted six, but let a coin, flipped in the air, determine it. He won with the statement:

"I can't lose today. It's my birthday."

Louis B. Mayer, Jack Warner, Nick Schenck, Sam Goldwyn, Joe Schnitzer and some others who do business with Giannini, and with whom Giannini does business, will tell you it's a pretty regular bird who will visit New York, find himself deluged with social obligations but take time out after dinner at Zucca's on West 48th St. to personally address 40 postcards to his vice-presidents and thereafter down the line to the man who shaves him and the Italian who shines his shoes every day. Giannini did it and probably won't feel comfortable that the story is told here for the first time.

Ideas on Films Definite

If you think "Doc" can't be down-to-earth, you should hear him tell a snappy story.

If you don't think he is conscious of what films might do and where they might go, you should hear him wax enthusiastic about the current trend toward classics. He regards the drift as one of the most encouraging signs on the industry's horizon, believes there is a place for pictures like "Jane Eyre," "David Copperfield," "The Scarlet Letter," "The Tale of Two Cities," "Resurrection" and "Du Barry," to pick a few which are on the way.

If you don't think his vision goes beyond Hollywood and New York and recognizes the international aspects of this business, you should listen to what he thinks about British production as it affects Hollywood:

"I believe that after nearly a quarter of a century of practically absolute domination of the world motion picture industry it will be a good thing for Hollywood to look to its laurels.

"I believe the discovery that new artistic interpretations and improvements are possible in film making production, and that new types of dramatic appeal will register with the public, may stimulate in Hollywood a new and well considered flow of creative spirit. Such discoveries seem to me to be in the nature of a liberal education. Such education, I feel certain, can be made use of not only by Hollywood, but by a great many other typically high-speed and self-concentrated American institutions."

"Doc" was born in the San Francisco which produced Jack London, the Huntingtons and Spreckles, the Millses and other names that nestle high in the American roster of "do-somethings." As a kid, he was the leader of the Rock Rollers, a gang of kids who headquartered on Telegraph Hill, reduced to a split-second accuracy the time necessary for a stone to roll from hilltop to hillbottom and clip where it didn't hurt too much the then object of the gang's displeasure. Giannini used to achieve impact with rocks those days. Since then, he continues to hold on to his prowess, substituting verbal rocks for the other kind.

His Earlier Days

Just as there is nothing phoney about this different sort of banker, so is there nothing fake about his title. Giannini is called doctor because he is. He served in the Medical Corps during the Spanish-American War. When the earthquake tore much of San Francisco apart in '06, there was Giannini working to alleviate typhoid and smallpox sufferers.

While his brother, A. P., had moved his gold into the country to return with it to Frisco after the 'quake and fire, A. H. was practicing medicine. At 32, "Doc" joined his brother, then 36, and from that point on began the real rise of the House of Giannini in the world of American banking.

It was no cinch. A. P. earlier had covered California by horse and buggy. He had entered the produce business with his father. The Italian ranchers and the farmers needed financial sustenance and A. P. gave it to them.

As A. H. was inaugurating the first school saving drive in the state, A. P. had begun his penetration with branches of the Bank of Italy. Together the brothers joined in a spectacular fight to oust political footballery in San Francisco's municipal government and to aid in the election of Mayor Rolph. From that point on, the Bank of Italy leaped forward in bounds.

From the Bank of Italy there developed the Bancitaly Corp., an investment trust which gave nationwide attention to diversified stock holdings. When the time was consid-

Theatre Man Aids in Lonely Night Arrest

DETROIT, May 16.—Hiding a police detective under a blanket in the rear of his auto, Anthony Lombardo, owner of the Chandler, last night drove to a lonely spot to keep a rendezvous with a man who, he alleged, had demanded $5,000 from him. The man was captured after he had been wounded by the detective. Two others were later arrested and all are being held on charges of extortion.

Golden Leaves Monday

Edward Golden, general sales manager of Monogram, leaves here Monday for Salt Lake City where he will preside over a regional sales conference May 26. From Salt Lake City Golden will go to Cincinnati to hold additional sales conferences starting June 2. A New York session will be held June 29.

Batcheller Starts East

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—George K. Batcheller started for New York tonight further to line up next year's product for Chesterfield.

ered propitious, it was "Doc" who went East to branch out, as A. P. remained behind to keep flourishing their interests on native soil. This was in 1919.

"Doc" acquired the East River National. Then the Commercial Trust. All three he merged into what became known as the East River National. Later and in rapid order came acquisition of Italy Discount, Bay Ridge National, Old Colony, Perriera Bank, Sessa Bank and the Commercial Exchange. There probably wasn't an ounce of olive oil shipped from Italy to America which did not clear through the Giannini group by this time.

Later came the merger of the above institutions into the Bank of America, purchased from a coterie of New York's "blue-stocked" bankers. Then formation of Transamerica as a subsidiary and, in 1929, purchase by Elisha Walker of the Transamerica stock which gave him control of the Bank of America. This was the period when "Doc" held court at Broadway and 41st St., when he was pretty much a one-man clearing house for matters film in New York.

Back to California

The dramatic proxy fight which followed is, of course, well known. Launched by the sale of the Bank of America to National City, the fight which ensued brought victory to the Gianninis, the return to them of their western banks and the emergence of Transamerica as the largest single stockholder in National City.

Today, the Bank of America which operates over 400 branches in over 200 California cities has its finger in agriculture, real estate, oil and films and is one of the significant factors in American banking.

Today, Giannini, as chairman of its executive committee, is a friend of the picture business because it has never let him down even if it has shocked him from time to time.

Man of power and discernment, respected by the topline names who know him, "Doc" has one remaining ambition:

He wants to chuck it all, to hang out his shingle and minister to the medical needs of the poor.

New Setup of Code Asked by Review Board

contents of the report secret, what are believed to be the most important findings on the film code "leaked out" today.

Contrary to previous rumors, it is said the report does not charge Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt with mis-use of his office, but does censure him for his alleged failure to protect the interests of the independents adequately and recommends the transfer of jurisdiction over all amusement codes from him to some other official of the Recovery Administration. The report, it is said, charges that through his relationship with Nathan Burkan, he has become unduly sympathetic to the major interests in the industry.

Majors Held Ignored

In its report the board is said to have ignored entirely the brief filed by the major producers following the conclusion of the hearings. In explaining this action, the report does not contend the brief was received too late to be given consideration but is reported to assert that it should not be given weight because it was intended to "discredit" witnesses complaining of the code.

The Darrow board in several other ways is declared to have ignored matters which would normally be given weight in a government investigation as, for instance, its failure to consider the Federal Trade Commission's Paramount case where the orders of the commission were held invalid by the Federal courts, when the report declares that block booking has been held illegal in a number of cases.

Outstanding among the recommendations said to have been made is one for the creation of a commission to devise a code provision insuring the right to buy as a substitute for block booking.

Selection of Commission

The commission would be selected by the Code Authority following a revamping of that organization and would consist of two major producers and two distributors, to be elected by a majority vote of the five members representing the major interests, four independent exhibitors selected by the unanimous vote of the five independent members, and a ninth member to be picked by the elected eight to serve as chairman. In the event the independents cannot agree upon their representatives, Darrow offers to appoint them, and the report suggests that if the chairman cannot be satisfactorily determined the Federal Trade Commission shall name him.

It is recommended that the commission be given until August 1 to file its report and that in the event of failure to complete its studies by that date the code should be amended to outlaw block booking and provide specifically for application of the right-to-buy principle.

The report will recommend the revamping of the authority to provide for 15 members to be divided equally among the major interests, the independents and the government, each group to have five representatives.

Members of the present Code Authority are said not to be referred to by name, nor are any charges leveled against them, but the report holds that eight of the 10 members either directly represent or are sympathetic to the majors.

The local boards also should be reorganized, the report is said to hold. Under an outline submitted by the board, the grievance boards would be elected in each exchange territory by the exhibitors thereof and would consist of one distributor, one affiliated exhibitor, two independent exhibitors and one government representative. The report will recommend the lifting of all time limits on the filing of complaints.

New Board Makeup

The clearance and zoning boards, under the Darrow recommendations, would be so organized as to give the independents a six-to-three or seven-to-two majority, on the ground that the independent interests have the major investment. These boards, it is said, should consist of one affiliated distributor, one independent distributor, one affiliated first run exhibitor, one unaffiliated first run exhibitor and four bona fide subsequent run exhibitors, and one government representative. Whether the report suggests the method by which the members of the board would be selected could not be learned.

A number of provisions of the code should be eliminated, the board holds. It recommends that the forcing of shorts be prohibited by deletion of the provision linking shorts with features, that distributors should be divested of any control over admissions, that no prohibition should be imposed upon double features, and that distributors should be denied the right to specify playdates.

There is little or no discussion in the report of the labor provisions of the code, which, it is said, will be considered in detail in later reports.

Some doubt exists whether the White House will make the full report public or only a summary setting forth the highlights. However, it is understood Darrow will issue a statement explaining the position of the board, and it is probable that Johnson's reply also will be made public.

Overstepped, Says Lazarus

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—Henry Lazarus says the NRA compliance director had overstepped his authority in forbidding the Coliseum to have an "odds and ends night." He asserts he had planned to set up a table in the lobby where each woman ticket-holder could have her choice of one object, all of which had the same value, but the compliance director warned him not to do it, although the Avenue had obtained permission to do so, according to Lazarus.

Lottery Slant Out

Contending it is now conforming with provisions of the code in staging "Race Nights" by elimination of lotteries, General Film Products of Hollywood is notifying exhibitors of Campi's approval. Secretaries of Code Authority have been forwarded letters of the compliance by General Film Products and when cases come before grievance boards, such nights are to be permitted, provided lotteries are out.

Campi to Receive Ideas on Charges

was told that for the first half of the year, none could be made since the plan agreed upon was the best of those submitted to the committee.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has approved the plan and it is likely some alterations may be made for the second half of the year.

Campi has not received the wire reported to have been sent by Omaha independents requesting withdrawal of assents and asking at the same time to be relieved from further financial responsibility under the code. It was said at Code Authority headquarters that no action had been decided upon in the event the Omaha exhibitors refused to pay allotted levies. Until the withdrawal request is received no action by Campi will be taken.

Distributors Winners Of Decisions in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 16.—The grievance board here today found in favor of Fox against the Charles Stanley Columbian, Wamego, Kan., holding the latter liable for the full amount of its contract. The board held Stanley guilty of transferring the house to his father-in-law's name to avoid fulfilling the contract.

The board dismissed the complaint of Charles Esterly of the Nu Era, this city, against Paramount, Warners, Fox and M-G-M, charging the companies with refusal to sell him product. The board ruled that it had not been shown Esterly was short of film. The distributors maintain they cannot sell Esterly, who only recently opened the theatre, without jeopardizing a long-established competitive account in the same neighborhood. The decision may be appealed to Campi.

Omaha Board Stops "Merchant Nights"

OMAHA, May 16.—Merchant coupon tickets alleged to have been distributed by George Werner of the Orpheum, Fairfield, Neb., have been ordered stopped by the grievance board. It was the board's first decision. The complaint was filed by T. C. Schipley, Clay Center.

Film shows open to the public at which admission has been charged by the Jefferson High School, Council Bluffs, Iowa, have been adjudged unfair competition.

A complaint of William N. Youngclaus, Columbus, Neb., against Central States Theatres, Des Moines, charging overbuying will come up May 25.

Philadelphia Hears Clearance Protest

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Decision was reserved by the clearance and zoning board at its first hearing today on a complaint of the Broadway Theatre, Bridgeport, against the Norris Amusement Co., Norristown, that the 42 days' clearance enjoyed by the three Norris theatres is excessive. James Egnal of the Broadway asked that the clearance be cut to 14, 21 and 28 days for the Norris, Grand and Garrick, respectively.

Union Count Low; Strike Talk Flares

strike would be called as soon as plans for executing it were completed.

The checkup, agreed to earlier by the circuits and the union during an arbitration conference called by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt in an effort to avoid a strike at Loew's Metropolitan, Brooklyn, three weeks ago, was to determine whether or not the circuits would recognize the union. Had the checkup shown a majority of union members among the employees involved, circuit representatives said yesterday they would have agreed to a closed shop. The results showed 13 per cent union membership among Loew's service employees and 28 per cent in RKO.

The count was conducted under the supervision of the Department of Labor, Washington. Levey charged yesterday that employees had been intimidated during the count, and asserted that circuit representatives accompanied the Department of Labor agent throughout the checkup. He said he was convinced the union represented a majority of the employees and would call the strike.

Indies to Test Dual Ban in Sales Pacts been retained as counsel to discuss plans for a test case of the double feature question. They seek to have defined the right of six major companies to forbid double featuring in contracts.

The independents have chosen for the purpose the case of the Grand Jackson Theatre against the Venice Theatre, which comes up before the grievance board tomorrow. Golder will represent the Venice at the hearing. Regardless of the board's decision, the exhibitors plan to carry the case to the courts.

K. C. Protests on New Clearance Up Soon

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 16.—The local zoning board will hold open meeting Monday afternoon to hear protests on the new clearance schedule, which has precipitated widespread denunciation, chiefly from unaffiliated suburbaners.

Ed Dubinsky today added his voice to that of other protestants. He said he intends filing a protest, adding the only one helped by the new arrangement is Fox Midwest. He asserted it helps the circuit's position with respect to subsequent and is advantageous to Kansas City, Kan., houses, but is otherwise a serious threat to subsequent.

The board will notify all local exhibitors and distributors, giving all a chance to express their views.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—The grievance board holds its second meeting May 21, when it is expected several complaints will be filed. The suggestion of Norman Carter, a member of the board, that meetings be closed to the trade press, will be discussed.

Two Absentees May Delay Zone Board

Because Robert Wolff of Radio is on his vacation and Leo Abrams of Universal is recovering from an operation, the New York clearance and zoning board may not meet today to consider recommendations of the three advisory committees.

The committee has submitted recommendations on protests of the Washington, Washington, N. J., against Wilmer & Vincent's Easton, Pa., house; Consolidated Amusements, which operates the Forum, Luxor and Fleetwood, against Loew's Victory and Grand in the Bronx.

For Wide Publicity On Board Decisions

Winding up a two-day meeting with code secretaries of 10 eastern cities, Executive Secretary John C. Flinn has advised them that as much publicity as possible shall be given to decisions of the boards. He said this will impart a greater understanding between exhibitors and distributors in that no secrecy will exist in the hearings and decisions of code bodies.

Love B. Harrell of Atlanta, Emaline Fineberg of Pittsburgh and James B. Fitzgerald of Washington returned to their territories yesterday.

Chicago Decision Delayed

CHICAGO, May 16.—The local grievance board today failed to reach a decision in the case of Ben Bartlestein against the Schoenstadt brothers, charging overbuying. Decision will be handed down Tuesday.

Rogowskys Get 22 Films From Skouras Allotment

FWC Appeal Is Set For Hearing Friday

Appeal of Fox West Coast against the decision of the Los Angeles grievance board granting Cistrand Theatres Corp. 20 pictures will come before Campi tomorrow instead of June 1 as originally requested.

Charles Skouras and Charles A. Buckley, attorney for FWC, are in town and ready to defend the case. Skouras intends to return the early part of next week and hence has requested the case to go on.

Cleveland Clearance Case Set for Friday

CLEVELAND, May 16.—The clearance and zoning board meets here Friday morning to hear the case of the Cedar-Lee Theatre Co. against Loew's Ohio Theatres, involving the Stillman, Park and Granada, and Warners, operating the Lake, Uptown and Variety, in which a change of first run protection is asked. The claim is based on the present double feature policy and lower admissions now in practice at the circuit houses.

franchise with Skouras, the company is included among those which will contribute to the Embassy programs in the future. There was a heated argument last Tuesday over the introduction of the franchise as evidence. The board finally agreed it did not need it.

No provision is made to guarantee Vitagraph payment for the Warner-First National pictures played. Argument that Campi, in handing down an affirmation of the Milwaukee grievance board decision in the Saxe-Ashley case, had provided protection for payments was made by I. Levenson at last Tuesday's meeting, but this apparently was of no concern to the board, which found Rogowskys' account satisfactory.

The decision goes into effect immediately.

Other decisions handed down favored the Roxy which complained against cut rate ticket distribution by the Mayfair and the same theatre again in its grievance against the Casino for misleading advertising. The Little Picture House won its complaint against the Windsor which was said to have advertised "Carolina" at the same time the picture was playing at the opposition house.

George Skouras says he will acquiesce.

Nye Resolution Seeks More Light on Codes

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Further light on the negotiation of the codes is expected to result from a resolution sponsored by Senator Nye of North Dakota and approved without debate by the Senate today, calling upon the Federal Trade Commission to submit copies of all correspondence between it and the NRA and any reports it has made to the administration on any of the codes.

Michael Shea Dies Suddenly In Buffalo, 75

considerable fame locally as a battler. He began his career as a structural iron worker, helping in the construction of bridges in various parts of the country.

Shea was projected into the show business at 23, when he opened the Music Hall here on a shoestring. Many noted French and English players appeared at this theatre, which was destroyed by fire 11 years later. Undaunted, he built and operated Shea's Garden for several years. In 1905 he opened Shea's Court Street, which for many years was one of the country's leading stands for two-a-day. In association with B. F. Keith and E. F. Albee he formed a sort of booking arrangement whereby all the biggest stars of the legitimate theatre and variety stage played the Court Street.

Built $2,000,000 House

The Court Street was succeeded as a vaudeville stand by Shea's Hippodrome. In 1926 the showman pooled his resources with Paramount-Famous Players, progenitor of Paramount-Publix, and erected Shea's Buffalo at an outlay of more than $2,000,000.

In 1933, Shea discontinued his association with Paramount-Publix, taking over entire control of his theatres. Even before then he had never relinquished his right to a final say in their operation, having retained 51 per cent control of the stock, with Paramount-Publix holding the rest.

Peculiarly enough, Shea personally never cared for films; yet he was one of the first to realize their importance and to bill their titles and the names of their stars on the marquees of his houses. Thanks to his showmanship, "Tillie's Punctured Romance," in which Marie Dressler broke into pictures opposite Charlie Chaplin, became one of the first outstanding film successes in Buffalo.

Fostered Talent

Ever on the watch for new talent, Shea was credited with the "discovery" of many of the present stage, screen and radio headliners. The showman, noted for a frankness of speech that often was carried to profanity, never feared to tell even the biggest "names" what he thought was wrong with their acts and to suggest changes.

Shea's widow was the former Josephine G. Carr. The couple were married in 1899. Surviving, besides Mrs. Shea, is a daughter, Mrs. Emil Giffoniello. Her husband is a junior executive of the Shea circuit. The Giffoniellos have a son, Michael Shea, born in 1933. The infant was one of Shea's greatest prides.

Sam Dembow of Paramount, closely identified with Mike Shea for years, said yesterday:

"He was the youngest old man I knew. Unlike many other veteran showmen who discoursed on how they did it 30 years ago, Mike Shea constantly was on the alert to new developments and constantly willing to accept them.

"He was a grand old man."

Darryl F. Zanuck Writes

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century, as this is written is somewhere on the deep blue bound for Italy and beyond that, Africa and big game.

Prior to his departure from New York late last week, he took his typewriter in hand to rid his mind of several matters. What they are, as he saw and wrote them, editorially treated only for directions to the linotypers and not as to text, follows.

His objections to certain published material in Motion Picture Herald and MOTION PICTURE DAILY are set forth frankly. Just as frankly and, as a matter of fact, gladly as well does MOTION PICTURE DAILY give the communication the space it requires to tell Zanuck's side of the incidents.

The picture referred to is "The Affairs of Cellini," previewed from Hollywood recently as "The Firebrand."

To the Editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

An editorial appearing in a recent issue of the Motion Picture Herald refers to me as a representative of the typical Hollywood producer who, so the editorial states, expects every criticism on every picture to be complimentary regardless of the merits or demerits of the picture. This editorial appears to have been based on a misunderstanding of my reaction to a review in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

I don't in the least object to being branded as "a typical Hollywood producer" or as "a representative Hollywood producer." As a matter of fact, I consider it a distinction and an honor to be "a typical Hollywood producer." The production of moving pictures is my business; I am proud of my business and proud of my work and not in the least ashamed to "represent" Hollywood producers, editorially or factually. I do, however, refuse to believe that Hollywood producers, as a group or even the leading producers as individuals, expect to receive editorial congratulations where none are due. They do expect the reviewers to be fair and honest and sincere, and in most cases, I am sure, they receive this treatment. I have never objected to any review published by any paper. Reviewers have a right to their opinion and a right to express it in any manner they see fit. I do, however, question the right of any reviewer to misstate facts. I found fault with the review of one of our forthcoming productions, not because the reviewer did or did not like the picture but only because he misstated certain facts in the review, and I question the right of any reviewer to misinform exhibitors or to prophesize. To date there has been no accurate prophet in the motion picture industry. The particular review in question "warned" the exhibitor that the production was a costume picture. I believe that such a warning is not within the reviewer's province. Too many tremendously successful pictures recently have been costume pictures, such as: "The House of Rothschild," "The Bowery," "Henry the 8th." Thus, a "warning" of this nature to the exhibitor comes under the heading of erroneous labeling.

In this same review MOTION PICTURE DAILY also "suggested to the exhibitor the possibility of the picture being subjected to severe censorship." This happens to be an obvious misstatement of fact. The picture has been passed with the highest possible recommendation by the Hays office and the state censor boards have discharged the picture without elimination. Certainly it must be agreed that the reviewer was again not within his province in "warning" the exhibitor to beware of censorship where such a possibility did not exist.

In closing please let me state again that I do not now, nor will I ever question the right of any reviewer to express his opinion—good, bad or indifferent—about any 20th Century picture, but I must, in fairness to the exhibitors and our own pictures, feel it my duty to call to attention any misstatement of fact.

Sincerely yours,
DARRYL ZANUCK

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—The M-G-M studio celebrates its 10th year of operation tomorrow, having made 675 pictures in that time. "He Who Gets Slapped," with Norma Shearer, Lon Chaney and John Gilbert, was the first film to be made at the plant.

"Catherine" St. Paul Hit In 3rd Week

MINNEAPOLIS, May 17.—"Catherine the Great" continued the outstanding draw in the Twin Cities in its third week at the 300-seat St. Paul World. The take of $2,500 was still $1,000 over par.

"The Private Life of Henry VIII," the other sensation here, closed at the end of its sixth week, still away up in the money. The $3,000 gross on the final week was over average by $1,000. None of the other first runs had anything to get excited about, grosses being generally about normal.

Minneapolis' five theatres, usually totalling $22,000, got about $23,000. St. Paul's five, which generally get $17,000, made it $17,100.

Built originally for Pantages, but never operated by him, the theatre has previously been operated by Fox West Coast and Jensen-Von Herberg. It seats 2,275.

"Melodrama," Show Strong In Dull Week

Only two spots showed any brightness in the general Broadway gloom last week.

"Manhattan Melodrama," bolstered by a stage show that included Jack Benny, Mary Livingston, Lanny Ross and others, pulled $54,450 at the Capitol, and "Twentieth Century" lifted the RKO Music Hall to $75,000.

The Rivoli topped some of the larger houses with $19,400 on "We're Not Dressing," "The House of Rothschild" did a good $18,000 in its eighth week at the Astor. Other spots were away off.

"House of Rothschild," in its third week at United Artists, had another average week and was held for a fourth stanza.

The final day of the week grosses were affected by a tieup of the entire waterfront, due to a longshoremen's strike. Indications point to at least another week of strike conditions and this week's figures probably will show a drop.

Sally Has New Stuff

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—When Sally Rand returns to the second edition of the World's Fair in Chicago this summer, she will continue to give the same fan dance as last year, except that for the latter part of the engagement she has evolved a new creation. To prevent the 1,500 or more fan dance imitators from stealing her stuff, she is keeping the new dance a deep, dark secret.

But this much she revealed: There will be no fans. Not even a veil.

"Viva Villa" Brings High Frisco Gross

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—"Viva Villa" was easily best money maker in this town last week, grabbing $22,000 at the Warfield, $3,000 over par. "House of Rothschild" continued strong at the Geary, taking $9,300 in its third week, with two more to go.

"Century" and Winchell Top Chicago Draw

CHICAGO, May 17.—Customer movement past the turnstiles was nothing to get excited about, last week. The lull hit about the same time last year and the box-offices didn't begin to score until the World's Fair began bringing in visitors.

RKO's Palace had most reason for encouragement by turning in $22,000. Walter Winchell in person was a publicity getter and Columbia's "20th Century" rated fine reviews.

"The House of Rothschild" held up to $17,500 for its second week at United Artists. B. & K.'s Chicago was down at $30,000, with Roxy on the stage and "20 Million Sweethearts" on the screen.

"Rothschild" $19,000 Wow In Pittsburgh

$4,000 in 7 Shows

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 17.—What is believed to be a record one day stand at popular prices was made here by "Amos 'n Andy," who appeared at the Warner and grossed $4,000 in seven performances at 35, 50 and 75 cents.

Washington's Best Draw Is "Rothschild"

WASHINGTON, May 17.—"The House of Rothschild" led last week at Loew's Palace. It was the only really bright spot in an otherwise depressing week. The take was $19,800. This was about $1,500 under the existing record set with "The Millionaire" and a stage show at Warners Earle a few seasons back. It was held.

W. C. Field's "You're Telling Me" with CBS stars, including Tony Wons, Tito Guizar, Gypsy Nina, Peggy Keenan, Sandra Phillips, Ruth Barnes, Al Llewellyn, Phil Cook, and George Hall and his orchestra resulted in a subnormal $18,400 for Loew's Fox.

"Upper World" and a stage show—Donatella Brothers and Carmen, Violet Carlson, the Honey Family, Emile Boreo—was let down violently to the tune of only $13,500.

WHEN MR. & MRS. LEO TURN OUT THE LIGHTS—

Sweet dreams, Leo! The Anniversary is over but the memory lingers on. Bright years studded with achievement! From "Big Parade" and "Ben-Hur" you set the pace for others to follow. You've had your "Trader Horns" "Broadway Melodies" "Tugboat Annies" all through the years... we could mention a hundred of them. And right now while the folks are cheering you and the Missus, the trade paper headlines are shrieking "Riptide" "Men in White" "Viva Villa!" "Tarzan and his Mate." Then you top them off with "Sadie McKee" "The Thin Man" and a flock more! Okay, kid, march on with your starry banners flowing! There's ten thousand exhibitors marching with you into happy years ahead!

MR. & MRS. LEO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Yesterday's gala event was the 10th Anniversary of Mr. & Mrs. Leo of M-G-M. The charming couple received congratulations from friends all over the world.

Soviet Plans Versions for U. S. Market

distribution executives here on reciprocal deals and may journey to Hollywood for a studio visit.

The Russian emissary, interviewed entirely through an interpreter, gave the impression that the deals he sought here would involve American bookings for Soviet product in return for production privileges in Russia for interested American companies, with possibly a limited number of American films being taken "on approval" for Russian exhibition. Explaining that the deals were in an early stage at this time, Usievich declined to name names after stating that "a number of American companies have expressed interest in the possibility of producing films in collaboration with us in the Soviet Union."

Won't Drop Propaganda

The definite declaration was made, however, that the Soviet film producers do not intend to eliminate propaganda from their films entirely, while attempting to increase their entertainment content for American consumption. Propaganda, it was said, is an essential film item in Russia, and pictures without it are regarded as "empty entertainment." The objective of the Soviet producing trusts is to turn out pictures which combine education and entertainment, it was explained.

Usievich related that Russia has 30,000 exhibition places equipped to show silent pictures only, and 2,000 centers for showing sound pictures. Approximately 100 features are produced annually at an average cost of $400,000, he estimated. In addition, the film trust also produces educational and scientific films of feature length, and short subjects and news-reels.

"Non-Commercial," He Says

The film industry in Russia is entirely "non-commercial," Usievich said, and no business part of the industry is administered by individual enterprise. A production trust is subsidized by the state and distributes through another trust in each of seven federated Soviet republics. A third state trust operates the theatres and plays whatever pictures are released by the distributing trust.

Usievich said that Russia is particularly interested now in changing over its large number of silent houses to sound and said that this was being done with the installation of 16 mm. equipment, which, he said, makes the changeover economically and quickly. The small size film, he added, is practical in Russia, where most theatres and audiences are small.

"Adverse" in 16 Reels

Warners are understood planning to release "Anthony Adverse" in 16 reels with running time around three hours. This is understood to hold good for all types of houses.

Plans China Office

Columbia will open a branch office in China about June 1.

Cowan Will Produce; A Brace Set at Fox

operation today with headquarters at the General Service Studios.

The first two pictures will be released through Fox. The first will be based on Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises," with Ann Harding in the chief role and E. H. Griffith directing.

The firm says it will operate as an independent unit free of outside control. Cowan, former secretary of the Academy, states there is plenty of money behind the enterprise to interest the biggest names who are available for one picture or more a year and are desirous to free themselves of studio supervision and select their own stories.

The second production will probably star Edward G. Robinson, although this is not a certainty yet.

This makes a total to date of 15 outside pictures scheduled for Fox release next season. Sol Lesser plans 10, six of them to star George O'Brien in action stories. Earl Carroll has a deal set for two musicals while "The Catpaw," starring Harold Lloyd, is the other.

Horne's Revue Over Big with Ampa Crowd

Recommended as ace entertainment for a short subject is Hal Horne's revue, which he put on for the benefit of Ampa members yesterday. The bill drew capacity attendance.

The show opened with Bob Murray doing a bit accompanied by his son and daughter. Lillian Ellis, new Hal Roach find, gave her impression of an English player's first visit to these shores. She was followed by Jimmy Savo, who clicked with two numbers. Lew Brown sang two new numbers he wrote and was accompanied at the piano by Lew Alter. Block and Sully closed the show with a fast line of patter and had the author of their act, Horne, in the picture for a few lines.

The show was a knockout as a U. A. attraction. If produced, Monogram should release. ORNSTEIN.

Ampa's next session will be turned over to the Soviet film delegation. Bruce Gallup will be guest chairman at the May 31 meet. Jack Alicoate of Film Daily is slated as guest chairman of the June 21 session, which will have as its main attraction the "Ampa Revels."

Signs Two Actresses

Mady Christians, a Ufa star in Berlin for several years and since then appearing on the New York stage, yesterday signed a long-term with M-G-M.

Rosamond Pinchot, who excited comment several years ago as the nun in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle," also has been signed by the company. She goes west in the fall.

La Hiff in Danger

Billy La Hiff, owner of The Tavern and well known in New York film circles, is seriously ill at Medical Center, where he is suffering from an abscess of the kidney.

Campi Wants Early Filing Of All Cases

schedules, or otherwise. Campi figures the more cases heard now, the fewer will there be when the selling season gets under way.

Quick disposition of appeals also holds good for Code Authority, which last Friday heard and acted on the first request for a review. The Saxe grievance against Ashley Amusement Co. and major distributors was filed in Milwaukee on April 10. It was heard by the Milwaukee board April 17, the appeal was filed April 22 and Code Authority rendered a decision May 11.

Fox West Coast's appeal from the decision of the Los Angeles grievance board, which turned over 20 pictures to Cistrand Theatre, will be heard by Campi today. The original complaint was filed in Los Angeles April 27, heard by that board May 3, appeal filed May 9 and it may be disposed of today.

N. O. to Hear Initial Issue on Protection

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—The first protection case, involving United Theatres, is scheduled to be heard by the code boards Monday. Complaint is made by the Metairie that the United Carrollton is demanding and obtaining 60 days' protection over it, whereas the Metairie is located in an adjoining parish and is at least four miles away. Major companies will be cited.

The boards also have the complaint of a theatre owner in McGee, Miss., that the state hospital at Sanitarium, Miss., is running a picture theatre in unfair competition.

Littlefield, Yamins Launch Attack on Block Booking

BOSTON, May 17.—Walter B. Littlefield, prominent in the affairs of Allied in New England, believes producers should not put prices on pictures before they are produced. Littlefield asserts that of 60 films picked at random 55 per cent were satisfactory, 25 per cent were questionable and 20 per cent partly so. Even under the code, he says, an exhibitor has to buy pictures he does not want.

While the 10 per cent cancellation privilege is supposed to be a help, it is being made to mean nothing, he holds.

Nathan Yamins, head of New England Allied, is of the opinion there exist "no greater racketeers" in the country than are to be found among producers. He asserts one cannot buy all the pictures one wishes, citing a futile effort to obtain a Mae West.

"No other industry," he says, "has to buy merchandise it cannot sell in order to get that which it can sell."

These expressions of opinion were made by Littlefield and Yamins at a meeting of the Massachusetts Women's Republican Club here.

West Coast Decisions

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—The grievance board here found for the defendants in two cases brought before it for decision today. One was that of Frances Wright Mellinger, Maywood, against Fox West Coast charging the latter with overbuying for its Alcazar in Bell, a neighboring town. The other was that of G. L. Smith and Lloyd Beard, operating the Cosmo, Glendale, against United West Coast and United Artists circuits, charging buying up all major product and complaining of inability to get films before 63 days' clearance had elapsed.

Gov't Names Mrs. Brokaw To Authority

was associated with Vanity Fair, three years as managing editor and one year as associate editor, leaving the magazine three months ago.

She is an essayist, political writer and short story writer and recently wrote a series of articles for Vanity Fair dealing with Hollywood. She is socially prominent. Mrs. Brokaw has been a government representative on the legitimate theatre code authority for the past six months. On the legitimate body she has the power of voting. However, such is not the case on Campi.

Mrs. Brokaw's first attendance at Campi will take place today, when she will meet Rosenblatt at authority headquarters. The division administrator will inform her of her duties before the regular authority session starts.

Mrs. Brokaw yesterday told MOTION PICTURE DAILY she intends to go deeply into the background of the picture business before she expresses her views on her new post. Whether she will retain her position with the legitimate code authority was unknown yesterday, but it is likely she will continue provided the meetings do not conflict.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Nov. 6, 1933, exclusively tipped off in Insiders' Outlook that one of the three impartial government representatives on Campi would be a woman. This was confirmed yesterday with the appointment of Mrs. Brokaw.

Fox Midwest Cleared By Des Moines Board

DES MOINES, May 17.—The grievance board here has passed on its first cases. Fox Midwest was defendant in two of them and was cleared in both. In one C. J. Jamison, Amuzu Theatre, Muscatine, had charged inability to secure second run films. The Fox Midwest houses involved were the Palace and Uptown. In the other, Richard Gaston of the Iowa, Fort Madison, charged the circuit's Strand and Orpheum there had overbought.

In the complaint brought by J. M. Anderson of the Princess, Boone, against the Central States Theatres Corp., the board decided there was no evidence to the effect that the defendant had overbought.

Delay California Case

Because of the many matters before the body for disposition, Campi will not take up today the complaint of James T. Rennie against Felstein & Dietrich on acquisition of the Oxnard, Oxnard, Cal.

The plaintiff claims his competitor leased the house while he was negotiating for it.

K. C. Indies Draw Up Own Zoning Plan

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—Independent subsequent run theatres have a committee at work drawing up a zoning schedule satisfactory from their point of view, which probably will be ready for presentation at a hearing before the clearance and zoning board next Tuesday.

The committee includes Stanley Schwartz, chairman; William Parson, Mrs. A. Baier, W. D. Fulton and E. S. Young.

No concerted action appears probable from Loew's Midland and the Tower, protesting downtown first runs, but protests are on file from the Midland and M-G-M. The Publix Newman, which also is hit by the new clearance, is not protesting as yet. It takes the position the situation cannot be stabilized until downtown first runs raise their admission scales.

Cuts Midwest Clearance

The clearance and zoning board has cut Fox Midwest protection at Atchison, Kan., from 180 days maximum to 60 days in favor of H. L. Dunnick, protesting independent subsequent, who operates the Madrid. Fox gets 60 days when Dunnick runs pictures at 15 cents following the two Fox houses. Protection varies according to the Madrid price.

Elmer C. Rhoden presented Fox protection schedules in other situations to prove the Atchison situation was equitable.

Several Wichita independents appeared at the hearing on complaint of O. F. Sullivan, West Theatre, Wichita, seeking a reduction of Fox Midwest protection. Rhoden agreed to confer with the independents at Wichita to formulate a clearance schedule. This will be reported back to the zoning board for a vote next Tuesday.

George S. Baker, manager of the Publix Newman, Kansas City, served for affiliated first runs in Rhoden's place, since Rhoden was a defendant. Harry Taylor, Columbia branch manager, was chairman.

Chicago Board for Present Schedule

CHICAGO, May 17.—At a closed meeting of the local clearance and zoning board today it was voted to continue present releasing and zoning systems in this territory for 1934-35 product deals.

The vote was four to two. Attending the session were Henry Herbel, Universal; Walter Immerman, B. & K.; Jack Rose, Rose Booking Circuit; Jack Miller, Chicago Exhibitors Ass'n., Aaron Saperstein, Allied of Illinois, and Judge Hugo Friend, impartial member of the board.

It is anticipated here that the board's decision will be widely protested. Six complaints already have been filed with more to follow. The board's action is viewed as a basis for a test as it throws the situation open to disgruntled exhibitors who are given 30 days in which to file protests.

Theatre Union Calls Strike On Loew, RKO

"gratification" over the manner in which, he said, the public was responding to picketing, asserting that as few as 25 to 50 admissions were sold in some of the picketed houses yesterday.

Loew's moved at once to deal with the strike. Managers were instructed to arrange for extra police protection at houses affected and were ordered to remain at their theatres day and night if necessary.

Houses known to be affected up to late yesterday included Loew's State, Metropolitan, Melba, King's, Pitkin and Premier; RKO's Albee, Orpheum, Kenmore, Franklin, 125th St. and 58th St. No estimate was available from the circuits as to the number of employees taking part in the strike. Local 118 estimated the number last night at 200. Circuits were replacing the strikers from employment waiting lists.

Board in St. Louis Decides Alton Case

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—In its first decision, the St. Louis clearance and zoning board ruled that, in the new buying season, the Princess and Grand, Alton, Ill., operated by Publix, shall have seven days' clearance over S. E. Pertle's Orpheum Theatre in Jerseyville, Ill. Heretofore, various film companies have granted the Publix houses from seven to 14 days over the Jerseyville house.

The board has asked advice from New York as to whether St. Louis or Chicago has jurisdiction over border line towns in central Illinois that obtain some of their films in St. Louis and others in Chicago. Two such cases are now pending before the board.

Trouble Brews Over New Orleans Boards

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—Trouble is still brewing over code boards which have been accused of laxity in meeting and getting down to business. According to Henry Lazarus, owner of the two Canal St. theatres and one suburban house, New Orleans will make history for a square deal for the independents, even if the matter has to be carried direct to President Roosevelt.

Saal Will Produce Under Select Name

William Saal, formerly with Tiffany, plans a series of 12 pictures under the brand name of Select Prod. The group will be made at the recently remodeled Biograph studio in the Bronx.

Consolidated is understood to be Saal's financial backer.

Demonstrates Sound

A demonstration of "High Fidelity" sound reproducing equipment developments was given yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock at the Palace before a group of exhibitors by RCA Victor.

Quigley Publications Open Their Own Bureau in London

LONDON, May 17.—Quigley Publications have opened their own British bureau at Remo House, with Bruce Allan, one of the most experienced journalists in British film field in charge.

The growing importance of English production in an international sense was a determining factor in Martin Quigley's decision to arrange that Motion Picture Herald, Better Theatres, Motion Picture Almanac and Motion Picture Daily have extended representation in London.

Arrangements made insure a full service of news regarding production activities in London studios and of all other happenings in the British field. A full range of Quigley Publications will be carried at Remo House, for the convenience of the British trade, and the bureau will also organize an information bureau for the use of British producers and others wishing to break into the American market.

As London representative, Allan will bring to the service of the Quigley organization an almost lifelong experience of motion pictures, covering production and distribution as well as film journalism in all its branches. Editor of The Kinematograph Weekly in 1926, he was previously director of publicity for Goldwyn, Ltd., F. B. O., Ltd., and for Rex Ingram's unit at Nice.

Blames Failure to Reduce Output on Men in Theatres

burden for what's wrong on the "big guys" in theatres.

"You can't blame the independents for this lack of leadership," he continued. "We have a right to expect that that should come from the men who call themselves the leaders of the business."

Because he insists the industry is making too many pictures, the big companies are slaves to release dates, because of his well known and oft-defined theory that no studio can turn out 30 or 40 and up pictures a year, Goldwyn, whose record as a producer of quality pictures, few in number, has long since been established, thinks the time has come when the fittest will survive and all others pass out by the roadside. "It may take one, two or three years," he predicts.

He deplores "copy cat" methods, efforts by competitors to crash in on lines newly hewn by those who have the nerve, plus the ability, to do so, and sums up that angle of his analysis by one remark which ties in with the swing toward costume pictures:

"The business will do what it always does. It will make them and make them until they run the cycle into the ground, then turn around in an attempt to find something new."

Goldwyn insists he is through with trade organizations. "I'm going to run my business in my own way from now on. I resigned from the Hays organization for a lot of reasons, but we won't go into that."

Immediately thereafter came a couple of pungent remarks on honesty and dishonesty of men at large and, in particular, of some of those in the picture business. Goldwyn put over his point with no amplification required.

Regardless of what happens elsewhere along the Hollywood front, he proposes to stick to his policy of few pictures a season in the belief he cannot make any more and make them well.

Independents Back To Discuss Rentals

Independent exhibitor leaders from as far west as the Mississippi meet today at the M. P. Club to discuss rentals and preferred playing time in connection with new season's sales.

This is the second meeting on the subject. The first was held at the same place about 10 days ago.

Drops Emanuel Complaint

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The complaint of the Grand Jackson Theatre against the Venice charging double featuring was dismissed today by the grievance board on the ground the case was outside the province of the code. Jay Emanuel, operator of the house, may appeal to Campi in New York. The ruling will not alter the plans of the independent exhibitors here to institute civil action to test the right of major distributors to forbid double featuring in contracts.

Advisory Decisions Reach Zoning Board

The New York clearance and zoning main board met yesterday and passed on recommendations of three advisory committees in connection with protests on present schedules.

Because all members of the board had not signed the decisions, they will not be released for publication until today.

Cooper Signs Soon as Unit RKO Producer

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—A contract with Cooper is expected to be signed in a day or two whereby he will become a unit producer for Radio, making four to six pictures a year. The rest of the setup at the studio will remain as is, with Pandro Berman remaining in charge of general production.

Elkhart Ushers Are Ordered Reinstated

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Reinstatement by the Elkhart Amusement Co. of nine ushers discharged last December from its Warner and Bucklen theatres, Elkhart, Ind., because of membership in a union was ordered today by the National Labor Board on the basis of testimony given at a hearing on the case last month.

In its decision the board referred to a contract prepared by the company last August, under which the ushers agreed to withdraw their application for a charter in the American Federation of Labor and form a house union for each of the theatres, and declared that "whether or not coercion was used to induce the ushers to sign it, it is clear that the employer sought to discourage the ushers from joining an outside union."

Services for Shea Saturday Morning

Many notables are expected to attend the funeral.

A memorial service for Shea will be held by the Buffalo Variety Club, of which he was honorary president, on May 28.

Although members of the staff of the Shea Theatres, Inc., and performers appearing on the stages of the circuit houses, were grief-stricken, performances today went on as usual at all the 12 spots which he controlled.

There will be no changes in the policies as result of his death and the organization will carry on as usual, Vincent R. McFaul, who was Shea's right-hand man, announced today. McFaul, who, in the capacity of vice-president and general manager, has been virtually carrying the burden of operating the theatres alone for several months, will step into Shea's place at the helm.

Tributes from leaders of the industry and from representatives of labor started pouring in as soon as word was flashed of the death of Shea.

Among statements from those in the film trade of his home town were:

Dave Miller, Universal manager, president Buffalo Film Board of Trade and Buffalo Variety Club: "I don't know any man in the show world, or any other phase of life, who was held in such great esteem as was Mr. Shea."

"Beloved," Says Michael

Jules H. Michael, chairman of the Buffalo zone, M. P. T. O.: "The city of Buffalo and the country at large have lost a showman who was beloved by every branch of the profession for many years."

Kenneth G. Robinson, manager Paramount exchange: "Mr. Shea's passing is deeply deplored by the entire industry, which claimed him as one of the pioneers of exhibition."

Harry T. Dixon, manager RKO Radio exchange: "Mr. Shea was the greatest showman I have ever known and I knew him for 25 years. His death comes as a great shock to me."

Edward K. O'Shea, manager M-G-M exchange: "I don't know what to say. I ran errands for him when I was a kid in school, then worked for him for four years when I was older. His passing leaves an awful void."

George H. Moeser, manager Hollywood Pictures exchange: "I think his death is one of the greatest losses possible to the industry."

Harry C. Davis, president Buffalo Musicians' Ass'n.: "The musicians lost one of their best friends in Mr. Shea. In the olden days, when managers used to cut down on orchestras, Mr. Shea used to build them up."

Elmer E. Smith, business agent, Buffalo stage employees' union: "In dealings with Mr. Shea over a period of 40 years, I always found him eminently fair and very good to us. We have lost an understanding friend."

Albert F. Ryde, business agent, Buffalo operators' union: "I am very much broken up over Mr. Shea's death. He was one of the greatest friends labor ever had. There never was a more fair man to deal with."

Looking 'Em Over

"Hollywood Party"

(M-G-M)

Selling angles have been crowded in wholesale and the story thread has been spun so fine as a result that it is hardly noticeable. Love interest is practically non-existent, but gags are almost as plentiful as names in "Hollywood Party."

Here are some of the names: Jimmy Durante, Jack Pearl, Lupe Velez, Polly Moran, Laurel and Hardy, Edgar Kennedy, George Givot, Ted Healy and his stooges, Charles Butterworth, June Clyde, and Mickey Mouse in a color sequence. It took a lot of ingenuity on the part of the scenario writers and gag men to find something for them to do.

Some of the gags are riots.

Durante, the "great Schnarzan," needs a new set of lions to make his jungle pictures draw, so does Givot. When the Baron Munchausen comes to town with his trained lions Durante throws a party for him. Givot horns in as a grand duke. Givot needs money so he makes love to Polly Moran, wife of Butterworth, a Texas oil millionaire. Durante tries the same tactics. In one scene he rolls down a flight of stairs with a lion.

Just a lot of hilarious nonsense—but what nonsense—on a background that looks as though it cost plenty of money.

"Friday, the 13th"

(Gaumont British)

This is described on the Westminster Cinema program as a story in six episodes. It is exactly that, with separate casts for each. As an example of unusual film technique it is interesting, but as entertainment it probably will be something less than satisfying for American audiences.

In the opening sequence, the principal figures of each episode are shown riding on a London bus in a rainstorm. To avoid crashing into a falling derrick, the bus driver swerves into a china store window. Then the tangled threads of the stories leading up to the presence on the bus of the various characters are unraveled by a series of scenes until finally the accident is reached again.

The crash has snuffed out the life of a blackmailer who is hounding a young couple; it has prevented a forgetful wife from making a bad investment for her husband; it has sidetracked a chorus girl on the way to a spite romance with her agent; it has broken up an illicit romance, and it has stopped a runaway wife.

The English accents are unrestrained. Some of the dialogue is juvenile. A confidence man says to a Scotland Yard detective: "Sticks and stones will break my bones, but names will never hurt me." That's one example.

The film is being distributed in this country by Gaumont British and was directed by Victor Saville for Gainsborough.

"Laughing Boy"

(M-G-M)

Oliver La Farge's "Laughing Boy," Pulitzer prize novel of last year, has been brought to the screen with Ramon Novarro and Lupe Velez as the Indian lovers. It is a simple tale with many touching moments. Most of the film transpires outdoors. The producers have taken full advantage of this fact to give the camera full scope, with the result that the production has tremendous pictorial beauty. The chief fault is that it is so slow-paced that it becomes a bit tedious.

Behind the tragic tale of the love of Laughing Boy for Slim Girl is a theme of two clashing civilizations, that of the white man and that of the Indian. Miss Velez lives in town, where she has free consort with white men, one of whom, a wealthy rancher (William Davidson), is her lover.

At a dance on the Navajo reservation one day she meets Novarro. They fall in love. Laughing Boy marries her in spite of the opposition of his people. But the old and the modern fail to mix. She pays visits to Davidson on the pretext of going to town to do some trading. The film takes a tragic turn when Laughing Boy discovers her in Davidson's arms during a Fourth of July celebration and kills her with an arrow intended for the man. She expires in his arms. The role gives Novarro a number of opportunities to exercise his singing voice.

W. S. Van Dyke directed.

Actors Cooperating On Guild Carnival

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Four actors' organizations, including the Thelians, Troupers and Dominos, will cooperate with the Actors' Guild on the three-day film stars' frolic. It opens tomorrow night at the Gilmore Stadium with Ann Harding as queen of the festival and Eddie Cantor as master of ceremonies.

Most of the players here will take part in the opening parade. A combination carnival, circus, rodeo and Mardi Gras will follow. The proceeds will go to the guild treasury.

Katharine Cornell, government representative on the grievance board: "I have always had the greatest admiration and respect for him."

Charles S. Otto, manager of the Erlanger: "I do not believe there is any one who can take his place. I knew him very well, and I liked him."

Business associates and friends of "Mike" Shea will pay final tribute to his memory in Buffalo tomorrow morning. A group leaves New York tonight for the services and will include: Harold B. Franklin, George J. Schaefer, Sau Dembow, Y. Frank Freeman and A. W. Smith, Jr.

Goldwyn Loses Suit

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Samuel Goldwyn lost his suit today against Warners for the services of Busby Berkeley, dance director. Superior Court Judge Frank Smith ruled that Goldwyn's contract with Warners was automatically voided when the former gave the latter 90 days, instead of the 45 days' notice for Berkeley's services stipulated in the agreement.

Delay Bankruptcy Bill

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Indications here today were that pending bankruptcy relief measures already passed by the House and Senate, but sent back to the House for conference will be tabled until the next session of Congress. The desire to adjourn the present session soon is given as the reason.

Loew Operating Poli

NEW HAVEN, May 17.—Poli-New England chain of 18 houses has gone under Loew operation, it was learned today with an announcement from Louis M. Sagal, general manager of the circuit, confirming reports of a switch in control.

Albany

ALBANY, May 17. — Chief Barker BUCKLEY made a special trip to New York to purchase furniture for the headquarters.

Property Man C. R. HALLIGAN reports the following applications for membership which will be submitted to the "Charter Barkers" next Monday: C. SMAKOWITZ, Warner Theatres; AL MARCHATTI, Universal booker; H. BEETY, Paramount booker; H. GRASSGREEN, Fox branch manager; C. C. GORDON and M. SCHULMAN, Olympic Theatre, Utica; HARRY and NEIL HELLMAN, Paramount Theatre, Albany.

The weekly King for a Day luncheons were suspended until fall at the luncheon held Monday in the De Witt Clinton Hotel. Barker SWARTOUT was king. A good turnout welcomed CHESTER J. WOODIN, ex-showman and otherwise known as "the man who knew Houdini." He revealed some of the tricks used by Houdini in addition to outlining some of the experiences he enjoyed with the magician. He was made an associate member.

BENNIE DARROW, M-G-M exploiter and barker from the Buffalo Tent, was a visitor. Barker HAROLD SMITH, manager of Station WOKO, was among those present and arrangements are now in the making to broadcast Variety activities in the local area.

Invitations for the formal headquarters opening are being mailed to the leading dignitaries in this community in addition to the officers of other tents. The date is May 26 and Chief Barker BUCKLEY wishes to use this medium to welcome all barkers.

Committees will be designated soon to formulate plans for a golf tournament and boat ride tentatively scheduled for July.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Tent No. 3 was host to the Reds and Giants ball teams at a special evening shindig, which replaced the regular noonday luncheon meeting. A floor show was staged, to say nothing of H. J. ("Pop") WESSEL and MIKE (Universal) SPANAGEL, who, in the absence of the fair sex, did a series of waltzes all their own. NAYLOR ("Swiftly") STONE and MAX ("Ringside") KATZ were the kings for a day.

HARRY MICHAELSON, of Pittsburgh, and HARRY HARRIS, who also hails from the city of smoke, were visitors at the local club.

MEYERS Y. COOPER, former governor of Ohio, and ALFRED DECKEBACH, previously city auditor, were honored guests at this week's meeting. NATE (Cecil B.) LA VENE and HAROLD (Ernst) BERNSTEIN are the regal duos.

Barker WILLIAM HILLIAR is receiving condolences from his friends over the passing of his mother, who resided in England.

The first supper-dance to be given May 19 in the Pavilion Caprice of the Netherland Plaza, for the benefit of the NVA, promises to be a complete sellout, according to NOAH SCHECTER, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Steward GEORGE EDDING has not only proven himself an expert "mixologist," but an excellent chef as well. His concoctions of various salads are something to write home about.

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, May 17.—About 100 loyal members gathered in the Variety Club for the regular Monday luncheon and entertainment which was provided by DICK DEUTSCH of Smith and Setron Printing Company, and WARREN WADE of radio Station WTAM, as "Kings for the Day."

All of the available WTAM radio talent was procured with the big carnival show, under the personal direction of WARREN WADE, as the piece de resistance. Among the guests of honor were Safety Director MARTIN LAVELLE and JUDGE SKEEL.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—The high spot of the club's social activities will be a dinner dance for the formal opening of the quarters in the Muehlebach Hotel. The affair is tentatively dated for May 26.

Chief Barker FRANK C. HENSLEY has named this committee in charge: ED SHANBERG, Fox theatres, chairman; HARRY TAYLOR, Columbia; BILL WARNER, Warners; JACK CAMERON, Erpi.

While the rooms were opened some time ago, the house committee, under Chairman PECK BAKER, is completing the furnishings and making improvements.

An extensive program of activity was tentatively lined up at a business meeting which brought out an attendance of about 60 barkers. It was definitely decided to hold a "Ladies' Day" and to sponsor a bowling league next season. Charitable projects are under discussion.

MAX ROTH, Columbia district manager, celebrated his birthday at the club at a table with Mrs. ROTH the other night.

TOMMY THOMPSON, RKO manager, is another barker who marked up a new birth anniversary during the week.

Variety Club Chatter

Due to the lack of time, G. L. TAYLOR, vice-president of First National Television, guest speaker at the luncheon at which BAKER, DICK BIECHELE and FRED MEYN were kings for the day, could not give his talk, but promised to come back soon.

BEV MILLER, new National Screen Service representative, is affiliated with the Indianapolis tent.

Among recent visitors have been: A. H. BLANK, with G. RALPH BRANTON, his general manager; M. B. SHANBERG, back in Kaysee for a brief stay; J. R. MCPHERSON, Chicago manager, National Screen Service; O. K. MASON, Hoisington, Kan., exhibitor; GEORGE HUNTER, Fox manager, Chanute, Kan., and MARTIN SCHIFF, Universal auditor.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, May 17.—HARRY H. GOLDSTEIN, local chief barker who has been appointed district manager out of Cleveland with Paramount will be tendered a farewell dinner Saturday night at the Tent Club.

HARRY KALMINE, zone manager for Warner and now first assistant chief barker, will fill the position of chief barker of the Pittsburgh Tent when GOLDSTEIN's resignation takes effect.

Among the barkers who attended the testimonial dinner given Superintendent of Police BEN MARSHALL were: HARRY H. GOLDSTEIN, MOE GLANZ, ART LEVY, JULES LAPIDUS, JOHN H. HARRIS, JAMES G. BALMER, GEORGE LAI, HAROLD C. LUND, M. J. GALLAGHER, ROBERT ROSUALI and M. R. GOLDMAN.

The Wednesday luncheon crowds are getting larger each week. Remodeling of the club will be necessary.

Barker E. HARVEY was recently transferred from radio station WCAE to station WISN in Milwaukee where he is now program director.

HARRY A. ROSS, president of the Ross Federal Service Inc. and CLAUD SAUNDERS, general manager of the same organization, are now associate barkers.

During the summer months the Variety Club publication The Barker, will be temporarily discontinued and all Variety Club Chatter will be found in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—A gang of barkers threw a party for LEON SCHLESINGER, zone manager for Warner in Philly. Threw it isn't being exact. The town was painted red, white and rye! Toastmaster was BILL HOPPE and winner of the beauty contest was TONY (Cuddles) METRECI.

Barker HENRY RIEGEL turned beneficiary Wednesday.

Barker SYLVERT SETRON's missus rushed back from Buffalo, where she helped attend her mother who was ill.

Barker AL ZIMBALIST is also eating regularly. His wife returned from Jersey, where she visited her sister, who was blessed with an event.

Barker CHRISTY WILBERT, one of the two worst poker players, travels single in about a week. His missus treks back to Pittsburgh and her folks.

Barker BILL HOPPE proudly exhibiting newly born MARY MARLENE Hoppe to the gang at the St. Louis Amusement office. The baby wound up checking box-office reports and demanding more activity at theatres. Following in Bill's footsteps.

HENRY BUDD carefully scrutinizing Culbertson's system at the club in hopes of pulling a surprise on Barkers TYSON, WILBERT, WIEGAND. No luck yet!

The forthcoming boat ride has everybody steamed. Tickets going like hotcakes and nice fat profit in view for the treasury.

Barker ALVIN WOOLF appointed to handle the legal phase of the Grand Central's newest city suit for showing "Elysia."

Barker DAVE KOMM really going after those boat ride ducats. According to the chairman in charge, he has committed himself to sell 600 tickets.

The inseparable twins, JACK HASETT and JACK BURNS giving the bar the twice-over and a highball the once over lightly.

Mr. and Mrs. PASCH, keepers at the club, have trained their poodle to shoot pool with the boys. This is a new form of diversion at the club for the barkers who like no competition.

Many of the barkers aren't aware of the fact that there is a 15c cocktail hour at the club every Sunday. It entitles them to drink so much for so little.

Mrs. CULLEN ESPY, the darling of the club, hasn't been at the club for so long the gang of boys and girls are forgetting what real fun is like!

At a meeting pastors of 400 Protestant churches here decided next Sunday to ask their congregations to sign pledges not to patronize "lewd" pictures, according to Rev. William P. Lovett, Grand River Baptist Church, chairman of the Motion Picture Committee. Rev. Ralph C. McAfee, secretary of the Detroit Council of Churches, said that churches have been endeavoring to influence the industry at the source but are now discouraged with that method.

It was intimated that the churches would have the national committee protest to Campi against block booking, which the churches see as the reason exhibitors play undesirable films.

Denver Pastor Gets 2,000 Film Pledges

DENVER, May 17.—Rev. Charles M. Johnson, assistant rector of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, let loose the local Catholic broadside against questionable films. First run pictures, playing this week, recommended by the pastor, were "House of Rothschild" at the Aladdin, "You're Telling Me" at the Denham, and "Such Women Are Dangerous," at the Orpheum.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Merry Frinks"

(Warner)

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Gagged to the limit, this one ably relates what goes on in the mad Frink household where each strives diligently to please himself first, exception being Mom Frink, who is the sacrificial offering. With an over-abundance of laugh cracks, the film is good program material and should do well.

Various idiosyncrasies of the Frink family make the comedy. The struggling mother, a supposedly sponging relative, a souse reporter, a Communist, a persnickerty grandmother, a Peck's bad boy and a youthful adutress are all housed under the same roof.

The comedy high spot is reached when the asserted sponging uncle cooks an unappetizing concoction, and when no one shows up to eat it downs it himself and kicks off from acute indigestion.

Mom is disgusted with the lack of appreciation of her efforts and leaves home to enjoy the luxuries of half a million, left by the uncle. She gets tied up with a gigolo and the family arrives on the scene just in time to save her self-respect and the bankroll.

Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Helen Lowell, Joan Wheeler and Frankie Darro all give fine performances in the top roles, with Herbert the standout, as usual.

Director Alfred E. Green gets the most out of the story, penned by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola.

"Midnight Alibi"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Richard Barthelmess as a gambler and gangster in love with Ann Dvorak, sister of a big shot, appears in an interesting melodrama blending virile action with old lace romance of yesterday supplied by the Old Doll, Helen Lowell.

Damon Runyon's story places Barthelmess on the spot. Amid a hail of bullets, he leaps a wall and lands in the garden of the Old Doll, a wealthy recluse. She reveals why the garden door is always open with a romantic flashback showing her romance as Barthelmess plays opposite Helen Chandler. Bashfully he tells of his romance with Miss Dvorak.

Later, in a gang conflict, Barthelmess is jailed and charged with murder. The Old Doll in court supplies his midnight alibi, which clears his way to freedom and the girl.

The combination of the underworld with "good fairy" values gives fine dramatic balance to the production and permits overlooking occasional plot inconsistencies. Barthelmess, reminiscent of "The Patent Leather Kid," turns in a neatly shaded job. Miss Lowell's performance is noteworthy. Alan Crosland directed.

The picture should fare nicely box-office wise.

"Call It Luck"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Produced undoubtedly as a programmer for neighborhood houses and subsequent runs, "Call It Luck" achieves the producer's intent. Another production purpose is served by the appeal the film will have for the English market.

Story tells of an English cabby who wins 25,000 pounds in an English sweepstake, with which money he proposes to start a foundation for retired cabmen. Coming to America with his niece on his first vacation, the cabby is fleeced of all his money by American confidence boys and is left with only a horse, "Sabre," pawned off on him as a thoroughbred. Entering "Sabre" in a turf classic, the confidence men, who parted him from his shekels, make book on his horse. Obstacles placed in the way of "Sabre" seek to prevent him from getting to the track to run, but he, nevertheless, arrives and the cabby, on the bandstand, plays a military charge on the bugle and "Sabre," knowing that call, races around and wins.

Herbert Mundin is the cabby. Pat Patterson and Charlie Starrett are the romantic interest. Gordon Westcott and Theodore von Eltz are the heavies. James Tinling directed from an original by Dudley Nichols and George Marshall, who also wrote the screen play. Adaptation is by Joseph Cunningham and Harry McCoy. Two song numbers by Richard Whiting are interspersed.

The racetrack sequence is a selling point for thrills and suspense. John Stone produced.

G-B Theatres Go to Owners As Operators

All of the capital stock of the new company will be retained by the Goldsteins, while the Class B will be sold to Lares Theatres Corp., a wholly-owned Paramount subsidiary.

Paramount Publix will lend $107,500 to Lares to perform its share of the reorganization agreement. G. B. will receive a 10-year Paramount picture franchise and title to a number of Olympia Theatres leaseholds and equipment will be delivered by Lares to the new Goldstein company in return for a release from all claims against Olympia, Paramount and G. B. by the Goldsteins.

Authorization for the Paramount Publix trustees to expend up to $150,000 for the settlement of $280,000 of claims against Olympia Theatres on the basis of 40 cents on the dollar was also granted yesterday by Referee Ehrhorn. The claims are those of "open account" creditors of Olympia's and are deemed by the trustees to be provable.

Settlement of the claims is regarded as speeding the reorganization of Olympia, Paramount's principal New England theatre operating subsidiary, now in bankruptcy. Of the $8,000,000 of claims against Olympia which are regarded as provable, claims of Paramount and subsidiaries aggregate $5,092,896. In addition, a $1,500,000 claim represents an inter-company liability filed against Olympia Operating Corp. by Olympia Theatres. Thus, there remain only slightly more than $1,400,000 of claims by outside creditors which are regarded as provable, a situation encouraging to early reorganization.

Referee Ehrhorn also approved the trustees' petition permitting Paramount Publix to advance $11,400 to Seneca Holding Corp., another wholly-owned Paramount subsidiary, for the payment of taxes and interest on mortgages of Times Square property adjoining the Criterion which is held by Seneca.

On the theory that the gobs like war, even on land, several Broadway theatres are getting ready to give it to them. The Mayfair will show "The Unknown Soldier Speaks"; Columbia will bring back "Forgotten Men" and the Globe will house "War's End."

The Criterion, pursuing it along different lines, will use the Ross-McLarnin fight pictures under a deal just closed with Garden Pictures.

A National Screen Service campaign to offset M-G-M's introduction of its own trailer service is accepted in the current issue of the latter company's sales department house organ, The Distributor, as a "challenge" which "only stimulates the desire to improve our product and inspires us to achieve complete coverage in trailer distribution."

Allied Men Line Up On Producing Plan

Allied States opened its campaign to line up independent buying power for its contemplated schedule of sponsored product at a meeting of 21 representatives of eastern independent exhibitor groups at the M. P. Club yesterday.

In return for playing time guarantees for the proposed Allied pictures, the organization will give its support nationally to the campaign in opposition to sales policies involving designated play dates, high percentages and fixing of minimum admissions, which was originated two months ago by the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware and the I. T. O. A., New York, it was reported following yesterday's meeting.

A meeting designed to provide a final tally of the independent playing time available for Allied's planned schedule and to further the sales policy protest was set for next Tuesday at the Astor. The meeting will be attended by committees named by various independent exhibitor organizations throughout the country.

Yesterday's meeting represented "73 1/3 per cent of the country's independent buying power," according to a joint statement issued by Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied, and L. F. Blumenthal of the I. T. O. A.

Theatre Orchestra At Shea's Funeral

BUFFALO, May 18.—A 40-piece string orchestra composed of musicians from his theatres will play "Andante Cantabile" at the funeral of Michael Shea in St. Joseph's Cathedral here today. They will be directed by Lou Breese, Shea's Buffalo orchestra conductor, and Gertrude Lutzi, soprano at the same theatre, will sing "Jesus Is Calling."

The funeral mass will be celebrated by Mgr. Charles E. Duffy. Active bearers will be associates in the McNaughton Realty Corp., founded by Shea 30 years ago to handle his theatre properties. They will be Vincent R. McFaul, Lester F. Gilbert, Thomas D. Powell, James Franklin, Nelson Hubbell, Fred Kreitzer, Ansley Sawyer and Harold B. Franklin.

Shea's last words, addressed to his daughter, Mrs. Emile Giffoniello, were typical of his fighting philosophy. "Let's say some prayers," she said. "All right, say some hard ones," the theatre magnate replied, and passed on.

All downtown theatres will be closed until 3 P. M. tomorrow.

Loew Operation of Poli Houses Starts

NEW HAVEN, May 18.—Loew operation of the Poli chain went into effect Tuesday.

Operating control of the Poli theatres in New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport, Meriden, Norwich, Waterbury, Springfield and Worcester was divulged to MOTION PICTURE DAILY, following months of conflicting reports, by Nicholas M. Schenck on his return from Hollywood a number of weeks ago.

Run of Three Days Settles Release Date

Executive Secretary John C. Flinn reported he had received hundreds of requests from exhibitors who are willing to sign assents. The matter was turned over to a committee on code compliance, made up of S. R. Kent, Ed Kuykendall and J. Robert Rubin.

Flinn stated he had received many checks from exhibitors he had not sent bills, some of them declaring they were of the belief that when they signed the President's re-employment agreement this took care of the code assent. Some of the exhibitors stated they were misinformed on the signing of compliance forms.

At the end of the third week since bills were sent out for the first half-year's assessment, 4,197 theatres have paid $42,279. More than 1,000 exhibitors have sent checks in during the last week. A second notice is being sent out.

A plan for allocation of $180,000 to be proportioned between distributors and producers has been submitted to Campi and is now being studied by a committee consisting of Harry Warner, S. R. Kent and Nathan Yamins. The plan may be approved and announced at the May 31 session.

A report on the Hollywood extra standing committee will be made public by Major Joseph R. O'Donovan on the coast shortly. It was approved by Campi yesterday.

Indianapolis Board Ends All Free Shows

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—Bans on non-theatrical accounts and lotteries were ordered in the first three cases before the Indianapolis grievance board.

The non-theatrical decision was a result of a complaint filed by Charles R. Metzger, attorney for Associated Theatre Owners. In the decision exchanges were ordered to stop serving promoters of free merchants' street shows, free city park shows and other non-theatrical accounts.

R. L. Rakes of the New Princess, Sturgis, Ky., was ordered to stop distributing tickets good for a nickel rebate. The complaint was filed by the Ken-Mo Amusement Co.

The lottery case was a complaint of Harry and Jacob Markum against the Mecca and Stratford Theatres. It was alleged they gave away baskets of food to holders of lucky number tickets. The practice was ordered stopped.

Two Para. Code Changes

Harmon Yaffa's grievance against Warners for alleged refusal to adjust a 1932-33 contract on two pictures, one with Edward G. Robinson and the second with Ruth Chatterton. The plaintiff contends he paid $200 more than the contracts provided when the pictures were switched from one classification to another.

Circuits Declare Strike a "Fizzle"

12 or 15 houses being picketed by Local 118, Theatre & Amusement Employees Union.

C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's stated that only 53 service employees of both circuits had answered the local's strike order on Thursday. Yesterday, he said, the only additional service workers to walk out were approximately 50 janitors employed by a cleaning contractor and assigned to the Radio City Music Hall and Center. No service men employed directly by the circuits joined the strike yesterday, according to Moskowitz.

A number of the houses being picketed by the local have no staff members participating in the strike, Moskowitz said, and cited the State, which, he declared, has its full staff at work. Denying that business has been injured by the picketing, as asserted by Charles C. Levey, secretary of the local, Moskowitz said: "We've been picketed by one union or another for the past five years. If picketing had any effect on patronage we'd be out of business by now."

Loew's reinstated four cleaners last night who applied for their jobs after walking out the preceding day. Only 12 porters and cleaners of the 525 employed by Loew's answered the strike call, and since the reinstatements last night only eight of the 12 remain out, Moskowitz said.

Campi Rule Sought On "Bargain Hour"

CLEVELAND, May 18.—It is understood the grievance board has asked Campi for an opinion as to whether or not a 6:30 to 7:30 P. M. bargain hour is an unfair trade practice, before rendering a decision in the case of Frank Gross, Grand Theatre, against Sam Barck, Market Square Theatre. The case was heard by the board last Monday. Decision was reserved.

Barck, who plays independent pictures under a 10-cent admission contract, charges a dime from 6:30 P. M. to 7:30 P. M., 15 cents thereafter.

The case of Cedar Lee Theatres Co. vs. Loew's Ohio Theatres and Warners, protesting first run protection, has been adjourned to tomorrow by the clearance board.

Decision Reserved On Appeal by FWC

board ordering the circuit to turn over 20 pictures to Simon M. Lazarus of the Garfield, Alhambra, Cal.

Campi, according to the code, has 15 days after hearing the appeal to hand down a decision. The Los Angeles board ordered F. W. C. to turn over to the plaintiff five Paramount pictures, four M-G-M's, five Fox and eight Warner-First Nationals.

Charles R. Buckley, attorney for F. W. C., contended that of the 225 pictures purchased by the circuit for its Alhambra and El Ray it needed 208, excluding the 10 per cent cancellation privilege. He stated that Lazarus had available for his house 49 from Columbia, 42 from Universal, 18 from Allied, 40 from All Star, 30 from Majestic, 40 from Cooperative, 12 from Principal and 52 from Radio.

The F. W. C. attorney stated that in August of last year the Alhambra went to dual attractions a week after the Garfield. E. A. Alpers, buyer for F. W. C., stated that a good deal of the product buys were closed after the Alhambra went to doubles. During May, June, July and early August the houses in southern California were on a single policy, which was dropped late in August.

Since Lazarus did not show up or have an attorney on hand to defend his case, Buckley and Alpers were queried by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, Nathan Yamins, Charles L. O'Reilly, Neil Agnew, Walter Vincent and Leslie E. Thompson on policy and product buys for the competing Alhambra houses. Rosenblatt however, had the report of the impartial member of the Los Angeles grievance board before him and checked up the facts.

Principal Theatres, in which F. W. C. has a 25 per cent interest, was represented by William Powers. Principal was a co-defendant in the action.

The Campi session was adjourned until May 31, when a decision will be handed down. At this meeting Yamins will be chairman.

Texas Allied Hails Frels Code Victory

DALLAS, May 18.—The decision of the grievance board upholding Rubin Frels, vice-president of Allied Theatre Owners of Texas, in his complaint that the Jefferson Amusement Co. made it impossible for him to get product for his house at Victoria, is hailed as a significant victory for the cause of Texas independents in a message to the members of the organization bearing the signature of H. A. Cole, president.

The verdict is described as "our first foothold toward real independence" and as "the first ray of sunshine in 10 years of battle for the independents." Exhibitors are told the ruling ought to bring them to the realization that "continued effort and a united front is the only thing in this world that will ever bring you a square deal."

Phila. Assents 502

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Five hundred and two theatres have signed the code in the territory served out of here, according to The Exhibitor, which regards this as "a good record."

Phila. Talks Of Suit Over Doubles Ban sought against the practice with the probable arguments of collusion being used.

The case, first before the grievance board, was started last week when Emanuel charged the Venice, owned by Charles Stiefel, with double-features in his territory, whereas his own contract forbade it. Specific product mentioned was Fox and United Artists. Emanuel stated that he has a verbal agreement with Fox and a contract agreement with U. A. against the practice, but claimed that he had the equal right to double feature if his opposition could.

Meanwhile, local independent exhibitors, sensing a possibility of definite action on the double-feature problem, joined to secure ex-Congressman B. M. Golder to act as defence counsel for Stiefel.

At the hearing Golder cross-examined Emanuel to elicit the information that six major companies in the territory—Fox, United Artists, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO and Warners—had contract stipulations against double features. Pointing out that the code had no specific ruling on double features, Golder intimated that while the question was of vital importance in the industry, it lay outside the Grievance Board's jurisdiction. If so, the way is prepared for the launching of the civil suit.

Emanuel hinted that this would be done. He declared that he was not in favor of indiscriminate double-feature programs, but believed that it was a good practice in the case of weaker product.

Frisco Subsequents Seek Clearance Cut

in opposition to F. W. C., which seeks an extension of the 56 days to 90 days. Among the complainants, it is reported, will be the Golden State and Nasser Brothers' San Francisco Theatres, Inc.

The grievance board yesterday rendered a decision against the Casino, managed by Irving Ackerman, finding that the house had violated the code by reducing admission prices through premiums, lottery and cash prizes on five counts. The complainant was the Davies Theatre, managed by M. L. Markowitz.

N. Y. Board Denies Three Zoning Cases

The New York clearance and zoning board has denied three protests for relief from present schedules. The first protest was that of the Washington, Washington, N. J., against the Wilmer & Vincent house in Easton, Pa., 13 miles away. The second was that of the Little Picture House against the Plaza and Little Carnegie.

The board also ruled that the Luxor requests for elimination of Loew's Grand protection be denied since it was declared the Grand is a first run deluxe house while the Luxor is a second run at lower admissions and not in the same category.

Court Grants Hearing Upon Fox Met. Plan

the plan was scheduled for May 26 by the court.

The bondholders' committee stated earlier this week that it would bid the full amount of its $10,000,000 holdings against any other plan or cash bid made by an outside source. This stand is regarded as a virtual "shut-out" of other bidders, among whom Walter Reade, Warners and a third unidentified group were listed as prospects through having made inquiries as to the results of operations of the circuit during the two years of its receivership. The inquiries, apparently, were made to determine the basis of a bid at foreclosure.

Influenced by Profit Gain

Improved earnings of the Fox "Met" circuit during recent months explain the stand of the bondholders' committee against accepting any outside bid for the properties. A spokesman for the committee pointed out yesterday that the bonds are now selling at 35 cents on the dollar, as compared with five cents on the dollar at the time of the receivership, and stated that even higher values are expected within the year.

David W. Kahn, downtown attorney, has advised the court that he is prepared to offer $3,000,000 cash for the circuit at foreclosure. Beyond declaring that his clients "are not now operating theatres but are qualified by past experience to do so," Kahn refuses to discuss the identity of those whom he represents.

Under the bondholders' reorganization plan the Fox "Met" houses will be bid in by their committee and a new company organized to take title and lease the houses to Skouras and Randforce, the present operators for the receiver. Fox "Met" bonds would be exchanged for new bonds and stock of the new company. Control would rest with Sidney R. Kent, Fox president; Herbert Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co.; Richard C. Hunt, attorney, and the president of the new company.

August Date Fixed On New FWC Setup

Thursday and next Tuesday Charles Skouras, another trustee, will leave for Los Angeles accompanied by Charles A. Buckley and William Powers, attorneys for F. W. C., and William Carman, counsel for the trustees.

Completion of the plans will be handled on the west coast and presented to Referee S. W. McNabb on the return of the Skouras party next week. No change is expected in the operating setup of the subsidiary companies.

Lawton Reopens Mecca

Stanley Lawton has reopened the Mecca at 14th St. and Avenue A on a double feature basis. The house has been dark for some time.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Black Cat"

(Universal)

Those who like their horror spread thickly enough to keep their hair standing on end—and there seemed to be many who did at a Roxy matinee yesterday—probably will go for this. It begins to get mysterious about the time a honeymoon couple are seated in a compartment of the Orient Express out of Paris and it doesn't lose any of its creepiness until a modernistic house built on a Hungarian fortress begins to blow up.

Some place on the Hungarian countryside a bus goes into a ditch and Bela Lugosi takes the honeymooners, David Manners and Jacqueline Wells, to Boris Karloff's house.

Lugosi, it develops, is seeking revenge on Karloff for stealing his wife after the World War. He is a strange individual with a fear of black cats and a penchant for hypnotizing women. Karloff is also an odd character with a pleasant habit of gazing at the embalmed bodies of women he has loved. Both of them want Miss Wells. They play chess for her.

There is one mild comedy sequence when Albert Conti and Henry Armetta arrive to inquire about the auto accident, but the rest of the film is devoted exclusively to a battle of two mad men for a sane woman and the struggle of her husband to get her out of the place.

Edgar Ulmer, who directed, got whatever creepy values he could out of the story.

Philadelphia Cuts Suburban Clearance

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—The clearance and zoning board has handed down its first decision, in the case of the Broadway Theatre, Bridgeport, against the Norris Amusement Co., operators of three theatres in Norristown.

Bridgeport is on the outskirts of Norristown, and Michael Egnol complained that the 42 days clearance of the second run Norris houses over the Broadway was unfair. He asked that it be reduced to 28 days after the Norris, 14 after the Garrick, mainly second run, and 14 after the Grand, second run.

The board decided to go back to the agreement of a few years ago, giving first run Philadelphia 28 days clearance over first run Norristown, first run Norristown, 28 days over second run in the territory, and second run, seven days over subsequent runs. This decision cuts the Egnol house to 35 days maximum instead of 42.

Matinee Deadlines Are Set at 5 P. M.

NEW HAVEN, May 18.—Five o'clock is set as the deadline for matinee prices in a decision handed down by the clearance and zoning board. As a result of a complaint filed by the Pequod Theatre, the Lyric and Garden are put in the 10-cent class because their 10-cent scales run after 5 o'clock, and the State is put in the 15-cent class.

Exchanges are ordered not to serve the two first named houses until 180 days after first run showings and to withhold film from the State for 90 days. The order becomes effective July 1.

To Complain on Meeting

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—Allied independents plan to complain to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi, that Monday's code board meeting was irregular on the ground it was not given publication. The complaint will also be made that the sessions are much too secret.

Anticipating Flood, Cincy Has 1 Plaintiff

CINCINNATI, May 18.—Despite the fact that many exhibitors, particularly independents, throughout this territory claimed to have had cases for airing before the grievance board during the time the code was in process of formation, only one case has thus far been presented since opening of the code board offices a few weeks ago.

No reason is assigned for this seeming apathy, although the opinion is advanced by some that exhibitors are holding off until the start of the new season before getting into action with their grievances.

Move to End Duals On Coast Hits Snag

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—Announcement that the Hill Street, one of four downtown first runs, will go to duals June 1 today was causing much concern to those fighting for the elimination of doubles. It is feared the house's action may endanger the success of the movement to end twins, which 90 per cent of independent exhibitors are backing.

Two Salt Lake Decisions

SALT LAKE CITY, May 18.—Two decisions have been handed down by the local boards. In one the clearance and zoning decided against the Inland Amusement Co., Nampa, Idaho, in its complaint against the Menmar Amusement Co.'s Publix, Boise, Idaho, concerning seven days' clearance in favor of Boise first runs over Nampa first runs. In another case the grievance board upheld Joe George of the Rio, Idaho Falls, Idaho, in his complaint against Fox West Coast, citing the Paramount in the same town. Inability to obtain films was alleged.

Finishing Fascist Film

David Calcagni, president of Integrity Film Corp., expects to have "The Fascist Parade" ready for release in about three weeks. The picture is now nearing completion.

M-G-M Sees "Challenge" On Trailers

January. In a letter to exhibitors over the signature of Herman Robbins, National Screen president, which is reproduced in the M-G-M house organ, exhibitors are told that "there is no sense in being stampeded now into contracting for something that will not be delivered to you for the next eight months."

The letter states further that National Screen "will continue to make, with or without the cooperation of M-G-M, trailers on all their productions . . . as we are now making them on Warner productions."

"Between now and next Jan. 1," the National Screen letter states, "you will be advised thoroughly of the entire trailer situation—what rights you may have under the code against being forced to buy trailers from the distributor in order to get his product—and be in a position to make up your mind for your own best interests."

Replies to Letter

Replying to the letter, the M-G-M house organ sets forth that the company's objective in making its own trailers is to improve them and adds that after Jan. 1 "no trailer service will be able to furnish the exhibitor with anything but bootleg M-G-M trailers which will not meet the requirements of exhibitor showmen."

"There will be no duplication of our trailer service by anyone else," the M-G-M reply continues. "We will not make synchronized trailers. Outsiders will not make talking trailers for M-G-M product."

"Why should not M-G-M be as much concerned about good trailers as about good posters?" the publication asks. "Why should it be any more tolerant of indifferent accessories than indifferent productions? Why should it spend millions of dollars on a program of features and then abandon to outsiders the responsibility of deciding what the advertising values of the product are?"

"We do not advise any exhibitor to sign up for another trailer service, but we do point out that if he desires to promote M-G-M pictures adequately it will be best to have M-G-M trailers. With respect to costs, the weekly dollar or so extra which may be involved in some cases will be easily absorbed by the additional people passing through a theatre's doors."

Joins Consolidated; Circuit Will Expand

Henry Siegel yesterday joined the Consolidated circuit as assistant to Lawrence Bolognino, president. The association signals an expansion program in Greater New York by the chain which currently operates about 20 theatres on 8th Ave. and in the Bronx.

Siegel, well-known locally, was an independent exhibitor prior to joining Paramount as Brooklyn branch manager. He resigned the latter post about Jan. 1.

JOHNSON HOTLY ATTACKS DARROW CODE CRITICISMS

Virtual Rewriting for Code Is Sought by Review Body

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Virtual rewriting of the film code is demanded by the National Recovery Review Board in its report to the President which, with Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's reply and a lengthy analysis of the board's investigation by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, was made public tonight by the White House.

In addition to the film code, seven other codes investigated by the board are covered in the 154-page report submitted to the President. The recovery administration's answer is of about the same length. Also made public, were a brief "supplementary report" signed by Chairman Clarence Darrow and William O. Thompson, recommending a transfer of fact-finding and enforcement work from the NRA to the Federal Trade Commission; an equally brief response by General Johnson, denominating the suggestion as a choice "between Fascism and Communism," and

Full Text of Darrow's Code Recommendations

WASHINGTON, May 20.—What the National Recovery Review Board proposes by way of widespread and drastic changes in the film code, as recommended in the Darrow report to the President:

Article I, paragraph 10: Eliminate the final sentence, reading:

"The mere ownership, however, by a producer or distributor of any theatre premises leased to an exhibitor shall not constitute any such exhibitor an 'affiliated exhibitor'."

Article II: Eliminate the entire article and substitute the following:

"1. A code authority of the motion picture industry constituted as in this Article provided and herein referred to as the 'Code Authority' shall be the agency for the administration of this Code, and shall have such powers as shall be necessary therefor, together with such other powers and duties as are prescribed in this Code.

"2. (a) The Code Authority shall be constituted as follows: Five representatives of affiliated Producers, Distributors and Exhibitors; five representatives of unaffiliated Producers, Distributors and Exhibitors; and five representatives to be chosen by the President, who shall be known as Government representatives. Each member of the Code Authority shall be entitled to one vote, and all questions considered by the Code Authority shall be decided by a majority vote of the members thereof. Not more than two of the members of the Code Authority representing unaffiliated producers, distributors and exhibitors shall be producers or distribu-

"Not in Good Faith," Is Administrator's Sarcastic Retort

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Charging that the National Recovery Review Board "is not in good faith" and that it assumes, "after a few hours of cavalier inquiry and prejudiced and one-sided testimony, to pass upon codes upon which we have spent days and weeks of inquiry and negotiations," Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson tonight replied to the report filed with the President by Chairman Clarence Darrow.

Asserting that, in his judgment, the board "has missed a great opportunity for a real public service" and that, "as it is now acting, it is of no service to anybody—it is a political sounding board," Johnson referred specifically to the film report and the attack upon Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

"It impugns the motives of the division administrator in the motion picture code," he said, "because he formerly worked for an attorney who has

H. S. Brown Heading New Producing Firm

Hiram S. Brown has formed Fortune Film Corp., of which he is president. The company will produce a number of films with actual production slated to get under way sometime in August.

Brown is being backed by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Admissions Must Go Up, Says Zukor

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Theatre admissions must be increased because at their present sub-normal level they fail to yield a sufficient return to the exhibitor, who, in turn, is not able to pay adequate film rentals, believes Adolph Zukor, head of Paramount.

"The distributor does not get a proportionate share of film cost from subsequent runs because their admission prices are too low," Zukor said. "There's no sense selling a picture for a dime that costs 15 cents. We have to depend on the first runs to carry the load, and this puts them in a difficult spot.

"The argument that the public will not attend theatres unless the price

Impartials Next to Get Alternates

Impartial members of code boards will have alternates in the event the originally designated members are not able to attend meetings. Campi has sent out letters to secretaries of all boards to have members submit three names from each territory. These names will be sent to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt upon arrival.

Since Rosenblatt approves impartial members, he will also pass on the alternates. The names recommended by board members will be checked as the men now serving were before they were officially announced.

Several reasons are advanced for naming impartial alternates. First is

Insiders' Outlook

MUCH, not all, of the energies turned loose currently around the executive offices on the Radio lot in Hollywood are being concentrated on a search for properties that will eventuate into five big pictures for 1934-35. "If we can do it, and it's a job, we feel we will be going places," Ben Kahane, watchman over the hazardous business of making pictures, told us. "At that, it's a job and, if you don't happen to think so, you should know the day and night oil-burning task which that has been." . . .

Five big ones out of a planned 50 may not sound like much of a percentage. Yet distributors in other years have sold millions in trailing product on the strength of merely one knockout attraction, provided they were lucky enough to get it at the outset of each season. They can do it again. This explains why, and naturally so, every producer puts his best foot forward as each new selling season draws near. It also explains why the procedure of other years will prevail this season again. . . .

Because in Hollywood, a favorite and never determined question is what to do about numbers of pictures, we asked Kahane what he thought. This is what he had to say: "I believe every producer of responsibility in Hollywood is eager, even anxious, to cut down. On the one hand, there is the argument that if each of the major companies produced less pictures each season, the casting, director and producer problems would be correspondingly reduced and, with more time to concentrate on fewer productions, an improvement in quality should result. . . .

"Furthermore, if all producers considerably cut down, the present situation of too small a supply of available talent for the demands of the industry might be reversed, which would enable producers to get better talent at a lower cost. On the other hand, opponents of the plan point out that theatres could not get along without the number of pictures presently produced in Hollywood and they cannot perceive how extending the runs will solve the problem. As you know, proponents of the plan argue there is no reason why theatres now playing a full week policy cannot play pictures for two weeks, and theatres playing a split week policy cannot play pictures a full week, and so on" . . .

Kahane subscribes to the idea that longer runs would furnish the answer. He foresees the possibility, on such a basis and undoubtedly by giving the long runners additional protection, of cutting rentals at subsequent runs on the theory bigger money would swell the coffers of distributors from the major engagements. His slant is that any substantial product curtailment in Hollywood must be determined by the theatre end of the business. Seeing nothing on the horizon to presage any such change, his conclusion naturally is the business of turning out pictures will stay as it has for many years past. . . .

Metro-Goldwyn's report with its startling increase in the net for the first half of 1933-34 reminds of the now famous, one-line thought of Nick Schenck's. You will remember it went on, cryptically and decidedly to the point: "There is nothing in the picture business which good pictures cannot cure." Schenck holds the respect of his organization in Loew's and M-G-M because he knows when a picture is good or bad. His outfit knows he knows and understands there is no point in trying to kid the boss. Yes may be a pleasant word to some. It is to Schenck along with the others, but only when it fits. . . . Report Is Termed "Prejudiced" clients in that field, and it asks his removal. Nobody here has rendered more public-spirited, disinterested and intelligent service than this division administrator."

In a review of the report by General Counsel Donald R. Richberg, the record of the film hearings by the review board is declared to be "a revelation of its methods."

"The board reports that the deputy administrator 'was invited to testify but refused to do so.' The record, including a letter from the deputy administrator, shows that he not only offered to testify, but to make all his records available to the board.

Tells of Care in Drafting

"The code was assented to in writing by 9,039 members of the industry," Richberg pointed out. "21 complaining witnesses were heard by the board, including 15 out of 7,500 theatre operators. In contrast to 14 hours and 20 minutes of 'hearings' by the board, NRA spent over 1,200 hours on the drafting of the code, heard 206 witnesses and obtained a code acceptable, not only to the industry, but approved by all the advisory boards of NRA representing industry, labor, consumers, economic research and law.

"The board acted solely on the basis of a disorderly mess of unsworn and largely false testimony of a few malcontents (many of them discredited by previously illegal practices), covering only eight out of 288 subdivisions of the code, and arrived at sweeping conclusions upon the entire code founded on obvious ignorance of the code, of the industry and the law.

"The detailed analysis of the board's action shows conclusively that the investigation was carried on with utter disregard for fair play and that the conclusions of the board are unworthy of the slightest consideration."

Declaring that anyone "adequately informed concerning the industry" could learn without difficulty that the code is of incalculable benefit to small enterprises, Richberg asserted that "a return to the 'savage, wolfish' competition advocated by the board" would mean simply an enlargement of monopolistic power sanctioned by law.

Refused to Hear Facts

"The refusal of the board even to receive correct information is shown in its rejection of the brief filed by seven producing-distributing companies," he concluded. "The board specifically agreed to the presentation of testimony through this brief—since all other testimony was unsworn—and then disregarded it on the announced basis that since these major producers—distributors 'could have appeared and testified' their brief should not be given serious consideration.

"Thus, by giving no attention to the

From Johnson to Darrow

Washington, May 20.—Defending the machinery and the deliberations which led to formulation of the film code, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, in typical "cracking 'em down" language, tonight charged in his reply that the findings of the National Recovery Review Board were predicated on the following:

"1.—Flagrant misinterpretations of the provisions of the code.
"2.—False unsworn statements of a few discredited complaining witnesses.

"3.—Misstatement and deliberate evasion of rulings made by the courts.

"4.—Bias and prejudice of the board's members resulting from an ex parte hearing or from preconceived notions.

"5.—Sympathy for the 'chiseler' and 'kicker,' who for selfish reasons seeks to destroy the National Recovery Program.

"6.—Anticipated fears and forebodings actually disproven by past and present conduct.

"7.—Ludicrous counter-proposals which are completely oblivious to the reality of the situation."

vast files of information of the NRA, or the principal testimony offered in support of the code, and by refusing to listen to the exceptionally well-informed deputy administrator, the board was able to arrive at findings contrary to fact and conclusions contrary to any intelligent opinion."

Analysis of the board's report by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt goes into every detail of the development of the code and the hearings before the Darrow group.

"If the report of the National Recovery Review Board is intended to be a mere expression of opinion concerning the motion picture code, the members who signed it are entitled to their opinion," he declares in his opening statement.

"If the report is intended to be a conclusion based on testimony and findings of fact, it can be easily demonstrated that it is wholly unwarranted, unjust, prejudiced and ignorantly contrived."

Reviews Report

The report is composed of three parts, it is pointed out, the first a formal legal conclusion that the code is designed to promote monopolies and oppress small enterprise, which is unsupported by any factual basis, and the second a number of recommendations which are "unscientific, inaccurate, unfair and inequitable" and frequently based on "flagrant misconceptions" of the provisions of the code and many of them "founded in the biased views" of the board unsupported by a scintilla of evidence in the record.

"The third is the acceptance by the board of the malicious, previously disproven, and slanderous attacks upon the deputy administrator, and a recommendation that he be removed. The report itself does not even pretend to justify this recommendation, which is totally unsupported by even the slightest proof of any kind and is based solely upon the vicious mouthings, innuendoes and conjecture of a few disgruntled and disappointed enemies of the National Industrial Recovery Act and particularly of the motion picture code."

Outlines Negotiations

Outlining the long negotiations leading up to the code, Rosenblatt declares the document to be "the fruition of profound study, limitless patience, tolerant sacrifices by the respective groups of some of their previously unyielding positions."

On the other hand, the hearing before the review board "was not even a 'star chamber' proceeding," he asserts. "It was no proceeding at all. The statements of a few discredited and disgruntled witnesses, some of whom have been found guilty by the Supreme Court of New York of being violators of the code provisions with respect to labor, and who, it will be demonstrated later, brazenly misstated facts, constitute the basis of the report.

"None but complaining witnesses were heard, and of 7,500 theatre operators in this country only 15 appeared before the board to give unsworn statements.

"Throughout the hearings before the National Recovery Review Board, counsel for an exhibitor association which had from the first instant insisted that the NRA did not apply to its members and which has attacked the NRA in the courts and which has used every despicable means to obstruct and sabotage the President's program, sat beside counsel for the National Recovery Review Board and virtually engineered the entire proceedings. It was he who urged and probably wrote the recommendations for changes in the code—recommendations, many of which after careful consideration had been rejected by independent exhibitors themselves.

Statements Held False

"Flagrant misstatements of fact were anxiously devoured by the review board, ex-parte accusations were accepted as the solemn truth despite volumes of testimony at hand to disprove them. Prejudice and factionalism were poured into the ears of the board and were accepted in lieu of the impartial findings of months of investigation made by the National Recovery Administration on the same subjects."

Reciting the conferences between the acting chairman of the code authority and Counsel Lowell Mason of the board, which led to an agreement that a statement was to be filed in lieu of personal appearances of Code Authority members, Rosenblatt revealed that immediately upon the filing of the statement "and in violation of the arrangement" the board held that it would not be considered as evidence but would be treated merely as a demurrer.

Complainants Unchallenged

"In other words," Rosenblatt comments, "the statements of complaining witnesses were to be deemed to be true and uncontradicted despite positive, incontrovertible evidence in the answering statement that representations of fact made by these witnesses were absolutely false."

Citing the report itself, Rosenblatt declares it is admitted that a great majority of the code provisions are in favor of the exhibitors, takes no issue with statements that the testimony of witnesses was misleading and false, and does not question the accuracy of statements of the number of claims for breach of contract filed against the complaining exhibitors, but comments only that "this information is obviously put in for the purpose of discrediting the testimony of these witnesses."

"So it was," the division administrator asserts. "And one would imagine that the National Recovery Review Board would be interested in discovering that its witnesses had been discredited."

Reviewing the testimony submitted during the hearings, Rosenblatt cites various statements of witnesses that they could not get product and asserts that such was not the case, giving the number of pictures they had contracted for with the various companies at the time of their statements. He also charged that many of the witnesses were known as violators of contracts, that others had been prosecuted for attempting to violate the code and that others had been named in various court proceedings.

The recommendations of the Darrow report are discussed at length, the actual effect of the provisions under scrutiny is explained and the reasons and conditions leading to their adoption outlined.

The make-up of the code authority is defended, and the board is charged with "irresponsibility" in making a blanket charge, without any support, that several of the authority members are flying false colors. The method of selecting members of boards is outlined and argument presented to show the industry as a whole does not feel that any injustice exists.

Hits at Recommendations

With respect to the recommendation that Government representatives be given a vote, it is pointed out that this is contrary to the President's desire that the Government should not actually run business and, further, would result in the administrator being obliged possibly to overrule his own representatives.

The existing provision on shorts protects the exhibitor adequately, it is declared, and represents a con-a minority report by John F. Sinclair, former vice-chairman of the board, in which no codes are discussed individually, criticizing the manner in which the majority of the board operated and recommending establishment of permanent review boards.

All of the recommendations outlined in MOTION PICTURE DAILY May 17 are contained in the Darrow report as released by the White House.

Nearly 15,000 words are required by the board to give its opinion of and recommendations for the film code. Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt's reply runs about 17,000 words.

"Monopolistic practices in this industry are bold and aggressive and its small enterprise is cruelly oppressed," the board report declares in its opening statement on the film code.

"It appears that the code for this industry was made by representatives of the large producing companies. It contained, with other unusual and unjust features, provisions that named the members of Code Authority to administer the code and other provisions to make the authority so constituted self-perpetuating. In case of the retirement of any member, he is to designate his successor, subject to the approval of the rest of the authority, or failing to do so, the authority is to name the successor. The authority consists of 10 members, of whom eight are shown to be directly or indirectly connected with the eight large companies."

Charges Are Reviewed

Briefly reviewing the many charges filed against the code, the report declares "the chief complaints of maladministration" for the benefit of the large producers and distributors and against the smaller enterprises to be:

"That they, although constituting numerically much the greater part of the industry, were not allowed to share in the making of the code.

"Unfair practices, in that the large producers and distributors insist independent exhibitors shall buy also a certain number of what are called 'short subjects' (meaning short reels) and of newsreels in order to obtain the great and vital feature pictures from which profits are mostly derived. It was averred that some of these independent theatres have in this way been forced to buy and store away more 'short subjects' and newsreels than they could show in a year. They must pay for them, nevertheless, whether they exhibit them or not. By this practice also, small producers that produce only 'short subjects' and newsreels are put at a disadvantage.

"The large producers require a large percentage of the gross receipts, sometimes 35 per cent or more, for the use of popular pictures and then dictate the days upon which they are to be shown. In the business generally, Saturday, Sunday and holidays are the best days, but it was pointed out that this arrangement deprives the independent theatre of any control over its pictures, as the large producer dictates the day the picture is to be shown, whereas it may not be suitable for certain localities upon such days.

"The theatre owner is deprived of any choice in the presentation of pictures, since he must show what is allotted to him. This works in practice to shut from the theatres, the pictures of other than the large producers, since they can choose all the best days for themselves.

"The code gives to the distributors (generally the Big Eight) the right to fix admission prices through the provision that allows them to insist upon a minimum admission price for their own pictures. It was brought out that such a control might cause to a theatre the loss of a large part of its clientele through resentment against what would be deemed an unjustifiable advance in prices while the theatre owner would be powerless to meet such an attack.

"That the large distributors are allowed to insert into their contracts with the theatres, provisions that are not authorized by the code, and are detrimental to the independent theatres. These extra-legal provisions, it was set forth, were often in the shape of an agreement against the showing of two feature pictures on the same program. The courts have held this stipulation to be unfair. In practice, it deprives the independent theatre of one means to meet the competition of the affiliated theatres, which are the theatres affiliated with or controlled by the Big Eight.

Says Boards Are "Controlled"

"The code set up boards to classify theatres in the order in which they can have the use of popular and desirable pictures, and these boards, it is averred, are controlled by or in the interest of the large producers and distributors. The result is that in many instances independent theatres can not get the popular pictures until their competitors have largely exhausted the drawing power therein."

Declaring that it "attempts to discredit the testimony of these various independent exhibitors" and that the major producer-distributors knew of the hearing before the board and could have appeared and testified had they so desired, the board declares the belief that the so-called Bareford brief should not be "given serious consideration, particularly in view of the nature of many of the statements made therein."

Getting into a detailed consideration of the code, the board charges that it "is designed to eliminate and oppress small enterprises engaged in the motion picture industry, and tends to discriminate against them."

"The code, as at present drawn, is designed to promote a monopoly in the motion picture industry in behalf of the large producers and distributors, which have been referred to in the hearings before this board as the 'Big Eight,'" it is declared.

"It is the opinion of this board that if the code is not changed in many parts that the small independent theatre owner and operator in this country will be either forced out of business entirely, or his business will be so dominated and controlled by the large producers, distributors and affiliated theatre owners that he will only be able to conduct his business in the way and manner prescribed and desired by these large interests."

During the drafting of the code, it is charged, the various versions of the document were prepared by Rosenblatt and submitted to the several committees of the industry and committees representing independent interests were not consulted. Few of the suggestions made by independent exhibitors were adopted, and they had little, if any, influence in drafting the code.

"It would appear from the testimony before this board that the deputy administrator may be prejudiced against the independent exhibitors," the report continued.

Calls Rosenblatt Defiant

Pointing out that Rosenblatt was present at the first hearing and was requested to testify but refused to do so, and charging that he had failed to turn over his files as requested, but instead offered "to bring over any specific thing asked for," the board holds that "because of the defiance by the Deputy Administrator of this board, and because of testimony to the effect that he is prejudiced against independent producers, distributors and exhibitors in the industry, this board recommends that the deputy administrator in charge of the motion picture code be removed from all connection with the motion picture code and another deputy administrator appointed."

'Little Fellow' Unprotected, It Is Charged

Discussing the various sections of the code complained of, the report criticizes the Code Authority as a "self-perpetuating" body dominated by the majors, only two members of which are not connected in some way with the affiliated group and properly classified as really independent. The appointment of Government representatives without vote is seen as useless "as they will have absolutely no power to in any effective way influence the action of Code Authority. The power of Code Authority to appoint committees also is criticized.

Forcing of shorts is declared to impose an undue burden upon exhibitors and it is held the exhibitor should have the right to buy such number of shorts and newsreels as he desires and needs and should have the right to make a selection from those offered him.

Fixing of playdates also should be eliminated as exacting an undue amount from the exhibitor showing pictures on percentage and as taking from him all voice in the programs to be shown on the most profitable days of the week and taking control of the operation of the theatre out of the hands of the owner and putting it in the hands of the distributor. It is also unfair to the independent distributor since it preempts the preferred playing time for the majors. "The provision appears to be one solely in favor of the producers and distributors, and in the opinion of this board is unfair to the small independent exhibitor," it is commented.

Hits Price Controls

Admission-price fixing by distributors also is assailed as taking control of the theatre from the owner and as "alienating many of his patrons who would object to paying an increased price over the ordinary scale of admission to see a successful picture."

Powers of grievance boards to order a boycott of exhibitors are attacked as an authority which "should not be given to any industry board, and certainly not a board made up of business competitors."

The privilege granted distributors to incorporate provisions in the standard license agreement is declared to work "a grave injustice" upon exhibitors by allowing the major distributors to insert provisions covering practices not touched upon in the code. Specific reference is here made to the "double feature" prohibition, the tendency of which has been to drive out of business in Chicago and

Avers Majors Dictated Code

Washington, May 20.—Highlights of the National Recovery Review Board's findings, in addition to urging the removal of Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, follow:

- (1)—Code provisions were dictated by major producers. Code Authority is criticized as a "self-perpetuating" body.
- (2)—Forcing of shorts, naming playdates and high percentages are condemned.
- (3)—Price fixing by contract and anti-dual contract provisions are assailed.
- (4)—Grievance boards should be retained with full power to make decisions and no new evidence should be presented to Code Authority later.
- (5)—Clearance and zoning boards should be retained, but their decisions should be final.
- (6)—Block booking problems should be solved "speedily."

'THIRTY DAY PRINCESS' AN EXCITING, AMUSING COMEDY

VARIETY Thirty Day Princess

B. P. Schulberg production for Paramount release. Directed by Marion Gering. Original. Clarence Budington Kelland. Screen play. Preston Sturges and Frank Partos. Adaptation. Art Hellman and Edwin Justus Mayer. Cast: Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant, Edward Arnold, Henry Stephenson, Vince Barnett, Edgar Norton, Ray Walker, Lucien Littlefield, Robert McWade, George Baxter, Marguerite Namara. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, April 26. Running time, 75 mts.

Thirty Day Princess, an amusing variant of the royalty and comical moner theme, is of that whimsical comedy type with farcical emphasis which may be counted on to stimulate the box office over wide territory.

Story is ideally suited to Sylvia Sydney's talents. With Cary Grant agreeably playing opposite and supported by an exceptionally well selected cast, Miss Sydney's following will be amply satisfied with her dual role as the princess and the American ingenue actress who impersonates her.

Light fantastic plot deals with the machinations of an American banker, Edward Arnold, and the king of a mythical country to float a bond issue and to use a hungry little actress to double for the crown princess as an exploitation contract when the regal femme contracts a case of mumps upon her arrival in the U.S.A.

Cary Grant puts conviction and zest into his romantic part, while Edward Arnold gives the banker character excellent proportion. Henry Stephenson plays the king very humanly, a bewildered haron in the regal entourage is well handled by Edgar Norton, Robert McWade clicks as a cynical wise cracking managing editor, and Vince Barnett develops a fresh comedy character for a farcical stand-out as the yokel count who considers himself affianced to the princess. Others are sharply played bits.

Marion Gering's direction is smartly pitched for laughs and amusing character relations, with here and there a fine bit of relieving pathos. The five writers who share credit for the yarn, adaptation and screen play—Clarence Budington Kelland, Sam Hellman and Edwin Justus Mayer, Preston Sturges and Frank Partos—give the direction and playing a fine structural and dialog underpinning. Photography is good, and the art direction and mounting are class.

Cast. Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant, Edward Arnold, Henry Stephenson, Vince Barnett, Edgar Norton, Ray Walker, Lucien Littlefield, Robert McWade, George Baxter, Marguerite Namara.

Even with the impressive list of good mythical kingdom pictures for competition, Paramount's "Thirty Day Princess" makes a swell showing.

It is a lovely bit of hokum—unbelievable, exciting, romantic and gay. Its fantastic plot is embellished with dialogue that is witty, impudent and meaty, and with acting that is hyper and with direction that is super.

Occasionally the film verges on the satirical, but throughout it never loses its sense of humor or its spirit of good, honest fun.

Miss Sydney is very, very charming as the Princess, and very, very funny as the little actress. Cary Grant has never put more genuine spirit and vitality into a part than he does here. Arnold is good as the banker, Henry Stephenson is the King of Taronia, Vince Barnett is extremely amusing as the Princess' dumb fiance, Edgar Norton is well cast as the prime minister, Lucien Littlefield is amusing, as is Robert McWade, and Ray Walker, George Baxter and Marguerite Namara contribute a lot to the picture in smaller roles.

Marion Gering directed cleverly and with a keen sense of comedy, Preston Sturges and Frank Partos wrote the screen play, based on a Clarence Budington Kelland story, and Sam Hellman and Edwin Justus Mayer made the totally amusing adaptation. Art direction by Hans Dreier and Bill Ihnen is notable, and Leon Shamroy's photography is artistically outstanding.

No exhibitor in any town in the country will have difficulty selling this picture to his patrons. It is squawk-proof, and will make any audience happy.

"Thirty Day Princess"

(Schulberg-Paramount)
HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—Rarely has the Cinderella formula failed, nor does it in the case of "Thirty Day Princess," in which Sylvia Sydney takes all possible advantage of a light role and kicks in with the best performance in the best picture she has done in many moons.

What goes on here whirled around the flotation of a fifty million dollar loan for one of those tucked away, miniature kingdoms, called Taronia, contracts the mumps and almost wrecks the national ballyhoo. To put on the necessary show, Miss Sydney goes to America, deemed necessary to stimulate the American public into a bond buying orgy. Her double, also played by Miss Sydney, is dug up from somewhere in the American scene and a pleasant subterfuge is carried on. Complications threaten exposure, and finally love comes to the thirty day princess with Cary Grant at the receiving and delivering end.

Charming treatment aimed at, and successful in striking a high comedy note, plus excellent performances by all hands, place this attraction high on the list of releases just in the offing. The picture is not big in concept, but is wholesome, frothy entertainment of the kind that may not break records, but which will do generally gratifying business up and down the land.

"Little Miss Marker"

(B. P. Schulberg-Paramount)
HOLLYWOOD, April 29.—Chalk up a box-office bullseye for B. P. Schulberg's "Little Miss Marker," adapted from Damon Runyon's story.

Packed with human interest, tenderly sentimental, sparkling with topical comedy, capitalizing on dramatic suspense, the production, motivated by colorful dialogue, zooms Shirley Temple to stardom. The yarn rotates around Runyon, racetrack and Lindy Cafe characters. Adolphe Menjou, sorrowful, gets Miss Temple for a bad I. O. U. The baby knows only King Arthur legends and draws Menjou and Claudia Dell together, upsetting the menacing Charles Bickford romance. A slangy, tough gang is horrified as the child takes on its manners and speech, and masquerades as medieval knights to make her dreams come true. Miss Temple, hurt in a fall from a horse as Bickford hustles up a party, is saved from death by his blood transfusion, making the villain a hero and clearing the way for a Menjou-Dell wedding and the child's adoption.

Menjou and Miss Dell are outstanding. Bickford is convincing as the menace to the child. Lyman Overman, Tammany Young, Sam Hardy, Warren Hymer and John Kelly excel in comedy contrast. The picture, teeming with personality and production story values, also is a strong family attraction for creating children interest. Alexander Hall directed with sympathetic understanding from a screen play by William Lipman, Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman.

Here is a large helping of sentimentality, served with a lavish hand. Based upon the same formula, in fact, by the same original author, Damon Runyon, it should appeal to the same audiences that laughed and cried at "Lady for a Day." And you know what that means to the box-office. This is the second B. P. Schulberg production on successive evenings and the second hit.

That amazing four-year-old, Shirley Temple, delivers a truly astounding performance.

It is to the distinct credit of the adult members of the cast that they were not all merely feeders for Shirley. Adolphe Menjou, stripped of every familiar mannerism, contributes probably his finest characterization as the bookie. Dorothy Dell looks better and better with each picture. Her screen success is assured. Charles Bickford plays a gangster with his usual assurance, and Lynne Overman scores heavily with every line. The others all have their moments, and all good, with Warren Hymer and John Kelly particularly outstanding as nursemaids, nee prizefighters.

The screen play by William Lipman, Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman, contains some fine dialogue, and Alexander Hall's direction does not miss a trick. Several times obvious situations threaten, only to be avoided by a deft twist. Camera work by Alfred Gilks excellent.

Your campaign will have to explain the title, which should not be difficult. Once explained, it will intrigue and the rest is clear sailing. "Little Miss Marker" is sure-fire sentiment.

Little Miss Marker

B. P. Schulberg production for Paramount release. Directed by Alexander Hall. Screen original by Damon Runyon. Screen play, William R. Lipman, Sam Hellman, Gladys Lehman. Music, Sam Alfred Gilks. Lyrics, Leon Robin. Camera, Dorothy Dell. Cast: Adolphe Menjou, Temple, Lynne Overman, Frank McGlynn, Sr., Jack Sheehan, Gary Owen, Sleep 'n Eat, Puggy White, Tammany Young, Sam Hardy, Edward Earle, John Kelly, Warren Hymer. Previewed April 26. Alexander, Glendale. Running time, 75 mins.

"Little Miss Marker" goes a long way in catapulting Shirley Temple to stardom as the four-year-old actress gives a freshness and poignancy to the yarn that is bound to pull them in at all houses. She speaks without hesitancy in argot either of racetrack touts or elves.

In the story, really suited to the little actress, her chief helpmate is Adolphe Menjou, who does a hard, wizened characterization of a race track bookie. Yarn concerns the exploits of the child left by her father as collateral on a bad bet. The father kills himself, and the bookie, with the youngster on his hands, is forced to seek aid from Dorothy Dell, a cabaret torcher and girl friend of Charles Bickford, horse owner.

The romantic theme of the story is spiraled around the three adults, with Shirley Temple pulling the wisecracking strings. Her childish simplicity breaks down the harsh manners of the trio, and finally brings Dorothy Dell and Adolphe Menjou together.

Authors of the screen play, William R. Lipman, Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman have kept a sufficient wisdom of Damon Runyon's original wisecracking language to make the dialog unusually marked. Characterization of Shirley Temple is spaced for laugh getters, but yet is filled at times with pathos.

Lynne Overman plays the part of a track cashier and the part of a science-burdened gambler with finesse. Sam Hardy, as Benny the Gouge, member of the gambling circle, John Kelly and Warren Hymer give good characterizations. Others are bits.

Alexander Hall's direction is smartly welded, and the photography by Alfred Gilks is satisfactory.

Maybe It's Spinach

Washington, May 20.—Clarence Darrow, who authored the Review Board report, is a passionate lover of spinach. Daily he has lugged his own in the cafeteria of the hotel where he resides in the capital. If what the dieticians say about spinach is correct, some assert this must explain the punch he has put into his criticism of the NRA.

that every board member has a substitute provided for him in the code. Second, in the event government representatives cannot attend meetings, these boards cannot vote. Hence disposition of cases is held up. Campi and the government do not want delays and insist on decisions as soon as possible.

With vacation time rolling around, many of the board members and impartial men will be out of town for one or more weeks. Without impartial substitutes, additional delays in handling down decisions would be encountered, it is felt.

Alternates will be designated by Rosenblatt as soon as he checks the recommendations submitted. When the division administrator was on the coast some time ago, Deputy Administrator William Farnsworth acted as temporary alternate at a Campi meeting.

withdraw code assents. Dissatisfaction from this territory has been expressed on several occasions, starting with the official appointments of board members. The Allied unit in that territory also has notified Campi of its dissatisfaction with the code a number of times.

While Code Authority looks upon the situation as a dispute between two exhibitor units, an investigation into the situation will nevertheless start this week.

Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C. and a Campi member, leaves this week for Omaha to make a survey and he will report back to Code Authority at its May 31 session.

Code Comes First, Boards to Be Told

Serving Code Authority is to be considered above all other jobs held by members of local clearance and zoning and grievance boards, Campi has resolved. The resolution was handed down as a result of many complaints from exchange managers on boards that they had their jobs first to look after before attending to code affairs.

Campi differs from this viewpoint in the following resolution, adopted at the last session:

"RESOLVED: That the interests of the nation and the industry shall be regarded by all members of local clearance and zoning boards and local grievance boards as the primal obligation of service subscribed to by each member upon the execution of the oath to fairly and impartially determine whatever issue is presented to such members, and it is further

"RESOLVED: That the executive secretary be and hereby is authorized to send a copy of this resolution to all members of local clearance and zoning boards and all local grievance boards."

RKO Doubles Plan Stirs Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—RKO's decision to start the Hill Street on a double feature policy June 1 has aroused the ire of other downtown first run operators and has spread alarm generally among all exhibitors here working for the elimination of duals in the territory.

The action of the major circuit houses, coming at a time when 90 per cent of the local independent exhibitors have agreed to cooperate for the elimination of duals, is regarded by the anti-dual leaders as a setback which may nullify all the progress they have made to date.

Lou Halper, speaking for the Warner, first run house, said his company "is absolutely against duals, but if other downtown houses start the policy we will be forced to do likewise."

Robert Smith, manager of, and speaking for Loew's State, said his theatre "has nothing to fear from the Hill Street's new policy. As long as we show one good feature people will come here rather than patronize a house with two bad features."

The Paramount, the other downtown first run, declared some time ago that it had sufficient stage attractions to continue on a single feature policy until January.

MPTOA to Ask Dual Bans in Contracts

distributors to force double featuring down the throats of theatre owners everywhere under the deceptive and cunning slogan of 'double features are a matter for individual decision of the exhibitor.'"

A brochure so describing double features was distributed among exhibitors recently by the Federation of the M. P. Industry, independent producers' and distributors' organization.

Kuykendall's message denies that the exhibitor competing with a double featuring house has any opportunity to exercise "individual decision," but is forced to follow suit on the policy in self defense. The message urges independent producers to make pictures "good enough to stand on their own" and points out that if duals are not banned major studios are equipped to turn out large numbers of pictures designed for dual programs.

End of Duals to Be Taken Up in Buffalo

Elimination of duals in Buffalo will be discussed at the special meeting of the M.P.T.O. of Western New York next week, J. H. Michaels, president, stated prior to his departure for Buffalo.

While in New York late last week, Michaels said he came for the specific purpose of inviting Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and Executive Secretary John C. Flinn to speak on the code before the upstate exhibitors. Flinn stated on Saturday he had not been extended the invitation. He also said he was too busy with code matters to be able to get away at this time.

Rosenblatt will not attend, it was learned.

Des Moines Seeks Price Clearances

DES MOINES, May 20.—A tentative clearance schedule based on admission prices has been presented to the clearance and zoning board. The schedule was drawn up by independents at a series of meetings here and signed by A. J. Diebold, Cedar Rapids; Jake Cohen, Ottumwa, Ia.; Charles Carpentier, East Moline, Ill.; Leo Wolcott, Eldora, Ia., and Tom Brown, Iowa City, Ia.

No action has been taken by the board.

For first run pictures the committee suggested that theatres charging 40c admission or more, pictures become available seven days before release and 14 days thereafter; for 35c admission, the next 21 days; for 30c admission, the next 28 days; for 25c, the next 42 days; for 20c, the next 56 days; 15c, the next 70 days, and for 10c the next 77 days.

Other Recommendations

The committee recommendation was that "the exchange must and shall make pictures available according to arrangements of admission prices in this schedule regardless of style or type of theatre."

"All pictures released to be established for the Des Moines territory on or before the 15th of the month for pictures to be released the following month," the proposal continued, "and the dates of picture releases are to be mailed each exhibitor by the exchange by the 15th of the preceding month."

Also the theatre owner shall participate by filing a statement with the secretary of the code board as to what his playing arrangements and admission prices are, the recommendation stated. Also, if admission prices are to be changed at any time, notice is to be made 30 days in advance to the secretary of the code board. The next clearance and zoning meeting is scheduled for May 29.

No Appeal Decision Made, Says Skouras

Although reports were current Saturday Skouras Theatres Corp. would appeal the decision of the New York grievance board which recently ordered the circuit to turn over to the Embassy, Port Chester, N. Y., 22 pictures, Louis Weber, attorney for Skouras stated no decision has been reached.

Skouras last week told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he would acquiesce. He operates the Capitol, Port Chester.

Hickey Hits at Duals

PORTLAND, May 20.—Double billing is the greatest menace that ever has confronted the industry, George A. Hickey, western division representative of M-G-M, declares in Portland.

Hickey's territory includes the Pacific Coast states from Denver west, and he is in constant touch with exhibitors and distributors.

Call Campi Committees

All committees appointed by Campi will meet before the next session of Code Authority May 31. A regular meeting schedule is to be instituted shortly for each committee.

cession wrung from the distributors and producers only after long effort. Designation of playdates, it is pointed out, is permissible only under specific contract provisions, and the board's findings are declared "absurd."

The setting of minimum admissions has been held legal in the courts and the code provision was recommended by the exhibitor group itself. Double features are declared to be a matter primarily for settlement between the distributor and the exhibitor with whom he contracts; the cancellation provision grants "the greatest cancellation privilege ever afforded in the motion picture industry" and was intended particularly for the small operator, whose average license fee of a contract averages not more than $250.

"The report of the review board refers to this sum of $250 as $250,000," Rosenblatt points out. "That this is no mere typographical error is revealed by the fact that this sum of $250,000 is repeated three times."

"It is very possible that the board never even read the code provision. Certainly it never understood its simple language. If it did, it could not have made the error of assuming that the average license fees for all pictures are more than a quarter of a million dollars."

The board argues that clearance and zoning boards should not exist, and then concludes that they offer a possible solution to a troublesome question. On the next page of its report the board declares the board should be kept and then charges that they are "dominated by the distributor and first run exhibitor whose interests are the same." On the contrary, Rosenblatt points out, the distributor is a seller and the exhibitor is a buyer and their interests are diametrically opposed.

The "naive" suggestion that the boards be revamped to consist of one affiliated and one independent distributor, one affiliated and one independent first run and four unaffiliated subsequent run exhibitors, because the present make-up gives the majors domination, would, Rosenblatt points out, stack the boards just the other way. The same is true of the proposal for reorganization of the grievance boards.

circuit representatives describing the strike as a "fizzle."

Levey said the local had been assured of financial assistance from the Building Service Employees International Union, the parent organization, in carrying out the strike. He said the local would concentrate on Brooklyn houses for the time being. While no additional service employees were called out of theatres over the weekend, Levey said the strike would be extended today to additional houses both here and in Brooklyn.

Circuit representatives reported no additional employees joined the strike over the week end.

Chairman for Each Board

"There shall be a chairman of each board selected by a majority vote of the members of the board. Any vacancy in the board shall be filled from the class of members in which the vacancy occurred in the same manner as provided for the selection of the original members. No member of such board shall sit on any matter involving his own or his company's interest."

Article VI, Part 2, Section 7 (c): Strike out "and present additional evidence" in line 2; strike out "and considering the additional evidence" in line 4.

Article VI, Part 2, Section 8: Strike out present provision and substitute:

"The Code Authority shall cooperate with the Administrator in the furnishing of the NRA code insignia to all Producers, Distributors, and Exhibitors who assent to the Code in the manner prescribed by the Code Authority. The Code Authority also shall cooperate with the Administrator in investigating alleged violations of the Code by the possessors of the NRA code insignia to the end that the same may be withdrawn from any Producer, Distributor or Exhibitor violating the Code or any of the applicable provisions thereof. Evidence of assent to the Code shall be filed with the Code Authority within 30 days from the approval hereof."

Article VI, Part 3: Change "appointed" to "selected" in line 1.

Article VI, Part 4: Strike out "and the Code Authority shall fill the vacancy so caused by designating a representative of the same class" and substitute: "and the vacancy shall be filled by designating a representative from the same class in the manner herein provided for initial appointments."

Although block booking is not covered by the code, the board recommends the following:

"That a committee of nine members be appointed, the expense of organization and operation of which shall be borne by the Code Authority, to consider the questions of the 'right to buy films in free and open competition by exhibitors, and block booking'.

"The members of the committee shall be two representatives of producers and two representatives of distributors, to be chosen by the affiliated producer, distributor and exhibitor members of the Code Authority; and four independent theatre owners, to be chosen by the unaffiliated producer, distributor and exhibitor members of the Code Authority by unanimous vote, and in the event that such unanimous vote cannot be had within ten days, then said independent theatre owners shall be named by the chairman of the National Recovery Review Board. None of such independent theatre owners shall be in any way affiliated or connected with any producing or distributing company, and shall be independent theatre owners engaged in the exhibition branch of the motion picture industry. None of the independent theatre owners shall be officers or members of any association which receives support or aid from any producer or distributor; or a producer or distributor association. There shall be a chairman of the committee who shall be chosen by a majority vote of the above-described eight members of the committee, and who shall not have any direct personal interest in any branch of the motion picture industry. In the event that the eight members of the committee cannot agree upon a chairman within ten days, then the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission shall name the chairman of the committee.

"The said committee shall study the questions of the right to buy films in free and open competition, and block booking, and shall submit a report to the Code Authority and the President of the United States, suggesting provisions to be included in the Code governing these two questions. Said report shall be submitted on or before August 1st, 1934, and shall be effective immediately upon approval by the President."

In the event the committee does not submit its report by Aug. 1, Article V, Section D, shall be amended by the addition of the following:

"Part 13. It shall be an unfair method of competition to deny to any exhibitor the right to buy in free and open competition whatever run or runs of pictures he requires for the operation of his theatre.

"Part 14. No distributor shall require as a condition of entering into a contract for the licensing of feature motion pictures that the exhibitor shall contract for or lease any feature pictures as a condition to the opportunity to lease all or a portion of the remaining feature pictures produced or distributed by said producer or distributor during any stated period of time."

is low is erroneous. The public wants entertainment and willingly pays a higher price for good product. If the pictures are bad, it stays away regardless of the admission price.

"We need better product. That is the answer to the whole problem."

Commenting on code operations, Zukor declared the document has not been given a fair test as yet because the local boards have just swung into action. "But in a year or so we should know whether the code is working out to advantage," he added.

Virtual Rewriting For Code Sought

New York independents who are making features, and it is pointed out that the 1930 consent decree against Fox West Coast expressly held unfair the interference with the right of exhibitors to show two features on one program.

This is "another interference with the right of the exhibitor to operate his theatre as he thinks best to meet competition or the desires of his patrons," the report asserts.

The present elimination provision, it is held, is not broad enough.

Zoning Boards Approved

The idea of clearance and zoning boards is approved by the board, but their complexion is sharply assailed as depriving the independents of the fair representation to which they are entitled. Their decision, also, it is declared, should be made final, so that an exhibitor will not be put to the time and expense of appearing before the code authority in New York, and no new evidence should be permitted to be presented to Code Authority.

The same is true of the grievance boards, with respect to which the report states "the effort of this board has been to retain the various provisions of the code which are contained therein, only making such changes as are necessary to properly protect the rights of independent exhibitors; and to prevent the code from becoming oppressive and monopolistic as against these independents." To this end, the grievance boards should be retained, but if they are to hear complaints they should have the power to determine them; otherwise, complaints might as well be filed direct with the Code Authority. If the local boards are to pass on complaints, no new evidence should be permissible before Code Authority, the report pointing out that "it is very unusual procedure to allow an appellate body to receive new evidence in determining a matter appealed to it."

Solution of the problem of buying is "vital to the successful operation of the code, in order to prevent monopoly and monopolistic practices and oppression of the small branches of the industry," the board holds.

39-Week Statement at Handsome Increase

Happy days continue to lurk around Columbia headquarters.

Yesterday the company reported a net of $739,338 after Federal taxes and all charges for the 39 weeks to March 31. This compares with $546,778 for the same period in the preceding fiscal year and represents an increase of $192,560.

Some Film Boards To Stay in Keys

Continuance of a limited number of Film Boards of Trade, probably in strategic keys only, is in prospect as a result of conferences on the subject between sales managers and C. C. Pettijohn, film board director, it was learned yesterday.

Consensus of managerial opinion is that a field organization of some kind must be maintained by the industry to handle legislative matters and a variety of civic contacts, as well as

G. B. Plans Own Exchanges

Gaumont British, powerful English producer, distributor and exhibitor, is understood making plans to invade the American market with its own exchanges in about 10 or 12 key cities. Whereas the company now has a limited number of salesmen in this field under a setup for physical distribution through independent exchanges, this plan contemplates a full-fledged distributing organization completely down the line.

G.B. is reported to feel the time is ripe to make a really serious effort to get a foothold here and is reputedly proceeding on this basis.

Arthur Lee, American representative for the company, when queried, yesterday stated the move was logical. While not denying the current report, he failed to go beyond a partial confirmation.

"U" Getting Set to Make 4 Ace Efforts

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Instead of concentrating all resources on one big picture for 1934-35, Universal next season will aim its guns at four, each down on the budget for $500,000 or more. These will be "The Great Ziegfeld," "Show Boat," "Sutter's Gold" and a Margaret Sullivan special tentatively called "Angel." The studio literally will "shoot the works" on the quartet.

So far as production is concerned the company today finds itself in a better spot for the beginning of a new season's program probably than ever before.

Despite the fact that the new program calls for 36 features, plus six Buck Jones adventure pictures, which

End of Review Board by May 31 Is Indicated At White House

WASHINGTON, May 21.—One thing stands out with some definiteness in the whirlwind of comment and charges stirred up by the National Recovery Review Board's report and the NRA administration's replies.

Codes are due for study and overhauling, and some codes—for smaller industries—will be dropped, but the film code will not be in the latter group. It is understood that the Administration wants to salvage something out of the $100,000 spent on the Darrow investigation.

Early dissolution of the review board is predicted, as the breach between the White House and the board

Insiders' Outlook

WINNIE SHEEHAN, whose prestige rides high and wide as well as handsome around the Fox lot today has ideas on costume pictures and they don't speak well for such a cycle. On the basis of watchful scrutiny of what goes on elsewhere throughout Hollywood and at the box-office, Sheehan has come to the conclusion costumers pay at the ratio of one in forty. By his reasoning, the shot is a long one and so, why take it? He isn't. . . .

Why develop starring personalities at much expense and time to submerge them in wigs and trappings of bygone days that may add further to the submerging process? He poises and answers the question by viewing such a move as plain punk judgment and foresees the future, near and far, proving the point if the costume cycle, which is headline stuff on the coast these days, persists. . . .

Doubles find Sheehan a determined foe, too. He sees no place for them and only danger to the business if the practice is stuck with its guns. On the M.P.T.O.A. plan to forward Hollywood reactions to pictures, particularly on unwarranted dirt and "smoker" type gags, the Fox production chief has nothing but commendation "if the exhibitors are on the level." But that sort of thing is not new to him. Twice a year and from the far corners of the globe does he have deposited on his desk reactions to Fox product as gathered in by sales representatives. Sheehan admits the dope is invaluable in fashioning product for the important and not to be ignored overseas markets. . . .

Plaint of the producers, or one of them: Major studio recently paid $25,000 for a certain piece of story material. To date, it has spent $150,000 odd trying to make it filmable. . . . The reactions of various exhibitors will be interesting to the statement of Adolph Zukor that admissions must go up because "the distributor does not get a proportionate share of film cost from subsequent runs because their admissions are too low." The reaction will be unanimous to his remark that "we need better product. That is the answer to the whole problem." We go back one day and remind again of Nick Schenck's observation. . . .

The film scramble among Broadway first runs, large and small, constitutes a battle about which nothing has been said to date. "Stingaree," the story has it, never would have made the Music Hall, only RKO needed a film. The Paramount is set for two weeks and is hunting high and low after that. "Riptide" stayed at the Capitol recently for three weeks, because of re-editing of "Tarzan and His Mate," insisted upon by the coast Hays office after its minions caught the Hollywood preview. The situation is as per usual, when the old season prepares to expire. . . . KANN was widened today by the charge of the board that the President had acted "unfairly" in withholding the Darrow report until NRA officials had been given an opportunity to "pervert" it.

At the White House it was indicated that the review board would conclude its labors and dissolve May 31, but members of the board declared that they were without information on that point and were scheduling hearings on some 96 codes before them for investigation.

Members of the board were today represented as "astounded" at the reception given the report, although admitting privately that it was "full of holes" and that Chairman Darrow had done his cause no good by a supplemental report declaring the country was faced with a choice between government-controlled monopoly and socialized industry, and going on record in favor of the latter. The supplemental report, it was said, was presented by Darrow and W. O. Thompson without the knowledge of the three remaining members.

Started in December

Correspondence between Administrator Johnson and Senators Borah and Nye regarding the creation of a review board, made public today, shows that the former, as far back as last December, realized the need for a study of the operation of codes and urged that the senators serve on a board to undertake the task, which they refused to do because of the pressure of Senate business.

Publication of the 80,000 words of report, answer and correspondence has served, it is believed, to give the recovery administration a clean bill of health, so far as its purposes and actions are concerned, although centering attention upon the inescapable fact that there are abuses under the codes which should be eliminated.

At the Capitol the Darrow report was received with varying emotions, with many of the Republican members declaring that regardless of the debate between Darrow and Johnson the document demonstrates the need for amendment or repeal of the recovery legislation.

The report substantiated his charges that the codes protected and fostered monopoly, it was declared by Senator Nye, but Senator Borah, long-time enemy of the Recovery Administration, indicated that when he attacks that body he will depend upon his own sources of information and not on the report.

Holds "Little Fellow" Harmed

"The findings of the majority and minority show conclusively many of the codes are working destruction for small businesses and entrenching monopoly," Nye declared. "I have not completely digested the report, but if the NRA response as written by Mr. Rosenblatt on the moving picture industry code is a reflection of the general response, then that response must be a masterpiece of evasion and confusion."

Asked for comment upon the Senator's statement, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt contented himself with the declaration that "if a careful, truthful and complete refutation of a report based on ignorance of the facts, the code and the law is a 'masterpiece of evasion,' then it must be so if the honorable Senator so states."

Nye is expected to make a speech in the Senate tomorrow on the report.

All indications at the Capitol pointed to the probability of sharp and protracted debate upon the whole recovery situation and a strong effort to "dust off" the anti-trust laws for application to codified industries where necessary.

Aroused by the joint publication of report and answer, Clarence Darrow today called newspapermen to his office for a "conference" but contented himself, upon their arrival, with handing out a prepared statement, refusing to answer all questions. The statement originally represented the personal views of the chairman of the board, the personal pronouns later being changed to make it a board statement.

Defines Purpose of Board

"This board was not created to analyze industries, to devise defenses for the NRA, nor to weigh the intricacies of factory and corporation management," it was declared. "It was created for two purposes and two only, to discover if monopolistic practices existed or small enterprises were oppressed under the codes."

"Seventeen days later its report is made public together with the excited ejaculations of General Johnson and Mr. Richberg, who, apparently under the impression that the National Recovery Act is their personal property, break into shrieks of rage at the suggestion that operations are not perfect or are susceptible of improvement. But the facts should be emphasized that in their curious excitement they have forgotten their subject."

The "chaotic competition" condemned by the board "is the identical thing that the NRA seeks to eliminate," the statement continued, retorting that Richberg is guilty of the "misstating" and "stumbling" which he charges against the board.

Second Report This Week

The board, Darrow said, "expects to deliver before the end of this week a second report reviewing additional industries in which conditions are even worse than in those that have fevered Mr. Richberg's vision. When he comes to read the next report of this board it is likely that he will need more than 157 pages to steer around its contents."

Assailing the President for the delay in making the report public, the board declared "We hope that in common fairness the next report will not be held 17 days to give these young gentlemen a chance to read into it things that it does not contain and to pervert its meaning by placing things out of their context. If that is to be done, we shall insist that at the same time opportunity be given us to answer Mr. Richberg's misstatements, correct his errors and at least try to draw his attention to the realities of the issues involved."

"Finally, one question: Does the Administration wish to be understood as supporting monopolies?"

A bewildered city today was fighting itself out from under a snowstorm of more than 80,000 words loosed upon it in the form of the report and Administrator Johnson's answer.

Clearance Protest Loses in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Charges brought by the Cedar Lee Theatre Co. that protection allowed Loew's Stillman Park and Granada over the complainant's Lake, Uptown and Variety was unfair have been dismissed by the clearance and zoning board on the ground that because the clearance involves more than one house no change can be made in the schedule without a general revision.

The board says a Greater Cleveland clearance schedule is now in preparation and will be completed within 10 days. After its publication any theatre, including the Cedar Lee group, may protest, the board rules.

The hearing began Friday and continued until midnight Saturday.

Stern Quits Place On Clearance Board

Second United Artists representative to resign from the New York clearance and zoning advisory committee is Charles Stern, district manager. Moe Streimer, local branch manager for the company, was originally selected for the post, but quit because of ill health.

Stern claims he spends most of his time on the road and cannot be available for meetings. He just returned from New Orleans and expects to leave for another tour shortly.

Push New Clearance Work in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—Work on a revised clearance and zoning schedule is progressing, but it is considered doubtful whether the committee will be able to complete its work at its next meeting scheduled for Wednesday. A. C. Gutenberg, Milwaukee, is substituting on the local clearance and zoning committee at the meetings in the absence of George Fischer, who is recovering from an operation.

Cullman Files New Charge on Mayfair

Having already won one case against the Mayfair, Howard S. Cullman, receiver for the Roxy, yesterday filed a second complaint before the New York grievance board, claiming that the same theatre is distributing passes among store merchants, who are giving "about three" with certain purchases.

Cullman states this is one form of premiums prohibited under the code.

N. O. Hears Complaint

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—The complaint of Crawford's McGee, McGee, Miss., charging the operation of a theatre in connection with the Sanatorium Hospital, three miles from that town, was unfair competition, was heard today by the local grievance board. Evidence revealed the hospital paid no state taxes and allowed outsiders to enter on payment of admission. A decision is expected in three days. The board decided to send Paramount's breach of contract charge against Guidry Brothers, Oakdale, La., to Campi in New York for action.

Code authorities here voted today to give publicity to board activities and decisions.

Review Board Report Is Hit By Kuykendall

COLUMBUS, MISS., May 21.—The Darrow report was denounced here today by Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., as "unfair" and as representative of the views of only a small number of theatre owners.

His statement follows in full:

"The report of the Darrow committee shows an amazing disregard for facts and complete lack of understanding of the mechanics of the motion picture industry and is not the sentiment of any appreciable number of theatre owners. The facts are this committee heard only a few disgruntled persons, most of whom have no investment in this industry and are professional organizers and creators of law suits and strife, and by their obstructionist methods have retarded the working of the code to the detriment of the so-called independent theatre owners they pretend to help."

Charges Desertion

"This group ran out in Washington when they learned that those who had no investment in this industry could not participate in its code. They will continue to interfere in every way possible with its functioning because to end strife would obliterate them."

"How can anyone condemn in sincerity that which has just started and has not had time to work as yet. Mr. Darrow has been imposed upon by this little group, undoubtedly because the protests are almost the same language they used in Washington and are the wailings of a destructive minority who would delight in tearing down the code and everything else that did not agree with their radical views. It is so manifestly unfair it will have no weight with the sane men and women who make up this industry and understand its mechanics."

"I personally and my organization have complete faith in the NRA, the President of the United States and Sol A. Rosenblatt's ability and integrity as administrator of the amusement division."

Jersey Allied Takes Up Darrow's Report

Discussions of the Darrow report of the National Recovery Review Board, the nationwide Catholic boycott of objectionable films, producer-made trailers and new product and sales policies occupied the meeting of Allied of New Jersey yesterday.

Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied States and head of the New Jersey unit, stated that no action was taken on any of the subjects as the meeting did not advance them beyond the discussion stage. The next meeting of the unit was set for June 4.

Forbids Prizes by Saxe

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—The grievance board here has issued a cease and desist order in the complaint of the Langheinrich brothers, operators of the Burleigh, against the Saxe Amusement Management Co., Inc., which was charged with giving prizes in connection with a cooking school at the Garfield in this city.

Grainger, sales head to go before the annual sales meet next month, prepared to promise the delivery of more definite stories than ever before in the history of Universal sales conventions.

So enthusiastic is Carl Laemmle, Sr., over the present lineup that after the budget had already been set for the entire program, he added another million to insure plenty of latitude.

This season's program will wind up with the completion of "Little Man, What Now?" reviewed elsewhere in this issue; "Imitation of Life" and "One More River." First of the pictures for the new program will get under way around June 1 with the schedule so arranged that there will be no complete studio shutdown for a year to come.

As for man power and players, Universal feels it has already entrenched itself with top line producers, directors and writers. As for players, the studio has doubled its stock list to such an extent that it is the largest ever assembled in its history. Many have been imported from Broadway, but the majority were contracted here after proving themselves for stellar roles through past performances. This list, which will be called from time to time to support Universal stars, consists of Sally Eilers, Heather Angel, Henry Hull, Frank Lawton, Jane Wyatt, Victor Moore, Louise Latimer, Douglas Fowley, Binnie Barnes, Ann Darling, Lois January, Eral Eby, Onslow Stevens, Andy Devine, Russ Brown, Dean Denton, Henry Armetta, Sterling Holloway, June Knight and Alice White.

In the star list, there are Miss Sullavan. Boris Karloff, Paul Lukas, Chester Morris, Edmund Lowe, Buck Jones, Russ Columbo, Gloria Stuart, Roger Pryor and the team of Summerville and Pitts.

Preparing for an active year, Universal has reopened its laboratory, where not only the daily rushes will be processed, but the bulk of release prints as well. Two of the old stages are being converted into modern sound stages.

"Ziegfeld" First of Quartet by McGuire

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—First of four pictures to be made by William Anthony McGuire on a new ticket with Universal will be his own story, "The Great Ziegfeld."

Billie Burke, widow of the Follies impresario, will assist McGuire in the preparation of the screen biography.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Little Man, What Now?"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Reaching primary emotions with undertones of spiritual power, this drama of a boy and a girl, madly in love and caught in the web of modern economic forces, rises to heights of magnificent entertainment.

It's today's story of youth in any land, adapted by William Anthony McGuire from Hans Fallada's novel. It is youth seeking the rainbow, assaulting the world for food and clothing and clinging close to womanly affection.

Losing one job because he wouldn't play up to the boss's daughter, Douglas Montgomery, with his bride, Margaret Sullavan, go to live with his mother, Catharine Doucet, who secretly runs a sort of lonely club. Her consort, Alan Hale, helps Montgomery secure a job in a department store, and then tries to inveigle himself with Miss Sullavan. Montgomery loses his job, his wife has a baby and a friend proffers work.

Miss Sullavan again demonstrates her outstanding artistry and charm. Montgomery gives a sterling performance. Hale, Christian Rub, Muriel Kirkland and De Witt Jennings contribute gems in support. Frank Borzage's masterful craftsmanship solidifies him as the industry's great heart director.

The production is flawless and refreshing, rich in qualities that stir the masses, whose drama is splendidly mirrored and romantically unfolded.

"Fog Over Frisco"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Although the story gets involved in its own complicated plot, "Fog Over Frisco" is an exciting murder mystery of the "blood and thunder" type.

The story revolves around Bette Davis, a neurotic girl member of a gang of crooks dealing in stolen securities which Miss Davis unloads on her stepfather's firm through Lyle Talbot, her fiancé. Things begin to happen when Miss Davis disappears mysteriously from her home following an argument with one of her gang, leaving her engagement ring behind. Follows a suicide, the kidnapping of Margaret Lindsay, Miss Davis' half-sister, and a double murder, all involving a butler, newspapermen, a partner of the banker's firm and persons unknown.

The picture should click in spots where Miss Davis and Talbot are box-office and in neighborhood houses where they take their melodrama straight.

"I Give My Love"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Based on a proved entertainment premise, this romantic drama is a standard program attraction with a strong feminine appeal. Its realism centers sympathy on the heroine, with a tempo impressive with action and dialogue balanced in carrying the story.

The yarn concerns an artist's model driven to desperation by her egomaniac husband. Jailed for his accidental murder, the woman returns to the home of her benefactor, finding her son turned against her. Becoming a wanderer, she lands in Paris, and the son, now an artist, has her pose for a painting. When it is finished, the boy's foster father identifies the model as the young artist's mother, as well as the woman he has always loved. The climax reunites mother and son and brings married happiness to the battered woman.

The production, adapted from Vicki Baum's story by Milton Krims, preserves the dramatic human qualities. Wynne Gibson and Paul Lukas turn in convincing performances. As the young husband John Darrow is outstanding, while Tad Alexander as a boy of 10 and Eric Linden, carrying the same role 10 years later, add much to the conflict and heart interest.

for the capitalization of the new company. In addition to the stock, there would be issued 6,880,350 of new secured five per cent debentures, due in 1944.

Holding companies of the new Fox "Met" organization would subscribe for $650,000 of the new debentures at par and all of the remainder, together with the new common stock, will be issued to depositing noteholders, who propose to bid in the company at foreclosure on June 20. The noteholders are to receive $500 of the new debentures, 20 shares of common and a warrant for additional shares to be pro-rated later, and $50 in cash for each $1,000 of bonds in the present Fox "Met" deposited with the committee.

This would apparently involve a settlement to noteholders of approximately 75 cents on the dollar, exclusive of their continued holdings in a going concern.

Financing of the reorganization is to be accomplished with a sum of $1,430,000 in Fox "Met" cash now on hand and subject, in the opinion of the reorganization committee to outstanding mortgages held by it. Provision will also be made from this cash for approximately $200,000 of working capital for the new company. Any excess amount remaining is to be pro-rated among the depositing noteholders.

Trustees to Be Managers

Management of the new company will be in the hands of the voting trustees and the board of seven members of the new company. The voting trustees, in addition to Kent, are: Herbert P. Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co., and Richard C. Hunt, member of the law firm of Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaekel & Brown. The trustees will also be members of the board and with its president will control the new company.

Operations will go to Skouras and Randforce, with the latter sub-letting from the new company approximately 36 Brooklyn houses, and Skouras the remaining 44 in Manhattan, Long Island and New Jersey. The operators will have a 50 per cent interest in the operating companies and the new Fox "Met" parent company will retain the other 50 per cent. Aggregate salaries to be paid the operators, Louis Frisch and Samuel Rinzler of Randforce, and Spyros, Charles and George Skouras, will amount to $119,200 per year.

The plan also provides for compromise settlements of a claim of $4,500,000 of Fox Theatres Corp. and one of $288,000 of Fox Film against Fox Met., and for the payment in full of $7,000 of unsecured creditors' claims.

Jurisdiction over the plan was accepted by the Federal Court here last week.

The consolidated corporate and receivers' income report on Fox "Met" for the period from June 4, 1932, to Dec. 31, 1933, made public yesterday, showed a net loss after interest and other charges of $2,095,226.

of settlement of Paramount Public claims against Fox Film and Fox West Coast before Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn yesterday. Attorneys for the Paramount Public trustees stated at the hearing that trustees of Fox West Coast had advised them on May 10 that the sale would take place within 60 days.

At the same time it was stated that Chase National Bank and Fox Film were the principal creditors of Fox West Coast and the implication was that these two organizations would control whatever group took over the West Coast assets at the sale. The reorganization plan itself, which will go into effect shortly after the foreclosure, will not alter the present Fox West Coast operating setup in any material way, it was learned earlier. Regarded as the most important change involved in the plan is the contemplated election of Sidney R. Kent, Fox president, to the presidency of the reorganized West Coast company.

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Mrs. Mable Kinney today received Campi's report on the study of the extra situation made by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, on his recent visit to the coast. amount of approximately $30,000, registered the only opposition to the settlements. Basing his opposition on the alleged former associations of Charles E. Richardson and Eugene W. Leake, Paramount trustees, with Chase National Bank, and Richardson's additional association with Fox Film, Zirn contended that the trustees were thereby disqualified from acting in the present F. W. C. settlement.

It was pointed out that Richardson took no part in the F. W. C. settlement because of his former post as treasurer of Fox Film. Referee Ehrhorn also pointed out that in Zirn's action for the removal of the Paramount trustees the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held that the former Chase bank associations of the trustees did not disqualify them for serving as trustees of Paramount. Zirn's suit for the removal of the trustees is being carried by him to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Other Objections

Zirn also objected that the new leases involved in the settlements with F. W. C. were for shorter terms than the originals, for reduced rentals and were not guaranteed by Fox Film. Referee Ehrhorn stated that he would be guided by the trustees' recommendations and the voting of the other creditors on these objections. Creditors representing a minimum of $50,000,000 in claims, as opposed to Zirn's $30,000, approved the trustees' recommendations to proceed with the settlements.

Paramount's claims against F. W. C. arose from the latter's non-performance of the 1930 lease agreement on the seven theatres, the St. Francis, Paramount and California, at San Francisco; the Paramount at Oakland, Paramount and Rialto at Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle.

Under the terms of the settlement authorized by Referee Ehrhorn yesterday, which were set forth at length in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of May 14, F. W. C. takes new 10-year leases on the three San Francisco theatres at an average rental of $214,000, and pays Paramount $114,299 in back rentals and an additional amount to be determined on net income from the houses for an additional period. In addition, Paramount is to receive 37½ per cent of the net earnings of all downtown San Francisco houses in which F. W. C. has an interest during the life of the leases.

F. W. C. also takes a new lease on the Paramount, Oakland, and pays $390,000 to Paramount, guaranteed by Fox Film, for back rentals and claims. The landlord of the house withdraws a claim of $2,211,500 filed against Paramount for breach of lease.

Zirn Opposes the Plan

Zirn objected to the Oakland settlement on the implication that the landlord, the Broadway & Twentieth Corp., was linked in some way with Paramount due to the fact that it was the friendly applicant for a Paramount consent receivership in Jan., 1933, on the basis of a $29,000 unpaid rent claim. Zirn contended that Broadway & Twentieth, if it had no other objective than to collect its claim, could have done so by impounding Paramount's cash deposits in California which amounted to $150,000 at the time, according to Zirn. Other creditors approved this settlement yesterday.

The settlement also provides for a payment by F. W. C. of $35,030 to Paramount for back rent on the Paramount and Rialto, Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle. The Rialto has been repossessed by the landlord and is not included in the new leases involved in the present settlement. The Paramount, Portland, will be operated for 10 years by a new company in which F. W. C. will have a 75 per cent stock interest and Paramount a 25 per cent interest. New leasing arrangements on the Paramount, Seattle, are contingent on a reorganization of a bondholders' claim. Paramount picture franchises are involved in the new F. W. C. leases.

Involved in the agreement are other plans for compromises of claims against Paramount involving the California Theatre Bldg., San Francisco, and the Paramount, Portland, which were also approved by the referee yesterday. The Paramount trustees asked and were granted authority to pay $15,000 to Lawrence Stern & Co. of Chicago, for services rendered in preparing these compromise plans. Zirn objected to this payment on the ground that Albert D. Lasker, former Paramount director, and John Hertz, former Paramount treasurer, were associated with Stern at one time.

G. B. Plans Own Exchanges

Gaumont British, powerful English producer, distributor and exhibitor, is understood making plans to invade the American market with its own exchanges in about 10 or 12 key cities. Whereas the company now has a limited number of salesmen in this field under a setup for physical distribution through independent exchanges, this plan contemplates a full-fledged distributing organization completely down the line.

G.B. is reported to feel the time is ripe to make a really serious effort to get a foothold here and is reputedly proceeding on this basis.

Arthur Lee, American representative for the company, when queried, yesterday stated the move was logical. While not denying the current report, he failed to go beyond a partial confirmation.

"U" Getting Set to Make 4 Ace Efforts

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Instead of concentrating all resources on one big picture for 1934-35, Universal next season will aim its guns at four, each down on the budget for $500,000 or more. These will be "The Great Ziegfeld," "Show Boat," "Sutter's Gold" and a Margaret Sullivan special tentatively called "Angel." The studio literally will "shoot the works" on the quartet.

So far as production is concerned the company today finds itself in a better spot for the beginning of a new season's program probably than ever before.

Insiders' Outlook

WINNIE SHEEHAN, whose prestige rides high and wide as well as handsome around the Fox lot today has ideas on costume pictures and they don't speak well for such a cycle. On the basis of watchful scrutiny of what goes on elsewhere throughout Hollywood and at the box-office, Sheehan has come to the conclusion costumers pay at the ratio of one in forty. By his reasoning, the shot is a long one and so, why take it? He isn't. . . .

Why develop starring personalities at much expense and time to submerge them in wigs and trappings of bygone days that may add further to the submerging process? He poises and answers the question by viewing such a move as plain punk judgment and foresees the future, near and far, proving the point if the costume cycle, which is headline stuff on the coast these days, persists. . . .

Doubles find Sheehan a determined foe, too. He sees no place for them and only danger to the business if the practice is stuck with its guns. On the M.P.T.O.A. plan to forward Hollywood reactions to pictures, particularly on unwarranted dirt and "smoker" type gags, the Fox production chief has nothing but commendation "if the exhibitors are on the level." But that sort of thing is not new to him. Twice a year and from the far corners of the globe does he have deposited on his desk reactions to Fox product as gathered in by sales representatives. Sheehan admits the dope is invaluable in fashioning product for the important and not to be ignored overseas markets. . . .

Plaint of the producers, or one of them: Major studio recently paid $25,000 for a certain piece of story material. To date, it has spent $150,000 odd trying to make it filmable. . . . The reactions of various exhibitors will be interesting to the statement of Adolph Zukor that admissions must go up because "the distributor does not get a proportionate share of film cost from subsequent runs because their admissions are too low." The reaction will be unanimous to his remark that "we need better product. That is the answer to the whole problem." We go back one day and remind again of Nick Schenck's observation. . . .

The film scramble among Broadway first runs, large and small, constitutes a battle about which nothing has been said to date. "Stingaree," the story has it, never would have made the Music Hall, only RKO needed a film. The Paramount is set for two weeks and is hunting high and low after that. "Riptide" stayed at the Capitol recently for three weeks, because of re-editing of "Tarzan and His Mate," insisted upon by the coast Hays office after its minions caught the Hollywood preview. The situation is as per usual, when the old season prepares to expire. . . . K A N N was widened today by the charge of the board that the President had acted "unfairly" in withholding the Darrow report until NRA officials had been given an opportunity to "pervert" it.

At the White House it was indicated that the review board would conclude its labors and dissolve May 31, but members of the board declared that they were without information on that point and were scheduling hearings on some 96 codes before them for investigation.

Members of the board were today represented as "astounded" at the reception given the report, although admitting privately that it was "full of holes" and that Chairman Darrow had done his cause no good by a supplemental report declaring the country was faced with a choice between government-controlled monopoly and socialized industry, and going on record in favor of the latter. The supplemental report, it was said, was presented by Darrow and W. O. Thompson without the knowledge of the three remaining members.

Started in December

Correspondence between Administrator Johnson and Senators Borah and Nye regarding the creation of a review board, made public today, shows that the former, as far back as last December, realized the need for a study of the operation of codes and urged that the senators serve on a board to undertake the task, which they refused to do because of the pressure of Senate business.

Publication of the 80,000 words of report, answer and correspondence has served, it is believed, to give the recovery administration a clean bill of health, so far as its purposes and actions are concerned, although centering attention upon the inescapable fact that there are abuses under the codes which should be eliminated.

At the Capitol the Darrow report was received with varying emotions, with many of the Republican members declaring that regardless of the debate between Darrow and Johnson the document demonstrates the need for amendment or repeal of the recovery legislation.

The report substantiated his charges that the codes protected and fostered monopoly, it was declared by Senator Nye, but Senator Borah, long-time enemy of the Recovery Administration, indicated that when he attacks that body he will depend upon his own sources of information and not on the report.

Holds "Little Fellow" Harmed

"The findings of the majority and minority show conclusively many of the codes are working destruction for small businesses and entrenching monopoly," Nye declared. "I have not completely digested the report, but if the NRA response as written by Mr. Rosenblatt on the moving picture industry code is a reflection of the general response, then that response must be a masterpiece of evasion and confusion."

Asked for comment upon the Senator's statement, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt contented himself with the declaration that "if a careful, truthful and complete refutation of a report based on ignorance of the facts, the code and the law is a 'masterpiece of evasion,' then it must be so if the honorable Senator so states."

Nye is expected to make a speech in the Senate tomorrow on the report.

All indications at the Capitol pointed to the probability of sharp and protracted debate upon the whole recovery situation and a strong effort to "dust off" the anti-trust laws for application to codified industries where necessary.

Aroused by the joint publication of report and answer, Clarence Darrow today called newspapermen to his office for a "conference" but contented himself, upon their arrival, with handing out a prepared statement, refusing to answer all questions. The statement originally represented the personal views of the chairman of the board, the personal pronouns later being changed to make it a board statement.

Defines Purpose of Board

"This board was not created to analyze industries, to devise defenses for the NRA, nor to weigh the intricacies of factory and corporation management," it was declared. "It was created for two purposes and two only, to discover if monopolistic practices existed or small enterprises were oppressed under the codes."

"Seventeen days later its report is made public together with the excited ejaculations of General Johnson and Mr. Richberg, who, apparently under the impression that the National Recovery Act is their personal property, break into shrieks of rage at the suggestion that operations are not perfect or are susceptible of improvement. But the facts should be emphasized that in their curious excitement they have forgotten their subject."

The "chaotic competition" condemned by the board "is the identical thing that the NRA seeks to eliminate," the statement continued, retorting that Richberg is guilty of the "misstating" and "stumbling" which he charges against the board.

Second Report This Week

The board, Darrow said, "expects to deliver before the end of this week a second report reviewing additional industries in which conditions are even worse than in those that have festered Mr. Richberg's vision. When he comes to read the next report of this board it is likely that he will need more than 157 pages to steer around its contents."

Assailing the President for the delay in making the report public, the board declared "We hope that in common fairness the next report will not be held 17 days to give these young gentlemen a chance to read into it things that it does not contain and to pervert its meaning by placing things out of their context. If that is to be done, we shall insist that at the same time opportunity be given us to answer Mr. Richberg's misstatements, correct his errors and at least try to draw his attention to the realities of the issues involved."

"Finally, one question: Does the Administration wish to be understood as supporting monopolies?"

A bewildered city today was fighting itself out from under a snowstorm of more than 80,000 words loosed upon it in the form of the report and Administrator Johnson's answer.

Clearance Protest Loses in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Charges brought by the Cedar Lee Theatre Co. that protection allowed Loew's Stillman Park and Granada over the complainant's Lake, Uptown and Variety was unfair have been dismissed by the clearance and zoning board on the ground that because the clearance involves more than one house no change can be made in the schedule without a general revision.

The board says a Greater Cleveland clearance schedule is now in preparation and will be completed within 10 days. After its publication any theatre, including the Cedar Lee group, may protest, the board rules.

The hearing began Friday and continued until midnight Saturday.

Stern Quits Place On Clearance Board

Second United Artists representative to resign from the New York clearance and zoning advisory committee is Charles Stern, district manager. Moe Streimer, local branch manager for the company, was originally selected for the post, but quit because of ill health.

Stern claims he spends most of his time on the road and cannot be available for meetings. He just returned from New Orleans and expects to leave for another tour shortly.

Push New Clearance Work in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—Work on a revised clearance and zoning schedule is progressing, but it is considered doubtful whether the committee will be able to complete its work at its next meeting scheduled for Wednesday. A. C. Gutenberg, Milwaukee, is substituting on the local clearance and zoning committee at the meetings in the absence of George Fischer, who is recovering from an operation.

Cullman Files New Charge on Mayfair

Having already won one case against the Mayfair, Howard S. Cullman, receiver for the Roxy, yesterday filed a second complaint before the New York grievance board, claiming that the same theatre is distributing passes among store merchants, who are giving "about three" with certain purchases.

Cullman states this is one form of premiums prohibited under the code.

N. O. Hears Complaint

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—The complaint of Crawford's McGee, McGee, Miss., charging the operation of a theatre in connection with the Sanatorium Hospital, three miles from that town, was unfair competition, was heard today by the local grievance board. Evidence revealed the hospital paid no state taxes and allowed outsiders to enter on payment of admission. A decision is expected in three days. The board decided to send Paramount's breach of contract charge against Guidry Brothers, Oakdale, La., to Campi in New York for action.

Code authorities here voted today to give publicity to board activities and decisions.

Review Board Report Is Hit By Kuykendall

COLUMBUS, MISS., May 21.—The Darrow report was denounced here today by Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., as "unfair" and as representative of the views of only a small number of theatre owners.

His statement follows in full:

"The report of the Darrow committee shows an amazing disregard for facts and complete lack of understanding of the mechanics of the motion picture industry and is not the sentiment of any appreciable number of theatre owners. The facts are this committee heard only a few disgruntled persons, most of whom have no investment in this industry and are professional organizers and creators of law suits and strife, and by their obstructionist methods have retarded the working of the code to the detriment of the so-called independent theatre owners they pretend to help."

Charges Desertion

"This group ran out in Washington when they learned that those who had no investment in this industry could not participate in its code. They will continue to interfere in every way possible with its functioning because to end strife would obliterate them."

"How can anyone condemn in sincerity that which has just started and has not had time to work as yet. Mr. Darrow has been imposed upon by this little group, undoubtedly because the protests are almost the same language they used in Washington and are the wailings of a destructive minority who would delight in tearing down the code and everything else that did not agree with their radical views. It is so manifestly unfair it will have no weight with the sane men and women who make up this industry and understand its mechanics."

"I personally and my organization have complete faith in the NRA, the President of the United States and Sol A. Rosenblatt's ability and integrity as administrator of the amusement division."

Jersey Allied Takes Up Darrow's Report

Discussions of the Darrow report of the National Recovery Review Board, the nationwide Catholic boycott of objectionable films, producer-made trailers and new product and sales policies occupied the meeting of Allied of New Jersey yesterday.

Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied States and head of the New Jersey unit, stated that no action was taken on any of the subjects as the meeting did not advance them beyond the discussion stage. The next meeting of the unit was set for June 4.

Forbids Prizes by Saxe

MILWAUKEE, May 21.—The grievance board here has issued a cease and desist order in the complaint of the Langheinrich brothers, operators of the Burleigh, against the Saxe Amusement Management Co., Inc., which was charged with giving prizes in connection with a cooking school at the Garfield in this city.

Widening of Strike Predicted by Levey

Additional service employees were scheduled to be called out of Loew's and RKO metropolitan houses last night by Local 118, Theatre & Amusement Employees Union, according to Charles Levey, secretary.

Circuits reported no additional employees had joined the strike over the week-end. Levey said that "10 or 15" additional houses might be affected by late today, bringing the total of houses picketed to about 30, he said.

Charges of coercion filed against Levey by the Tivoli, Brooklyn, were postponed to June 18 when the case came up for hearing in Supreme Court yesterday.

Stars' Show Pulls $10,000 for Start

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—At least 10,000 turned out for the first Screen Stars' Frolic at Gilmore Stadium. Receipts are estimated at $10,000. With four more shows scheduled, ending Sunday night, local theatres are expected to suffer a diversion of an estimated $50,000.

The heavy advertising campaign is emphasizing "See All the Stars."

The show consisted of a pageant with stars in the leading, a circus, and a rodeo. Outside the stadium was a carnival midway, with varied concessions.

Tiffany Winner in Mae Murray's Suit

Mae Murray lost her $300,000 suit against Tiffany Productions yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Aaron Steuer after hearing four days of testimony dismissed the case in a decision rendered from the bench.

Miss Murray, who appeared in five Tiffany productions made about 12 years ago, contended in her suit that the contract she held with the company had been fraudulently settled in 1924.

Additional meetings scheduled between the managers and Pettijohn appear to be for the purpose of deciding how many of the Film Boards will remain and where they will be located.

Two or three additional meetings on the subject may be held before the future of the boards is definitely set, although a decision is expected prior to June 1. The next meeting will be held today at the Astor.

"Rothschild," in its third week maintained its winning pace with a top notch $13,000. At least two more weeks loom for this one.

"Men in White" Is Oklahoma City Hit

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 21.—Although summer weather with other diversions rapped city houses last week, business held up, but all houses did not hit par. The Criterion, with "Men in White," led the field with a $5,800 take, or $800 above average.

The Mid-West was let down with $3,400 on "Stand Up and Cheer" which was $600 off par. The Liberty went $1,500 above its average week on a take of $3,500 for two changes, "Man's Castle" and "Smarty" supported by two different stage shows. The Capitol went down the river on "A Very Honorable Guy," taking only $1,500, which was $1,000 below average.

Total first run business was $14,200. Average is $13,500.

is an increase of 10 over the current year's program, the company, through diligent and careful preparation during the past six months, has lined up and has prepared more than 75 per cent of the new product. This will enable James R. Grainger, sales head to go before the annual sales meet next month, prepared to promise the delivery of more definite stories than ever before in the history of Universal sales conventions.

So enthusiastic is Carl Laemmle, Sr., over the present lineup that after the budget had already been set for the entire program, he added another million to insure plenty of latitude.

This season's program will wind up with the completion of "Little Man, What Now?" reviewed elsewhere in this issue; "Imitation of Life" and "One More River." First of the pictures for the new program will get under way around June 1 with the schedule so arranged that there will be no complete studio shutdown for a year to come.

As for man power and players, Universal feels it has already entrenched itself with top line producers, directors and writers. As for players, the studio has doubled its stock list to such an extent that it is the largest ever assembled in its history. Many have been imported from Broadway, but the majority were contracted here after proving themselves for stellar roles through past performances. This list, which will be called from time to time to support Universal stars, consists of Sally Eilers, Heather Angel, Henry Hull, Frank Lawton, Jane Wyatt, Victor Moore, Louise Latimer, Douglas Fowley, Binnie Barnes, Ann Darling, Lois January, Eral Eby, Onslow Stevens, Andy Devine, Russ Brown, Dean Denton, Henry Arnetta, Sterling Holloway, June Knight and Alice White.

In the star list, there are Miss Sullavan. Boris Karloff, Paul Lukas, Chester Morris, Edmund Lowe, Buck Jones, Russ Columbo, Gloria Stuart, Roger Pryor and the team of Summerville and Pitts.

Preparing for an active year, Universal has reopened its laboratory, where not only the daily rushes will be processed, but the bulk of release prints as well. Two of the old stages are being converted into modern sound stages.

"Ziegfeld" First of Quartet by McGuire

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—First of four pictures to be made by William Anthony McGuire on a new ticket with Universal will be his own story, "The Great Ziegfeld."

Billie Burke, widow of the Follies impresario, will assist McGuire in the preparation of the screen biography.

Werner After Talent

David Werner, Universal casting director, reached New York yesterday to stay one month in search of new talent. This is part of a three-month effort to line up new faces.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Little Man, What Now?"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Reaching primary emotions with undertones of spiritual power, this drama of a boy and a girl, madly in love and caught in the web of modern economic forces, rises to heights of magnificent entertainment.

It's today's story of youth in any land, adapted by William Anthony McGuire from Hans Fallada's novel. It is youth seeking the rainbow, assaulting the world for food and clothing and clinging close to womanly affection.

Losing one job because he wouldn't play up to the boss's daughter, Douglas Montgomery, with his bride, Margaret Sullavan, go to live with his mother, Catharine Doucet, who secretly runs a sort of lonely club. Her consort, Alan Hale, helps Montgomery secure a job in a department store, and then tries to inveigle himself with Miss Sullavan. Montgomery loses his job, his wife has a baby and a friend proffers work.

Miss Sullavan again demonstrates her outstanding artistry and charm. Montgomery gives a sterling performance. Hale, Christian Rub, Muriel Kirkland and De Witt Jennings contribute gems in support. Frank Borzage's masterful craftsmanship solidifies him as the industry's great heart director.

The production is flawless and refreshing, rich in qualities that stir the masses, whose drama is splendidly mirrored and romantically unfolded.

"Fog Over Frisco"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Although the story gets involved in its own complicated plot, "Fog Over Frisco" is an exciting murder mystery of the "blood and thunder" type.

The story revolves around Bette Davis, a neurotic girl member of a gang of crooks dealing in stolen securities which Miss Davis unloads on her stepfather's firm through Lyle Talbot, her fiance. Things begin to happen when Miss Davis disappears mysteriously from her home following an argument with one of her gang, leaving her engagement ring behind. Follows a suicide, the kidnaping of Margaret Lindsay, Miss Davis' half-sister, and a double murder, all involving a butler, newspapermen, a partner of the banker's firm and persons unknown.

The picture should click in spots where Miss Davis and Talbot are box-office and in neighborhood houses where they take their melodrama straight.

"I Give My Love"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Based on a proved entertainment premise, this romantic drama is a standard program attraction with a strong feminine appeal. Its realism centers sympathy on the heroine, with a tempo impressive with action and dialogue balanced in carrying the story.

The yarn concerns an artist's model driven to desperation by her egomaniac husband. Jailed for his accidental murder, the woman returns to the home of her benefactor, finding her son turned against her. Becoming a wanderer, she lands in Paris, and the son, now an artist, has her pose for a painting. When it is finished, the boy's foster father identifies the model as the young artist's mother, as well as the woman he has always loved. The climax reunites mother and son and brings married happiness to the battered woman.

The production, adapted from Vicki Baum's story by Milton Krims, preserves the dramatic human qualities. Wynne Gibson and Paul Lukas turn in convincing performances. As the young husband John Darrow is outstanding, while Tad Alexander as a boy of 10 and Eric Linden, carrying the same role 10 years later, add much to the conflict and heart interest.

Fox Will Get 10% Interest In Fox "Met"

for the capitalization of the new company. In addition to the stock, there would be issued 6,880,350 of new secured five per cent debentures, due in 1944.

Holding companies of the new Fox "Met" organization would subscribe for $650,000 of the new debentures at par and all of the remainder, together with the new common stock, will be issued to depositing noteholders, who propose to bid in the company at foreclosure on June 20. The noteholders are to receive $500 of the new debentures, 20 shares of common and a warrant for additional shares to be pro-rated later, and $50 in cash for each $1,000 of bonds in the present Fox "Met" deposited with the committee.

This would apparently involve a settlement to noteholders of approximately 75 cents on the dollar, exclusive of their continued holdings in a going concern.

Financing of the reorganization is to be accomplished with a sum of $1,430,000 in Fox "Met" cash now on hand and subject, in the opinion of the reorganization committee to outstanding mortgages held by it. Provision will also be made from this cash for approximately $200,000 of working capital for the new company. Any excess amount remaining is to be pro-rated among the depositing noteholders.

Trustees to Be Managers

Management of the new company will be in the hands of the voting trustees and the board of seven members of the new company. The voting trustees, in addition to Kent, are: Herbert P. Howell, president of the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co., and Richard C. Hunt, member of the law firm of Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaekel & Brown. The trustees will also be members of the board and with its president will control the new company.

Operations will go to Skouras and Randforce, with the latter sub-letting from the new company approximately 36 Brooklyn houses, and Skouras the remaining 44 in Manhattan, Long Island and New Jersey. The operators will have a 50 per cent interest in the operating companies and the new Fox "Met" parent company will retain the other 50 per cent. Aggregate salaries to be paid the operators, Louis Frisch and Samuel Rinzler of Randforce, and Spyros, Charles and George Skouras, will amount to $119,200 per year.

The plan also provides for compromise settlements of a claim of $4,500,000 of Fox Theatres Corp. and one of $288,000 of Fox Film against Fox Met., and for the payment in full of $7,000 of unsecured creditors' claims.

Jurisdiction over the plan was accepted by the Federal Court here last week.

The consolidated corporate and receivers' income report on Fox "Met" for the period from June 4, 1932, to Dec. 31, 1933, made public yesterday, showed a net loss after interest and other charges of $2,095,226.

of settlement of Paramount Public claims against Fox Film and Fox West Coast before Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn yesterday. Attorneys for the Paramount Public trustees stated at the hearing that trustees of Fox West Coast had advised them on May 10 that the sale would take place within 60 days.

At the same time it was stated that Chase National Bank and Fox Film were the principal creditors of Fox West Coast and the implication was that these two organizations would control whatever group took over the West Coast assets at the sale. The reorganization plan itself, which will go into effect shortly after the foreclosure, will not alter the present Fox West Coast operating setup in any material way, it was learned earlier. Regarded as the most important change involved in the plan is the contemplated election of Sidney R. Kent, Fox president, to the presidency of the reorganized West Coast company.

Campi Issues Report On Extra Committee

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Mrs. Mable Kinney today received Campi's report on the study of the extra situation made by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, on his recent visit to the coast. The report was contained in a letter from Flinn and ordered the standing committee discharged "from further considering and recommending any interpretations or terms of any provisions made for extras under the code."

End 'Bank', 'Race' Nights

PORTLAND, May 21.—The grievance board here today agreed that all "bank," "race" and other nights be eliminated as business stimulants at all Oregon theatres, but is asking Campi in New York if it has the authority to take this action. Zoning meetings will be held Mondays, with grievance sessions set for Tuesdays.

amount of approximately $30,000, registered the only opposition to the settlements. Basing his opposition on the alleged former associations of Charles E. Richardson and Eugene W. Leake, Paramount trustees, with Chase National Bank, and Richardson's additional association with Fox Film, Zirn contended that the trustees were thereby disqualified from acting in the present F. W. C. settlement.

It was pointed out that Richardson took no part in the F. W. C. settlement because of his former post as treasurer of Fox Film. Referee Ehrhorn also pointed out that in Zirn's action for the removal of the Paramount trustees the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals held that the former Chase bank associations of the trustees did not disqualify them for serving as trustees of Paramount. Zirn's suit for the removal of the trustees is being carried by him to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Other Objections

Zirn also objected that the new leases involved in the settlements with F. W. C. were for shorter terms than the originals, for reduced rentals and were not guaranteed by Fox Film. Referee Ehrhorn stated that he would be guided by the trustees' recommendations and the voting of the other creditors on these objections. Creditors representing a minimum of $50,000,000 in claims, as opposed to Zirn's $30,000, approved the trustees' recommendations to proceed with the settlements.

Paramount's claims against F. W. C. arose from the latter's non-performance of the 1930 lease agreement on the seven theatres, the St. Francis, Paramount and California, at San Francisco; the Paramount at Oakland, Paramount and Rialto at Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle.

Under the terms of the settlement authorized by Referee Ehrhorn yesterday, which were set forth at length in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of May 14, F. W. C. takes new 10-year leases on the three San Francisco theatres at an average rental of $214,000, and pays Paramount $114,299 in back rentals and an additional amount to be determined on net income from the houses for an additional period. In addition, Paramount is to receive 37½ per cent of the net earnings of all downtown San Francisco houses in which F. W. C. has an interest during the life of the leases.

F. W. C. also takes a new lease on the Paramount, Oakland, and pays $390,000 to Paramount, guaranteed by Fox Film, for back rentals and claims. The landlord of the house withdraws a claim of $2,211,500 filed against Paramount for breach of lease.

Zirn Opposes the Plan

Zirn objected to the Oakland settlement on the implication that the landlord, the Broadway & Twentieth Corp., was linked in some way with Paramount due to the fact that it was the friendly applicant for a Paramount consent receivership in Jan., 1933, on the basis of a $29,000 unpaid rent claim. Zirn contended that Broadway & Twentieth, if it had no other objective than to collect its claim, could have done so by impounding Paramount's cash deposits in California which amounted to $150,000 at the time, according to Zirn. Other creditors approved this settlement yesterday.

The settlement also provides for a payment by F. W. C. of $35,030 to Paramount for back rent on the Paramount and Rialto, Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle. The Rialto has been repossessed by the landlord and is not included in the new leases involved in the present settlement. The Paramount, Portland, will be operated for 10 years by a new company in which F. W. C. will have a 75 per cent stock interest and Paramount a 25 per cent interest. New leasing arrangements on the Paramount, Seattle, are contingent on a reorganization of a bondholders' claim. Paramount picture franchises are involved in the new F. W. C. leases.

Involved in the agreement are other plans for compromises of claims against Paramount involving the California Theatre Bldg., San Francisco, and the Paramount, Portland, which were also approved by the referee yesterday. The Paramount trustees asked and were granted authority to pay $15,000 to Lawrence Stern & Co. of Chicago, for services rendered in preparing these compromise plans. Zirn objected to this payment on the ground that Albert D. Lasker, former Paramount director, and John Hertz, former Paramount treasurer, were associated with Stern at one time.

Ostrer Silent Upon G-B Exchange Plans

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, May 22.—David Ostrer, export manager of Gaumont British, today was non-committal on reports current in New York that his company planned its own exchanges in America, although he hinted a statement would be made in New York "eventually."

Apparently, the G. B. board either has not made a final decision or, if it has, will not make it public at this time. C. M. Woolf, managing director of G. B., is out of the city.

Darrow-Johnson Code Fight Reaches Congress

Five New Appeals Filed With Campi for Decision

Five new appeal cases are on the docket of Code Authority for hearing and disposition. No dates have been set for the hearings, but it is likely only one case will be heard at future meetings of Campi. This does not include the adjourned hearing of the Fox West Coast appeal from the Los Angeles grievance board which granted Simon M. Lazarus, operating the Garfield in Alhambra, Cal., 20 pictures of the F. W. C. schedule bought.

The quintet of appeals pending are: Charles Wander of the Tivoli, Miami, from the Miami clearance and zoning board; Walter Reade of the Mayfair against Howard S. Cullman of the Roxy, who won a decision ordering Film Board procedure is out as far as code board operations are concerned. Distributors made parties to complaints cannot appeal to Campi from decisions rendered by the boards.

Also differing from Film Board operations in the past is the procedure whereby no man can be challenged unless his company is involved in a case being tried. When Film Boards met, any man could be challenged before a case was heard.

Kalmus Reelected as Head of Technicolor

Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus was re-elected president of Technicolor yesterday when the company's board of directors met. A. W. Erickson of the McCann-Erickson Agency was named chairman of the executive committee. George F. Lewis was elected a vice-president and S. M. Corekin was made treasurer.

Members of the executive committee which, according to Kalmus, is the most important cog in the Technicolor structure, are, aside from Erickson, John McHugh, A. W. Hawkes, Eversley Childs and Kalmus himself. Hawkes is identified with the Congoleum Co. and Childs with the Bon Ami Co.

D. M. Thomas Plans 6 for New Concern

D. M. Thomas, who produced "The Sea Wolf" with Ralph Ince and "Smoke Bellew," yesterday formed Major Prod., Inc., to make six pictures, the first of which will be "Convention Girl" by George Boyle. Luther Reed, director of "Rio Rita" and "Hit the Deck," will direct and the opening opus will be produced in Atlantic City beginning June 25. The others are scheduled to be made in the Irvington studio at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Thomas had nothing to say yesterday about distribution, but he hopes for a national release.

To Stage Fashions

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—Paramount theatres in New York and Kansas City are to stage fashion shows in which a highlight will be costumes from "Cleopatra," "The Scarlet Empress" and "It Ain't No Sin." Gretchen Messer, Paramount studio fashion editor, en route to New York, announced preliminary plans.

Review Board Row Reaches Legislature

morning had become normal, the only outburst being a statement by Administrator Johnson that the second report of the board, expected this week at the White House, would be handled in the same way as was the initial statement; that is, the reply to the board's allegations will be prepared for simultaneous release with the charges.

Carrying a bitter attack on the Administration for having increased living costs without a corresponding advance in wages and declaring that the Darrow report "claims that under the present setup there is no hope for the small business man," the Britten resolution calls for the appointment of a committee of five to study the report and, should its investigation substantiate Darrow's findings, recommend to the House proper legislation for the immediate abolition of the National Recovery Administration.

Refers to Film Code

The resolution refers specifically to the film code, quoting the board's finding that "monopolistic practices in the motion picture industry are bold and aggressive and small enterprises are cruelly oppressed," and that "no power under the National Recovery Administration has shown itself capable of protecting the small business man."

Immediate action will be sought on the resolution, Congressman Britten declaring that "abolishment of the Roosevelt-Darrow board must not occur until its findings, just made public, have been thoroughly investigated by a Congressional committee."

Opening his attack on the administration with a one-hour speech, which he will continue tomorrow, Senator Nye declared that "just what has been done by the NRA is debatable" but that "from the attitude which has been shown by departments of government in this administration there is little or no sympathy left for small business."

The NRA, he told the Senate, is undoubtedly planned to lend larger aid to "monopoly and monopolists" and the administration "was the creation of the same monopolists who were guiding America's economic structure during the days leading up to the New Deal." "Under the NRA," he asserted, "monopoly has been enthroned as it was never enthroned in America before."

Nye Charges Deception

Charging the administration with "continuous deception," Nye charged "there is endless evidence as to how monopoly is being aided and no end of evidence as to how the small business man is being stricken from the picture entirely."

Administrator Johnson and Donald R. Richberg, his chief counsel, the Senator continued, seized upon the supplemental report signed only by Darrow and Thompson, carrying the now famous endorsement of socialized industry, as a "camouflage" to hide the charges in the main report.

He criticized Richberg's attack upon Darrow, declaring that it was Richberg who had suggested Darrow as chairman of the board when Johnson and the President were "finally prevailed" upon to create the organization. Adjournment of Congress will be marked by "wholesale resignations" from the Recovery Administration as a result of Johnson's "despotism and militarism," he predicted.

Cleveland "Bargain" Hour Ordered Ended decision handed down by the grievance board today. The case was referred to Code Authority for advice following a hearing last week.

Complaint was brought by Frank Gross, Grand Theatre, against Sam Barck, Market Square Theatre, that time shows from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock were unfair. The board held at the same time that Barck had not violated Article V-E, Part 3, Section 3 of the code.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 22.—Advertising passes for women are held an unfair trade practice and have been ordered stopped by the grievance board.

CINCINNATI, May 22.—Ten-cent admissions with tickets distributed by merchants were ordered stopped yesterday by the grievance board. The complaint was filed against Phil Chakers, operating the State, Greenville, O., by I. F. Wingert, operator of the Grand, Union City, Ind., 13 miles away.

K. C. Suburbans Hit New Clearance Setup

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—The new clearance schedule for this territory was denounced as discriminatory and as a threat to their existence today by independent suburbans at an open meeting called by the clearance and zoning board to hear protests against the setup.

Named to Studio Body

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—W. J. Davis, Los Angeles attorney, was today named by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt as impartial member of the studio code labor committee, with Pat Casey representing the studios, and E. L. Smith, local representative of studio labor unions, representing labor.

Five New Appeals Filed With Campi for Decision

the Mayfair to stop distribution of cut rate tickets; Max Cluster of the Cluster, Baltimore, against Moe Cohn of the Leader, Baltimore, on a decision involving premiums and reduced admissions; the Gwynn, Washington, against the Forrest, same city, the latter appealing an overbuying decision involving selective contracts; the Luxor, Bronx, against the New York grievance board's decision which denied the plaintiff elimination of clearance over Loew's Grand. Consolidated Amusements, operating the Luxor, claims the decision "goes beyond the scope of the complaint."

First Challenge of Campi Member Made

the Empress and Lane, and Warners, Fox, RKO and Universal.

Benjamin Rich, attorney for Springer and Cocalis, challenged Louis Geller, independent member, as being prejudiced, but the board ruled that Geller is a government appointee and cannot be removed by anyone other than Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, who sanctioned his appointment. Rich's request for a postponement of the case on the ground that he was not fully prepared also was denied. The case, heard briefly, was adjourned until the next session, May 29.

Because it was believed the complaint of the Strand, Rockville Center, against RKO, the Century circuit, Skouras and other distributors, would be settled in about a week, the case was put off until May 29.

Sylvester Rosenthal's grievance against Sam Cantor and Abe Ratner, charging that the defendants negotiated and secured a lease on the Arian, Middle Village, L. I., while he was operating will be deliberated today. Also to be decided today is the premature advertising complaint of Loew's, operating the Grand, Paradise and Burnside, against the Moshulu.

Single Request for Zone Change Looms

Only one protest for change in zoning and clearance comes before the Brooklyn and Queens advisory committee of the New York board today. This is the request of the Newton, Elmhurst, L. I., to have the protection of the Jackson, Jackson Heights, L. I. and Corona, Corona, L. I., altered.

Paramount, Warner Brothers-First National, Columbia and Universal are defendants in the case.

Elucidation Wanted On Rogowsky Ruling

Skouras Theatre Corp. has asked the New York grievance board for an elucidation of the decision handed down recently when the board granted the Rogowsky Brothers 22 pictures of the Skouras allotment.

Skouras operates the Capitol, Port Chester, and the Rogowskys the Embassy, same city. The board meets today to elucidate.

ITOA Case Not Heard

ALBANY, May 22.—No decision is expected during the present term of the Court of Appeals on the I.T.O.A.-Local 306 case in which the independents attack the constitutionality of the NRA. The case has not been argued yet.

No Notice from Cutts

PORTLAND, May 22.—William Cutts has failed to give written notice of his resignation from the clearance and zoning board and will be considered a member until he does so.

Campi Names Committee to Handle Extras

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—Hereafter all extras' problems will be handled by a committee of three responsible directly to Code Authority, subject to review by the administrator.

The committee consists of three members, Mabel E. Kinney, as chairman, representing the public; Larry Steers, representing extras, and Fred Schuessler, representing studios. Alternates are: For Mrs. Kinney, Martha A. Wright; for Steers, Lee Phelps; for Schuessler, Phil Freedman.

This committee replaces the group of five headed by Mrs. Kinney which has been drawing up regulations for the guidance of Campi. Membership of the new committee will be changed from time to time at the will of Code Authority.

Letter to Mrs. Kinney

In a letter to Mrs. Kinney, Executive Secretary John Flinn wrote: "In order that there shall be no misapprehension on the part of any members of your committee as to their responsibility to Code Authority with respect to the duties of the standing committee on extras, I refer you to Article 4, Section 3, Paragraph 1 of the code. It provides for a standing committee representative of employers, extras and the public to effectuate the foregoing purposes, to interpret the terms of any provisions made for extras, and to supervise the same, receive and pass on complaints and grievances and to otherwise aid in effectuating the foregoing provisions."

Flinn wrote that Campi had analyzed all the recommendations of the committee and had also studied Order 16-A of the California Industrial Welfare Commission concerning casting agencies. These, he wrote, are recognized as setting up the present provisions called for in the code, and have been adopted as part of the rules and regulations to be adopted by all casting agencies and producers with respect to extras.

Rules heretofore applicable only to women and children are extended to men as well.

Campi has also recommended to the administrator, Flinn wrote, that an amendment be made to the order setting up a standard of wages so that any extra, regardless of trade, who speaks atmospheric words commonly known as "omnies" be entitled to the basic figure set for that particular call.

Any extra who is selected or called for any individual line, or lines, shall receive not less than $25 per day, effective immediately.

Coast Extras Refuse Names on Complaints

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—Submission of extras' complaints over individual names to the complaint and grievance committee is opposed by the Hollywood Picture Players' Ass'n. Hereafter members will refuse to submit any complaints signed by themselves.

The association's officers claim more than five months have passed without any relief and that conditions are worse than at the time of the signing of the code.

RKO showed a consolidated loss of $4,384,064, as compared with a loss of $10,695,503 for the preceding year. The 1933 report includes 11 months of the company's equity receivership. The results of operations for the year thus indicate an improvement of $6,311,439 over 1932, without the operations for the last 11 months of 1933 of the subsidiaries in bankruptcy or receivership. With comparable eliminations made for 1932, the resulting improvement last year is reduced to $2,780,924.

Theatre operations, exclusive of Radio City houses, showed an operating profit of $99,650, before income taxes, for the first quarter of this year, as compared with an estimated 1933 loss of $33,000.

Combined operations of the producing and distributing subsidiaries showed a first quarter profit this year of $308,602, before income taxes, as compared with a loss of $603,293 for the same period last year, or an indicated improvement of $912,000 for the quarter. For the entire year of 1933 the producing and distributing subsidiaries showed a loss after all charges of $1,290,685, compared with a 1932 loss of $5,381,051.

Profit from Radio City

Radio City theatre operations for seven months ending last March 31 returned a profit of $58,282 to the subsidiary corporations operating the Music Hall and RKO Center, and resulted in payments of $45,000 to RKO Service Corp. for management services for the houses. In addition, it is pointed out that RKO Radio Pictures has received "substantial payments" from the houses for its product. These returns are after deduction of $50,000 per month rent to Rockefeller Center and an additional participation of Rockefeller Center in surplus income of the two houses, estimated to have been $116,564 for the seven-month period. The payments to RKO are also after deduction of all operating costs of the two houses and additional deductions for two working and reserve funds which are to be maintained at a total of $125,000.

The receiver's report states that $2,031,000 of claims filed against RKO have been withdrawn and that hearings on $24,000,000 of claims have been completed before Special Master Thomas D. Thacher, who, however, has made no report yet to the U. S. District Court on the claims heard.

Total claims filed against RKO aggregated $35,413,733, exclusive of the holders of securities representing the funded indebtedness of RKO in the aggregate amount of $16,240,000, who have been exempt from filing claims subject to the further order of the court.

Added to the claims since the receiver's last report, filed approximately six months ago, is one by Rockefeller Center for approximately $12,100,000, the amount of which was determined recently. This claim is based upon breach of leases by RKO on the two Radio City theatres and office space in the RKO Building and Westerns for Para.

Hollywood, May 22.—Paramount has rescinded its plan not to make any Westerns and will have at least four next season, starring Randolph Scott.

breach of an original agreement to pay the cost of the two theatres in the event of default on rent payments.

The receiver's report relates that operations under a revolving fund were begun by Radio Pictures last April 10, at which time the company paid two notes aggregating approximately $300,000 to Chemical Bank & Trust Co., as trustee, and then borrowed the same amount on delivery of new notes for $326,000 secured by chattel mortgages on two completed films. The agreement by which these arrangements for carrying on operations of RKO subsidiaries was provided was related in detail by MORION PICTURE DAILY of May 3, at which time the Circuit Court of Appeals here approved the agreement after it had been attacked in that and the lower court by Walter Reade's Broadway & 47th St. Corp., an unsecured RKO creditor.

The report makes note that prospects for increased admissions at this time "are not very bright," due to the fact that Federal admission taxes tend to keep admissions under 40 cents, together with the belief that purchasing power of a large segment of theatre patronage is still too low to absorb increases. It is also stated that attendance during the first quarter of this year was only "slightly above" that for the same period a year ago, and that operating expenses were "substantially increased" by compliance with the NRA code.

"Substantial improvements in operating results" for this quarter, as compared with the first quarter of 1933, are attributed by the report to reductions in theatre rentals and tax reductions.

RKO Service Drops To $60,352 Per Month

Average monthly expense of RKO Service Corp., the home office company which provides administrative services for the theatres, has been reduced to an average monthly cost of $60,352, the receiver's report discloses. The former average monthly cost for the seven-month period ending July 31, 1933, was $105,043.

As a result of this reduction, it is stated, the general office fee paid the service company by each theatre has been reduced from five per cent of the average weekly gross receipts in 1933 to three and one-half per cent beginning with the first week of 1934.

RKO's Film Business Increases by $900,000

RKO's income from film distribution during the first quarter of 1934 was approximately $900,000 over the same period of 1933, the receiver's report notes. The increase was divided about evenly between domestic and foreign business.

The combined cash balances of these companies increased from approximately $681,000 on Dec. 31, 1933, to $1,864,000 on March 31, 1934. The improvements have been brought about largely by reduction in the negative costs of pictures and "improvement in quality of pictures," the report states.

Total RKO receiver's receipts from Jan. 27, 1933, to May 15, 1934, were $177,987. Disbursements were $35,715, leaving a balance of $142,272.

RKO Vaudeville End Reports Net of $11,839

Combined net profit of RKO Vaudeville Exchange, Inc., and Vaudeville Collection Agency, Inc., for the five-month period ended March 31 was $11,839, according to the receiver's report. This compares with a combined loss of $75,401 for the eight-month period ended Aug. 31, 1933.

Draws $179,848 from Radio City Rent Fund

During the past seven months Rockefeller Center has withdrawn $179,848 from a special fund to cover deficiencies in rent on the two Radio City theatres, the receiver's report notes. The fund originally amounted to $1,000,000. The balance as of last March 31 was $122,457.

Rockefeller Center has been paid $350,000 in rent during the same period and participated in excess revenue of the houses in the estimated amount of $233,128. Under RKO's lease with Rockefeller Center, the maximum fixed by the court to be paid in rent during a year is $953,972.

Pre-Financing Loss Was $300,134 in 1933

Combined loss of RKO Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe before financing expenses for 1933 was only $300,134, the receiver's report shows. All of the financing expenses, aggregating $990,550, represents interest on the indebtedness of the two companies to RKO.

Plunkett's Suit Ends; RKO Paid Him $16,000

The suit of Joseph Plunkett, former RKO theatre head, begun against that company some time ago for breach of contract, has been settled for $16,000, it is revealed in the receiver's third report on RKO operations.

partial fees for the receiver and $125,000 for the law firm, and represents only a petition for payment on account. A petition for final allowances will probably be filed on the close of the RKO receivership.

Equity receivers for Paramount Public, and their attorneys, petitioned $285,000 for the four and one-half months of that company's equity receivership. This was subsequently reduced to approximately $210,000 by the referee and has not yet been given the final approval of the U. S. District Court here.

from picketing the Tivoli, Brooklyn, where the union had been on strike for the past month. The theatre petitioned the injunction recently following disturbances which resulted in one of the local's pickets assigned to the theatre being arrested and charged with assault. The Tivoli also brought charges of coercion against Charles Levey, local secretary, alleging that stench bombs had been discharged in the theatre on its refusal to reinstate discharged employees.

In addition, five of the local's strikers formerly cleaning company employees at Radio City Music Hall and the RKO Center, were held in Harlem jail yesterday in $2,500 bond each, charged with assault in connection with strike activities. A hearing for the five has been set for tomorrow.

Settlement of the local's strike of service employees against Loew's and RKO came swiftly late Monday night at a meeting of circuit representatives and Ben Golden of the Regional Labor Board in C. C. Moskowitz's office at Loew's. On the agreement of the circuit representatives to reinstate the strikers a settlement was reached. Levey estimated that approximately 150 service employees participated in the strike.

While Levey denied yesterday that the local would be dissolved at once he indicated that owing to personal ill health and the approach of an inactive summer season the organization's activities would be curtailed almost immediately. With the loss of the strike and the resignation of large numbers of the local's membership, however, ultimate dissolution of the organization appears to be only a matter of time. Indications are, however, that a new organization of janitors and cleaners only may develop later from the same sources. Ushers, doormen and cashiers proved to be the weak links in the present organization and probably would have no part in a successor to it, it was stated on good authority.

the form in which the field organization will be continued and a committee consisting of Neil Agnew, Paramount; Al Lichtman, United Artists; Gradwell Sears, Warners, and Abe Montague, Columbia, was appointed to consider the proposals made or to develop an entirely new one of its own. nies involved. Plans will be completed on the coast within the next few weeks.

Under the proposed setups for the various companies, the present heads will continue without change. Charles Skouras will be elected president of the reorganized Fox West Coast Theatres. Subsidiary companies like Fox Rocky Mountain and Fox Midwest will continue under their present operating personnel.

Bankruptcy sales of the subsidiary companies will take place around July 10, and, according to the present plan, Chase National Bank, Fox Film and other large creditors will be given stock in the new top company in exchange for present holdings. Frank L. Newman, heading the Evergreen States Co., will operate independently of the about-to-be-formed holding company.

About 400 theatres are involved in the reorganization plans. With the settlement of the Wolff-Shanberg suit, involving $500,000, and the Paramount claims against Fox West Coast, Charles Skouras, Charles A. Buckley, William Powers and Edward Zabel left for the coast yesterday.

Campi Holds Up New Moves On Clearance

New Schedules to Await Orders from New York

In a move to prevent spread of dissatisfaction over clearance schedules already drawn up and against which protests of individual exhibitors are being heard in Dallas, Kansas City, Los Angeles and St. Louis, Campi yesterday wired board secretaries to suspend publication of schedules pending instructions from New York.

In some instances where new zoning schedules have been published, jurisdiction determined on behalf of protesting theatres has developed unforeseen results in the nature of additional

Nye Attacks Rosenblatt Reply to Darrow Report

Kicked for a Headline

FROTHING in soap-box oratory, Senator Nye of North Dakota gave the industry the works in Washington yesterday. He did it by publicly castigating Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and the code.

It had nothing at all to do with politics and what may sneak up on the horizon in the fall of the year, of course. It had no bearing whatsoever on the magic which is in the mere mention of "movies." Naturally, and as a consequence, it could not possibly have tied in with a desire to crack the nation's headlines by dragging in a business which has been a sucker for attack so long any other sort of treatment is no longer expected.

The code is not perfect. Who said it was? Rosenblatt did a bad or a good job, depending upon who is talking and what he represents. The question and the apparent mystery to ponder over and wonder about are what makes the senator from North Dakota so solicitous over this particular industry?

Senator Nye kicked motion pictures in the pants, it is the suspicion voiced here and now, to keep his name on or near page one. The picture business has plenty of fine showmen in its ranks, but some of the gentlemen of the broad-brimmed hats and the flowing black ties in Washington aren't so dusty either.

Suggesting, therefore, that the industry remember there is more to blasts roaring out of Washington than surface indications may point up, the discerning reader could do worse than discern as he reads what Nye had to say.

Insiders' Outlook

JUST where does well-defined business practice cease and experiment in production begin is a question which bothers Jess L. Lasky. He thinks he has the answer and again he thinks he has not. Sitting in his pleasant bungalow, tucked away in a corner of the imposing Fox studio in the Westwood Hills not so many days back, he warmed up to his question, poised the pros and the cons and left the problem where it was, perhaps for determination by circumstance or another day. . . .

"The question of personalities is one of insurmountable difficulty," he declared. "I think, on the one hand, producers generally make a mistake in the constant use and re-use of well-established box-office names, although I recognize, of course, such a procedure is perhaps the thing to do from the straight, immediate commercial point of view. What I have been trying to determine, however, is whether or not it might not be a better investment for the long haul to experiment with a cast of unknowns, providing they show the necessary promise, to the end there might be developed therefrom starring equations for ultimate use and, of course, ultimate profit." . . .

He cited the case of Galsworthy's "Apple Tree" which was planned as one of his eight on the new Fox program. Lasky figured Leslie Howard and a well-known woman, name not divulged, for his principals, but found it impossible to get either one because of contractual obligations elsewhere. As against that situation, he plotted what he described as a perfect cast. The handicap entered the scene in that his choices were made up of unknowns. At the same time, the producer is reasonably certain a star would emerge in the feminine lead. Is the chance that "The Apple Tree" with unknowns and so perhaps a flop worth the price as against the gamble of creating a new marquee name? Lasky veers both ways and maintains passing judgment on this count is an extremely difficult thing to do. It is. . . .

Lasky, like Goldwyn, is a firm believer in the doctrine of fewer pictures. "If a given studio should cut its annual output from 60 to 25 features, it does not necessarily follow that the 25 will be better than the 60. But isn't it reasonable to suppose that the chances for their being better will increase thereby." There, too, is an argument hard to batter down. On a better understanding and greater mutuality in Hollywood, he is not particularly sanguine. He strikes the attitude that if the business did nothing radical by way of eliminating evils during the depression period what reason is there to believe it will with better times gradually returning? Others are looking for the very reason Lasky talked about. . . .

Nye Attacks Rosenblatt Report Reply

to mean when they refer to self-regulation of business," Nye told the Senate in opening his discussion of the film section of the report.

"The booking situation existing in the motion picture field has been such in times past as to occasion endless consideration of legislation looking to correction of the abuses under the plans which were being pursued. Under the code there has been enlargement of the abuses and we have placed in the hands of the so-called Code Authority the power to go out and regulate itself. When you see how they are doing the job we are straightway forced to go back to those words uttered by President Roosevelt himself when he said that no business has ever been known to purge itself of its own inequities."

More than 40 per cent of the entire response of the NRA to the report consisted of "extravagant lines" by the deputy administrator in charge of the film code, Nye declared. "In addition to numerous paragraphs of self-commendation, he has devoted the final 20 pages of his answer to the erection of a memorial to himself," he said.

Nye Retorts on Time

The fact that only a few hours were devoted to hearings as compared with 79 "days and nights of continuous labor" in the negotiation of the code, Nye contended, does not demonstrate that there were no inequities in the agreement.

"I am prepared to agree with the deputy administrator's description of the number and variety of problems involved in preparing the code in this industry," he said, "but I cannot permit the presumption to arise that because of its long period of consideration the resultant code was a heaven-sent example of perfection." Referring to Rosenblatt's charges regarding the treatment of the Bareford brief, the senator declared that the board's report shows that it was not to have been received as testimony but as argument of counsel in rebuttal. He also dismissed the NRA complaint that witnesses before the board were not sworn by pointing out that witnesses at NRA code hearings also are not sworn, and Rosenblatt's complaint that no opportunity was offered for cross-examination of witnesses by declaring that had he been present he could have examined them.

While Rosenblatt contends that the greater proportion of provisions of the code benefit exhibitors, the review board, Nye said, had shown that no section favors anyone but the distributors.

The repudiation of the board's witnesses he characterized as a "continuation of the deputy's persistent policy of damnation of protesting minorities." Rosenblatt's comparison of the solvency of independents as compared with the insolvency of the larger companies was declared to be misleading, Nye charging that the latter was due to stock market operations.

Embarking upon a discussion of the recommended revisions, paragraph by

Johnson Seeks Dictator Power, Nye Tells Senate

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Charging that General Hugh S. Johnson is attempting to build up a dictatorship in the interests of organized monopoly, Senator Nye of North Dakota, resuming his attack on the NRA, today warned the Senate that the lapse of the licensing provisions of the Recovery Act next month will remove the one weapon which so far has kept big business in any sort of order.

From day to day, Nye announced, he will lay before the Senate sections of the Darrow report dealing with individual codes and the corresponding sections of Johnson's reply, in an effort to show that the conclusions of the Darrow board are based upon actual conditions.

Assailing Johnson's desire to become the dictator of American business, the Senator declared he would not only abolish the review board, appointed by him, but in no instance needed, and the research and planning division, whose recommendations have never been considered; would do away with Congress, at least for the summer, and speed the President's departure for Hawaii. He would also abolish the Federal Trade Commission, "which has so thoroughly disagreed with him respecting the making and enforcement of many of the codes" leaving the administrator with "mar-paragraph, the senator declared the NRA answer was "evasive" and the division administrator's response disclosed chiefly a "fear for his own job." Two pages of that response were devoted to "rantings and ravings" on the labor provisions of the code, whereas "not a single recommendation" on labor is included in the report, he said. Nye declared Rosenblatt's "frantic defenses" were based upon unfair comparison of conditions before and after adoption of the code.

"The report shows the extent to which monopoly went to insure continuation of its control," he commented.

Defending the board's recommendation for revision of the clause dealing with the forcing of shorts, Nye charged Rosenblatt with either "not knowing as much about this industry and the code as he would lead on to believe" or guilty of "deliberate falsehood." Nye pointed out that while it is true no distributor can force an exhibitor to take a greater percentage of shorts than of features, he can nevertheless be loaded up with shorts by application of the block booking practice to make him take more features than he can use.

"If the deputy knows as much as he boasts he knows about the industry he can hardly fail to recognize the purport of this provision," the senator asserted.

Referring to the "obvious inequities" of giving distributors any control over playdates or admissions, or any voice as to whether double features are to be permitted, Nye argued that "without discussing the question of legality, it is obvious that a code of fair competition should not take within its sheltering arms such protecting provisions as these. Although certain trade practices cannot be declared illegal, velous opportunity to demonstrate what 'cracking down' can mean."

The recovery administration, originally intended to improve labor conditions and develop fair trade practices in a few outstanding industries, Nye charged, "has taken in by far too much territory" in its effort to regulate all industries.

Efforts at enforcement were declared by the Senator to have been failures, and he charged that most of the administration's prosecutions have been directed at small business men while monopolists went along unhindered. "Thousands of complaints of refusal to abide by codes" have been received at the administration but not acted upon, he alleged.

"I challenge the administrator to publish a complete showing of settlements which have been accomplished out of all compliance complaints which have been filed," he continued, declaring that in the Pittsburgh area less than nine percent of the prosecutions met with any success.

Discussions of the film code report by the North Dakota senator, it has been indicated, will include a lengthy dissertation on the charges brought against Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and the benefits accruing to the so-called Big Eight under the agreement.

there is no reason for incorporating them in a code of fair practice."

Nye scouted Rosenblatt's defense of the cancellation provision which, he said, consisted of an assertion that it affords the greatest cancellation privilege ever accorded the exhibitor. "Again I point out that when a provision is demonstrated to be unfair it is no defense to state it is less unfair than another provision." He charged the NRA with responsibility for the error in moving the decimal point which made it appear that the review board had referred to "$250,000" contracts.

"The meat of his whole answer is in the deputy administrator's self-adulation and defense of an injured vanity," he said.

Declaring that when Rosenblatt's response was published, charging that the things which had been complained of were inconsequential, he "hit several thousand motion picture people squarely in the eyes," including "a former member of the Federal Trade Commission." Nye disclosed that he had received a letter of protest from Abram F. Myers, head of Allied States, expressing "astonishment" at the charge that the report was based on one-sided testimony from a "few malcontents and obstructionists."

"So far as this association is concerned," Myers wrote, "it has spent many thousands of dollars and much valuable time in an effort to get a fair code. It has cooperated with NRA in every way consistent with the rights of its members."

"We respectfully suggest the Senate make a thoroughgoing and impartial investigation of the entire subject, including the manner of writing the code, its provisions and the manner in which it is being enforced."

Kansas City's New Clearance Stirs Protests

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—Charges that clearance and zoning board members have violated their oaths and also that the new clearance schedule threatens the existence of independent suburbans were passed freely at an open meeting of the board called for the purpose of hearing protests.

About 50 independents, downtown first run managers and exchange managers heard E. S. Young and other suburbans assail the new plan. All affiliated downtown first runs have filed protests charging that the reduced protection is unfair.

Downtown managers contended that the board's intention to raise first run admissions was not advisable at this time, with summer coming on.

Some independents favored changes and others advocated a return to the old system. An independents' committee filed recommendations seeking the elimination of penalties for duals and premiums. They claim the board has made restrictions enforceable against them without similar restrictions for first runs. Proponents of the new plan were non-committal.

The board allowed independents seven additional days to file protests.

MPTO of Washington Hits Darrow Report

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Clarence Darrow's National Recovery Review Board report is condemned in a resolution adopted by the M.P.T.O. of the District of Columbia as "hastily drawn without due consideration and competent witnesses and competent testimony from all angles." As a result, the report is held to be "erroneous and incorrect in its conclusions."

The same resolution affirms the M.P.T.O. unit's confidence in the code.

Brandt in Washington

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A. of New York, was here today and flew back this afternoon. It is believed he came here in connection with the Darrow report.

ministration, Nye declared that Congress should refuse to adjourn until "these infamous provisions" have been eliminated from codes, and served notice that unless the reports of the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice, to which the Darrow findings were submitted, is made public he will introduce a resolution calling for them.

Nye referred to his resolution asking submission of the trade commission's reports and correspondence with the NRA, and declared that a motion to reconsider its passage had been offered under "orders" from General Johnson.

If necessary, he said, there should be a Congressional investigation of the situation, at which the heads of the review board, the trade commission, the consumers' advisory board and the planning and research division, all of which are in "substantial accord" as to the effect of codes, could relate their experiences with Johnson.

protests over such jurisdiction from other theatres in the same or adjacent zones. Campi yesterday came to the conclusion that lack of definite instructions might tend to complicate establishment of clearance in the 31 exchange territories and, therefore, decided on instructions to govern formulation.

The word was passed on in the following wire dispatched to all points yesterday by Executive Secretary John C. Flinn:

"Definite instructions clarifying jurisdiction and procedure of local clearance and zoning boards will be issued by Code Authority in a few days. Meanwhile, all boards shall withhold preparation or publication of protest hearings against any schedules of clearance which your board has prepared as part of any determination of any group protest. This telegram shall not interrupt regular procedure of hearing individual or group protests and making determination thereon which do not entail issuance of a schedule of clearance."

Lockport Overbuying Charge Is Dismissed

BUFFALO, May 23.—Charges of overbuying, made by Reliance Theatres, Inc., in behalf of the Palace, Lockport, against the Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., have been dismissed by the grievance board, but it has been decided that the Palace is entitled to 17 pictures. The complaint was against seven exchanges as well as against Schine and the hearing occupied more than nine hours.

Award of pictures was split in the board's decision as follows: Paramount, 3; Fox, 2; Columbia, 2; M-G-M, 3; United Artists, 1; Warners, 3, and Radio, 3. It is understood Schine will appeal.

A three-part award has been made by the clearance and zoning board in the complaint of H. C. Morse, Elmwood Theatre in Penn Yan, against Schine, asking for removal of the present seven to 10-day clearance after showing in Schine houses in Geneva. The petition was denied, as was another request that Penn Yan be given 10-day clearance after Rochester.

Ray Pashley, Lakes Theatre, Interlaken, has won a reduction of clearance for the Lakes from 14 to 10 days after the Strand and State at Ithaca.

Cincy's Clearance Schedule About Set

CINCINNATI, May 23.—The clearance and zoning board has completed a new clearance schedule for the territory and the board members expect to have it ready for release in approximately two weeks.

Agency Meet Postponed

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—The second meeting of the agency standing committee which was scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed because of the inability of certain members to attend.

Cleveland, with 4 Holdouts, Sees End of Duals by July 8

Cleveland, May 23.—Four holdouts, all of them small, subsequent run houses, today intervened between a general single feature policy for all houses in Greater Cleveland, effective July 8. The expectation is these four spots will fall in line. Therefore, the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n. feels the drive is already over the top.

It is a case of all or none in this latest move to eliminate double features here. The petition cannot become operative unless every house in the city agrees. Loew's, Warners and RKO are on record for the elimination of twins whenever all other theatres here agree to do so.

Chicago Split on Films Is Ordered

11; Paramount, 13; RKO, 15; Universal, seven.

Bartlestein gets the pictures subject to the same terms contracted for by Schoenstadt. The board specified that releases begin June 10.

The case was unusual because it involved a split policy whereby Schoenstadt contracted for product for the Palace and the Villa with certain repeat rights on the latter. The board decided the Palace, on a basis of four changes per week, required 238 pictures a year.

It was revealed that Schoenstadt had contracted for 261 films as follows: Fox, 27, bought clear with seven out of 25 carrying repeat rights on the Villa; M-G-M, 23, all calling for repeat rights on the Villa; Paramount, 32, with 20 out of 33 repeat privileges; RKO, 20, with six out of 32 Villa repeats; Universal, 12, with 10 out of 24 repeats. A Warner-First National deal for the company's entire output of 60 was a bulk money arrangement with pictures to be used over the Schoenstadt circuit, but calling for 50 out of 60 as Villa repeats.

Testimony revealed that companies offered product as follows: Fox, 52; M-G-M, 46; Paramount, 65; RKO, 52; Security, 36; United Artists, 16; Universal, 36; Warner-First National, 60.

The handling of the Villa split is taken care of by a ruling of the board that the 116 pictures to be repeated on the Villa constitute a minimum commitment which Schoenstadt's Palace may play, but Schoenstadt may elect to play any or all pictures as repeats on the Villa, thus excluding Bartlestein's Annette from any choice of this product.

Ask Litigants to Appear

Litigants involved in the Rogowsky Brothers case against Skouras Theatres Corp. have been asked to appear before the New York grievance board next Tuesday. Skouras recently asked for an elucidation of the decision handed down recently. It provided for the turning over of 22 pictures from Skouras to Rogowsky, operating the Embassy, Port Chester, in opposition to the Capitol, same city.

"Bank Night" Returns

PORTLAND, May 23.—The Capitol here is the first house in the state to use a "bank night" following the sanction of this practice by Code Authority with lottery features eliminated. Business was stimulated. It was claimed, and the practice will be continued.

Miami's Clearance Appealed to Campi

and zoning schedule set up May 11 by the local code board at Atlanta, Miami independents are banding together to obtain relief, it was learned today.

Protests signed by Charles Walder, Tivoli Theatre, and John A. Cunningham, State Theatre, have been forwarded to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Code Authority, with a request for an appeal from the clearance and zoning regulations in Miami.

The protest states that in granting first runs 60 days' protection over second runs, while failing to name second run houses, the schedule makes it possible for Sparks and Wolfson-Meyer to play initial runs in houses charging the same admissions as the independents' second runs. The protest to Flinn points out that admission prices and location of theatres are ignored in the new schedule adopted for this city by the Atlanta code board.

Because of this, it is charged, local houses operated by the two circuits charging 25 cents admission are enabled to play initial runs while independents charging the same admission must wait a minimum of 60 days for the same picture.

Pre-release and first run houses, evenly divided between the two circuits, are specified in the schedule, but subsequent run houses are not so specified, it is claimed.

Four Texas Cities Get New Clearance

DALLAS, May 23.—In the new clearance and zoning setup established by the local board, individual schedules are provided for the four key cities of the state, Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio and also for all other towns having subsequent runs.

Certain availabilities that have prevailed in the past have been modified and lessened by the plan, which goes into effect with the first release of the 1934-35 season and applies to any contract dated May 15 of this year or thereafter, "regardless of what season's service is covered thereby."

To Hear Zoning 'Plaints

MEMPHIS, May 23.—A hearing on exhibitor protests on the new zoning schedule has been set for Monday afternoon at local code headquarters. The zoning board, according to Mrs. Alma Walton, secretary, is taking this action as result of a number of complaints received by it.

Colored Spots Denied First Run Bookings

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Contentions that colored houses are not competitors of white downtown first runs in Washington and Norfolk and should be entitled to product day and date with the first runs were denied today in two decisions handed down by the clearance and zoning board.

The board refused to disturb the present 21 days' clearance in Washington and the 30 days no prevailing in Norfolk.

Two other decisions were also handed down.

Louis Tunick, operator of the Brooklyn, Baltimore, won his request for permission to play pictures 21 days after first runs. This gives him clearance over Al Kahn's Pennington, Walter Pary's Garden and McHenry and Joe Brodie's Brodie. Kahn and Brodie opposed the change, although it was testified their scales are lower and they play duals.

Other Decisions

In another decision the board refused to put Herbert Zimmerman's DeLuxe, Baltimore, in a separate zone on the ground the present clearance is fair. Zimmerman wanted the DeLuxe to play day and date with the McHenry, Garden and Brodie. It now follows them.

Day and date first runs for A. E. Lichtman's three colored houses, the Lincoln, Republic and Booker T, in Washington, were refused. Lichtman had contended that his houses were not in competition with white first runs. His request was opposed by Carter T. Barron, Loew's Washington city manager, on the ground that the colored houses were the beneficiaries of downtown exploitation campaigns and that the white houses required the prestige of 21 days' clearance.

Lichtman had a similar appeal in for his colored houses, the State, Grandy and Norva, in Norfolk which now get their films 30 days after first runs. The Norfolk appeal was denied for the same reason.

No decision was rendered on an application of Sidney B. Lust that the Hippodrome, Washington, be rezoned so that he could get film 30 days after first runs. Isaac Notes, operating five houses, objected on the ground that the Hippodrome was his competitor, playing at lower admissions on the same street, Ninth St.

Two cases are pending on the grievance board docket. They will come up May 28.

Five are scheduled to come before the clearance and zoning board on June 1.

Speed on Clearance Cases Sought Here

First of a series of meetings by the clearance and zoning committee was held yesterday at Code Authority in an effort to expedite procedure of the local boards in disposing of cases before the new selling season gets under way. The committee includes Charles L. O'Reilly, Harold S. Bareford and George J. Schaefer. Neil Agnew yesterday substituted for Schaefer.

Cravath to Defend 10 of Para. Board

1930-31 board of directors by the trustees in bankruptcy to recover up to $12,200,000 which was voted for repurchase of stock issued in the acquisition of theatres, it was disclosed yesterday.

The defendants to be represented by Cravath include Adolph and Eugene Zukor, Ralph A. Kohn, Austin C. Keough, Felix and Gilbert W. Kahn, John Hertz, Sam Katz, Sir William Wiseman and executors of the estate of the late Casimir I. Stralem.

Jules E. Brulatour, also a defendant, will be represented by Konta, Kirchway and Engel, while executors of the estate of Emil E. Shauer will be represented by Henry W. Fried. The remaining defendants, Sidney R. Kent, Jesse Lasky, Elek J. Ludvigh, Frank Bailey, Daniel Frohman and executors for the estate of the late William English, have not yet designated their attorneys, although it is likely that Kent and Lasky will be represented by Hughes, Schurman & Dwight.

Summonses have been served on most of the defendants. An order authorizing the trustees, Charles D. Hilles, Charles E. Richardson and Eugene W. Leake, to institute the suit in state supreme court here was signed by Justice Levy this week.

Court Backs Denial Of Paramount Claim

An order disallowing a $1,000,000 claim of the Strand Amusement Co., Portland, Me., against Paramount Publix for damages alleged to have resulted from a violation of the anti-trust laws by Paramount, was signed yesterday by U. S. District Court Judge William Bondy.

Judge Bondy's order affirmed an earlier ruling by Referee Henry K. Davis which held that claims of this kind are not provable in bankruptcy. Strand Amusement took the referee's ruling to the district court for review.

Dubinsky Operator Row Given Hearing

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—A number of exhibitors and exchange managers testified for Dubinsky Brothers in an arbitration hearing on the long standing dispute with the operators' union. The union protested their testimony on the ground that it was irrelevant, but A. W. Dubirney, special assistant U. S. attorney general and assistant NRA counsel, acting as arbitrator, admitted their testimony.

Testimony for Dubinsky was designed to establish their operations as in the suburban classification so that he can use one operator.

After a 12-hour session Dubirney said decision would be handed down in a week.

Cullman Tells Board He's "No Policeman"

Mosholu Ordered to Delay Advertising

The Mosholu in the Bronx yesterday was found guilty of prematurely advertising by the New York grievance board, which decided the complaint of Loew's, operating the Grand, Burnside and Paradise. The independent exhibitor is being ordered to stop the practice.

Sylvester Rosenthal's complaint that Sam Canter and Abe Ratner negotiated and leased the Arian, Middle Village, L. I., while he was operating was dismissed.

Harman Yaffa's case, in which he asked for a "fair adjustment" on two Warner-First National pictures, was postponed until next week for additional evidence.

Third Rental Talk May Be on Tuesday

M.P.T.O.A., Allied and exhibitor units from 15 states east of the Mississippi will attend. Omaha may be included, an invitation having already been extended to exhibitor units there.

A plan has been promulgated which can be used as a basic idea for buying product next season and will be presented to all groups attending the next meeting. These groups will be asked to get official ratification of the plan from the organizations they represent.

Future meetings depend on the outcome of the third meeting.

Philadelphia's Code Decisions Accepted

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Despite the Darrow blast, the local territory is apparently maintaining a sympathetic interest in the workings of the code committees. The various cases have been followed closely and no squawks have materialized.

In a fortnight five cases have been run through the two committees, resulting in one general ruling.

In the case of the Grand and Jackson vs. the Fox exchange on the matter of non-theatrical bookings, the board ruled that no distributor should serve a non-theatrical group until six months after the first playing date of the film in the territory.

In the case of the Grand and Jackson vs. the Venice in Philadelphia, on the double feature problem, the board ruled the case out of its jurisdiction. Since the case aroused much local interest, it is probable that a group of independents will test out the right of the majors to insert anti-double feature clauses in their contracts in a civil suit.

Campi Definition of Release Is Sent Out

Campi today is sending to all exhibitor associations, distributors and code boards a definition of a general release date established at the last Code Authority meeting. A general release is defined as:

"The public exhibition of any of said motion pictures for three consecutive days at prices usually charged for admission to the theater where so exhibited in the territory wherein is located the exchange from which the exhibitor is served, excepting any 'road show,' 'tryout,' 'preview' or 'pre-release' exhibitions thereof. Therefore, under Article V, F, Part 6, of the code, the exhibitor, when desiring to eliminate the picture and when entitled so to do, should be required to evidence his election within 14 days after such general release in such territory."

First Price Ruling in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—In its first case involving low admissions in this territory the grievance board today ordered Charles Bull of the Novelty, Wichita, to discontinue five-cent prices for children. The complainant was P. W. Huston, Bull's competitor. Since the complaint specifically charged low admission on a Fox film, the board held the practice a violation of the defendant's contract with Fox calling for a minimum of 10 cents.

Buster Keaton leaves soon for Paris to appear in a feature, "King of Champs Elysee" for Les Film Margot. The deal was arranged by Leo Morrison's office.

Georgie Price has been signed by Warners for one picture.

The Ritz Brothers have been signed by Warners to do a series of comedies.

Royal King Cole, West Coast comedy writer, has been signed by Warners for its Vitaphone writing staff. Joe Rivkin handled these three deals.

Max Baer has been signed to make a feature for Columbia, tentatively titled "Police Headquarters." Production will start after Baer's fight in June. Negotiations were handled by Leo Morrison's office.

Theatres Will Take Back 75% on Strike

Approximately 75 per cent of the Loew's and RKO service employees who participated in the recent strike of Local 118, Theatre and Amusement Employees' Union, will be reinstated, circuit representatives said yesterday.

The remaining 25 per cent, identified as "agitators," will not be put back at work, it was said. The union estimated that 150 of its members went out, thus indicating that all but about 40 strikers would be reinstated.

The strike lasted five days. Its failure and settlement late Monday night is definitely regarded as leading to a quick dissolution of the Local, although there are indications that the Building Service Employees' International Union may again attempt organization of cleaners and janitors here, probably in the fall. Ushers, doormen and cashiers, included in the present setup, would play no part in an attempted revival of the union's activities here, it is believed. Resignations of these groups from the local are reported continuing in large numbers.

Box-Offices Spotty In Cincy Territory

Hot weather, with increasing outdoor opposition, is held responsible, but recent developments would indicate that absence of product with definite star or story value is a contributing factor.

Within the past fortnight, a picture at a first run was closed on the fifth day. More recently, another first run, opening on Saturday, pulled a picture Sunday noon.

To what extent the Catholic crusade against the screen has affected attendance cannot be determined, but there is a feeling that it has hit at least some of the neighborhood stands and houses in the smaller communities. The angle is that the theatre in the smaller community provides the main source of diversion, with which the public constantly is in touch. Residents of these centers are credited with being closer to the church.

Conversely, reports from some competitive key situations are that the trend is toward the subsequents and away from the first runs. Particularly is this true when first runs play them "on the nose," with the subsequents able to play the product within a reasonable protection limit, often on a dual program, at admissions ranging from 60 to 75 per cent lower than the scale of the de luxe spots.

Insiders' Outlook

SEVERAL torchbearers are afoot carrying forward a movement which seeks to elect as president of the reorganized Paramount, if and when, Arthur A. Ballantine. Who is he? (1) He is a member of the law firm of Root, Clark, Buckner and Ballantine, attorneys for Paramount trustees. They are Charles E. Richardson, Eugene W. Leake, now in California giving the Hollywood end of Paramount the once over, and Charles D. Hilles. (2) He was Under-Secretary of the Treasury during the Hoover Administration and a member of the ex-President's "Little Cabinet." That makes him a staunch Republican. As a lawyer, Ballantine ranks high in his profession. Having no background in show business, those who say they know declare he would prove extremely valuable where finances are concerned. Now in Italy, Ballantine reaches these shores again in about 10 days. . . .

The story on Adolph Zukor and production runs something like this: The Paramount trustees, knowing his background, are understood to have figured his presence on the coast would be of great importance. There only a handful of days, the inside reports have it Zukor already has dipped into a number of situations concerning talent where Manny Cohen didn't fare so well. Aside from all of that, Zukor presumably has gone on a sort of personal guarantee that the Cohen regime will be what the trustees want it to be. . . .

New angles on the code are developing almost day by day.

In the overbuying complaint filed by Harman Yaffa, operator of the Gem and Majestic, against Springer and Cocalis, operators of the Lane and Empress, the latter challenged Louis Geller, code board member, whom they accused of prejudice. In the first place, board members may not be challenged, the procedure varying from the technique in vogue when the Film Boards were active. In the second, or perhaps more properly the first, non-code assenters, which S. and C. are, may not file grievances. It's a case of trying to get to second base without touching first. . . .

Campi's decision to lay down basic instructions under which clearance, once known far and wide as protection, will be set up in key cities looks like a sensible procedure. The desire is to stem any rising tide of dissatisfaction over what may be determined in any specific zone. As it has been going, any ruling made on behalf of a complaining theatre, it has been discovered, immediately bounces back into the determining board's lap squawks from a competing theatre or theatres in the same zone. The process therefore, might easily continue without end. . . .

This clearance problem, long a sore spot and cradle of many industry disputes, can't be anything but a headache under the most fortuitous of conditions. Any move, predicated on a desire to keep troubles as minute as possible, consequently deserves patience and some encouragement. The story here is the old, old tale of the powerful continuing to hold on to his power and the less fortunate individual attempting to better his own lot. Unless human nature has undergone a radical change since the code was enacted, the circuits, of course, will battle any efforts to shear their wings. . . .

See General Revision of Codes Coming

today, may result in the reopening of all the important codes, which will be modified by giving the associated independent interests much they have contended for.

With a reorganization, the possibility is seen of the displacement of the hard-boiled chief of the NRA, General Hugh S. Johnson, as a gesture on the part of the Administration.

The fight over the Darrow report continued today with Democratic Floor Leader Robinson of Arkansas coming to the defense of the NRA following a conference with Johnson. In reply to Nye, Robinson declared that recovery has progressed apace under the NRA.

Not Singling Out Films

Although the North Dakota senator yesterday made the film report the subject of his attack on the Administration, it is said on his behalf that he is no more interested in pictures than in the other commodities investigated by the review board; that his film attack, in fact, followed an equally scathing denunciation of the NRA for its handling of the steel code, and is to be followed by animadversions of the other codes reported upon by the review board.

A country editor, 41 years old, Nye has been a consistent supporter of the NRA idea, and even before its creation had introduced legislation of similar tenor, but has steadily maintained that small independent business must be protected against the onslaughts of monopoly. His term in the Senate does not expire until 1939.

While, naturally, the Darrow board has been seized upon by the Republicans in Congress as good political material, Nye has some support on the Democratic side, although no coalition strong enough to stem the march of the Administration is seen possible at the present time.

Robinson Defends NRA

Coming to the defense of the recovery administration, Senator Robinson charged that the complainants against the code would have the Government set aside the patent and copyright laws for their benefit. He referred to a statement recently circulated by Col. H. A. Cole, president of Allied of Texas, hailing a decision of the grievance board for that territory as "the first piece of really good news the independent exhibitor has heard in many years."

"Before the motion picture code," Robinson declared, "the small exhibitors were helpless. The code set up grievance boards with very broad powers. The faults of block booking are not due to the code; they are due to the copyright laws. The NRA cannot change the law, but through its intervention 25 per cent relief was obtained from the rigors of that system."

The administration, he continued, has been blamed for the results of the patent and copyright laws, and has been appealed to to take from the owners of patents and copyrights their privileges thereunder, which, he pointed out, the administration "manifestly cannot do."

Extras Lose

Los Angeles, May 24.—In the first test case of the kind Fox has been upheld by Campi in its appeal from a ruling of the local extras' board that it pay 20 extras a minimum of $25 each for singing in a film. The board's decision was based on the premises the players were required to memorize lines. Campi ruled the players were called upon to sing in chorus and should be paid no more than $15.

"There is not one single theatre of the individual or small picture exhibitor closed on account of the code," he declared, "and thousands have telegraphed and written to the NRA that it has saved them."

Three Denver Cases Are Handled Quickly

DENVER, May 24.—Three complaints filed by J. J. Goodstein, owner of the Palm, against Everett Cole, Rialto owner, at Alamosa, Col., were disposed of at the first grievance board hearing.

Cole's family matinees were ordered stopped as unfair competition; Goodstein withdrew an overbuying charge, reserving the right to amend it later, and the board dismissed a charge that Cole's weekly dual bills are unfair trade practices. The next hearing will be held Monday.

Victory Clearance Retained by Loew's

Loew's was entitled to the protection it is now getting over the two houses.

Another petition was denied when the board refused to lift the 30-day protection period of the Strand, Port Jervis, N. Y. The protest was made by the Sussex, Sussex, N. J.

Dismiss Albany Charge

ALBANY, May 24.—An overbuying complaint presented to the local grievance board by William C. Smalley, Smalley Theatre, Norwich, against Schine Theatrical Enterprises, Inc., has been dismissed with a recommendation that Schine release 10 major features on the 1933-34 list to the Colonia at Norwich.

A new clearance and zoning schedule for this territory will await study of decisions in pending cases, according to Judge David Wanger.

George Skouras Appeals

George Skouras has changed his mind about accepting the decision of the New York grievance board in the Rogowsky case and has definitely decided to appeal, he said yesterday. Rogowsky, operating the Embassy, Port Chester, was given 22 pictures of the Skouras allotment. Skouras operates the Capitol, same city.

runs. The purpose is to secure a reduction of the 56-day clearance held by first runs.

A hearing will be held June 4. Among the signers are Golden State, Nasser Brothers and Levin Theatres.

Milton Samis of the Hester, San Jose, has protested against existing clearance in San Jose and a hearing has been set for May 28.

Because, it is alleged, M. L. Markowitz, operator of the Davies, had not signed the code within the time limit set by the President, the Casino, through its attorney, A. S. Newburgh, has filed an appeal from the grievance board decision ordering it to stop premiums and free parking. It was decided that this was rate-cutting. The complaint was brought by Markowitz.

D. B. Levin, operating the Baywood, San Mateo, has filed a protest against F.W.C. with the grievance board alleging overbuying by F.W.C. for the purpose of depriving him of product.

New Ruling Sought Upon "Bank Nights"

KANSAS CITY, May 24.—An attempt will be made to have Roland Boynton, Kansas attorney general, reconsider his recent ruling that "bank nights" are a lottery and thus illegal in Kansas and banned by the code, according to R. W. McEwan, head of a local theatrical premium company, who has distribution rights to the plan in this territory.

McEwan said attorneys from Denver are due to arrive in Topeka to confer with the attorney general. Counsel for the Rocky Mountain T. O. A. has held that "bank nights" are an advertising stunt and not lotteries.

Scott Quits NRA Post

Harry Scott has resigned from the NRA in Washington where he handled special Blue Eagle publicity in connection with films. He is understood planning to reenter the sales field.

modified an earlier ruling ordering reemployment of the dismissed union men. The injunction, issued last March in the U. S. District Court at St. Joseph, prohibited operators' and stagehands' unions and one member of the musicians' union from committing acts of violence, and was taken into consideration by the regional board in redetermining the case at the request of the National Labor Board.

Opposed to Old Terms

The first decision ordered Dubinsky to reemploy all operators, stagehands and musicians on the payroll Nov. 30, 1933, the date when union contracts expired. Dubinsky had refused to renew the agreement on the old terms and replaced the employees with non-union men. Chief point of contention was Dubinsky's demand for one man in a booth, in view of manpower concessions by numerous other locals, and the union's insistence on continuation of the two-man arrangement. The stagehands' and musicians' unions acted in sympathy with the operators.

Ruled Against Dubinsky

Following a hearing and testimony by William C. Elliot, I.A.T.S.E. president, and other union officials, the St. Louis board rendered a decision in February ordering Dubinsky to reinstate the employees, without discrimination or prejudice, and to begin negotiations toward a new contract. It further ordered that Dubinsky continue two men in a booth pending arbitration of the dispute.

Dubinsky appealed to the National Labor Board, and at the request of Operators' Local No. 559, the record was certified to the national body for what the local termed "non-compliance with the St. Louis board's recommendations." The national board referred it back.

Merriwell Creator Gets a Court Stay

Gilbert Patten (Burt L. Standish), author of the Frank Merriwell stories, through his attorney, Howard A. Newman, yesterday obtained a temporary injunction from Judge Robt. P. Patterson of the U. S. District Court against Superior Talking Pictures, Inc., to prevent production or advertising of a proposed series of Frank Merriwell pictures. A hearing has been tentatively set for May 29, at which time Superior Talking Pictures, Inc. will be asked to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

Louis Weiss, supervisor of production for Superior Pictures, stated yesterday that he knew nothing of the injunction, but that if his company should be served it would fight the case. Weiss says his star is named Frank Merriwell.

Poland Bars Warner Films; Heroes Hurt

WARSAW, May 24.—Poland has barred Warner-First National and Vitaphone films because the names of Pulaski and Kosciuszko were applied to two questionable characters in films.

Pulaski was a boxer in "The Life of Jimmy Dolan" and Kosciuszko was a gangster in "How Many More Nights?" For some reason or other the Polish government also objected to "The Life of Ivar Kreuger."

Efforts to get comment from Warner-First National were unavailing last night.

Hearing on an overbuying complaint by the Great Northern against the Strand was postponed today because of the absence of M. B. Comerford.

The clearance and zoning board has designated all of Philadelphia as a zone to take a vote on premiums.

Phillips & Nizer were attorneys for the distribution.

But the fact is, Publix and B. & K. have made another payment, which keeps the house "as is" until Nov. 1.

Fox Theatre Plan Sets 5 Big Divisions from New York in two weeks to attend the Federal court hearing on approval of the Woolf-Shanberg settlement.

It is understood that this settlement calls for payments to the former operators over a period of years out of operating profits with no time limit set. It is expected this will take four or five years.

An agreement along similar lines is about set on the Reed, Yemm and Hayes claims involving Fox purchases of their southern Illinois houses, now in the Midwest Division. This amounts to approximately $250,000. Note extensions are involved in this, it is understood.

Spyros Skouras denies reports current here that the Skourases may withdraw from the Fox Midwest unit, leaving Rhoden in full charge. This unit will be managed like the others with S. R. Kent heading the holding company, Spyros Skouras president of the subsidiary and Rhoden, general manager.

Rhoden, it is understood, wants to take over complete operation of the midwest division, comprising Fox Midland and a portion of Fox Rocky Mountain to simplify administration and reduce overhead. At present the local office has to file reports with Spyros Skouras in the east and Charles Skouras on the coast, which means double supervision.

Compromise Filed in Woolf-Shanberg Case

KANSAS CITY, May 24.—A proposed agreement was filed today in bankruptcy court here effecting a compromise in the Herbert M. Woolf-M. B. Shanberg controversy with Fox West Coast Service Corp. and others over payment due former Fox Midland bondholders. Under the terms of the agreement their claim will be recognized as paramount to all others against the bankrupt estate.

The agreement provides for the sale of Fox Midland assets subject to a Woolf-Shanberg lien securing the unpaid notes against the properties amounting to $478,214.50. Woolf and Shanberg will release the lien and in exchange will be given notes of the Fox Mid-Continent Corp. in the principal amount of $478,000, payable February 15, 1940, and to be secured by a mortgage on Fox Midland assets and certain other assets.

"Telling," Olsen, $14,500 in Omaha

OMAHA, May 24.—George Olsen's band and Ethel Shutta rang the money gong at the Orpheum to the tune of $14,500—the best week any house in this town has seen for many months. The picture was "You're Telling Me," but the stage bill was the real draw.

"We're Not Dressing," despite the terrific competition, gave the Paramount an average week at $6,750, due to Crosby's big following among the collegians here. The house is getting along well with its single feature policy—the only one in a town of duals.

"20th Century" and "Sisters Under the Skin" were moved out of the Brandeis in six days to give "Stingaree" an early opening. Business was bad at $3,500. The World, with "As the Earth Turns" and "Smoky," was in the red at $3,250.

In its ninth week in the 1,012-seat Astor "House of Rothschild" was still outdrawing seven of the larger Broadway houses. It was the only attraction in the mid-town area worth talking about.

"Manhattan Melodrama," in its second week at the Capitol, with Lanny Ross, Jack Benny, Mary Livingston and others on the stage, garnered $42,000. The Paramount had a weak $31,000 on "Thirty Day Princess." "Twenty Million Sweethearts" took $10,000 in its third week at the Strand. Columbia in a Rush

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—With five features in work, three set for a start in a few days and five in preparation, Columbia is in the midst of a rush. Those in work are: "One Night of Love," "Whom the Gods Destroy," "The Hell Cat," "Black Moon" and "Special Agent." Set for a quick start are: "The Defense Rests," "Blind Date" and "The Criminal Within."

Looking 'Em Over

"Dr. Monica"

(Warners)

Kay Francis, Warren William and Jean Muir are the central figures in a clinical, triangle drama involving Miss Francis, in the title role as a lying-in specialist; William as a husband-novelist and Miss Muir as a friend of both, but infatuated with the husband in the case.

As Dr. Monica, Miss Francis, in love with William, wants a child, but learns she can never have one of her own, although willing to undergo the operation she believed necessary to clear the way toward her desire. Miss Muir, as an unwed mother, turns her baby over to Dr. Monica for upbringing.

Prior to the childbirth, however, Dr. Monica discovers the baby is her husband's. Miss Teasdale, another mutual friend, urges the unwilling doctor to live up to her oath as a physician. She does, delivers the child and determines to leave William, but finds that unnecessary when Miss Muir unties the tangled skeins by flying her plane out to sea and death. Dr. Monica accepts the child left in her care and continues the marital state with William.

Acting is competent, although William's role is unsympathetic. The picture, straight drama unrelieved by comedy, calls for intensive selling and careful handling since its theme is delicate and is apt to be provocative.

"The Man from Utah"

(Monogram)

Smart cutting in of scenes from a rodeo makes this one of the best westerns John Wayne has appeared in for some time. Early sequences are used to build up to the rodeo stuff and the continuity of the story is maintained by Wayne's efforts to find out how the rodeo gang has been poisoning outsiders who offered too much competition for prize money.

Polly Ann Young supplies the love interest and she's about the most decorative young woman cast in these so-called outdoor dramas in some time.

Wayne helps a U. S. marshal foil a holdup and is sworn in as a deputy to find out how the rodeo racket is being run. He takes part in the bulldogging, coach racing, broncho busting, etc. He meets Miss Young when he stops a stagecoach holdup. Her father is the local banker, and in the end Wayne saves the bank's cash, too.

There's plenty of riding and the fight scenes have the novelty of being staged in semi-darkness.

Kids won't mind, but western audiences may criticize some of the mixed-up scenery. In one shot Wayne pursues Ed Peil across what looks like the Mojave Desert and in a close up they are seen falling into a stream with birches along its banks. In another an airplane beacon has been left in. The story isn't timed, but it's apparently supposed to be back in stagecoach days.

"Romance in Budapest"

(DuWorld)

Light and gay and full of charm, this Hungarian operetta, produced in Budapest by the Hunnia Film Co. and directed by Geza von Bolvary, remembered for his "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," provides delightful diversion. The only regret is that some of the most humorous moments are lost to American audiences by the insufficiency of English titles, although there are enough of them to make the general trend of the story understandable.

"Romance in Budapest," with its tasteful settings and opulent photography, is a treat to the eye, and is also pleasing to the ear, with tunes that are fetching and a score that catches all the romantic spirit of the tale. The production is fortunate in its actors, particularly Franziska Gaal, whose performance and beauty add immensely to the enjoyment of the film. She is ably supported by Paul Hoerbiger and Szoek Szakall.

Romance comes to Miss Gaal when she goes to Budapest to attend the wedding of her dearest friend. To smooth out a misunderstanding between the friend and her fiance she calls upon the latter at his hotel. She accosts Hoerbiger, a concert pianist and much of a Don Juan, by mistake and slaps his face when she gets into a dispute with him. Discovering her mistake later, she goes in search of the pianist to apologize. The two fall in love after a number of complications which threaten to blast the romance are disposed of.

"Channel Crossing"

(Gaumont British)

A product of the British studios, "Channel Crossing" seems to have been inspired by the Lowenstein mystery. The European financier disappeared from an airplane several years ago while crossing the Channel. Whether it was suicide or an accident, it has never been determined. The difference is that the financial giant in the film, impersonated by Matheson Lang, ends his life by taking a dose of adrenaline aboard the Dover-Calais boat and expiring on deck just as the vessel docks on the French side.

The film is interesting and holds once it has overcome the handicap of a slow start and is especially to be commended for its splendid atmospheric treatment and the acting of the principals, among them two players known to American audiences, Constance Cummings and Anthony Bushell.

The character played by Lang is a curious combination of the hero and the scoundrel. When he receives a message that he resign as king of the vast financial empire he has built up, partly through shady dealings, he decides upon suicide to save himself from jail. His act follows on the heels of a struggle with his secretary's jealous sweetheart in which the young man is flung into the sea. He reveals his finer side by urging the captain to continue the search when all hope appears gone and offering adrenaline to save the youth's life after he has been picked up. The story ends happily for Miss Cummings and Bushell.

Nigel Bruce is also in the cast. Milton Rosmer directed.

"The Unknown Soldier Speaks"

(Lincoln Prod.)

"The Unknown Soldier Speaks" is a cry for world peace. It shows the World War from every side and conveys its message so eloquently that at the end the spectator senses he has been through a rare emotional experience. Packed with human interest, taut and dramatic, it is a picture decidedly worth seeing.

The accompanying narrative, written by Robert Rossen, has the novelty of being spoken by a stage performer, Alan Bunce, who handles the assignment commendably. Bunce gives the dialogue feeling and a quiet touch of drama that are an invaluable asset to the film. Only an actor could have done the job so capably. It is the Unknown Soldier who is supposed to be expressing himself through the lips of the narrator.

The production takes the audience through the entire course of the war and attempts to show how much of the same spirit that brought on the struggle exists at the present moment.

The film is charged with excitement and seems completely authentic. The camera is in the very midst of the fighting and many of the shots apparently were made in the face of death. Though the photography can hardly compare with that of the present day, some of it is startlingly effective.

"The Man Trailer"

(Columbia)

Buck Jones has been cast in "The Man Trailer" in one of those strenuous roles that have come to be typical of him. As a firm-jawed marshal who goes after his man and gets him he gives an electric performance which has him keeping his finger constantly on the trigger and his horse always on the go.

The story follows the formula pretty closely. Buck, a fugitive from Texas, where a dishonest sheriff has made him the goat in a rustling plot, gets himself a job as a marshal in Oklahoma as the result of his work foiling a gang of outlaws in a stage holdup. The brigands are known to him and he declares war to the death on them. The gang kidnaps him and robs the town bank. He is suspected of having a hand in the robbery, but is cleared in the end. Woven into the plot is a romance between Jones and Cecelia Parker.

Other players are Arthur Vinton, Steve Clark, Clarence Geldert and Charles West. Lambert Hillyer is credited with the direction.

"The Thundering Herd"

(Paramount)

An action film made to order for kids. It possesses, in the first place, a cast filled with many names that have become identified in the youngsters' minds with the sound and fury that comprise the western.

Hollywood Previews

"Return of the Terror"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Murder mystery hokum again that succeeded in keeping the audience on the edge of its seats throughout the preview, extracting some spontaneous screams here and there. From the box-office viewpoint, the film is a well-produced screen version of the Edgar Wallace yarn.

John Halliday, head of a sanitarium, is tried and charged with the murder of several inmates and is subsequently placed in an insane asylum. He escapes and returns to the hospital, where Lyle Talbot, his associate, has been carrying on. During the time he is in hiding on the hospital grounds more murders are committed and in each case are accompanied with a note signed by "The Terror." Mary Astor furnishes a romantic note as Halliday's fiancée.

An electric storm aids in achieving an eerie effect as people run in and out of doors and about the grounds. Frank McHugh, as a reporter, gets most of the laughs. The final coup is saved until last, when Halliday is cleared and Talbot is arrested for the murder.

Eugene Solow and Peter Milne retained all of the Wallace suspense in the screen play, aided by the capable direction of Howard Bretherton.

"Murder on the Blackboard"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Another good murder mystery which sparkles throughout with Edna May Oliver's brand of comedy and fills the bill for any program.

It is a schoolroom murder, with a teacher the victim. Miss Oliver works with Inspector James Gleason toward a solution but winds up doing most of the solving herself. She accuses everyone, from janitor to various school aides, with certain elements of the story pointing to the possible guilt of each and sundry.

Following an attack on Edgar Kennedy, a flatfoot, Miss Oliver hits on a plan. Inasmuch as Kennedy has temporarily lost his memory due to a blow on the head, she publishes a story in the papers that his memory is coming back and he can identify his assailant. She parks in the hospital ward until the culprit arrives to knock off Kennedy and so avoid being identified. The murderer turns out to be Bruce Cabot, the murdered woman's husband, who killed her to wed his current flame, Gertrude Michael.

The screen play, by Willis Goldbeck, and the direction, by George Archainbaud, are handled adequately. Nicholas Musuraca merits credit for the photography, adding tremendously to the suspense.

"Once to Every Bachelor"

(Liberty)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—An interesting story, presented with Neil Hamilton, Marion Nixon and Raymond Hatton particularly effective, results in well-rounded, general audience entertainment. Direction, adeptly capitalizing on elements that appeal to regular run-of-the-mill-film fans, gives novel color to a formula dramatic-romance yarn and establishes the production as a strong program attraction.

Modernly timed, located in New York and Paris, the picture presents Hamilton as a wastrel playboy in danger of losing his income. Accidentally meeting Miss Nixon, fleeing from the cops because of a gangster killing, the pair, in order to get themselves out of impending personal disaster, enter into a marriage as a business agreement. As Hamilton is ardently pursued by Aileen Pringle, dissatisfied wife of George Irving, the marriage is consummated and the locale shifts to Paris. There, as real romance dawns for Hamilton, Miss Pringle, in the role of a menacing love mate, first attempts to poison Miss Nixon against Hamilton.

Failing, she tries to convince Kathleen Howard, Hamilton's aunt and source of income, that her nephew married the girl only that he might be assured of a steady flow of money. As the aunt fails to respond to Miss Pringle's disclosures, real love comes to Hamilton, but, as far as Miss Nixon is concerned, it's still a marriage of convenience.

Returning to New York, with comedy relief via Hatton assuming an unusual importance, Miss Nixon is menaced by blackmailing Don Alvarado, who sends his henchman, Ralf Harold, to take Hamilton in a poker game. Miss Nixon's ability to read marked cards results in cleaning Hamilton and awakening romantic love for the girl who protected her commercially married husband.

"Vergie Winters"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Charged with emotional appeal, "Vergie Winters" is a powerful picturization of a tragic love story. It's tailored Ann Harding material with maximum heart throbs and sympathy. The story revolves around the love affair between Miss Harding, a small town milliner, and John Boles, a political power.

For mercenary reasons, her father ruins her possible marriage and Boles becomes wedded to Helen Vinson. There is a subsequent reunion of the two and the discovery of the frame-up. While the town gossips, Boles goes to Washington as congressman, and Miss Harding leaves town to become the mother of Boles' child, which he adopts into his family.

The romance blooms for 20 years, during which time the child matures into womanhood, portrayed by Betty Furness, and is engaged to Frank Albertson, still believing Miss Vinson to be her mother. Dramatic events climax in the murder of Boles by Miss Vinson, a crime for which Miss Harding is imprisoned but later released when Miss Vinson confesses and dies.

Jane Murfin's adaptation from Louis Bromfield's story is handled with feeling and tenderness, with Al Santell's direction getting the most out of every situation. The production is excellent in all departments, with appeal directed to women yet appealing to all classes.

"Cockeyed Cavaliers"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Wheeler and Woolsey go through some nonsensical variations of their comedy routine from puns to slapstick with diverting results.

Sprung from the unusual burlesque idea of spotting the team as two grifters in a Robin Hood setting, when "gadzoos" means the same as "nerds," the boys, masquerading as the king's physicians, descend on the castle to attend the duke (Robert Grieg). Farcical situations follow with the baron (Noah Beery), his wife (Thelma Todd) and Dorothy Lee disguised as a boy and a great Dane dog all winding up in a whirlwind of thrills and laughter as the boys chase a wild boar.

Songs interspersed are: "The Big, Bad Wolf Is Dead," featuring Beery's basso profundo, and "I'd Like to Dilly Dally With You," both sounding like sure-fire hits.

Lou Brock's hand is evident in the lavish production values as the distinctive central idea harmonizes with the period costumes.

Mark Sandrich's direction plays for physical laughs, concentrating on blackouts and gags, with rhythm and tempo secondary.

While not as spontaneous as "Cuckoos" or "Half Shot at Sunrise," the film should please Wheeler and Woolsey fans.

Looking 'Em Over

Among them are Noah Beery, Monte Blue, Randolph Scott, Buster Crabbe, Harry Carey and Raymond Hatton. The epitome of villainy and virtue is represented among them. Paramount, too, has thrown into one pot every ingredient that ever went into the making of a western, Indians included. An added allure is the name of Zane Grey, who is responsible for the story.

The plot is no more original than that of other westerns. Laid in 1874, the film relates a tale of villainy and heroics of the days when covered wagons tracked the plains in search of the wealth that lay in buffalo hides. The slaughter of the herds forces the Indian to turn to war in an effort to protect his food supply. The climax of the picture is a fight between whites and Indians. The villain of the plot is Beery, a buffalo hide hijacker. Mixed in with the rest of it is a romance between Scott and Judith Allen, whom Beery would have for himself despite the fact that he has a wife (Blanche Frederici).

Henry Hathaway directed.

New Consent Decree In Radio Trust Suit

a radio anti-trust suit brought several years ago by the government against RCA, General Electric, International General Electric, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing, Westinghouse Electric International, NBC, RCA Communications, RCA Photophone, RCA Radiotron, RCA Victor, A. T. & T., Western Electric, General Motors and General Motors Radio.

This issue of the anti-trust action had been left for future determination in November, 1931. When the consent decree for general features of the case was signed by Judge Nields today a stipulation agreed to by the government and defendants was filed in court.

Defendants agreed to send letters to foreign companies with which they have had exclusive licenses and sales agreements, waiving exclusive features of these contracts.

There remains one more issue to be settled—traffic and communications agreements which the defendants have had with foreign companies.

Cullman receiver for the Roxy. This compares with a loss of $56,325.70 for the corresponding weeks a year ago. Payment of $65,000 in back taxes was made during the period.

The favorable showing this year was made in the face of a $16,600 increase in payroll under the NRA.

Will Call in Non-Signers On Clearances

Campi under the procedure outlined in the code.

In situations where minor protests are filed and affect only certain zones in a given territory, no mass exhibitor meeting will be called. Protests will continue to be received by code secretaries as heretofore and the general meetings will be held only where it is felt that the number of protests coming in will affect the entire situation and it can be disposed of at a mass session with everyone heard.

Mass meetings must be set not later than June 10 and all decisions on protests must be made before July 1. All changes in existing schedules are to become effective with the first 1934-35 releases.

Campi states this is being done in order to clarify the existing misunderstanding with reference to the jurisdiction and procedure of the clearance and zoning boards.

The decision to call in non-assenters is significant since it is the first opportunity to register a protest officially. Heretofore, they have not been permitted to file complaints before grievance boards or protests before clearance and zoning boards.

Brecher and Fox Go Before Arbitrators

get together with the Fox exchange on the protection issue, he demanded his rights under the standard contract, which provides for arbitration.

Fox agreed and Harry H. Buxbaum, general sales manager of the exchange selected two exhibitors to sit on the board. He chose Charles Casey of the Casey & Wheeler circuit, and Leon Rosenblatt, who operates his own circuit. Brecher picked two distributors, Moe Streimer of United Artists and Jack Bowen of M-G-M. Bowen acted as chairman and the session was held at the M-G-M exchange.

Brecher asked the board to order Fox to give his two theatres, the Odeon and Roosevelt, the same availability as the Harlem Opera House. After discussing the case 10 minutes the board dismissed the case on the ground that the written contract states specifically Brecher's two houses must follow the Opera House.

Buxbaum presented the Fox side of the issue while Brecher appeared for himself.

Coupon Tickets Banned

PITTSBURGH, May 25.—In its first decision the local grievance board has ordered A. R. Capuzzi, operating the Princess, Republic, Pa., to discontinue issuing coupon tickets redeemable at five cents. The complainant was M. Faenza, of the Roosevelt, the same town.

The grievance board meets again June 1 and every Friday thereafter. The clearance will hold weekly meetings Tuesdays, beginning May 29.

New Erpi Newsreel Recorder

Fox Movietone and Hearst Metrotone News have each contracted for the new type single channel newsreel recording apparatus introduced by Erpi. Movietone has ordered 12 equipments on which delivery has already begun. Delivery of the eight equipments contracted for by Metrotone News will start in the near future.

The new equipment, Erpi officials declare, not only provides an improved quality of newsreel recording but also marks an advance in the lightness and portability of newsreel recording apparatus. The new sound equipment, known as the "G" channel, weighs no more than the newsreel camera itself, according to its sponsors.

Campi's Clearance Ruling K. C. Shock

motive. Independent suburban who had protested the drawing up of a new schedule are pleased, as are downtown first run managers.

Varied views prevail as to the purpose of the suspension. Some say Campi realizes the existing clearances cannot be altered until the start of the new season. Others see in the suspension results of the demand of major circuits for a change to stabilize the downtown first run price situation and double billing, which was largely responsible for the new clearance demand. Others see in it a recognition of the major circuits' insistence that prices cannot be raised in the summer.

Some see in Elmer Rhoden's visit to New York an effort on the part of the circuits to stop the local fight. Fox Midwest is the only affiliated circuit that has maintained a first run price of 40 cents, and it wants an immediate clearance change for this reason, also because it is meeting stiff competition from sub-normal admissions at independent suburban.

It is reported here that affiliated circuit representatives from other cities where clearance is an issue will attend parleys in New York.

June 12 by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt today.

The proposed amendment, which has been submitted to the Code Authority, provides that "the term 'employee' as used herein shall be deemed to refer to and include every person employed by any producer, distributor or exhibitor as hereinabove defined, and shall also be deemed to include any and all persons, however and by whomsoever compensated, regularly performing their services in motion picture theatres, which services are of a kind usually and customarily performed by theatre employees directly compensated by exhibitors."

preparatory to dissolving. Its work has thrown the Administration into an uproar, to which widespread strikes have contributed further fuel.

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders at the Capitol are preparing to clamp down on any attempts to investigate the review board or the National Recovery Administration, for which resolutions were introduced Monday by Representative Britten of Illinois and yesterday by Representative Truax of Ohio.

The Britten resolution called for an investigation of the administration in the light of the Darrow report, while Truax seeks an inquiry as to whether the review board is fostering Soviet and Communistic doctrines.

The bulletin takes a stand against company trailers. Without mentioning M-G-M by name, it says another company is planning to make its own trailers. It points out that if other companies follow, National Screen "will soon be out of business" and trailers will be "forced" with features.

"You can imagine the mess you will be in, booking trailers from four or five different film companies, with endless correspondence and punk service from each of them," the bulletin states.

Indiana Associated for Fair Trial of the Code

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—After reviewing code board decisions to date the May bulletin of Associated Theatre Owners of Indiana declares:

"It is our belief after talking with and hearing from most of the exhibitors of the state that a large majority of exhibitors are in favor of giving the whole code a fair chance to show its merits or lack of them."

Continuing in the same vein, it reads: "These exhibitors are honest enough to concede that no code could have been drawn up to please everyone in a business that has so many divergent views and attitudes. After the board has had a reasonable chance, then we shall go about changing it."

"The Darrow report to the President called attention to some of the inequities of our code, particularly to the preponderance of distributor representatives on our Code Authority in New York. There are some who say that we have always had a group of exhibitors crying for government regulation, and now we have it—just what many cried for during many years. Let us give it a fair trial and then work for the modification of the points that are not fair."

Scales in Muskegon Are Ordered Raised

DETROIT, May 25.—Handing down its initial decision, the local grievance board has upheld George Murphy, the Iris Theatre, Muskegon, Mich., in his complaint against Nicholas Kuris, the Ritz, Muskegon; the P. S. Schlossoman Theatres, and the W. S. Butterfield circuit. The charge was low admissions. The board ordered adult scales increased five cents. An exception was made in the cases of the Michigan, a Butterfield house, and the Regent, operated by Schlossoman. Prices at these two will be left to the operators of the houses.

telephone included. Major producers and distributors went on record in favor of the plan if duals were ruled out in this territory. They further assured independents, who have been leading the fight against duals, that if they got 90 per cent of independent exhibitors to sign the pledge to end doubles, the major circuits would fall in line.

Ben Berinstein, as spokesman for the independent theatre men, said that 60 per cent had already signed and that within a week he expected the total to reach 95 per cent.

Besides Mayer and Berinstein, those at the meeting included Winfield Sheehan, B. B. Kahane, Emanuel Cohen, E. J. Mannix, Gus Metzger, J. J. Milstein, Simon Lazarus and Carrol Peacock.

Majors, with the exception of Columbia and Universal, had previously advised Mayer they would agree to any plan that would eliminate the practice of renting advance showings and staging them as bona fide previews.

Previous to the matter being taken up by the ambassador the proposals were discussed by the American commercial attache in Paris with the French chief of commercial accords, who stated the plan had not as yet been submitted to his government and gave assurance that when submitted American film interests would be given an opportunity to present their views.

The proposals would prohibit imports of foreign films into France for three months, substitute for the present quota system a method designed to compel American firms operating in France to buy French pictures, and increase the value of American films for duty assessment, so that tariffs would be prohibitive.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Hell Cat"

(Columbia)

There is much in the way of entertainment in this newspaper yarn, but the story is highly exaggerated. Nevertheless the acting of Robert Armstrong, Ann Sothorn and Minna Gombell makes this original by Adele Buffington interesting. It has action, suspense and romance nicely intertwined, making the net result entirely satisfactory.

With a yen for covering night club raids, Armstrong is taken off his regular routine to camera Miss Sothorn, a pampered society lass who has slapped a prince in public. He gets her picture and when she gets fresh he smacks her in the face. This pleases the girl's father, which burns Miss Sothorn to the extent where she plans revenge.

Acquiring a southern accent overnight, Miss Sothorn interests Miss Gombell in her plan and takes on the added title of cousin to the sob sister on the same paper with Armstrong. The hero falls for the gag and even helps Miss Sothorn get a job on the sheet.

After several unsuccessful attempts to turn the tables on Armstrong, Miss Gombell finally gets her chance. The opportunity arises when she frames a kidnap plot on her yacht. While Miss Gombell is just about to enjoy herself in revealing the plot, the crew turns on the owner of the boat, which turns out to have been rented by the captain to a gang of coolie smugglers.

Armstrong's assistant comes to the aid of the victims and attracts the attention of a coast patrol boat, which rescues the principals. By this time the heroine and hero have reached the point where they understand each other.

Also in the cast and lending able support are Benny Baker, James P. Burtis, Richard Hemming, Henry Kolker, Charles Wilson, Lynn Cowan and Nick Copeland.

"Embarrassing Moments"

(Universal)

Chester Morris in the role of a practical joker can be funny and serious as the occasion requires. In one particular sequence—the duel in a Mexican cafe with Henry Armetta—Morris is exceedingly funny. After the second reel, Morris drops his air of levity and goes dramatic until the last flash when he pulls one of his practical jokes, the first to work to his advantage.

Produced by Stanley Bergerman and directed by Edward Laemmle, the picture will entertain. In the supporting cast are Marian Nixon, Walter Woolf, Alan Mowbray, George Stone, John T. Murray and several others, including King Baggett.

The story concerns Morris, in love with Miss Nixon, who never has the other fellow's feelings in mind when he plays his practical jokes. One is on Woolf, who, in turn, gets even by pulling a suicide act. Morris falls for the gag and flees to Mexico.

Miss Nixon and Woolf try to track him down, but when they get to Mexico they are told Morris is dead. Morris, in the interim, has joined three counterfeiters who are passing out phoney money. The four are arrested and, as they are being returned to the states, make their escape in an airplane. Morris refuses to continue with the trio and turns against them, bringing them to justice. He is pardoned for his part in the counterfeit plot, returns home and to the girl who has been waiting for him.

"Along Came Sally"

(Gaumont British)

An English musical with Sam Hardy the only American player in the cast. Cicely Courtneidge has appeared in several British pictures already shown in this country and has a natural flair for comedy. The musical has been adapted by Guy Bolton and has in its cast Phyllis Clare, Billy Milton and Hartley Power.

Hardy, an American musical comedy producer, tries his luck in England. Just as he's about getting set with a revue for a night club, several racketeers from the states start annoying him for protection money. Miss Courtneidge, after having been turned down by Hardy, makes up as Madame Zaza, and Hardy falls for the gag. He has been after a name attraction and with a little clever work on the part of the leading lady, she gets into the show as star attraction.

When the racketeers are turned down by Hardy, they kidnap Madame Zaza, or Miss Courtneidge, but she gets away and saves the day for the producer. During her Apache number, a real gangster substitutes for her stage player and she battles him for dear life until he is captured.

Hardy and Madame Zaza then begin chirping like two love birds until the final fadeout. The musical numbers are very well handled.

months, particularly "The Life of Vergie Winters," with Ann Harding and John Boles; "Of Human Bondage," with Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, and "Down to Their Last Yacht."

Reports that Walter Wanger or Charles R. Rogers would replace Pandro Berman as executive producer for Radio were spiked with the statement that Berman is set in that post for the new season. One or two additional unit producers may be signed up for the new schedule in the event the right men are available, it was indicated.

J. R. McDonough, RKO general manager, will remain on the Coast for at least another month.

the agreement and adjudicate the Midland liens.

The agreement indicates the reorganization plans call for a new holding company to supplant Fox Midland and Fox Rocky Mountain which will be known as Fox Mid-Continent Corp. with three major subsidiaries—Fox Plains Theatres Corp., Fox Kansas City Corp. and Fox Ozark Theatres Corp.

Under the terms of the proposed agreement Woolf and Shanberg will dismiss litigation which has been preventing the reorganization. They also agree not to bring any other suits or do anything to prevent or delay prompt liquidation of the estate. In addition, it provides for an adjudication by the trustee of the Woolf and Shanberg liens in their favor of all assets of the bankrupt estate except cash and accounts receivable for the purpose of declaring their claim superior to all others. The new corporation will pay them six per cent interest on the $478,214.50 due from February 15 last to the date of execution of the agreement.

Woolf and Shanberg pledge themselves not to oppose the trustee's allowance of general claims or certain claims of Chase National Bank, Fox West Coast Service Corp., or Fox Film. These are the majority creditors with claims aggregating approximately $7,000,000.

Reopening of Code Assents To Be Discussed This Week

With S. R. Kent back from the coast, the committee on code assents is expected to meet this week prior to the next session of Campi on Thursday. With hundreds of requests from non-signers coming in, so that many exhibitors who did not sign can be given another opportunity to do so, Code Authority is considering the advisability of setting a new assent deadline.

In addition to Kent, the committee consists of J. Robert Rubin and Ed Kuykendall. Walter Vincent has been alternating for Kuykendall at the last two Campi meetings and in all probability will substitute for him at committee meetings.

Any recommendation of the committee would have to be approved by Campi.

Indie Plans Seem Headed For 140-160

Actual Performance May Be Lower for Season

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—Schedules for 1934-35, so far as they appear definite in independent ranks, indicate a total of between 140 and 160 features for the new season. Actual performance, as in the case of majors, due to market conditions, does not always match promises. Therefore, the actual tally may prove otherwise at the end of the impending season.

This is how the lineup stands currently:

Seigel, Suchman Get Consolidated Buying

Buying for the Consolidated circuit has been split between Henry Seigel and Al Suchman, the former to handle film deals for the circuit's Eighth Ave. houses. Suchman will negotiate deals for the Bronx group.

Suchman formerly handled all film deals in addition to the bookings for the entire circuit. Seigel's entrance into the circuit as assistant to Lawrence Bolognino, vice-president, may be followed by Consolidated taking over Seigel's four houses. A deal is under way, but nothing is set.

Perfect Color and Sound Is Predicted

He was one of the speakers at the forum of 500 leaders of science and industry called by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors. The gathering was held in the General Motors Building of the Century of Progress Exposition.

Six Names in Race
To Head Supply Men

CHICAGO, May 27.—That half a dozen candidates will vie for the presidency of the Independent Theatre Supply Dealers' Ass'n. to succeed Joseph Robbins was a chief subject of lobby talk today at the Edgewater Beach Hotel as members of the organization prepared to go into the opening session of their convention. All sections, except several west coast cities, will be represented at the meeting.

Today manufacturers were setting up displays. Conventionites are awaiting the arrival of E. A. Williford of National Carbon, who will call the initial session.

Jack J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, is due in New York soon to confer with E. L. Alperson, chief buyer for the Skourases, and major sales executives on product deals for the new season. Ordinarily prepared to stay two or three weeks, Sullivan usually remains 10 or more.

Insiders' Outlook

IF appeals from local boards continue to pile into Campi headquarters, there are those who are speculating through what machinery such appeals may be quickly disposed of. Campi is clearing them as rapidly as possible, but can Campi keep pace with the new arrivals? So far, Code Authority has been hearing one appeal at each session. The initial case of Saxe versus Ashley Amusement and Vitagraph was cleaned up in less than a half hour. The second—FWC appeal from the Los Angeles grievance board decision on behalf of the Garfield Theatre in Alhambra to the tune of 20 pictures—ran into an adjournment for subsequent adjudication. This sets back other appeals, yet new ones keep coming filtering in. . . .

The greater the number of exhibitors who sign the code, the less per theatre assessment. Consequently, the fewer the squawks. There you have almost sufficient reason for extending the assent date after three original extensions to March 10. Officially, the decision rests in the hands of Sid Kent, Bob Rubin and Ed Kuykendall with Campi and the government affixing initials of approval, if it is to be that which it may. Several Campi members are reputedly for an extension provided applications from the exhibitor rank and file are sufficiently numerous. . . .

Wrote the president of one company to the president of another: "I want your pictures next season." Replied the other president: "We have customers and that means an obligation. If they don't want our product or only buy part, we'll be delighted to talk to you." And out of that, much future history may be written in this business. . . . About the Roxy. Harry Arthur may get it after all that's been set and done. More on this in a week or less, maybe. . . .

"Viva Villa" and "Sadie McKee," both creating considerable bustle out in the field, were sold on Leo's 1932-33 schedule, but are being released as the 1933-34 season goes into his last breath. That doesn't make them this year's stuff, but merely this year's delivery. M-G-M distribution says it's slow on releases because production is that way. Production says it's not slow, but careful in keeping with the w.k. Metro manner of making 'em. . . .

A trouper is a trouper. Conway Tearle proves the old wheeze in "Stingaree." Incidentally, Jules Levy, who sales manages Radio product, goes emphatic in denying the Dunne-Dix picture nabbed a Music Hall booking because nothing else was available. "That is a deliberate lie," remarked Jules, thereby indicating the measure of his emphasis. . . . Sam Katz and Paramount are being linked again. . . .

MARCHES ON!

Albany

ALBANY, May 27.—Sixty barkers turned out for the first business meeting of Tent No. 9 in the new headquarters in the Harmanus Bleecker Hall Building.

RICHARD W. GRANT has been named club steward and he immediately began making preparations for the formal opening on Saturday. GRANT was formerly steward of the Middlesex Country Club, Middletown, Conn.

Chief Barker BUCKLEY offered the ritual and oath to the following: E. M. HOLLANDER, Fox Exchange; AL MARCHETTI, Universal booker; CHARLES SMAKWITZ, Warner Theatres; M. SCHULMAN, Olympic Theatre, Utica; C. GORDON, Olympic Theatre, Utica; W. GROSSMAN, exhibitor, Hudson, N. Y.; S. BEATTIE and S. GOLDBERG, bookers, Paramount exchange; M. GRASSGREEN, Fox manager. With these additions to the membership the present roster now totals 70 barkers.

Chief Barker JACK FLYNN, Detroit Tent, was a visitor and gave the local headquarters the once over. He was so impressed he will attend the opening event. Chief Barker DAVE MILLER was also a visitor.

Barkers SCHINE and LYNCH from Gloversville and BILL SMALEY from Cooperstown paid their respects to the big tent. The Schine office located in Gloversville has given the Albany and Buffalo Tents an even split. The roster of each tent shows three members from the Schine Enterprises.

R. C. HALLIGAN, property man, has donated a radio for use in the headquarters. Other barkers are now donating books. Exchange managers are contributing star photos.

Barker TONY RYAN, recently resigned Fox manager, is commuting back and forth to New York and an announcement as to his new connection is anticipated soon.

Barkers NATE SAUBER and RALPH PIELOW, Universal and M-G-M, respectively, were week-end guests of MEYER SCHINE and GEORGE LYNCH in Gloversville.

Buffalo

BUFFALO, May 27.—A public tribute to the memory of MICHAEL SHEA will be paid at an open meeting of Variety Club on Monday in the Hotel Statler ballroom. The program will be broadcast and will be attended by public officials and leaders of civic and fraternal groups, as well as the barkers, officials and employees of the Shea theatres and representatives of the acting profession.

Instead of being kings for the day, SIDNEY B. PFELFER and W. E. J. MARTIN will be the arrangements committee. A leading Buffalo citizen will eulogize Shea in behalf of the city and some noted actor will speak for the profession. Both are to be selected.

Invocation by a Catholic priest, benediction by a rabbi and an organ selection and hymn will be included in the ceremonies, in addition to the reading of resolutions to be prepared by the local newspaper fraternity.

Secretary HERBERT T. SILVERBERG presided at this week's session in the absence of Chief Barker DAVE MILLER, who was called to Cleveland by the death of his mother. A telegram of condolence was sent by the club.

NORMAN B. FREAKLEY, entertainer at station WEBR, was elected to membership to take the place of the late EDWARD J. HINKLEY.

Visiting barkers included GEORGE ROBERTS of Cleveland, Fox district manager; and GEORGE LYNCH of Gloversville, member of the Albany tent and an executive of the Schine theatre circuit.

Barker HARRY T. DIXON, RKO Radio exchange manager, was the first to sport a straw kelly, thus inaugurating the season on Film Row.

King for a day luncheons will be dispensed with during June, July and August. Instead, monthly gatherings will be held, probably out of doors, with golf and swimming parties in prospect.

Chicago

CHICAGO, May 27.—CLYDE ECKHARDT, temporary chairman, has named the following committees: Housing and quartering, JAMES E. COSTON, EDWARD GROSSMAN, ALAN USHER, EDWIN SILVERTON; constitution and by-laws, MORRIS LEONARD, FELIX MENDELSON, WALTER IMMERMANN, WILLIAM GEHRING, IRVING MANDEL; publicity, HERB ELLISBURG, JACK OSSERMAN; ways and means, HENRY HERBEL, BARNEY BALABAN, AARON JONES, JULES RUBEN, JACK MILLER, AARON SAPERSTEIN.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, May 27.—The Monday luncheon meetings have been discontinued for the summer. Meetings are expected to be held once a month until fall, when the weekly sessions will be resumed.

New names on the barker roll include, HARRY FETTIG, Cincinnati, operating theatres in Hamilton and Middletown, and JOHN ELLIOTT, executive head of the Phoenix Amusement Co., Lexington, Ky., as resident and non-resident members, respectively.

Every one of the members of the Cincinnati grievance and clearance and zoning boards are members of the Variety Club.

JACK WEINER has tendered his resignation to the local tent, having returned to New York after disposing of his Beecher Theatre here.

NAT. L. LEFTON, Tent No. 6, as also NAT WOLF, of the same tent, and J. REAL NETH, of Tent No. 2, were visitors here last week.

Condolences are being extended to Barker JOHN SCHWALM, non-resident, of Hamilton, on the death of his sister in Pittsburgh.

Barker BILL ONIE is making extensive preparations for the sales meeting of his company (Monogram), which opens here June 2.

Columbus

COLUMBUS, May 27.—FATHER SULIVAN, chaplain of Ohio State Penitentiary, is substituting for FATHER CORBETT as Variety Club chaplain during the latter's absence in Houston, Texas.

Condolences of the entire membership go to Barker WILLIAM DALTON upon the sudden death of his mother in Richmond, on the night of his opening at Loew's Theatre there as featured organist.

The club regrets the return of Barker EDGAR HART, former manager for the RKO-Majestic here, to California. At the Tuesday luncheon Barker HART was given a fine send-off.

Columbus Tent No. 2 is to be host to the national board of directors Sunday. Chief Barker DUKE CLARK is planning a hearty welcome terminating with a banquet in the evening, at which time Barker Governor GEORGE WHITE will preside.

The club has voted to increase resident membership from 60 to 75.

A large delegation of Columbus barkers went to Cleveland for a farewell dinner to Barker EDDY FONTAINE, who is leaving for Chicago to become district manager for Paramount there in charge of Chicago, Detroit, Indianapolis and Milwaukee.

Detroit

DETROIT, May 27.—Five new barkers were elected to membership last week. They are STANLEY FISHER, WILLIAM BAKER and PAUL FIELDS, resident; JAMES OLSEN and ALLAN JOHNSON, non-resident.

MAX RUBEN and RAY CONLIN were kings for last week's meeting. They presented CLAUDE S. CARNEY, director of the State Department of Industry and Labor as speaker. FRANK SMITH won their prize for the day—a swell casting rod.

HENRY ZAPP and J. D. LENAHAAN will be kings for Monday's meeting. FRANK D. FITZGERALD, Secretary of State, will be the chief speaker.

On Tuesday, June 5, the Detroit Variety will stage a golf tournament at Franklin Hills Country Club, with a beefsteak dinner and entertainment to follow in the evening. Barker DAVE IDZAL is in charge. Others on the committee are H. M. RICHEY, HAROLD ROBINSON and ALEX SCHREIBER.

E. M. (PECK) GOMERSALL, Universal sales magnate, was a guest of the club at Monday's meeting.

BOB MISCH attended again after a month's illness in a Battle Creek sanitarium. OLLIE BROOKS was with him.

Regular Monday meetings will be dropped for the summer after June 4. Also the Saturday and Sunday night open houses.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—Long drawn out luncheon meetings of the past few weeks have brought complaints from members, so the Monday luncheon was that and nothing more. Some Hawaiian entertainers provided the musical program. JOE CANTOR, chief barker, presided.

FLOYD BROWN suggested a golf tournament and took down a list of those who go in for the game. Time and place for the tourney will be announced later.

Washington

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Announcements have gone out to resident and non-resident members of Tent No. 11 for a meeting to be held May 28 at the Willard Hotel, at 8 o'clock.

NAT. B. BROWNE, executive secretary, states that it will be a business meeting, held for the purpose of appointing various committees and business in connection with the completion of the club rooms. Date for the official "house warming" will be set.

Papers have been signed, settling with the Willard Hotel for headquarters of the Washington Tent, June 1 will be the official start for the lease.

The 75 members, at which point the membership had previously been pegged, have been signed. It is understood that this figure applies only to resident members, and that non-resident memberships are still acceptable.

Ether Rates Will Climb

CINCINNATI, May 27.—WLW, local station, which stepped up its power from 50,000 to 500,000 watts May 2, making it the most powerful radio station in the world, although now maintaining top rate of $990 per hour for evening broadcasting, will increase the rate 10 per cent on July 1 for commercial broadcasts.

A similar increase will be put into effect later in the year, according to John L. Clark, general manager.

Studios Worry About 30-Hour Week—Casey

possible effect on production schedules of any further cuts in hours.

Casey is in favor of giving regional labor boards power to enforce their decisions. The provisions giving labor the right to organize under the code were intended to benefit labor, he said, but they have not worked out that way, because either party to a dispute can reject the findings. There have been no difficulties over union recognition in this industry, he says. Minor disputes have been adjusted and the major crafts are now working under a two-year agreement negotiated last September. Studio labor is now averaging six hours a day at eight hours' pay, he declares.

"I don't know where producers are getting the money to meet the additional costs," he says, "but they are getting along."

In Casey's opinion film rentals will have to be raised. Duals have been an obstacle, he says, because exhibitors figure feature costs on the basis of one unit and pay no more for doubles than they normally would for one picture.

Commenting on reports that organized theatre crafts would demand raises next fall, he said they should get them if business conditions warrant increases.

Bracket Shifts Up For Decision Here

expected to be decided by the New York grievance board tomorrow or Wednesday when hearings are resumed in the Harman Yaffa complaint against Warners-First National.

Yaffa, operating the Gem and Majestic, states in his complaint that he bought four Edward G. Robinson's and a similar number of Ruth Chatterton's. The distributor, he says, delivered all but one Robinson and one Chatterton at prices contracted for, but for the fourth picture of each of the two series, he had to pay an increased rental, amounting to about $200.

The independent contends the distributor did not replace the Robinson and Chatterton pictures in the lower brackets and seeks an adjustment of the extra rental.

The local board heard the case last week and adjourned until tomorrow when work sheets and other data used in negotiating the deal are to be submitted in evidence. A decision will most likely be handed down Wednesday.

Sam Eckman Sails

Sam Eckman, managing director for M-G-M in England, sailed on the Ile de France Saturday. He was in New York almost four weeks on his annual visit to Leo's headquarters. Mrs. Eckman accompanied him.

"C. A." Closed Saturdays

"Bank Night" Ruling By Charlotte Board

CHARLOTTE, May 27.—The local grievance board yesterday decided that Harold Kay of the Liberty, North Wilkesboro, N. C., is operating a "bank night" in violation of the code by giving insufficient notification to the public that the purchase of a ticket to the house is necessary to register and participate in the award. The matter was heard on the complaint of W. J. Allen, New Orpheum, same town.

The decision further stated that in order to continue the "bank night," the theatre is definitely and specifically required to advertise that on such a night it is unnecessary for the public to purchase tickets to the house to receive awards.

In the case of M-G-M vs. L. L. Drake, Ansonia, Wadesboro, claiming designation of percentage dates, M-G-M designated "Tarzan and His Mate" for Saturday, which the exhibitor claimed unsuitable. The board decided the film was suitable for Saturday.

Two appeals from the local boards are now before Campi and will be heard May 31. They are the case of L. C. Sipe, Criterion, Anderson, S. C., vs. H. F. Kinney of Palmetto Theatres, operating the Strand at Anderson on reduced admissions. The board decided in favor of the plaintiff and Kinney appealed. The other case is that of S. S. Mitchell, Imperial, Newton, N. C., asking elimination of protection of Hickory, N. C., over Newton. The board reduced the protection from 30 to 15 days and Mitchell appealed.

Buffalo MPTO Hits Non-Theatre Films

BUFFALO, May 27.—Strong protest is made in resolutions adopted by the M.P.T.O. of Western New York against any extension of non-theatrical showings. The resolution is directed at the M. P. Research Council and Rev. William H. Short.

Short's opposition to inclusion of a non-theatrical ban in the code is cited and exhibitors are urged to take an active stand against the council on the ground that it aims to destroy independents.

Operator, Stagehand Scales Up for Study

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Acting to bring about coordination of operators' and stagehands' pay scales in Greater New York, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt today appointed Donald K. Wallace and Daniel Bertrand of the Division of Economic Research and Planning to go to New York after June 1 to secure and collate data and statistics with respect to such employees. The information thus obtained is to be made available to a board that will be appointed to set up wage scales.

"Du Barry" for Waldorf

Warners' "Madame Du Barry" will have its first public showing at the ball to be given at the Waldorf-Astoria on June 4 for the benefit of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's Clubs for Unemployed Girls in New York.

Bard for Retention Of Anti-Trust Laws

OMAHA, May 27.—Revamping of the code so that the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws will continue in effect and assessment of code costs on the basis of the film rentals paid by theatres is urged in a statement issued by Calvin Bard of Allied of Iowa and Nebraska.

Bard has mailed 500 copies of his statement to exhibitors in this territory and has sent copies to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

We want boards empowered to hear any kind of a complaint. He also favors elimination of block booking and protection of independents from circuit buying power.

Miss Regina Molseed, code board secretary here, says that of the 250 to 280 exhibitors in this territory 203 have signed the code as it stands.

Stop Buffalo Groceries

BUFFALO, May 27.—An order to stop giving away groceries as premiums has been returned by the grievance board in the complaint of Lewis Isenberg, proprietor of the New Ariel, against R. Wick, Majestic.

runs, local theatres have been using the Star exclusively.

Directory users get a special rate of $3.50 a week, figuring about nine cents a line. The former rate was much higher. The Star's suburban theatre rate is 40 cents a line minimum.

Apart from the advertising deal, the Journal-Post has contracted with the I. T. O. to run promotional trailers, of about a minute and a half in length, exploiting the paper's features, in a circulation campaign. Between 35 and 40 neighborhoods will run the trailers, each receiving a sum said to approximate the cost of advertising in the directory. Compensation received by the theatre will be turned over as dues to the I. T. O.

last Friday, reveals an operating profit of $52,518.79 before fixed charges. No objections to the report are expected and the following day, Judge Caffey will most likely continue Howard S. Cullman as receiver.

Nothing of any importance is expected to happen today at the foreclosure hearing before Judge Caffey. The foreclosure which Continental Bank instituted at the start of the receivership probably will be continued, it is said.

Reports Saturday indicated that the first mortgage bondholders were satisfied with the present policy at the house. A new deal will have to be made with Harry C. Arthur after June 15, since the present deal ends with the receivership term.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—Harry Scott is here from New York and takes over the management of the local United Artists exchange on Monday. Scott formerly held a sales executive post with Pathe and until recently was identified with the NRA in Washington doing special publicity work.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—The United Artists will close May 30. Lack of suitable product is given as the reason. The theatre closed last year during the summer for a similar reason. It is expected to reopen about August 15.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Friends of Mr. Sweeney"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—"Friends of Mr. Sweeney" rocked a preview audience with continuous laughter. Based on the Elmer Davis novel, the comedy treatment and dialogue succeed in getting laughs throughout, with a well-balanced cast handling the situations in rare form and with Edward Ludwig delivering a fine piece of direction.

The story, of the clean, wholesome type executed to please all classes of audiences, concerns an editorial writer (Charles Ruggles) employed by a highbrow, conservative magazine. He permits himself to become dominated to the point of becoming old and in a rut until his secretary (Ann Dvorak), with the aid of his old college chum (Eugene Pallette), pulls him out. This trio, next to Berton Churchill, dominates through a series of laugh-provoking situations blending well into the running story of crooked politics, shaded lightly with gangsterism, romance and logical tomfoolery which should be pleasing to juveniles as well as adults. It is by far the best comedy performance enacted by Ruggles and Pallette in many moons.

Robert Barrat, Dorothy Burgess, Harry Beresford, Dorothy Tree, William Davidson and Harry Tyler deliver. The picture has production value, action and fine settings. Credit the Warren Duff and Sidney Sutherland screenplay, with F. Hugh Herbert's and Erwin Gelsey's added dialogue, for a bangup job of comedy construction. Running time, 65 minutes.

"The Man with Two Faces"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—This complicated murder mystery keeps the audience in a whirl of confusion and suspense from the beginning to the final fadeout.

The story has Mary Astor, an actress, making a stage comeback after a morbid experience with her husband, Louis Calhern, who exercises a strange, hypnotic power over her. After Calhern has been reported dead, Miss Astor regains her own personality and, through the efforts of her brother, Edward G. Robinson, also an actor, becomes a stage sensation. At the height of her success, Calhern reappears, again reducing her to a colorless moral slave.

In the midst of a blackmail plot Calhern is murdered. An exciting and clever solution follows, involving Ricardo Cortez, manager of the show, a mysterious Mr. Chautard, also played by Robinson, Margaret Dale, and Miss Astor's mother, and Emily Fitzroy, the maid.

Robinson handles his dual role with veteran deftness. The able supporting cast includes David Landau, a police sergeant, and Mae Clarke as Robinson's friend. The direction by Archie Mayo is fine.

A strong cast and a good story make this one good. Running time, 73 minutes.

"The Cat's Paw"

(Harold Lloyd-Fox)

SAN DIEGO, May 27.—A packed house at the Fox here gave Harold Lloyd's latest many laughs and prolonged applause. While radically different from Lloyd's previous efforts, due to lack of slapstick, "The Cat's Paw" has a strong cast, a novel plot and good acting.

Lloyd goes over big as Ezekiel O. Cobb, son of a Chinese missionary who comes to America for a wife and for children, and ends up as a substitute reform candidate for mayor. He punches the liberal candidate in the jaw for hitting a child and is swept into office.

Lloyd depends upon the incongruity of the situations and dialogue for laughs and gets them. One of the funniest sequences is a cabaret scene where a gangster moll lures him into a dance routine. Una Merkel, as the heart interest, and George Barbier, as a politician who takes Lloyd under his wing, share honors with him.

Despite the length of the feature, 105 minutes, the action is fairly fast, but it can stand cutting. The film can be promoted from the new comedy angle as well as the strong cast. Exhibitors should also plug the fact that the plot is taken from Charles Kelland's serial in the Saturday Evening Post.

Flash Review

S. A. Mann Brand—A pro-Nazi preaching of limited appeal... lightened by flashes of homely humor and aided by good photography and several good performances, will undoubtedly interest strongly German neighborhoods... entirely German dialogue without English subtitles.

This film will be reviewed in full in an early issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

It is anticipated that film representatives will present their views tomorrow.

Tabulating New Assents in Move to Decide Reopening

Campi is anxious to learn how many in the rank and file of exhibitors who have not signed the code really want to if given another opportunity. And with this thought in mind, code secretaries have been advised to accept consents of exhibitors, who have not assented, for submission to authority headquarters.

The consents to sign the code before the deadline is reopened will not be final, but will be tabulated by Campi to learn how many exhibitors who failed to sign want to comply. The consents are being taken under advisement and probably will be considered at the meeting of Campi after May 31.

If it is found exhibitors in substantial numbers want to avail themselves of the opportunity, Division Administrator Sol. A. Rosenblatt will be asked to reopen the assent date.

Rosenblatt Will Decide Cleveland Zone Problem

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt will decide the Cleveland issue which has arisen over clearance and zoning. Some time ago a protection plan for the Ohio city was reached by agreement of independent and major first and second run exhibitors and has until Dec. 31, 1934, to run.

While in Campi quarters it is believed the code supersedes all existing contracts, this is the first case to come up which involves a previous clearance and zoning agreement. Rosenblatt, at Thursday's meeting, will be asked to decide whether or not Campi's procedure for filing protests

Agreement on No Change in Discounts Up View at Roxy To Supply Men Before Fall

CHICAGO, May 28.—Establishment of standard discounts on all types of equipment with a view to eliminating cut throat price cutting was the main subject before the Independent Theatre Supply Dealers' Ass'n. following last night's election which resulted in a victory for Joe Robin.

This will be Robin's fourth term as president. Other officers elected after a strong fight by a minority group were: Vice-President, Joe Hornstein; secretary-treasurer, Clem Rizzo of Philadelphia; directors, K. R. Douglas, Boston; Max Rubin, Detroit;

Reorganization of the Roxy will not take place until fall and no definite plan is in sight at this time, it was stated officially yesterday after a foreclosure hearing before Federal Judge Francis G. Appeal Flood Campi Worry; More Coming

Hearing by Committee Is Now Suggested

With 16 appeals on tap for Thursday's meeting and more arriving at Campi headquarters daily from all parts of the country, Code Authority, admittedly, is at a loss to figure out how it can hear and dispose of the many cases in quick order.

According to the code, all appeals must be heard by Campi. With 62 clearance and zoning and grievance boards meeting weekly and appeals flowing into the main office, it is figured that before long 100 appeals will be on the docket. Of the 16 now on file, two are from clearance and zoning decisions.

Campi does not expect to hear more

Names of Impartial Alternates Come in

Recommendations for alternates for impartial men on all boards are now coming into Campi for Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt's study. No alternates are expected to be named at Thursday's meeting. Each of the suggested men will be investigated by Rosenblatt and appointments will probably be made at the meeting after May 31.

Independents Meet Today at the Astor

Mexican Producers

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—Civic government has effected a friendly censorship arrangement with the national government for Mexican made films. The idea is to insure the utmost accuracy and spare Mexican producers any possible ridicule because of errors in history, military uniforming and procedure.

Catholics' Boycott
Helps Detroit Spot

DETROIT, May 28.—Despite 350,000 Catholic pledges in this diocese not to patronize theatres showing objectionable films, many local exhibitors say they are finding the publicity given proscribed pictures working to their advantage. Largely responsible for this condition is the practice of the Michigan Catholic, official Catholic organ, of listing "recommended" and "not recommended" entertainment, a practice which theatre men feel is defeating the purpose of the Catholic drive against bad films.

Here is an example cited: Recently the Deluxe, playing "not recommended" films at the same time the Gladwin put on a "recommended" program, came out away ahead of the latter financially.

French Houses Ask

PARIS, May 28.—An increase of the American film quota from 242 films for the current season to 325 for the 1934-35 season has been demanded by the French Cinema Owners' Ass'n. as its answer to the Syndical Chambre which wants an embargo on all film imports for three months.

The exhibitors have put their case before Minister of Commerce Lucien Lamoureux. According to exhibitors only 20 of the 174 French films produced last year were excellent.

At Studio Previews

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—F. W. C. is not in accord with the tentative plan adopted among producers, distributors and independent exhibitors to cure the preview evil by not advertising showings.

The big circuit contends the solution is to charge 55 cents for all previews. It is admitted this will keep neighborhood patronage away from previews to a certain extent, but F. W. C. contends this is a producers' problem.

than five cases, if that many, at Thursday's session. That leaves 11 for the next session, plus additional appeals which may filter in.

In some quarters, it is suggested Campi appoint four members of the original board, and not alternates, to hear appeals, setting aside a day before Campi hearings to do so. Whatever decision this board makes will be recommended to the main body of 10 for final disposition.

The board of four would consist of an impartial member, an independent exhibitor, an independent distributor and a major producer-distributor. This plan is not official and not more than a suggestion in the mind of a leader who was asked for his solution to the present appeal situation.

Reorganization Dates Not Set, Says Rhoden

last night stated he was not in a position to discuss plans for reorganizing the circuits at this time. Asked about reports which had him heading the two circuits, Rhoden said he knew nothing about them.

Rhoden said his trip east was on a budget matter and that he plans to leave for Kansas City Thursday night. He denied his visit had anything to do with the reorganization plans and asserted that with the Woolf-Shanberg suit settled, a Fox Midland creditors' meeting was held last week. Rhoden did not know when the bankruptcy sales would be held, the dates not having yet been set.

KANSAS CITY, May 28.—It is believed here that Elmer C. Rhoden's conferences with major circuit heads in New York have to do with price increases at downtown first runs rather than with revised clearances necessitated by price slashes.

against present schedules stands as far as Cleveland is concerned.

Code Authority yesterday had not heard from Cleveland and the only information available on the Cleveland situation was printed in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

In other quarters, it is held that if Cleveland exhibitors are satisfied with the present protection schedule the plan should not be disturbed. However, if the plan is found faulty, then the code should prevail and changes should be heard and decided upon by the board, it is said.

4 Cases Dismissed By Capital Board

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Four cases were dismissed today by the grievance board. Three of the complaints were filed by Herbert Zimmerman, operating the Echo, Baltimore, who charged Fox, Warners, and M-G-M were selling product to his competitor, who allegedly was screening it at lower prices and before the Echo. He asked that he be allowed to meet competition by lowering his prices notwithstanding the minimum price provisions in his contracts.

The stand taken by the defendants was that inasmuch as the code prohibits exhibition under contract admissions the complaints should be dismissed.

The fourth dismissal was in the case of J. Frank Falls, operating the Virginia, Danville, Va., against the Kinney interests, which he charged with tying up all sub-run product. Kinney, he alleged, had prevented the Virginia from obtaining contracts for Warners-First National by contracting for the exclusive use of this product.

The case of Louis Tunick vs. Al Kahn, both of Baltimore, which came up for the first time May 14, was adjourned for a second time, to June 4, for further evidence. Gift nights are involved.

Confers on Coast on Labor Board Action

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—Jefferson Davis, recently appointed impartial member of the studio labor board, arrived here today and held his first meeting with Ed Smith and Major Joseph Donovan to formulate a mode of operation for the board.

He makes it emphatic that all complaints pertaining to labor violations must clear through the board. All complaints with the state NRA compliance board must now be turned over to him or else will be ignored. The board, it is said, can and will function without Pat Casey, unless a dispute arises where a complainant demands a third party.

Davis said "speed, action and fairness" will serve as his motto. He asserted he would start the machinery going tomorrow.

Warners Set New Title

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—The title of Warners' "Hey, Sailor" has been definitely changed to "Here Comes the Navy."

Not Subject to 10% Cancellation—U.A.

The notification was in answer to a request sent out by her to all distributors for dates of all releases after December 7 to be posted so that exhibitors might be informed as to when cancellation became effective. Miss Gannon was told that in view of the policy of United Artists to license pictures individually and on individual contracts, the company is under no compulsion to furnish release dates on any of its product.

The matter will be brought to the attention of the grievance board at next week's meeting and is expected to go to Campi in New York for decision.

Youngclaus Drops Case

OMAHA, May 28.—After the grievance board had listened most of the afternoon to arguments between attorneys for W. N. Youngclaus of Columbus, Neb., and the Central States Theatre Corp., over the former's complaint that he was unable to obtain enough major product to operate, the complaint was withdrawn by Youngclaus.

Central States then complained against Youngclaus, charging that he was manipulating a free ticket deal with a Columbus shoe store on a reduced admission scale. After 10 minutes the board ordered Youngclaus to stop the practice.

Will Singer, manager of the Omaha Brandeis, was chairman.

Attitude of the first mortgage bondholders is not to disturb the present operation, which also indicates Harry C. Arthur will continue his operating agreement with Cullman. The present receiver may be appointed trustee under the new bankruptcy law.

Continental Bank & Trust Co., holding 65 per cent of first mortgage bonds, or representing claims of $4,885,852.51, of which $3,595,208.37 is in first mortgage bonds and the balance interest due and other claims, presented its case without opposition. The original mortgage, entered into Oct. 22, 1925, was for $4,250,000.

Chase National Bank, original holders of $2,500,000 junior bonds, submitted claims and other data which brings its principal and interest due to June 20, 1932 to $1,715,040.20.

Report Trailer Use Down in Some Spots

hibitors in many localities and is creating concern among trailer makers.

The trailer reduction tendency is spreading to the larger circuits and many houses operated by Skouras, M. E. Comerford and Harry Arthur now confine their advertising of coming attractions to a mere title and cast announcement by trailer and to lobby advertising. The policy has been in effect in Comerford houses in Pennsylvania for the past six months, it is learned.

The tendency appears to be confined to houses making a minimum of three changes weekly. In such theatres audience irritability on seeing the same trailer three or more times per week resulted in numerous complaints and, in some instances, in lost patronage, according to exhibitor reports. Patrons habitually attending each new program were said to be the most vigorous complainants.

Cincy Court Refuses Injunction to Union

CINCINNATI, May 28.—Judge Nelson Schwab, in Common Pleas Court, has refused to grant an injunction to Operators' Local 327, which sought to enjoin the Sound Projectionists' Union of America, a local organization, from further operations here.

The suit was based on claims that the defendant organization was not a bona fide union; that it had resorted to unfair tactics to mislead employers and the public; caused stench bombs to be placed in theatres employing plaintiff's operators, and violated the code by working for less money and longer hours than prescribed.

The court ruled that the evidence adduced did not substantiate plaintiff's claims, and that the real controversy appeared to be over the scale of wages, which defendants had expressed a willingness to arbitrate.

Looking 'Em Over

"Born to Be Bad"

(20th Century-United Artists)

Story unrealities and a lagging treatment make "Born to Be Bad" a mediocre effort. As it nears its climax, the attraction gains momentum and ends with what is its highest point emotionally and it's good. Unfortunately, however, is the fact that this takes so much footage to reach.

The story is pretty much the life yarn of Loretta Young, attractive mother of a young uncontrollable, Jack Kelk, offspring out of wedlock. Thrown around by life, the mother, as the picture opens, makes her living by entertaining out-of-town buyers even when they have "ideas." Having little time to train the youngster, he drifts along, reflecting the lack of conduct and morals which motivate Miss Young's existence.

When the boy is injured by a truck, a conniving lawyer goes into collusion with her in an attempt to extort damages from Cary Grant's dairy firm. Motion pictures taken after the accident show up the fake, result in Jackie being removed to an orphan asylum and his subsequent adoption by Grant.

Still not content, Miss Young makes efforts to regain the boy and invades the Grant household, goes into an affair with Grant under his own roof and with his wife a few steps down the corridor. Shown up in exacting colors which reflect the "Born to Be Bad" title, Miss Young eventually realizes the errors of her way, bows out of the picture and returns to the befriending bookshop where the child was born. Lowell Sherman directed. Running time, 61 minutes.

"The Woman in Command"

(Gaumont British)

Grand fun from beginning to end is this Gainsborough production. In its chief roles it has Cicely Courtneidge and our own Edward Everett Horton. The duo make a hilarious combination. Besides a succession of uproarious comedy antics, the film offers some pleasing musical interludes, fine settings and first-rate photography.

As the film opens Miss Courtneidge is being crowned as her aged mother's successor as "queen" of a highly popular British variety family known as the Marvellos. Horton, stage manager of the troupe, is hopelessly in love with her until, almost at the close of the film, she responds to his dogged devotion to her. As "queen" Miss Courtneidge must give orders and see to it that every member of the company does his duty and honors the Marvello tradition, a tradition which is defied by the youngest of them, a slip of a girl, who falls so deeply in love with Anthony Bushell, a young officer, that in her eyes nothing else in the world matters.

Cicely, treasuring the memory of a youthful romance of her own with a soldier, decides that the young girl shall not be deprived of happiness as she was when she forced duty to the Marvello name to triumph over love. So she fixes things for the young lovers, and gives herself a break by accepting the advances of Horton.

The acting is good. Maurice Elvey directed. Running time, 70 minutes.

"S. A. Mann Brand"

(Tobis-Bavarian Films)

This is a pro-Nazi preachment and, with German dialogue and no English sub-titles, its appeal as entertainment obviously is limited. The weight of its propaganda is somewhat lightened by flashes of homely humor and the production as a whole is aided by good photography and some good performances. These factors should make it of interest in strongly German neighborhoods where Nazism interests.

The story opens in pre-Hitler Germany, with the Nazi party still in the process of formation. Fritz Brand, member of a Nazi organization in a strongly Communistic neighborhood, is saved from murder by the daughter of the Communist organization's leader. He is alienated from his father, a Marxist follower; is fired from his job by Communist influence and undergoes a number of other persecutions in order to demonstrate the struggle between the National Socialist party and Communists in Germany. The Hitler ideal of German womanhood and youth is supplied by a war widow and her son who undergo poverty and tragedy at the hands of the Reds for the new Germany. The two are friends and neighbors of Brand's. With the election of Hitler their troubles are ended and a new era dawns in Germany. Brand and the Communist's daughter, now a convert to National Socialism, are reunited.

The audience at which the picture was caught was entirely German and gave every indication of enjoying "S. A. Mann Brand." Running time, 90 minutes.

"Villa" Under Church's Ban Leads Detroit

DETROIT, May 28.—Despite the fact that "Viva Villa" was one of the "not recommended" for the 350,000 Catholics who signed the "pledge" backed by Michigan Catholics, the Michigan was the one bright spot last week. The $25,000 take was $5,000 up.

United Artists worried along with "The House of Rothschild" in its third and last week and took $7,800. The Fisher, playing "Private Scandal," was away off. The Fox with "Stingaree" and Hal Leroy topping the stage end, ran the Michigan a good second.

Total for the week was $56,400 against $59,600 last week and an average of $55,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending May 24:

"PRIVATE SCANDAL" (Para.)

"Melodrama" with "Lady" Omaha Top

OMAHA, May 28.—"Manhattan Melodrama" and "Uncertain Lady," on a dual bill, took top honors here last week, going to $8,500 at the Orpheum. This is $500 up.

"Viva Villa" at the Paramount was good for $7,200, nearly $1,000 better than last week. The Paramount did the unusual in holding over "Big Bad Wolf" for a second week, and so successful was the move that the Tri-States circuit will duplicate in all its 23 houses.

"I'll Tell the World" slumped at the start, chiefly due to a week-end heat wave. It was picking up as the run closed, but not enough, leaving the house about $3,500, quite a bit below average.

"Stingaree" and "The Crime Doctor," at the Brandeis, were disappointing and were withdrawn after six days, claiming a gross of $3,500. The management says a cooling system, latest in the field, will be functioning about June 1.

Total first run business was $22,700. Average is $22,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending May 23:
"VIVA VILLA" (M-G-M)

Dual Ban in Pacts Reaches Phila. Court

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—The right of producers to ban duals in contracts was challenged in a petition filed in U. S. District Court here by Harry Perelman, independent theatre owner of West Allegheny and Lehigh, asking nullification of his contract with Warners and eight affiliates carrying clauses prohibiting him from double featuring. In his petition he also names other major distributors. Date for argument is to be set later.

Ben Golder, Perelman's legal representative, issued a statement announcing the formation of a group known as the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Ass'n. to safeguard the interests of its members. The statement also attacks the Hays organization and claims violation of the anti-trust laws.

The new organization is composed of some M. P. T. O. members and is said to have about 40 members, mostly from this city. Perelman is active in the new body.

Looking 'Em Over

"Sorrell and Son"

(B. & D.-United Artists)

Well acted and nicely mounted and photographed, "Sorrell and Son" proves only mildly entertaining. The story has a quiet dignity that many probably will enjoy, but some audiences may find it slow-paced and somewhat depressing. The years of Sorrell's struggles and labor to attain advantages for his son are unrelieved by humor of any kind and, despite his ultimate success and that of the son, the picture retains a heavy flavor.

Capt. Sorrell, played by H. B. Warner, at the close of the World War, returns to London, marries and begins a search for employment. Unsuccessful except for temporary jobs now and then, Sorrell's bride tires of their poverty and leaves him with their son. Driven by his love for the boy, Sorrell eventually accepts the only available work, that of handy man in a small town cafe. A patron of the place, an inn keeper, later makes Sorrell assistant porter.

Sorrell's son, Kit, played by Hugh Williams, chooses surgery for his profession. To put the boy through school, Sorrell works the harder, eventually to become the partner of the inn keeper. Kit succeeds in his profession, wins the girl whom he loved as a student, but is called home from his moneymoon by the final illness of his father, on whom hard work and the years have taken their toll. Despite the surgical skill of the son, he is unable to save Sorrell's life.

The performances of Warner and Williams are understanding. Others in the cast, mostly unknown here, are good in less important roles. Running time, 81 minutes.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Personality Kid"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—Pat O'Brien, as a pugilist, and Glenda Farrell, as his wife and manager, project the human drama behind the fight racket in this. The production emphasizes, and strives to stress the emotional, rather than the physical, elements of pugilism.

Because of his personality in the ring and his showmanship, O'Brien's backers, Robert Gleckler and Henry O'Neill, "frame" fights in order that O'Brien's personal drawing power might be crowned with victories. Eventually, however, this leads to his being barred from the ring. He becomes estranged from Miss Farrell and is spurned by Claire Dodd, a society artist. On the slide, he receives an offer to "throw" a fight, but refuses when he hears that his wife is about to have a baby. He borrows $5 from his backers, buys a basketful of groceries, goes into the fight, crosses his opponent and wins. The baby is born and, while the newspapers herald his comeback, he is reconciled to his wife in the hospital for a happy ending.

Miss Dodd, Thomas Jackson, a reporter; Clarence Muse, a colored trainer, and Gleckler, support nicely. Alan Crosland directed, from a story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker, scenarized by F. Hugh Herbert and Erwin Gelsey. Adapted by David Boehm.

It should appeal to those who like prizefight films with a human undercurrent.

Local and state censorship may vary running time in different sections of the country. Running time, as published herewith, is clocked on the basis of the product as caught by Motion Picture Daily reviewers, east and west.

Planning 58, a record in features for the company, Fox yesterday listed 43 vehicles of the projected total by name, declared data on the remaining 15 will be divulged later and pointed out 11 of its program for 1934-35 will be musicals.

Stories, casts and production plans for the 43 will be one of the highlights of the company's annual sales convention which got under way at the Waldorf yesterday with approximately 250 Fox men from all over the United States and Canada in attendance.

As far as it went, the product announcement listed Janet Gaynor in one starring vehicle and as one of the lead in "One More Spring" which

Insiders' Outlook

FLYING the Fox Metropolitan banner are approximately 85 theatres. They represent a tidy sum of invested capital. But far and away the significance of that string is not the playing time it controls, nor the potential profits which may smuggle somewhere in its operation. Fox Metropolitan has many eyes cast in its direction these days because it may easily be the pivot around which will swing into being a considerably changed national picture. . . .

The story has been told, in part. Because the Warners, who last season sold their 60 pictures to the Loew circuit in Greater New York presumably have been accorded only five "big halves" of the week—and that means those coveted Saturday and Sunday dates—the men who decide matters on 44th Street have determined to enter the richest territory in the United States with both feet. At least, this is the reason advanced in conservative circles for the interest which Warners are displaying in Fox Met and how it jumps. . . .

The yarn now shifts to Broadway and 45th Street, where, on the seventh floor of Loew's State Building, sits Nick Schenck in an office that directs the affairs of Loew's and M-G-M. It has been many years now since even a threat to Loew's powerful position in the greater city has reared its head. With its 70-odd houses in the five boroughs, the Loew position through the years has continued unassailed by talk or action of invasion. Schenck, of course, wants it that way and, while he may not be in a position to check any moves hostile to his think tank, certainly he is in a position to fight back, tooth and nail. . . .

The Warners, it is common gossip, are set to make an attractive cash bid for Fox Met at the Federal court hearing set for June 20. So far as is known, the attitude of the bondholders' committee in charge of reorganization favors a renewal of the existing deal with the Skourases and Randforce, which means Sam Rinzler and Louis Frisch, on a plan which would take a longer period of time to work out. It is said for Schenck he is not interested in Fox Met except under one condition. That is, if the Warner cash bid proves attractive enough to grab those houses. In that event, Schenck is reported prepared to step in, ready to acquire Fox Met regardless of the price or the conditions. . . .

Matters such as this are for the court to determine. Any other dope on what may happen consequently becomes speculation. Yet there isn't much that is speculative over what may develop if the Warner bid wins out. Loew will have a competitor. So will RKO and, out of that, pretty much anything may develop. It isn't likely that Schenck will sit on his haunches and or go into a rest period while the stronghold of his circuit nurtures interests hitherto active in other parts. . . .

While Loew's and RKO have had their differences of opinion in the past, it is interesting, if not significant, to note that the circuits, both giants in New York, for years have evenly split the Paramount product. When Paramount some years ago contemplated building houses in sections where Loew theatres already happened to be, the move was stalled off by powwow and conference. The dope is both Loew and RKO understand each other on circuit operations in this town. That leads to conjecture over what might develop if a third factor, as powerful as the Warners, suddenly entered the setup. The ramifications could reach across the Hudson into the broad acres beyond. Very easily so. . . .

Lawyer Stirs Noisy Debate Before Board

operating the Gem and Majestic, was about to be heard. Former Senator George F. Thompson, impartial member and chairman of the session, again denied the request and this brought about a temporary flurry of excitement.

Without waiting for further remarks from the chair, Rich then challenged Thompson, contending that under the code the impartial man could not act on cases, could not be chairman and had no right to rule on requests. The attorney also stated that according to the code, the impartial man had no voting powers, except in a tie, and that he could not sit.

While Rich kept challenging and demanding what he called his rights under the code, board members tried to quiet him, but in vain. The attorney had employed a stenographer to record the proceedings and made it his business to drown out objections by Harry H. Thomas, who called him impertinent, and by Thompson.

Geller at this time told Rich he was not running the board and that he should obey the orders of the chair. Rich continued his demands, waving a copy of the code before the board, and asking whether he could bring in witnesses to try and prove that Geller was prejudiced against the defending circuit.

Refuse to Answer Rich

Thompson and the board evaded the issue and refused to answer Rich on this question. The attorney, undaunted by objections, kept on making a recitation for the record until Thompson told him:

"I wish we had a sergeant-at-arms here. He could take care of you the way we want."

At another point Thompson, apparently annoyed by the secretary, typing on his silent machine, stated:

"Make all the remarks you want. It's your record and you can put anything you want into it. You can take it up Broadway, too, for all I care."

After a final declamation in which he said the action of the board was unethical and unfair, Rich withdrew as he did last week when he did not get anywhere on his objections against Geller. Thompson told him the board would decide the case and if he wanted to he could appeal before Code Authority.

With the withdrawal of Rich, his hired secretary became a problem. Most of the members were in favor of barring him from taking the minutes, but Louis Nizer, attorney for distributors, and I. Levenson, attorney for Vitagraph, entered into the breach by stating that as co-defendants they were entitled to have a record of the minutes and so took over the responsibility for the recorder.

Thompson then told the man to try and make his client behave, but the retort was: "I'm just a stenographer."

Springer & Cocalis, the defendants, have not signed the code.

Yaffa's complaint was that he was able to buy only 95 first runs for the Gem and Majestic. He charged collusion and conspiracy on the part of Springer & Cocalis and major exchanges in selling away from him. Last year, he claimed, he had 206 films for the two houses, but most of this product had been sold away from him.

Harry Suchman, counsel for Yaffa, examined William A. Landow and Samuel G. Bock, operators of the Heights, and tried to prove that Springer & Cocalis attempted to intimidate the exhibitors into selling out to S. & C. When this failed a price war followed, they claimed, affecting the entire neighborhood.

Decision on this and other cases heard will be rendered today.

Resolutions calling for work on all of these subjects were passed at the organization's last convention. The M.P.T.O.A. is championing a 15 per cent, instead of a 10 per cent code cancellation provision.

Kuykendall arrived here Tuesday from his Columbus, Miss., home and will be here for another week.

program for more advantageous terms on product were discussed.

The program will be worked out by a committee of five known as the "Independent Film Buyers' Protective Group" and composed of Lou Blumenthal, chairman; Dr. J. B. Fishman, John Benas, Edward Ansin and David Barrist. Harry Brandt and Sidney Samuelson, Allied official, acting in an ex-officio capacity, were named to cooperate with the committee, which was empowered to:

"1.—Explore all possible sources of new product, both American and British, with a view of lining up pictures that can be purchased on 'fair-play' terms.

"2.—Seek definite tieups with certain existing companies whereby additional product will be made available to independent theatres.

"3.—Organize and formulate protective measures against unfair rentals, percentages, preferred playing time, etc."

The committee is in temporary quarters at the offices of the I.T.O.A.

The meeting was held under the joint auspices of the I. T. O. A. and M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware. Both organizations have pledged Allied their support on the production venture in return for Allied support for their campaign of opposition to indicated new season sales policies, particularly those involving preferred playing time and percentage engagements.

Allied is scheduled to reveal details of its production venture to its exhibitor supporters following its national directors' meeting here, June 13 and 14.

"The campaign for 'fair-play' product buying," it was stated after the meeting, "will be carried throughout the country over the wires of the various press services so that the public at large may be kept informed on what the average independent theatre has to put up with in the purchasing of film. It will also serve to create public approval of the theatre owners' fight against extermination."

Radio Prizes Held Unfair To Theatres

Code Authority is disposed to seek some method of hurrying action.

Film leaders regard the prizes as unfair competition in view of the fact that the industry code has provided means of restricting the practice in theatres by 75 per cent votes in localities.

Suit Is Filed Here On "Mussolini" Deal

brought the film "Mussolini" to this country, for alleged breach of contract. Damages are fixed at $100,000.

Orlando claims he signed a contract to secure American distributors for the films and the defendants agreed to pay him eight per cent of the gross as well as to secure him an Italian government decoration and a position as head of an American subsidiary of the Luce Institute of Rome.

Under the terms of the agreement, Orlando alleges, he was to be paid even if he introduced, or caused to be introduced, anyone to the importers who subsequently secured a contract. Orlando says he introduced Frank Teller, and as a result an agreement was reached with Samuel Cummins and Jack Kortel for release of the film.

Samuel Cummins said Tuesday that he and Kortel were handling the film through a new company, Eureka, and were not parties to the suit.

Greek Brandy Licks Code

after the buying season last year and he had been unable to get sufficient product. He told the board that he wanted to be sure this would not occur on 1934-35 programs.

While the board went into a huddle, Manta and Rose invited Czigany and Robinson into their office adjoining the code headquarters and broke the head off a bottle of Greek brandy. A couple of toasts and the quartet walked back into the code offices to learn that the board directed Messrs. Rose and Manta to see that Robinson was given a chance to buy sufficient product for the new season. Which was perfectly agreeable to Rose and Manta. So everybody shook hands and compliments were passed on the quality of the Greek brandy.

Fox Lists 43 Of 58 Total For 1934-35

will be a co-starring effort for the new year. Will Rogers is down for three starring pictures and as head of the cast of the above picture. Spencer Tracy is to star in two and essay the leads in two additionally. Harold Lloyd stars in "The Cat's Paw," and George O'Brien in six action pictures, the first to be "The Dude Ranger."

While not bracketed as stars, Lew Ayres is down for two, Warner Baxter for three, John Boles for two, James Dunn for five, Alice Faye for two, Lilian Harvey for four and Shirley Temple for two. What other performers will appear in is outlined elsewhere in MOTION PICTURE DAILY this morning.

There will be another "Fox Follies" and a second "George White's Scandals," these obviously representing a brace of the 11 musicals the company will make.

After Star Material

Indicating that Fox is out after starring personalities is the statement that during the new season "we hope to develop others of equal box-office magnitude." The reference is to the current vogue over Shirley Temple. S. R. Kent, company president, told the conventioners yesterday he regarded the five-year-old child as "the greatest screen find of the year with Alice Faye a close second." He said further:

"We have recognized that one of the grave problems in present day production is the scarcity of box-office personalities. To solve this problem, the production department during the last year has literally scoured the world for talent. From the legitimate stage, from Europe and from the ranks of the most promising players, we have recruited a large and growing company of talented artists."

Virginia and Max Loomis, New York night club performers, will figure prominently in forthcoming musicals, as will Nick Foran and Boles. Mitchell and Durant, comedy team, have been placed under long-term contract.

Plans War Film

Merely mentioned with no further detail is "The First World War" on which Laurence Stallings has been working for several months in New York. This is understood to be a factual, celluloid record of authentic shots tracing the Great War from source to actuality. It probably will be given a two-a-day run on Broadway, as will be "The World Moves On."

The major portion of the lineup as announced yesterday follows:

"The World Moves On," with cast including Madeleine Carroll, Franchot Tone, Reginald Denny, Siegfried Rumann, Louise Dresser, Raul Roulien, Lumsden Hare and Dudley Digges. Directed by John Ford. "Judge Priest," adaptation from the Irvin S. Cobb stories, starring Will Rogers, with Rochelle Hudson, Victor Jory, Anita Louise, Tom Brown, Frank Melton, Aunt Jemima, Roger Imhof, Stepin Fetchit, Charles Grapewin, Berton Churchill, David Landau and others. Directed by John Ford. "The Cat's Paw," adaptation from novel by Clarence Budington Kelland, starring Harold Lloyd, with Una Merkel, George Barbier, Alan Dinehart, Grant Mitchell, Film Leaders Oppose Rome Copyright Act

further before any action is taken. Hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the film and radio businesses, he said, would be affected by the bills.

Industry views were presented by Edwin P. Kilroe, attorney for Fox, and Fulton Brylawski, Washington representative of the M.P.P.D.A., and by A. Julian Brylawski, vice-president of the M.P.T.O.A.

The United States would have to join the Rome convention without reservation whereas practically all the other important countries have made reservations, it was pointed out. While the Rome convention covers oral reproduction, there is some doubt as to the protection given talking pictures in this country.

Would Bar Story Changes

A more serious objection is the right granted authors under the convention to oppose changes in their work, it being pointed out that the right to make changes is of the utmost importance to films, where films are produced as entertainment for the masses. Any limitations would be harmful, it was stated.

The case of "Wonder Bar" was cited as exemplifying the difficulties in which American producers might find themselves, it being explained that after Warners had bought the film rights from a foreign publication house, they paid an additional sum to the authors for the right to distribute it here as made. When it was ready for foreign distribution the authors made a demand for an additional $100,000 under the rights granted by the Rome convention, threatening to enjoin distribution in Europe, it was stated.

Adherence to the convention, it was pointed out, would place material now in the public domain under copyright protection, leading to confusion and involving the industry in litigation.

Thorough revision of American copyright laws should be undertaken before the United States joins any convention, it was declared, and it was pointed out that another convention is to be held at Brussels next year, when the way may be paved for American adherence with the necessary reservations.

Submitting resolutions adopted last month at the Los Angeles convention of the M.P.T.O.A., A. Julian Brylawski declared that adherence would open the door to foreign music societies, subjecting films, radio and other industries now licensed by the A. S. C. A. P. to additional demands. Some of these foreign societies are prepared to enforce their rights as soon as the way is opened, he said.

Appeal on Bond Up

Action brought by William Scholtz against A. C. Blumenthal to recover a $50,000 real estate bond will be argued before the Appellate Division next week. Sam Spring, who won a verdict in the lower court, will again defend the appeal which Nathan Burkan, as attorney for Blumenthal, was granted.

Short Subjects

"Ross-McLarnin Fight"

(Garden Pictures, Inc.)

Although the photography is excellent, cameras shooting the Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin welterweight championship bout were evidently ground too slowly, for when the action appears on the screen it is speeded up to an unnatural gait, and does not seem to be in synchronization with the roar of the crowd or the thud of the blows. This hurts the celluloid record.

The entire 15 rounds of the fight are shown, including the introduction by Joe Humphries, the instructions by Referee Eddie Forbes and the proclamation of the winner by Humphries. The two knockdowns in the ninth round are clearly seen. Running time, 39 mins.

"New Deal Rhythm"

(Paramount)

As a "musical novelty illustrating the Spirit of today," and with Charles (Buddy) Rogers as the star, this short is fairly entertaining. Rogers is shown as presiding officer of the Senate listening to the demands of the members to the accompaniment of music. Winds up with a chorus routine. Running time, 10 mins.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Key"

(Warners)

Based on a play produced in London, the everlasting love triangle with William Powell, Colin Clive and Edna Best as principals makes for pleasing entertainment. It is Powell who loves and loses like the good sport he is, especially where women are concerned.

As a revolution breaks out in Ireland and the Sinn Fein become sanguine, Powell is sent to the scene of trouble and there meets his old friend Clive. He also meets again Miss Best, his former sweetheart, whom he left behind three years ago, married to Clive. Because his duties take him out at night, Clive is forced to neglect his wife and one evening Powell manages to reawaken in Miss Best his former love, to the extent they become indiscreet.

Clive returns home early one night after capturing Donald Crisp, the revolutionary leader, to learn what has been going on between his wife and friend. He leaves the house in a huff and is captured by the Sinn Fein. Powell makes a bargain with the revolutionists that they release Clive if Crisp is released and he forges a discharge order for Crisp to save his friend.

Powell gets three years in prison for the act, but is reconciled in bringing together again his friends whom he almost separated. Powell has some clever lines and the acting in general is fair. Running time, 71 minutes.

Local and state censorship may vary running time in different sections of the country. Running time, as published herewith, is clocked on the basis of the product as caught by Motion Picture Daily reviewers, east and west.

series, is a nonsensical conglomeration of ridiculous sequences, including a "mellerdrama" titled "Passions of Horse-Pistol Pete," a fight between a pair of monkeys and a phony news reel. Altogether, laugh-provoking and entertaining. Running time, 9 mins.

Short Subjects

"War's End"

(Stewart B. Moss)

This featurette is a compilation of scenes taken in the closing days of the Great War. It traces the drive by the American troops against the Hindenburg Line that brought an end to the struggle. The material was compiled by the late Col. Thomas J. Dickson, senior chaplain of the First Division, and was photographed by U. S. Signal Corps cameramen. The picture is not concerned with capturing the physical horror of the war so much as with depicting the maneuvers of the A. E. F. that made victory possible for the Allied forces when failure seemed imminent.

"War's End" is an interesting document, but there is too much of an official air about it to intrigue the attention of the average film audience. Running time, 40 mins.

Merriwell Case Deferred

The hearing in U. S. District Court to show cause why Gilbert Patten (Burt L. Standish), author of the Frank Merriwell stories, should not obtain a permanent injunction to restrain Superior Talking Pictures from making a series of films based on his tales was postponed Tuesday to tomorrow.

Convention Conversation

I. J. Schmertz, Cleveland manager, is the oldest employe in terms of years with the company to attend the convention. Has been with Fox for 27 years.

J. A. Scott, former St. Louis salesman, and Herman Beiersdorf, former Washington salesman, are attending their first confab as branch managers. Both were promoted during the past five months.

Ira Cohen made his bow at the first session with a red carnation. Always the well-dressed man.

Herman Wobber's right hand was swollen as the result of almost endless handshaking with boys he met during the last drive.

Wally Cree, San Francisco salesman, and Eddie Bergman, Cleveland salesman, are vying with each other for the Beau Brummell honors.

Dave Davidson of Cleveland looks like a three-year-old when it comes to walking, but he's twice a grand-daddy.

John Dillon of Los Angeles brought word that John Nolan, Australian special representative, is rapidly recovering at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Hollywood.

Harry Ballance, the flying district manager from Dixie, made the trip to New York from Atlanta in his own plane—and he piloted it, too. Atlanta Manager Paul Wilson and others flew up with him.

Six George O'Brien features, to be produced by Sol Lesser and John Zandt, the first being "The Dude Ranger," from the Zane Grey story.

The convention is being handled by John D. Clark, general manager of distribution, and continues today and tomorrow.

The boys got in Tuesday, but Park Avenue held no attraction for them, for Tuesday night found them exploring Broadway. Most of the Foxites had previously been in New York, so the Brooklyn Bridge remained unsold.

John D. Clark was right on hand to welcome the boys to New York Tuesday night.

Eddie English of Montreal is attending his first convention as a Fox manager.

Bill Clark, assistant sales manager for Educational, had a busy time Tuesday and yesterday renewing acquaintances with old friends, for Bill formerly managed Minneapolis and Detroit branches for Fox.

Harold Lloyd, whose first production, "The Cat's Paw" for Fox distribution, will be shown during the convention, arrived in New York Tuesday night. Quite a delegation of Lloydites at the confab, Frank Harris and Les Whelan, among them.

One of the most alert hosts at the convention is Harvey Day, representing Terry-Toons. Incidentally, the Fox sales forces broke records for distribution of this popular cartoon this season.

District Manager Ward E. Scott was expecting word any minute yesterday that his oldest boy had won the Missouri scholastic tennis championship.

The work will last 14 weeks, and the music will be supplied by a symphony orchestra.

Para. Foreign Men To Attend Session

J. C. Graham, Paramount managing director in the British Isles, heads a delegation of the company's foreign department executives who are slated to arrive here within the next week or 10 days en route to the company's annual sales meeting at Los Angeles, June 18.

Graham's delegation will sail from Southampton Saturday on the Aquitania, which is due here June 8. With him will be Montague Goldman, Paramount general sales manager for the British Isles; and Earl St. John, Paramount theatre director for Great Britain and Ireland. Due on the Drottingholm on June 9 is Carl York, Paramount general manager in Sweden. M. J. Mefferi, managing director for Paramount in Spain, is scheduled to arrive on the Île de France, June 12.

25c Scale Now Rules All K. C. First Runs

Loew's level established at downtown first runs. Admission to car owners has been reduced virtually to a dime as the Fox house pays their 15-cent parking fee.

Fox Midwest's decision to cut indicates no agreement on the part of Elmer C. Rhoden, operating head, to hike downtown first run prices at his meeting with circuit heads in New York. It is reported Loew's is blocking any increase, but Publix and RKO are said to be willing to raise their scales immediately.

Loew's is reported to be planning to raise the Midland scale from 25 cents to 45 or 50 cents in the fall, adding stage shows.

Sales Heads Undecided on Film Boards

Present Attitude May

Distribution executives have adopted a doubting attitude toward the future of Film Boards of Trade which has resulted in holding in abeyance submission of any plan for their continuance and which, unless altered in the near future, may result in complete elimination of the M.P.P.D.A.'s field organization, it was learned yesterday.

Several meetings between the distribution executives and C. C. Pettijohn, M.P.P.D.A. Film Board head, failed to decide the fate of the Film Boards. Not a single strong supporter

Erpi-Warner Agreement Near

Often-reported and definitely known to be under way, inside reports in circulation yesterday credited Erpi and Warners, long engaged in litigation over sound royalties, in agreement. Rumors indicated the agreement might have the necessarily final signatures affixed to it by the end of the day.

John E. Otterson, president of Erpi, had no comment to make. Abel Carey Thomas, head of the Warner legal department, referred queries to Harry M. Warner. The latter could not be reached.

Fox Goes All American; No Foreign Film Nine Appeals To Be Decided Today by 'C.A.'

The 58 features which comprise the Fox program for 1934-35 will be made on American soil, undoubtedly all Hollywood soil, through a decision to eliminate from the schedule any product made in overseas studios.

The sales force views this statement of policy easily as one of the highlights of the convention so far.

Currently, Fox is releasing a quartet of Gaumont British features. These are: "I Was a Spy," "Heart Song," "The Constant Nymph," "Good Companions." According to opinions

How Sailors Get in Free And Where Is a Question

"What Shall We Do with the Landlocked Sailor?" may become the revised form of an old sea chantey among theatre managers for the next 15 days. Some are going to admit sailors free for 10 days and some are not.

And all the sailors think all the managers are going to glad hand them right down front if they're wearing their uniforms. That's what Grover Whalen told them over the radio Tuesday night.

According to the present plan, Loew's, RKO and Skouras circuits will distribute 500 free tickets per day for 10 days and Warners will pass out 1,000 tickets for the entire 10 days. That totals up to 16,000 tickets for about 40,000 men. Col. Leopold Phillipa, of the entertainment

Insiders' Outlook

FOX drops Gaumont British from its domestic releasing schedule next season, despite a 45 per cent interest in the powerful British company. This season, four are on the company's chart, it is understood, through an agreement reached months ago that four of G. B.'s best would hit the Fox distributing machinery during the 1933-34 season. It won't be complimentary, but it is, nevertheless, true that word of the all-American agenda found the selling crew heaving sighs of relief. The announcement of policy was almost cheered, as a matter of fact. . . .

The quartet—"I Was a Spy," "Heart Songs," "The Constant Nymph" and "Good Companions"—were spotted in the release dopesheet, it appears, in weeks when Fox let loose its regular Hollywood-produced attractions, and so did not have to stand alone. Even at that, Fox delegates to the convention declare they found the Britishers difficult to sell and an exhibitor resistance against them. If we happened to be Gaumont British, the conclusions to be drawn from the development would not be one of shock or chagrin, but rather a determination to learn why. . . .

Sooner or later, it has been the confirmed conviction of this watchtower, British pictures will give Hollywood something to remember them by. Not all of them, mind you, but enough of them, carefully and adroitly made, to challenge a real place in this market. "Henry the VIII" was a success in this market; "Catherine the Great" is not. Important and interesting about the first is the fact that it demonstrated there is no antipathy to a Britisher or any kind of label if the images caught on celluloid make arresting entertainment. Arresting entertainment to the mass of the picture-going public, not to segments or critics. The answer to what happened in the case of "Henry" is merely the conclusion, apparent enough, that it had in it what those willing to part with quarters were willing to buy. "Catherine," certainly a notable production effort, evidently patently did not. . . .

Of the four G. B. releases on the Fox schedule now, we have seen one—"I Was a Spy." Its principal attribute was Madeleine Carroll. Apparently Fox thought so as well, for there followed a deal by which she was borrowed for the lead with Franchot Tone in "The World Moves On," Sid Kent's opening "ace" for '34-'35. While "I Was a Spy" had other things to recommend it, there were faults in story detail which the American public gets enough of from Hollywood without recourse to pictures from other lands. And while it may be, and probably is, dangerous to comment on pictures unseen, the general observation that British pictures often depict stories not suitable for this market played by casts not known sufficiently in America may hold for the other three under discussion here. . . .

To draw any conclusion that British pictures are not acceptable here because they are London-made won't hold true, since it is not true. It is a truth that American exhibitors shy off foreign product, but that is so because so much foreign product has been bad. Where it has been good, there frequently has been a lack of marquee names to make it intriguing enough. The showmen in this country want—indeed, they must have—names that mean something in lights. The star equation never has been as marketable as it is today. That'll go for next year and the year after as well. . . .

House ad: "I didn't think any reporter could be so amazingly accurate." Mrs. Clare Boothe Brokaw, second government representative on Campi, so declared yesterday in commenting upon exclusive publication of her appointment and biography in MOTION PICTURE DAILY. Also did she think it was "nice" to publish her photograph. Not at all, Mrs. Brokaw. It was an agreeable photograph of a beautiful woman and it gave tone, not always there, to the page on the reverse side of this. . . .

Paynter on Visit to All Canada Offices

MONTREAL, May 31.—Following the Warner two-day convention here, Harry Paynter, Toronto, Canadian division manager, left for St. John, New Brunswick, to start a tour of Canadian branches where he will hold a series of conferences prior to announcement of the new product.

Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone sales manager, and A. W. Smith, eastern and Canadian sales head, have returned from the Canadian meetings.

Duals, Censorship Australian Problem

Double bills and censorship are the two main problems confronting the Australian exhibitor, according to Ralph R. Doyle, managing director of Radio in Australia. Australia is subjected to a rigid censorship, he continued, and one of the main purposes of his trip to this country is to discuss this problem with home office officials.

Doyle, who arrived here yesterday from the coast after inspecting the studios, will remain in town until June 17, at which time he will leave for Chicago to attend the company convention June 18-19. He returns to Australia immediately after the convention.

FOX FILM CONVENTION • WALDORF-ASTORIA HOTEL, NEW YORK CITY • MAY 30-31, JUNE 1, 1934

Nine Appeals To Be Decided Today by 'C.A.'

ment Corp. of Milwaukee against George Hannon, Green Bay, Wis., on premature advertising; La Crosse Theatres Co. and Kayess Theatres Co., La Crosse, Wis., against L. J. Burkitt, Classic theatre, Sparta, Wis., on reduced admissions; H. M. Popkin, Los Angeles, against Abe Levy, same city, with reference to a minimum admission price; John T. Rennie against M. Feldstein and P. Dietrich for allegedly negotiating a theatre already under lease to complainant; the Roxy New York, against the Mayfair, regarding reduced admissions.

Hear yesterday for additional testimony were:

The Gwynn, Baltimore, against the Forrest, same city, on overbuying and plans for building a third theatre by Frank H. Durkee. J. Louis Rome put in a plea for the Gwynn. The Washington board has already ruled that the Gwynn be given a sufficient amount of pictures to operate, but because of lack of specification as to number and companies, the decision, won by Rome, is appealed by him.

Consolidated against Loew's, which has clearance on the RKO split of Paramount product, objected to by Consolidated, since this circuit declares its Luxor is in the same category as Loew's Grand.

L. C. Sipe of the Criterion, Anderson, S. C., against H. F. Kinsey, the Strand, same city. The Charlotte board granted Sipe permission to charge 10 cents for adults on Saturdays on a second run policy, but he claims distributors are insisting on the 15-cent minimum provided for in contracts. Sipe and Kinsey and Robert Wilby appeared in person on this case.

Leonia House Gets Grant of Rehearing

The New York clearance and zoning board yesterday granted a rehearing on the Leonia, Leonia, N. J., protection complaint against the Fox and Oriental, Hackensack; Plaza, Englewood; Queen Anne, Bogota, Embassy, North Bergen; Capitol, Union City; Park Lane, Palisades; Paramount, RKO, Columbia, Universal, Fox, M-G-M and United Artists.

Julius Charnow, operator of the Leonia, did not try his case last week because two affiliated distributors were present to whom he objected, claiming "it was manifestly not possible for an independent to get justice" with them around. He asks for elimination of four to six weeks' protection over his house. The board meets Monday to hear the case.

Cleared of Overbuying

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—The grievance board here has absolved the Palace Theatre, an Elias and Scharff house in New Iberia, La., of a charge of overbuying brought by the Evangeline, operated by Philip Sliman. The complainant contended it was short of product while the Palace had increased its changes to use up the films it had in order not to release them.

committee of the Mayor's naval committee says some of the tickets will be given out by New York and Brooklyn Y. M. C. A.'s and others will be handed out by commanders of ships.

All the sailors who don't get tickets from their commanders will have to do is to find the Y. M. C. A.'s and then find the theatres where the tickets are good. The Music Hall, Capitol and four Skouras houses, the Academy, Audubon, Nemo and Riverside won't honor the tickets.

What other Broadway houses will do hasn't been decided. The Rivoli, Rialto and Mayfair may hand out free tickets if they are assured it doesn't violate the code, or if they get a special dispensation from Campi. The Paramount has applied to its receivers for permission to admit sailors, but up to yesterday the receivers hadn't acted.

Boris Morros explains the situation this way: "We have receivers, and when a house has receivers it is much more difficult to do something like this than it is for a house that has no receivers."

About 25,000 sailors won't get tickets, because there won't be enough to go around. Those who do get them will have to find out where they are good.

Some houses may put up lobby signs: "Sailors welcome with Tickets." Some may advertise: "Sailors Not Welcome." Some may clear up the matter: "Your Uniform Your Ticket."

And then again they may not. Sailors on the larger ships see most of the pictures anyway, but for 15 days about 40,000 youngsters in blue will be trying to figure out who told Grover what.

S. & C. Undefended, But Win Code Case

First instance of an exhibitor not defending his case and coming out the victor took place yesterday when the New York grievance board handed down a dismissal in the complaint of Harman Yaffa, operator of the Gem and Majestic, against Springer and Cocalis, operators of the Lane and Empress.

In dismissing the complaint, which charged Springer and Cocalis and major exchanges as being "collusive and depriving the Gem and Majestic of product," the board held that S. & C. had not overbought with 173 pictures when 208 were necessary under the policies of the Lane and Empress. As to the selection, it was felt that the Gem and Majestic were given a split on several of the major companies' product.

Yaffa's second grievance also was dismissed. This one was against Vitagraph which he claimed took two pictures from a lower bracket classification and switched them to a higher listing without replacing the lower bracket films.

Skouras' notification of appeal from the decision favoring the Capitol, Port Chester, which was granted 22 films of the Embassy's allotment was delayed a week because the elucidation of the local board was not ready.

Loew's won three cases involving premature advertising. The Majestic was found guilty of advertising ahead of Loew's 175th St. and Rio; the Times was found guilty of advertising ahead of Loew's New York; the Tivoli was also ordered to stop advertising ahead of Loew's New York. Loew's Freeman won its reduced admission complaint against the Royal in the Bronx.

Hudson Case Dismissed

ALBANY, May 31.—The grievance board here has voted to dismiss the complaint of S. Hochstim, operator of the Star, Hudson, N. Y., against the Hen-Wil-Hen Corp., operating the Playhouse, Park and Rialto in the same town. Overbuying and too many changes of program were alleged.

Philadelphia Board Ends Buying Charge

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—The complaint of the Great Northern against the Strand, charging overbuying, has been dismissed by the local grievance board. The board found the defendant was using only 104 pictures yearly, leaving more than 156 to fill the needs of the Great Northern.

The board also dismissed the complaint brought by the Drive In Theatre, Camden, N. J., against RKO, demanding that the latter fulfill a contract. The board held there existed no contract since the home office had not signed the agreement. Bookings of RKO films were held to be spot, not contract bookings.

Overlapping Ended In St. Louis Area

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—Code Authority has notified the clearance and zoning and grievance boards that the problem of overlapping jurisdictions shall be settled by decisions that the defendant will be in the territory from which he secures his film.

This settles problems arising where exhibitors get their film from both Kansas City and St. Louis or Chicago and St. Louis.

Louis Landau's request that he be re-zoned in South St. Louis has been denied by the clearance and zoning board.

Beginning Monday the clearance and zoning board will meet Monday mornings and the grievance board will meet in the afternoon.

Fights Buffalo Edict

BUFFALO, May 31.—Code board members, Universal, Vitagraph, RKO, M-G-M and First Division will appear tomorrow in the Supreme Court to show cause why a cease and desist order obtained by Edwin Wick of the Majestic should not be made effective.

On May 21 the grievance board handed down a decision against the Majestic involving reduced admissions. With the exhibitor disregarding the decision, his film was ordered stopped. Wick seeks a court order lifting the film stoppage.

for a policy of continuing the boards was found among the sales managers, who, however, did not actively oppose their continuation. The attitude of sales managers interrogated yesterday on the boards' future was decidedly one of "show me." If the boards' champions are able to convince the sales executives that Film Boards are indispensable, they will probably approve their continuation, it was indicated. If not, the field organization appears to be headed for the discard.

Also in evidence is a spirit of "rugged individualism" which bodes no good for the boards. A number of sales executives revealed the belief that their companies, acting alone, were as well, if not better, situated in the field than they would be if tethered with other companies by any tie or for any situation which would conceivably be handled by a field organization.

Pettijohn is known to favor the retention of a skeletonized film board organization, probably 10 or 12 boards for as many of the larger keys, to handle numerous details affecting the exchanges which arise daily. Lack of spontaneous support for the plan led to the appointment 10 days ago of a committee consisting of Neil Agnew, Paramount; Gradwell Sears, Warners; Abe Montague, Columbia, and Al Lichtman, United Artists, charged with making a decision on the future of the boards and instructed to report back to a later meeting with recommendations.

So far as could be learned yesterday the committee has arrived at no decision. Another meeting of sales heads may be called next week on Pettijohn's return from a vacation of a few days.

Cleveland Theatres Get 30 Days to Pay

CLEVELAND, May 31.—Recognizing the protest of the Cleveland Exhibitors' Ass'n. that code assessments for theatres located in the suburbs should be based on the suburban instead of the Greater Cleveland population, the local grievance board by unanimous vote has granted all houses within the confines of this city an extension of 30 days in which to meet payments, to be calculated from May 29.

Assent Protests Pile Up

Although many requests have been received by Campi for reopening of the code assent date, the subject was put over yesterday until next week. The listings from various boards are incomplete and the final checkup is expected to show about 1,000 requests.

Portland Case Deferred

PORTLAND, May 31.—An overbuying complaint, Henderson vs. Adamson, Albany, Ore., has been put over to next week. A complaint of United Artists against Al Adams, Silverton, charging breach of contract, has been referred to Campi.

expressed by various Fox delegates, they have been difficult to sell.

While the 43 vehicles announced include "Judge Priest," "The County Chairman" and "What Am I Bid" as starring vehicles for Will Rogers and top spot in the all-star cast planned for "One More Spring," the product book specifies Rogers will be starred in four. That leaves one to be announced.

Janet Gaynor was announced for stardom in "Servants' Entrance" as well as a lead in "One More Spring." The product brochure sets her down for one additional, untitled starring picture.

There are two new teams in the offing in the line-up. Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen will be combined in "Dames Is Dynamite" and an untitled Damon Runyon story. "Service Stripes" originally was the latter selection. James Dunn and Claire Trevor, likewise, will be teamed in two. One is "The First Baby."

Stronger Casts for Rockett

Al Rockett, associate producer, is understood to have been promised a greater range in cast alignments, thereby wiping out an inter-studio difference concerning product assigned to him in the past. Rockett is reported to have declared his pictures would have been stronger box-office if casts had been stronger. He will now get the casts.

Edmund C. Grainger, eastern sales manager, was one of those executives who spoke yesterday at the second session. He dealt with liquidation of current accounts before the advent of the new season. Charles E. McCarthy, director of advertising and publicity, outlined plans his department had for new product.

Results of the 13-week "Kent Drive" brought the Charlotte exchange into first place; San Francisco, second; New Orleans, third, and Boston, fourth. Charlotte employees, from manager to porter, get four weeks' extra salary; San Francisco, three; New Orleans, two, and Boston, one.

Phila. First on Shorts

The returns were based on cash delivery over assigned quotas. In the short subject division, Philadelphia was first; New Orleans, second; Washington, third, and Charlotte, fourth. Prizes in this division are cash and are to be divided among manager, salesmen and bookers in each exchange.

The contest will prevail next season again with Harold Lloyd contributing $5,000 on his own to "sweeten the pot."

Yesterday afternoon the assembled men previewed "The Cat's Paw" at the Fox Theatre in the home office building. Last night there was shown "The World Moves On" at the Waldorf.

This morning there are scheduled private meetings between John D. Clark, sales head, and district managers, and the latter with their man-

Convention Conversation

HERMAN WOBBER, moved by his company business into frequent trips east, continues to hold to his fondness for the home town, San Francisco. When he was with Paramount, there was a time when a top-notch home office post could have been his without the asking. It would have meant headquartering in New York. Wobber declined.

EDDIE GRAINGER, Eastern sales manager, appeared yesterday with a tie, loaded with red. Said he wanted to be sure the boys in the back chairs of the Sert Room would see him, even if they couldn't hear.

HAROLD LLOYD, regular as ever, mixed around with the boys at the home office yesterday afternoon when "The Cat's Paw," his picture, was screened.

CLAYTON SHEEHAN, foreign sales manager, detained abroad on business, was around the convention anyway with WOBBER acting as proxy.

LOUIS NIZER's analysis of code highlights yesterday elicited nothing but praise from the conventioners.

ALICE FAYE, HAROLD LLOYD, JIMMY DUNN and STEPHEN FETCHEIT were among Fox luminaries presented to the gang by JOHN D. CLARK at the first session Wednesday. JULIAN JOHNSON, head of the studio story department, was another. LOUIS HYMAN, now representing SOL LESSER in New York, was still another.

GABE YORKE, head of the studio publicity department, amused some of the bunch with the story about SHIRLEY TEMPLE. When SHIRLEY was invited to attend one of the parties given recently during the coast exhibitor convention, she replied: "My father was wondering if those mugs were going to invite him?"

BILL GEHRING, recently Cincinnati manager, long a Fox veteran and now sales manager in Chicago, is keeping the laughs rolling. He tells stories a la Gehring, which means they must be heard for a full appreciation.

YORKE was happy to get back to New York although only for a handful of days, but it's been no rest. He pulls out again Sunday for the studio and will be glad to leave the rush, but not New York.

BILL KUPPER, western sales manager, has been sitting in the rear of the convention room. That's how he noticed how many are the bald pates in the sales ranks.

GEORGE LANDIS, Indianapolis manager, is attending the convention on crutches. Hurt his leg six weeks ago and now getting over it.

Fox grandfathers: ECKHARDT of Chicago, MOSS of Philadelphia and O'LOGLIN, Canadian chief.

HARVEY DAY dozed during the screening of "Handy Andy." Said KENT to GRAINGER: "Well, why not? He doesn't work for Fox anyway?"

Samuelson Busy on Four Allied Meets

Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied and the New Jersey unit, is concentrating on four future meetings of both organizations. Various policies now pending will be discussed.

The New Jersey unit meets at the Hotel Lincoln Monday, and on June 13-14 the national directors will again confer in New York. On June 18 Samuelson's own organization convenes. After this meeting, eastern Allied leaders will hold another session with Walter B. Littlefield as chairman. The date is not set, but the meeting will be held outside of New York and New Jersey.

Allied's board of directors has passed a resolution condemning the making of trailers by major producers and distributors. At the same time, exhibitors are asked to refrain from purchasing trailers made by major companies. The organization says it will "combat the spread of the practice by every available means including resort to litigation."

Elmer Rhoden Leaves

Elmer Rhoden, Fox Midwest head, who has been here on business, is on his way back to Kansas City headquarters.

Pincus Back Yesterday

Joe Pincus, talent scout for Fox in the East, returned from the coast yesterday. He went out by boat, came back by rail.

Film Carriers Call Session in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 31.—The Ass'n of National Film Carriers, Inc., will hold a convention at the Palmer House here June 4-5 to discuss organizational problems and further expansion. Officers are:

James P. Clark, Horlacher Delivery Service, Philadelphia, president and treasurer; H. O. Robinson, Film Truck Service, Detroit and Chicago, vice-president; Clinton Weyer, widely known in the film insurance business, secretary.

The board of managers consists of E. E. Jamieson, Exhibitors' Film Delivery and Service Co., Kansas City; T. W. Gilboy, Gilboy Co., San Francisco; L. M. Miller, Electric Delivery System, New Orleans; M. H. Brandon, Inter-Carolina Delivery Service, Charlotte, N. C.; Charles E. McCarthy, Film Transfer Co., Minneapolis; F. E. Smith, Smith Film Service, Inc., Syracuse; R. C. Jones, Chicago, and H. Decker, Film Exchange Transfer Co., Boston.

No Deal with Wanger

Coast reports Walter Wanger, who plans independent production, is dickering for a Fox release, were denied yesterday by S. R. Kent. "I have neither seen nor heard from Wanger," he remarked.

"Now I'll Tell" Held

"Now I'll Tell" has been held over at the Roxy for a second week.

adopted last year a step further. The securities act made necessary the approval of the Federal Trade Commission prior to the issuance of securities, while the exchange control act is intended to eliminate the abuses of manipulation, the two being aimed at preventing a recurrence of the situation existing prior to 1929, when large volumes of securities were issued without adequate backing and stocks were wildly manipulated.

Monogram Set for Cincy Convention

CINCINNATI, May 31.—The Monogram sales convention opens at the Netherland Plaza here Saturday morning, with W. Ray Johnston presiding. Other executives who will be here include Trem Carr, Edward Golden and J. P. Friedoff.

Those attending will include: Jack S. Jossey, Nat Lefton, William Onie, Robert F. Withers, C. M. Parkhurst, Gilbert Nathanson, Irving Mandel, Harry Lorch, J. G. Frackman, L. W. Marriot, Arthur C. Bromberg, H. H. Everett, Carl Floyd, L. Seichsnaydre, Claude Ezell, William Underwood, Sol Davis, B. F. Busby, Sam Seplowin, Nat Steinberg, Marney Rosenthal, Jack Berkowitz, Howard Brink and Nat Sonikman.

Signs Joan Bennett

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Universal has signed Joan Bennett, via cable to London where the actress is vacationing, to play the lead in "A Million Dollar Ransom." Miss Bennett has also accepted an offer from Victor and Edward Halperin to play the lead in "Juggernaut."

Moore Starts for Coast

agers. In the afternoon speakers will be W. C. Michel, executive vice-president; Spyros Skouras, head of the theatre division, and S. R. Kent.

On Wednesday, Earle W. Hammons and Jack Skirball, Educational executives, told the convention their end of the shorts program will be launched earlier this year, July 1 being given as the starting date. W. J. Kupper, western sales manager, and William Clark, accessory sales manager, also spoke on the abbreviated releases.

Louis Nizer, secretary of the local Film Board, delivered an analysis of the code which was accorded a fine reception by many present who know there was a code, but had been wondering what it was all about.

Slated to close officially tonight, many of the sales force will remain over part of tomorrow before departing for their respective cities.

Silent on Carroll And Cowan Pictures

Neither the Fox announcement nor its product book makes any reference to two Earl Carroll musicals and a pair from Artists Prod., Inc., with production of which the company's name has been tied.

It is understood Paramount is negotiating with Carroll to follow his "Murder at the Vanities" with several more.

Artists Prod., Inc., is headed by Lester Cowan, former secretary of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, who declared in Hollywood on May 18 his first two would go through Fox. He said he was planning "The Sun Also Rises" as the opener.

Fox, however, has 15 more titles to announce before its 58 are fully rounded out.

How Fox List Breaks Down by Producers

The Fox schedule, by producers, follows as far as designated:

Winfield Sheehan, in addition to general charge of production, will make eight.

Sol M. Wurtzel is down for 17. John Stone is associate producer with him on the group.

Robert T. Kane, four.

Al Rockett, four.

Jesse L. Lasky, seven.

Erich Pommer, two.

E. W. Butcher, four.

The latter's elevation to an associate producership was indicated in MOTION PICTURE DAILY April 30.

Movietone News to Try Out New Setup

Under the new Fox Movietone News setup which becomes effective with the Labor Day issue the reel will seek to combine features of broadcasting, the modern departmentalized newspaper and newsreels as they have been known in the past—in other words, a selective combination of voice, picture and type and the development of "names."

Laurence Stallings, as editor, and Lowell Thomas, as commentator, are part of this policy of building up names. Truman H. Talley, heretofore vice-president and general manager, will be called producer hereafter. Ed Harvey will continue as makeup editor.

Voices will be suited to the various departments—sports, comedy, fashions, spot news, etc. Several of these have been connected with the reel for some time. Others may be added.

The present policy of bi-weekly issues will be continued, but each issue will be approximately 1,000 feet, a full reel, with a minimum of 15 news shots. The method of presentation will be changed radically, with screen credits given those in charge of departmental subjects and with the commentators and cameramen getting credits in much the same way that special writers now receive bylines in newspapers.

In the trade this is regarded as the answer by Fox to the challenge that will be set up by Hearst when the new Metrotone reel gets under way Sept. 1.

Fox Will Have 112 Shorts, 104 Reels

featuring names and including six starring Ernest Truex.

12 "Musical Comedies," described as "extravaganzas in which many novelty features will be introduced."

6 "Frolics of Youth" featuring youngsters. This is the series in which Shirley Temple made her debut.

8 Coronet Comedies with film, stage and radio casts.

8 "Marriage Vows" dealing with incidents in the life of a young married couple.

6 "Young Romances" with boys and girls at "the laughing and loving age."

The one-reelers break down as follows:

104 issues of Fox Movietone News with Laurence Stallings, newly appointed, as editor.

26 Terry Toon cartoons produced by Paul Terry, Frank Moses and Philip A. Scheib.

6 "Along the Road to Romance Upon the Magic Carpet."

6 "Adventures of a Newsreel Cameraman."

8 "Treasure Chests," the first to be "Pagliacci."

10 "Song Hit Stories," with well known singers in "unique dramatizations of famous songs."

Educational, therefore, will not only supply the 52 two-reelers in six series, but 44 one-reelers in three series.

In addition, it is planned to reissue four two-reel Bing Crosby comedies produced by Mack Sennett. These are: "I Surrender, Dear," "One More Chance," "Billboard Girl" and "Dream House."

It is understood there is some question about the Magic Carpets and that John D. Clark, general manager of distribution, may decide against their inclusion in the program.

Plans More Editing

Harold Lloyd will remain in New York for a few days following close of the Fox convention today and then return to Hollywood for additional editing and "tightening" on "The Cat's Paw," his new comedy, which Fox will release.

Fight Use of Screen To Spread Hitlerism

Hitler propaganda through the medium of the screen was revealed yesterday in a statement issued by David Pratt, executive secretary of the former, and N. Durig, secretary of the latter group. The announcement declared the two groups would oppose "by all possible means" any use of the screen to advance the Nazi cause in this country.

The statement mentioned "S. A. Mann Brand" by name. It asserted Bavarian Films, sponsor of the film, now on exhibition at the Yorkville Theatre, was kept from giving the production a Broadway showing through "the public protest mobilized by these groups."

Last night the Film and Photo League invited local film reviewers to a meeting at its headquarters at which denunciation was made of "S. A. Mann Brand."

Zirn Wins Right to Appeal Para. Case

ALBANY, May 31.—The Court of Appeals today granted Samuel Zirn, New York attorney, the right to appeal the Levy action against Paramount Publix which seeks the right to hold Paramount Publix directors responsible for the pledging of Paramount negatives to 12 banks participating in the company's 1932 refinancing program of $12,600,000.

New York Critics Moved By
"Little Man, What Now?"

"Little Man, What Now?" Universal's big effort between now and the opening of the new season, garnered plenty of adjectives at the hands of New York critics.

While some comment maintains the picture is not entirely in keeping with the spirit of the Hans Fallada novel, a consensus of opinion asserts the picture is "extremely worth while."

Excerpts from published reviews:

American—It is excellently done and provides unusually poignant impressive entertainment. . . . It really is quite a tiny tale, you see, but its strength lies in its utter, unequivocal simplicity.

Brooklyn Eagle— . . . photoplay which deserves to be called one of the notable screen achievements of the season. . . .

Evening Journal—It's a sombre narrative; enlivened occasionally by Borzage's deft directorial touches.

Daily Mirror—Universal has made Hans Fallada's splendid novel a film of matchless beauty and integrity. Frank Borzage, who excels in telling delicate and simple love stories, directed. Margaret Sullivan and Douglass Montgomery, both young actors of exceptional charm and skill, play the leading roles.

Daily News—The atmosphere is different from the average picture, the backgrounds are well done and the acting of the cast is excellent, but the pessimism and tears of the hero, as Douglass Montgomery presents the young husband, do not endear him greatly to the audience. Margaret Sullivan is fine as the loving, tender, loyal Lammchen of the story. . . .

Herald-Tribune—The outline of the literary work, with the exception of a Hollywood's purely fortuitously added happy ending, has been preserved arrestingly, the dialogue is sparse and convincing and the acting is splendidly assured and restrained. . . . Douglass Montgomery gives the finest performance of his career as the "little man." . . . No less brilliant is Margaret Sullivan's re-creation of Lammchen.

Post—They must have made an intelligent and sympathetic adaptation of Hans Fallada's novel, "Little Man, What Now?" for after seeing the picture, we want to read the book. . . . The picture is rich in a variety of incidents and character studies.

Sun—They have made of "Little Man, What Now?" a fine and moving study of two young people facing a cold uninterested world. Frank Borzage, with its understanding of the importance of simple things, directed this film with tenderness and compassion.

Times—By his genuinely fine pictorial transcription of Hans Fallada's novel "Little Man, What Now?" . . . Frank Borzage, who has been none too fortunate in the selection of his recent stories, strikes his old stride as a director. . . . The numerous characters are drawn expertly, both through acting and make-up, and the narrative adheres quite closely to the author's work.

World-Telegram—Much of the bitterness and futility of Hans Fallada's "Little Man, What Now?" has been lost in the novel's transference to the talking pictures. Even so, the screen version . . . is a well acted, sincere and deeply touching little film that provides good entertainment.

No Fixing of Prices, Ruling Of Authority

from the Charlotte board's decision, which gave L. C. Sipe of the Criterion, same city, the right to reduce his Saturday admissions to 10 cents despite the 15-cent provision in his contracts, Campi ordered a reversal. The Criterion plays second run while the Strand is a first run house at 15 cents. The Los Angeles case involved the Crystal, operated by H. M. Popkin, against Abe Levy of the Muse. Popkin charged Levy's five-cent admission was an unfair trade practice and in violation of the code. The Los Angeles board, instead of ruling on the matter, referred it to Campi, which dismissed Popkin's grievance on the ground that no parties other than the exhibitor and distributors involved can get together on the minimum price for the particular theatre.

If there is no provision in the optional standard contract as to the minimum price to be charged by a theatre, the exhibitor can ask for penny admissions and Campi cannot do anything about it. The attitude is that if the distributors are satisfied, so are the board members.

Award Against FWC Modified by Campi

decided to give the complaining exhibitor 13 pictures instead of the 20, listing from five major companies the product available for the independent.

Because of the lapse of time since the filing of the case and handing down of the appeal decision, the board felt that Lazarus did not need the entire 20 pictures originally awarded him and so reduced the number by seven. The pictures and distributors are: "Heat Lightning," "Merry Frinks," "He Was Her Man" and "Midnight Alibi" from Warners; "Private Scandal," "Great Flirtation," "Old Fashion Way" and "Ladies First" from Paramount; "Springtime for Henry" and "Wild Gold" from Fox; "Hollywood Party" and "Rear Car" from M-G-M; "Born to Be Bad" from 20th Century. Bookings start June 6.

Campi unanimously affirmed the decision of the New York grievance board which found the Mayfair guilty of cut-rate ticket distribution. The complaint was filed by the Roxy.

Baltimore Case Dismissed

The appeal involving the Gwynn, Baltimore, operated by J. Louis Rome and the Forrest, same city, operated by Frank H. Durkee, was dismissed. On this complaint, the Washington board refused to act and referred the matter of Durkee's building a new theatre to the main executive body. On a second case, Rome was given an affirmation by Campi and will be given all product not to be used by the Forrest. Code Authority did not act on the appeal of John T. Rennie & Son who charged Feldstein and Deitrich with negotiating a lease of a theatre while it was being operated by the complainants.

Immediate halt to premature advertising was ordered to George Hannon, Green Bay, Wisconsin, Campi upholding the Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises in the matter. Further, the decision states that unless the order is immediately carried out all distributors will stop serving Hannon film.

Two cases were deferred for additional information. One was the Consolidated appeal from the New York board's decision which stated Loew's Grand was a deluxe house and not in the same category as the Luxor, which Consolidated claims it is. The second was the appeal involving the Rivoli, LaCrosse, Wis., and State, Tomah, Wis., against L. J. Burkitt, Classic, Sparta, Wis., on reduced admissions.

Campi Receipts $57,051

Total of paid exhibitor assessments received by Campi to May 29 was $57,051, representing 5,519 theatres throughout the country. The theatre total is 1,000 more than half of the code assents.

Code Vacancies Unfilled

At present, Equity membership elects six members of the nominating committee and three are appointed by the councillors.

Equity's annual report was pessimistic about results to date under the legitimate code, which has been reopened, and about prospects for the completed pact.

New Orleans Hopes For Premiums' End

day. This hope was raised today at the first meeting of the board. Questionnaires sent to all houses in this area have revealed double bills, premiums and five-cent admissions are being resorted to by independents, it is said.

The suggestion that premiums be ended and prices protected was broached at today's meeting of the board by W. H. Alexander, impartial member, during a clash between independents and Ed Myrick, representing the United Theatres circuit. Myrick said the circuit would discontinue premiums if the independents would do likewise. The latter balked on the ground of difference in protection. Myrick added that the circuit did not relish doubles and maintained a standard admission never under 10 cents.

Myrick asserted that about 500 films are released yearly in this city and that his 18 houses absorbed only half, so that independents are in a position to get first runs without difficulty in regard to clearance and zoning if they are willing to pay the price.

film service. Acting in behalf of the grievance board and three distributors, Attorney Herbert T. Silverberg today entered into a stipulation with Leo J. Rosen, Wick's attorney, whereby the show cause order will be returnable June 8. Justice Hinkley approved the stipulation, which automatically postpones action a week, with the provision that Wick get service as usual in the interim.

The grievance board on May 28 ordered the distributors not to deliver any more film to Wick until he should comply with the board's order of May 15 to stop the practice of giving away groceries in his theatres. Wick had been operating a "country store" system of giving premiums to holders of lucky number tickets.

Complaint against Wick was filed by Louis Isenberg, proprietor of the New Ariel. The grievance board decided after a hearing that Wick was guilty of violating a code prohibition against premiums. When he continued the practice, the order to stop film delivery was issued. Wick then started suit to prevent carrying out that order.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt is interested in the Buffalo case questioning authority of the local grievance boards and is understood to be preparing either to attend the Supreme Court hearing in person or delegate an NRA legal man to be on the scene next week.

Two Clearance Cases Decided in Capital

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Two cases were decided by the local clearance board today. One was that of C. H. Lighthouse, the New Preston, Baltimore, who protested clearance afforded the Ritz, the same city, operated by Lou and George Gartner. The complainant asked that he be allowed product immediately after the Ritz run, with the present 14-day clearance eliminated. The board held the clearance fair.

The other was a protest brought by Samuel Tabor, the Lyceum, Dundalk, Md., against clearance afforded the Strand there, also operated by the Garters. The board ruled that neither house was entitled to any clearance over the other.

The protest of J. William Cleveland of the Takoma, Takoma Park, D. C., against clearance allowed the Warner Colony and York was adjourned. He asked that he be given product on the same terms as the Warner Tivoli, 21 days after the first run.

Harry Silver, the Overlee, Baltimore, asked that the Garters' Vilma in the same city play pictures within a certain period to speed up availability of film to him. The case was continued.

The clearance board meets again June 5, while the grievance gathers June 4.

Clean Films Only, Kent's Declaration

for money. I think that when a picture reaches above the average there is something that went into that picture in addition to the pay check a man got for doing it. However, on our side of this question of clean films there are, unfortunately, people who will make anything out of which money can be made, and I do not mean by our side, people we necessarily control.

"There are elements in motion pictures which are no longer wanted, which add nothing to the value of a picture's entertainment. These elements do not have to be in pictures any longer. Pictures are better without them. We need no pictures which have dirt dragged into them and contain this element ostensibly for no other reason than the dirt itself. The prestige of this company and of every other producing company in this great American industry will be advanced without such elements.

"I want to tell you that you can deliver to your customers next year pictures that you will not have to apologize for."

Discusses Other Plans

Kent went on to speak of other aims and new tendencies which his company believes in and expects to develop in the coming production year. He spoke of "certain ideals which rise even above profit itself in the shaping of picture policy with respect to films of an order aimed at molding public concern and human interest."

"There are times when we know and see working before our very eyes powers of inspiration which guide us toward a better and more revealing type of picture. These are times when we know that our work is a part of and parcel of creative constructive effort in this country," he added.

His address officially terminated the three-day convention. Other speakers in the short afternoon session were W. C. Michel, executive vice-president, who praised Kent's leadership; Sydney Towell, treasurer, who reviewed the company's financial position, and Spyros Skouras, head of the theatre department, who told the conventioners the theatre division would stand foursquare behind the product.

In the morning, John D. Clark, general manager of distribution, conferred with district managers while the latter, in turn, conferred with branch managers in their territories. Many of the delegates remain over until this morning and start leaving for their respective cities in the afternoon.

No Educ'l. Changes Due

No change in the Educational production setup for the coming year is to be made, according to E. W. Hammons, president. E. H. Allen will continue in charge of the Los Angeles plant and Al Christie will have charge of the eastern production units at the Eastern Service Studio.

Frank Moser and Paul Terry will continue to produce cartoons in New York.

$500,000 Suit Over Product Names FWC

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—Earl Sinks and Howard J. Sheehan filed suit in Superior Court yesterday against Fox West Coast for $500,000, charging breach of trust in handling product for the Iris, Hollywood and Egyptian theatres.

The plaintiffs assert they had an agreement with the defendant covering the allocation of first run pictures in the Hollywood area under the terms of which the latter was to buy all product because of ability to get more favorable terms. They charge adoption of deals at the Egyptian without their being consulted brought about a dearth of first-class product at the Iris and Hollywood, with such loss of patronage that the houses went into the red, whereas they had been showing a profit of $43,000 annually.

It is charged the defendant's purpose was to destroy the reputation and good will of the Iris and Hollywood. Charles Skouras, who is mentioned as among those interested in purchasing the Fox West Coast houses, is accused of having a hand in the matter. They claim he deliberately appropriated the best product for the Egyptian.

Opinion in the trade is divided on the effects of the Catholic movement so far. "Viva Villa," one of the condemned features, had a big week at the Denver and was moved to the Paramount.

On the other hand, "As the Earth Turns," advertised by Harry Huffman as censor-proof and desirable entertainment for the signers of any pledge, fared badly.

Pictures Must Include Adult Appeal-Hays

Cannot All Be Made for Children, He Says

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 3.—Youth must be served, but all pictures cannot be made for children, declared Will H. Hays here last night in an address before the alumni of Wabash College.

After reviewing the history of entertainment and the efforts of the M.P.P.D.A. to enlist religious, educational and club groups in the job of developing public taste and improving the quality of films through constructive criticism, Hays said pointedly:

"This is neither the time nor the place, perhaps, to discuss some of the insidious elements who are using the pretext of the screen to attack the freedom of speech, of expression and of individual initiative, upon the basis of which our country has been built."

This is regarded by many as Hays' guarded answer to the campaigns against block booking being conducted by Allied and the M.P. Research Council and also to the recent drive against questionable films by the Catholic church and other religious bodies.

He spoke sharply about "paid lecturers" and went on to discuss criticism:

"It is expressed on the other hand," he said, "by those who make a living by paid lectures denouncing the motion pictures; by job-seekers who would fasten themselves on Federal or state payrolls through proposals for

ATLANTIC CITY, June 3.—Warners will stand by their total of other years and market 60 features in the 1934-35 season, the second of two eastern sales regionals will be told here Monday. In the short division and flying the Vitaphone banner, there will be 130 releases. Two will be in three reels each, 50 will be in two reels each and 78 will be one-reelers.

"Anthony Adverse," best seller by Hervey Allen, will be the flagship of the Warner fleet. Contrary to Hollywood report, the picture will be released as one attraction where two episodes have been talked about from time to time. There is some conversation that three directors, however, will work on it, the names mentioned

Para. Policy Is Not Final On Duals and Admissions

Paramount will be guided by the industry policy in its attitude toward duals and minimum admissions, declared Adolph Zukor upon his arrival here Saturday.

If dual bills are sound as a policy, they will continue, he said, but if not they will fall by the wayside. Paramount's sales policies will not be announced before the convention June 18, he continued. His personal opinion, however, is that duals are unsound.

The Paramount president was

Price-Fixing Is Settled, But Other Issues Now Hang Fire

Because of the plethora of involved and intricate pointers on the code, many test cases will have to be decided by Campi on important issues before precedents may be established by which exhibitors and code boards can be governed in the future.

Of the seven appeals decided late last week, the most important were those which involved price-fixing, which the board declared was not within the powers or jurisdiction of local boards and Campi. It was held that exhibitor and distributor must get together on minimum admissions and that no board may designate the low or high tariff.

Looming as important test cases will be appeals from, or recommendations by, code boards on the 10 per cent cancellation clause particularly as it concerns United Artists. The

Insiders' Outlook

Atlantic City, June 3.

WHAT do the signs read? They read better days for the business. Undeniably so. The summer will be tough, of course. There are complaints on that score among the higher uppers who call the shots, forgetting as many do that every summer is difficult and some more than others. Beyond the warm weather, however, the days look brighter and the faces, therefore, should be . . .

Looming large as something about which something must be done is the rising tide of objections raised to much which goes on in Hollywood. The Catholic Church, patient and slow to disturbance, is aroused over material in pictures which has no right there. But it is significant to bear in mind this goes beyond the one denomination and finds echoing cries of sympathy for the attitude where the Presbyterians, the Jews and others are concerned as well. . . .

Therefore, it comes as no accident that statement made to the Fox convention by Sidney R. Kent last Friday. In it, he recognized the demand for clean pictures as an increasing one. He pledged his company would obey the edict and placed himself on record with the statement, interpretable no other way, that Fox would not release a single objectionable film. In Crawfordsville, Ind., Will H. Hays inferentially touched on the same subject, declared the industry recognized its obligation to the youth of the nation, but threw a pointed javelin and sharp into the midst of those who make it a paid business of riddling the celluloid scene with their criticism. . . .

Passing over this development in this discussion on the theory that something will be done about it promptly and effectively and before church elements are completely estranged from films, we come to the balance sheet of the industry and find what? That the financial path of several of the majors is more clearly strewn with roses. M-G-M, which, in point of investment, resisted better than all others the inroads of the depression, is reflecting better times. The Fox organization, having written down and also out encumbrances in its stock setup, for the first time in several years sees a future filled only with the normal gamble in production quality. . . .

Privately expressed only, many of its selling force in convention at the Waldorf last week declared they felt easier than in many months on the strength of the company's situation, as explained to them by ranking executives. They felt better, too, about product possibilities. Unworried any longer about phantoms of receivership or bankruptcy and what they mean to their jobs, these men are now on the way home ready to do the job for which they were hired: selling film at the best possible terms. . . .

Here Monday and Tuesday is the second of four Warner regionals. Having parted company with their bankers, the Warner brothers are operating directly out of income which is substantial. The distributing machinery, backed by Warner theatres, is and has been, rolling up a formidable domestic gross. Here, as elsewhere, the job is far from finished. Important about it so far, however, is the fact that the company reports itself in the black with earnings reminiscent of fonder days no longer considered so completely remote. . . .

In greater or lesser measure, what has been told in this space fits into the picture of other major companies, as well. Paramount is moving toward the day when it will come out of its bankruptcy; RKO is figuring it identically, although the actual step may be further removed in its case. There, its straight picture business is up by a considerable margin. Much has happened over at United Artists since Zanuck and 20th Century came into the fold a year ago. Universal, where times have been difficult, is all smiles again because of "Little Man, What Now?" and on Tuesday goes into its own convention in New York ready to set sail for '34-'35 and places. Columbia is sharply on the upward curve and steadily making progress. . . .

Triple DISTINCTION

EASTMAN Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative has a three-fold distinction. Its introduction has led to more significant advances than any other film ...excepting only Eastman's original motion picture negative. Under the expert hands of the cameraman it has in the last three years photographed a great majority of the biggest screen hits. And...because of this record of accomplishment...it now enjoys by far the widest preference among all motion picture negative films. Eastman Kodak Co. (J. E. Heard Around the Drake

CHICAGO, June 3.—Joseph M. Schenck flew from Hollywood to be present at the U. A. confab. After telling about the new program, he went into individual huddles with various branch managers at the Drake.

Chicago offers Joe Moskowitz another opportunity to renew many old acquaintances with showmen in this city. Joe last visited this town a coupla months ago.

One of the most comfortable men at the sessions is Paul Burger, who is attending in white flannels and a sweat shirt. He is prepared for one of Chicago's heat waves.

Harry Gold has a middle name—initials would be better, and it's L. But no one at the convention is able to guess what that L stands for.

Moe Streimer pulled down the title of "grand young man from New York." Probably because he is one of the real oldtimers with the organization.

Al Lichtman, with the opening session behind him tonight, was taking on second wind for the second day of the convention Monday.

Sam Horowitz of Chicago again came in for a round of congratulations. Many of the boys hadn't forgotten that he was married a few months ago.

Jack Kaplan of Buffalo is under the impression he'd be the best dressed conventioneer, but Hal Horne beat him by a shade. A study in grey.

past," said Lichtman, "United Artists will stress a sales policy of 'look before you buy' which we believe has been very successful. In this manner each exhibitor is the final judge of the product he is about to purchase. This meeting is not a convention in the usual sense of the word. We have discussed definite stories already cast with definite stars. Every picture announced is finished, in production or in preparation for production. We have openly discussed exploitation and other practical suggestions for the proper manner of putting over each individual picture, all to the advantage of the exhibitor."

Lichtman will remain here for a few days following the close of the convention Monday and later fly back to New York.

John J. Dervin of Boston and Harry Bodkin of Philadelphia, the two bachelors of the party, were offered many propositions. But inasmuch as there was no percentage, both couldn't see the idea.

Among the new branch managers attending their first U. A. confab are William Mack of Cincinnati and Harry Scott of St. Louis.

Doak Roberts of Dallas still offering to bet Harry Gould that he couldn't use his elbow in doing that trick, but Harry was wise and let the bet go by.

D. J. Mc Nerney of San Francisco and Arthur Horn of New Haven have something in common. It seems D. J. came from Derby, Conn., and was wondering if the place was still on the map. Arthur gave him the lowdown.

"Shorty" Bert Stearn of Pittsburgh still maintains that his secretary did not send in that fan letter the time he appeared on the radio plugging "Rothschild."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Let's Talk It Over"

(B. F. Zeidman-Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—Plenty of exploitation possibilities are provided for the wide-awake exhibitor in this tangy tale which has Chester Morris in the role of a cocky gob, the victim of a bet made by Mae Clarke with Goode Montgomery. The heroine wagers her fiancé she can make a gentleman of Morris despite his uncouth manners and aplomb.

When Miss Clarke made the bet she never dreamed she could make the sailor boy love her and that she would finally consent to marry him. At the expiration of Morris' term in the navy, Miss Clarke gets him a job in Frank Craven's brokerage office. Craven is her uncle. Morris shows promise and convinces Craven the boy means business.

Morris gradually associates with Miss Clark's set and is making rapid headway in the role of a student gentleman until Irene Ware tips him off to the bet Miss Clarke made. Morris, angered, drinks himself into a frenzy, goes to the outlying cabin where the heroine is announcing her engagement to Montgomery and denounces the entire group.

He leaves the cabin and, while driving home crashes into a tree, seriously injuring himself. The crash is heard by Miss Clarke, who comes to his aid. Realizing her mistake, she changes her mind about Montgomery and decides to atone for the harm she did Morris by seeing him through in his hour of need.

Andy Devine supplies a few comedy moments as does Henry Armetta. Kurt Neuman directed with an eye to mass appeal. Running time, 68 minutes.

"Operator 13"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—Marion Davies, surrounded with opulence and production values, is seen to advantage as Operator 13, a spy, in Robert W. Chambers' romance of the Civil War.

Miss Davies, as a soldier entertainer, is pressed into service as an operator by recommendation of an actress friend, Katherine Alexander. Behind the Confederate line, Miss Davies, as a mulatto laundress, aids Miss Alexander, hostess of a Confederate cotillion, and meets Gary Cooper, a Southern spy. Miss Alexander is trapped and Miss Davies, forced to testify against her, escapes with her.

Sent across the line again, this time as a white girl, she again meets Cooper. Her information relayed across the lines is responsible for the killing of a young Confederate captain, Henry Wadsworth, on the eve of his wedding to Jean Parker. Cooper suspects Miss Davies, discovers her mission and pursues her, but romance, 'midst the battle scenes, triumphs for both.

The competent supporting cast also includes Willard Robertson, who gives an outstanding performance; Ted Healy, Douglas Dumbrille, Sidney Toler and Walter Long.

Showmanship angles of spies, Civil War battle scenes, music numbers and the Cooper-Davies romance, together with the publicity usually accompanying Miss Davies' pictures, should see "Operator 13" give a satisfactory account of itself. Running time, 85 minutes.

"High School Girl"

(Bryan Foy Prod.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—"High School Girl" is one of the best modern youth films yet screened, having the youth's pitfalls theme yet packing plenty of emotional appeal without becoming morbid. Short on cast names, the picture is balanced with sustained interest and a meaty plot concerning an innocent girl and a worldly youth. Becoming an expectant mother, her nerves crack during a biological session in which her professor introduces the system of explaining the moral and immoral to his pupils.

The mother, active in club life and moral uplift of the community, has the teacher thrown out of school on the basis of putting wrong thoughts into the heads of the pupils. The girl leaves town to have her baby without telling the boy or her parents, but the birth becomes premature and her parents are called in when she takes a turn for the worse. The climax is at the hospital bedside when the professor shows the parents the resultant harm of not explaining life's problems to children. The boy finally confesses his love, offering marriage, and the teacher is reinstated. Cecilia Parker, Carlyle Moore, Helen MacKellar and Crane Wilbur give convincing performances. Wilbur also penned the original story and directed, using good taste in handling delicate situations of this type.

Questionable about "High School Girl" is whether or not the story basis becomes proper subject matter for popular entertainment.

"The Great Flirtation"

(Charles R. Rogers-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—A clash between two temperamental, Hungarian stage people—a good actor, played by Adolphe Menjou, and a bad actress, played by Elissa Landi—forms the pattern for this interesting, if not new, emotional drama theme.

Menjou, leading thespian in love with Miss Landi, a stage failure, urges her to marry him. She accepts, provided that he take her to America. Here, in a small role, he helps to secure a fat part for her, with the understanding that their marriage remain unrevealed.

The stage producer, the director, and the author fall madly in love with Miss Landi, with the writer, played by David Manners, succeeding in winning her favor and Menjou left mad over the situation. He leaves her and Miss Landi rises to the heights, while Menjou sinks. He attends her new show and, backstage, berating her bad acting, realizes that her happiness is with Manners and leaves to accept a cheap part in a production being staged in North Dakota.

Effective scenes are provided by the stormy acting between Menjou and Miss Landi, who speak in broken English throughout. Menjou's portrait is deft, finished and leavened with humor.

Lynn Overman, Raymond Walburn and Adrian Rosley support nicely. Ralph Murphy directed from Humphrey Pearson's fine screen play of Gregory Ratoff's original story.

As program entertainment it should satisfy. Running time, 69 minutes.

Local and state censorship may vary running time in different sections of the country. Running time, as published herewith, is clocked on the basis of the product as caught by Motion Picture Daily reviewers, east and west.

Variety Club Chatter

Albany

ALBANY, June 3.—Fifty barkers played host at the opening of the club rooms in the Harmanus Hall Theatre Building. Music was furnished by Tom Keifer's orchestra and dancing continued until the early hours. Charlie King of "Broadway Melody" fame and his show provided the entertainment. Flowers for the occasion were donated by the Danker Florist. The club rooms include a reception room, grill, parlor, night club and game room. The spacious quarters beautifully furnished were formerly the offices of Chief Barker BUCKLEY.

The following will serve as house committee: ALEX SAYLES, chairman; NATE SAUBER, TONY RYAN, RALPH PIELOW, RAY SMITH and CHARLES JOHNSTON.

The new club rooms were visited by the following out-of-towners: JIM DERMODY, Universal district manager; GEORGE ROBERTS, Fox district manager; LOUIS ASTER, Columbia, and JOE COHEN, Fox auditor. The first two are barkers in the Albany and Cleveland tents, respectively.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, June 3.—The supper-dance staged in the elaborate Pavilion Caprice of the Netherland Plaza, in which Tent No. 3 has its headquarters, was a brilliant success from every angle, and a sizable sum is to be turned over to the NVA.

Although a weekly meeting was scheduled week before last, none was held owing to lack of a quorum. The last weekly assembly of the summer season was held last week, when ABE LIPP, "wagon man," submitted a financial report as well as a report on the proceeds of the supper-dance.

LOU HOLLEB, barker of Tent No. 2, came down from Columbus with the Mrs. to be among those present at the NVA benefit dance.

According to NOAH SCHECTER, chairman of the entertainment committee, several outdoor frolics are in store for local barkers during the summer.

PETE WOOD, prominent in Tent No. 2, spends all his leisure time possible at the local club, while here on business connected with the Ohio independent unit, of which he is secretary and business manager.

Detroit

DETROIT, June 3.—Barkers HARRY ZAPP and J. D. LENAHEAN, kings for a day, had FRANK D. FITZGERALD, secretary of state of Michigan as their guest speaker. EDWARD KIRCHNER presided in the absence of JACK FLYNN.

BOB MORRIS made a very popular master of ceremonies and the highlight of the gathering was the screening of a Chic Sale two-reel short.

The next meeting will be held June 4. The weekly luncheons will be dispensed with during the summer.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, June 3.—Formal housewarming of the new clubrooms, will be held June 9 in the Claypool Hotel. A preview "for the trade" will be held the preceding Saturday, JOE CANTOR, chief barker, said at the luncheon Monday.

GUY CRAIG was winner of the first golf tournament of the local tent last Saturday. CRAIG is a salesman for Columbia. I. M. HALPERIN, Indiana and Circle, won the booby prize. FLOYD BROWN of Universal engineered the contest and promises another one soon.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—ED. SHANBERG, chairman of the reception, dinner dance and floor show, and his committee turned in a swell job on the first big affair staged by Tent No. 8. Attendance exceeded 200. From early evening to early morning there was enough doing for everyone to write "big time" all over the Muehlebach ballroom and the club rooms. The only ones sorry are the stayaways.

Consensus was the party clicked so well that Chief Barker FRANK HENSLEY should propose another big shindig in the not too distant future.

The membership roster is growing by leaps and bounds, as witness this latest list of barkers accepted in the fold: HOMER BLACKWELL, Independent Poster Exchange; HERBERT GOLDBERG, manager Fox Isis; WILLIAM REINKE, Tower Theatre; HERBERT GOLLADAY, manager, Fox Linwood; HARRY D. GRAHAM, Universal district manager; EDGAR J. STERN, insurance.

"The Five-Day Week" was the subject of a talk by LELAND HAZARD, counsel for the I. T. O., at a regular luncheon meeting, at which C. A. SCHULTZ and BOB WITHERS were kings for the day.

The Warner gang, comprising BILL WARNER, FRED GREENBERG and GUS DIAMOND, gave the barkers a treat in the form of a composite film titled "Clipped by the Censor's Shears," which proved as advertised. The kings for the day showed remarkable ingenuity in assembling and titling the clips from the censor's cutting room floor. Erpi's donation of a portable projector was appreciated.

Recent visitors included: ED AUGER, RCA assistant general sales manager, of Camden, N. J.; JACK THOMA, Chicago, Columbia exploiter; GLEN DICKINSON, Lawrence, Kan.; VIRGIL HARBISON, Tarkio, Mo.; STANLEY MAYER, Des Moines exchangeman; JACK TRUITT, erstwhile exhibitor.

Monday night is card night at the club rooms. Strictly stag.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Barker TOMMY WILLIAMSON is the father of a baby girl. CLEMENTINE.

Barker MILTON SLOSSER has left for an extended engagement as organist in Tulsa, Okla.

AL ROTH will direct his Ambassadors on the S. S. President, pleasure boat which plays the Mississippi.

CHRISTY WILBERT was general chairman of the Variety Boat Ride which was held June 2. BEN REINGOLD, DAVE KOMM, CULLEN ESPY, DOC RATHER, HOMER HARMON and AL ZIMBALIST were sub-chairmen, in charge of the various "teams."

Associate memberships were voted to KID REGAN, HERBERT MONK and HARRY NIEMEYER at the last meeting of the board of directors.

alleged Federal regulation or political censorship; by trade chiselers who would gain from the confusion created by the destruction of certain standard trade practices. It is expressed by many who have failed to sell their services, their scenarios or their money-making schemes to the industry.

"Perhaps the severest critic of the product is the trade association which I have the honor to head. The record shows that during the past year 564 scripts, books or synopses for feature pictures and 293 for short subjects, were reviewed within the established machinery of self-regulation; that more than 1,000 conferences to ensure production code observance were held during this period; that more than 1,500 written opinions and suggestions were thus transmitted to our studio and that a total of 548 pictures were finally reviewed and passed."

Wants Criticism, He Says

He then declared that the industry welcomes criticism and quoted from a recent speech of President Roosevelt as follows: "There are some people, of course, who do not think things through . . . That critic contributes nothing—he is not constructive—who attempts to destroy without even suggesting a way to build up."

"The industry fully realizes youth must be served. That problem presents a great study and a great duty. Of course, all pictures cannot be made for children. The problem of better pictures cannot be solved by refusing to permit the screen properly to mirror the life of the day or the history of the past, or to provide suitable adult entertainment."

"Nevertheless, in last week's issue of The Literary Digest, a leading national publication in no way associated with the picture industry, out of 30 feature pictures of outstandingly high character recommended for the week's entertainment, 19 were specifically designated by that publication as films specially suitable for children."

"But," said Hays, "it is a challenge to the industry—not a cause for complacency. We recognize our problems."

Discussing general conditions before the country, Hays expressed his optimism over the future. He concluded: "Conditions have altered, but the spiritual foundations of this nation are the same. Man has invented the radio and has learned to fly, but his voice carries over and his eyes look down upon the same fertile country and the same eternal hills."

"We still possess the resources and qualities which have made us great. Our children's children will know the strength and beneficence of this land when you and I are dust."

"To that bright future, I expect motion pictures to make their full contribution."

"And the screen will have ever-increasingly new opportunities for its usefulness."

"It is my notion that for many years to come, the most popular of all after-dinner speeches still will be:

"Let's go to the movies."

Campi Rulings Are Needed to Guide Boards

code holds that where exhibitors buy a group of 10 or more pictures on an average of $250 or under they are entitled to cancel one. United Artists claims it sells on individual contracts and exhibitors cannot take advantage of the cancellation clause.

Campi cannot do anything about the matter until it is brought to the attention of the executive body. A complaint must be filed with a board, a decision rendered and then a test will be made by Campi on appeal. This procedure holds for all cases where precedents are to be established.

Another ticklish subject is the Cleveland protection situation where major distributors and exhibitors some time ago entered into a mutual agreement to set up a zoning schedule to continue until Dec. 31, 1934.

With Campi sending out notices to code secretaries for hearings of protests on present schedules, Clevelandites are speculating as to what will become of the agreement which has six months to run. The authority cannot make a decision on this until an appeal from a protest on the present schedule comes before the board.

No exhibitor may file a protest on duals since there is no provision in the code on the issue. This already has been brought to the attention of Campi and secretaries have been advised to take out any reference to duals in grievances.

Others on the Way

A test case will crop up shortly where an exhibitor who has signed the code refuses to pay the assessment, as scheduled in the first half plan. The Buffalo case to come up the latter part of the week in the N.Y. Supreme Court will set a precedent as to the powers of code boards and distributors in carrying out decisions rendered.

A forerunner in precedent has already come to light on the question of new theatres. This developed last week when Campi decided that, if Frank Durkee wanted to build a third theatre in a certain neighborhood in Baltimore, he had the right to do as he saw fit. J. Louis Rome claimed the advent of the New Englewood theatre would bring on an oversteering condition, but the authority held it could not tell Durkee how to run his affairs.

Other grievances having a bearing on the code and for the benefit of the industry at large are expected in some quarters to be settled once and for all by the establishment of precedents to develop from time to time. When Campi hears a number of cases, more in the nature of tests for the establishment of a principle, hearings on appeals will be minimized, it is expected.

Weigh More Censorship

CLEVELAND, June 3.—The legislative committee of the City Council will hold a special meeting Monday to consider a resolution asking the state censor board for more rigid censorship.

Chicago 10¢ Fight Stirs Up Showmen

they refuse to sell him product because he charges 10-cent admissions. The Lindy complaint opens the fight for recognition and service of 10-cent houses which is one of the objectives of the recently formed Independent Theatre Owners' Ass'n.

With the code offices jammed with spectators while the thermometer registered over 90, the dime admission situation was thrown into the open and virtually everyone was given a chance at the floor. The board held over any action until this week.

Two grievance decisions hitting two-for-one admissions were returned by the grievance board. One of these was in favor of B. & K's Belmont against the Lincoln. Another upheld the complaint of the Downers Grove Theatre Corp. against the Westmont.

An overbuying complaint by the Lake Theatre Corp. of Michigan City, Ind., against the Tivoli of that city was dismissed.

Of 10 complaints filed with the clearance and zoning board the board has returned decisions in five upholding the respondents. In other cases adjustments of clearance have been made with the vote of the board being unanimous in all cases to date.

Frisco Board Stops Supplying of Films

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Police powers to enforce its rulings were exercised by the local grievance board for the first time yesterday when it ordered exchanges to stop supplying film to the Monarch Theatre Corp., operating the Granada, and the Foothill Boulevard Amusement Co., operating the Capitol. Both houses are in Oakland. The action was taken when the theatres allegedly defied a ruling of the board to end giveaways. The order was signed by Rowena Foley, secretary of the board.

Hearings are now in progress to clarify code regulations affecting exhibitors in three communities, San Francisco, San Jose and Eastbay.

Denver Board Starts Anew on Clearances

DENVER, June 3.—The Denver clearance and zoning board is back just where it was several weeks ago. After struggling for days on a new schedule, having it printed and sent out, they have recalled the setup, and are starting over again. This has been done on instructions received from New York.

The board will now invite suggestions and hear protests from exhibitors over the present arrangement. The city has been without a definite schedule. It has been up to each theatre manager or circuit to get the best clearance he could, and several things, including buying power and argumentative ability, probably entered into the results.

Subsequent runs were heartily in favor of a new schedule. Several claimed it would give them pictures from 20 to 50 days sooner than at present, and in some isolated cases, in less time than that.

in Syracuse, has been made assistant general manager to Louis M. Sagal, does not mean that Loew is running the houses.

Loew's is keeping a supervisory eye on the operation of the 18 New England houses and Sagal makes periodic trips to New York for conferences.

Changes in policies now being made are a forerunner to the physical takeover in the fall.

Milwaukee Busy on Clearance Schedule

MILWAUKEE, June 3.—The local clearance and zoning board is busy revising the clearance and zoning schedule for Milwaukee county and the state, with the next meeting scheduled for June 6 at the Hotel Schroeder.

Effective tomorrow, the local grievance board will meet every Monday when complaints warrant. At present, according to Ben Koenig, secretary, the calendar is clear. The local board is awaiting word from Washington concerning an appointment to the grievance board of a successor to L. George Ross, who has resigned as branch manager of the Columbia exchange to go into other work. He is succeeded at Columbia by Oscar J. Ruby.

Saperstein Asked to Sit Despite Excuse

CHICAGO, June 3.—An indirect compliment was paid to Aaron Saperstein when he voluntarily asked to be excused from serving on the clearance board in a case, the details of which he had listened to before the board began functioning. Aaron suggested that because of his previous knowledge of the details a substitute should be appointed in his place, but the board members called him to keep his seat and assured him they were satisfied that his judgment would not be influenced by any previous discussion. The vote in the case was unanimous.

Prime movers in the first gathering were Ike Katz and M. C. Katz, Montgomery, Ala., and C. D. Swing, Louis Bach, Willis Davis, George Gaston and W. C. Courts, this city. Another meeting has been called for June 10.

The claim is made that the affiliation of the Lucas & Jenkins and the Wilby and Roy Martin interests with national circuits works against the best interests of the little fellow of one, two and three theatres.

Rogers Starts on June 9

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—After being held up for 10 days by a search for a woman to play opposite Will Rogers, "Judge Priest" has been slated to start June 9 at Fox. Brenda Fowler gets the role. Cast additions include Rochelle Hudson, David Landau, Stepin Fetchit, Grace Goodall and Hy Meyer.

When asked if he had heard there had been some published criticisms of recent Mae West pictures Zukor seemed surprised. He said he did not think there was any measuring rod for good taste, and that pictures made in good taste which were entertaining ought not to offend the public. Others may make pictures for educational purposes, he said, but Paramount makes them for entertainment.

Contrary to previous seasons, Warners also made known comparatively little information beyond a list of story and play material which, in the main, (Continued on page 6)

Warner Heads Pledge Aid In Any Move to End Duals

Explains Casting

Atlantic City, June 4.—Warners' new season lineup, which the eastern regional meeting here will be given Tuesday morning, dodges a full array of star assignments and confines them to a handful as part of the company's plan to avoid any difficulties over substitutions.

"We are announcing a few merely to indicate what we plan," said one high company executive. "After all, our customers have been using our service for years. They either have faith in us or they shouldn't do business with us. They know what we have given them in the past as a guide to what they will get in the future. We don't propose setting aside specific vehicles for specific stars merely for the purpose of making a flash. We could if we wanted to, but feel we don't have to do that."

Monogram to Aim Product At Families

CINCINNATI, June 4.—Pictures designed primarily for family trade will be the aim of Monogram during the 1934-35 season, declared W. Ray Johnston, president of Monogram, at the closing of the second regional convention of Monogram yesterday. He said he hoped every story would win the endorsement of parent-teacher organizations as well as women's clubs and religious groups.

"I believe," Johnston said, "that (Continued on page 7)

ATLANTIC CITY, June 4.—Again declaring their opposition to double featuring, Harry M. Warner and Joseph W. Bernhard, president and theatre head of Warners, respectively, told the company's eastern regional sales meeting here today that Warner theatres stand ready to make the first move for elimination of the policy if the slightest encouragement is indicated by other circuits.

At the same time Bernhard made it clear that Warners is set to augment its exhibition interests wherever

U. A. Firm in Stand Against Cancellations

CHICAGO, June 4.—Reiterating United Artists' contention that its pictures are not subject to the code's 10 per cent cancellation clause because they are sold singly and on individual contracts, Al Lichtman, vice-president in charge of distribution, stated at the closing session of the company's two-day sales convention here yesterday that "it was part of our understanding when we signed the code and also our agreement with the division administrator that we were not subject to the clause."

The Kansas City code board's secretary was notified by the United Artists' branch manager there recently that the company did not consider itself subject to the clause when asked by the secretary for release dates for cancellation notices.

First Week of Fair Blow to Loop Houses

Natives All Go to See New Attractions

CHICAGO, June 4.—First week of the World's Fair proved strong competition for both Loop and neighborhood houses because even the scorching heat couldn't keep the natives from wanting to be first to see the big show. School children, having Thursday off, were admitted free, and 150,000 of them wore themselves so weary seeing the sights that juvenile business at theatres that day was nil.

Exhibitors generally aren't much excited about the fair one way or the other. Most of them figure it will ultimately get them some extra business, but this they know from last year's experience will not make itself (Continued on page 8)

CHICAGO, June 4.—Ways and means of improving and standardizing film delivery service were discussed today by the National Film Carriers, Inc., at the opening of a two-day meeting at the Palmer House here.

Clinton Weyer, secretary, asserting the chief problem of the organization is improvement in its service, declared much progress had been made in this direction since its formation in December of last year. Forty members, Weyer, said, own and operate 500 trucks and handle 80 per cent of film deliveries.

Others in attendance were James P. Clark, president, Philadelphia; John Vickers, Charlotte; L. C. Gross, Cleveland; L. M. Miller, New Orleans; Charles McCarthy, Minneapolis; Harold Robinson and R. C. Sliding Scale Plan Beaten in England

LONDON, June 4.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society, British distributors' organization, today rejected the proposal of the Cinema Exhibitors' Ass'n. for a joint discussion of the advisability of inaugurating a sliding scale of rentals, permitting decreases in proportion to number of pictures bought.

The distributors' organization, in rejecting the proposal, stated that uniform procedure of the kind proposed was impossible and the setting of contract terms was the prerogative of the individual distributor.

Warners Set 46, Hold Back On 14 Films

was designated by title and, in some instances, by author. Only 13 starring and co-starring vehicles were designated definitely.

In its official list of women stars, numbering eight, no stories were named for Claudette Colbert, who will do at least one for the company; Bette Davis, Kay Francis and Ruby Keeler. The constellation of officially designated male stars, totalling 11, contained no assignments for Leslie Howard, Dick Powell, Edward G. Robinson, Rudy Vallee, Warren William.

On the starring roster this season but among the missing for next are Ruth Chatterton and Richard Barthelmess.

The lineup of 60 will be divided, as in the past, equally between Warner and First National.

The 46 vehicles, including originals, stage plays, novels and short stories, published and unpublished, which the company today has ready for the new season follow:

"Firebird," merely identified as being based on the "international stage success," "Men Against Death," the story of Louis Pasteur, French scientist, "Gold Diggers of 1935," a follow of the 1934 version with an all-star cast, "Roadhouse," adapted from the two stories by Arthur Somers Roche, "The Magnificent Ambersons," from the Booth Tarkington novel, "Sweet Music," described as a sequel to "20 Million Sweethearts."

"Chain Gang" Sequel Listed

"I'm Back in the Chain Gang," sequel to "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," "Ride 'Em, Jockey," racetrack comedy-drama.

"War Lord," with a Chinese soldier as principal figure, "The Cinch," with Boulder Dam as a background.

"The Six Day Bike Race," starring Joe E. Brown, "Halfway to Heaven," comedy-romance by Lawrence Hazard, author of "Man's Castle."

"Babbitt," the Sinclair Lewis novel with Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee teamed, "The Little Big Shot," described as a "humorous story of a small-timer with big ambitions."

"Anthony Adverse," best seller by Hervey Allen, "Sweet Adeline," musical based on the Broadway stage play, "Border Town," starring Paul Muni.

"Farewell to Shanghai," co-starring Dolores Del Rio and Franchot Tone in a Far Eastern romance, "Earthworm Tractors," starring Joe E. Brown.

Warner Story Choices Encompass Wide Field

ATLANTIC CITY, June 4.—In choosing story background, Warners have covered a wide field. Current interest in musicals is followed up by provision for five of these. Because the Orient has figured so much in recent headlines and literature four subjects have been chosen from that section of the world.

Stage hits are represented by three choices. There are two air stories

The way they break down is:

Headed by Director Frank Borzage, a production crew from the Warner west coast studios will arrive at West Point, N. Y., tomorrow to film "atmosphere" and backgrounds in and around the Military Academy for "Flirtation Walk," starring Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell and Pat O'Brien.

"Du Barry" Hits Upper Bracket

Atlantic City, Tuesday, June 5.—"Madame Du Barry" shown here last night for the Warner conventioners, gives that company one of the mass and class pictures of the spring and summer releasing season.

Skimming the facts of history with a light touch but delving deeply into the private life of the 15th Louis of France in much the same fashion as "Henry VIII" did for England, the picture plays primarily for, and is successful in corralling the comedy and foibles of the royal boudoir.

Outstanding in point of performance is the work of Reginald Owen as the king, while beauty and sex are competently supplied by Dolores Del Rio in the title role.

In production values "Madame Du Barry" is rich in 18th Century pageantry and majesty.

An extremely creditable picture on all counts.

the company decrees the step to be necessary to insure its product proper representation.

Albert Warner, vice-president in charge of distribution; A. W. Smith, Jr., eastern and Canadian sales manager; Sam E. Morris, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution; Joseph Hummel, his assistant; Gradwell Sears, southern and western sales manager; Norman Moray, Vitaphone sales manager; Harold Bareford and I. Levinson of the company's legal department, were other speakers at the opening day's session.

Smith, in charge of the meeting, opened the session and was followed by Harry M. Warner who declared the production budget for the new season would be the largest in the company's history. Morris, who recently completed an extended foreign trip for the company, told the conventioners that returns from abroad were on the increase. He reported that foreign theatres generally are doing good business. The company's newest foreign office will be opened at Shanghai soon, he said, detailing plans for additional exchanges abroad.

Sears' Speech "Pep" Talk

Sears' address constituted a general "pep" talk, his presence here being more in the nature of "guest" sales manager, as his own regional meetings are slated for later in the month at Chicago and San Francisco. Moray spoke on Vitaphone's list of 130 shorts, but Warners propose to withhold the lineup for announcement at the San Francisco meeting.

Bareford, who has been an alternate for Harry Warner at many Code Authority meetings, went into a general analysis of the code, placing particular stress on its clearance and zoning provisions, as did Levinson later.

Red Kann, editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, who came down from New York for the meeting, was called upon by Smith. He said, in part: "Barring this summer, which undoubtedly will be a tough one, like all summers, the immediate horizon for the industry is definitely brighter. Once the warm weather has been hurdled and fall arrives, better days undoubtedly will be with the industry. Theatre business, aside from the last few weeks when the weather proved a barrier too difficult to surmount, has improved and will continue to in direct ratio with the quality of merchandise offered the public."

Talks of Church Drive

Urged on by Warner, who remarked "the best kind of a talk is a frank talk," Kann delved into the rapidly mounting tide of church opposition to many attractions currently in distribution. "The opposition is not confined merely to the Catholic Church, but embraces other faiths as well. Because in the normal conduct of your jobs you will hear of this situation, if you have not already, it is perhaps important to stress the hope, as well as the belief, that something will be done about the situation before influ-

The Wild Waves Say—

ATLANTIC CITY, June 4.—Albert L. Warner, Grad Sears, Andy Smith, Sam Sax, Norman Moray, Carl Leserman, Al Schwalberg and Charlie Einfeld will hotfoot it back to New York Tuesday night and, on Friday, hop the Century for Chicago, where the third Warner regional is to be held at the Drake Hotel, June 11 and 12.

This group, minus President Harry Warner and Smith, will take in the Frisco meeting also and will probably spend a week at the company's studios at Burbank before hitting the trail again for New York.

Joe Hummel, assistant foreign sales manager, covered his nine months' trip abroad in nine minutes today. Laryngitis was the reason.

Carl Leserman, not long out of the hospital, is feeling fit. Says so himself.

Harry Warner was worried about a minor indisposition on the part of one of the younger members of his family and planned to pull out early. He was persuaded to change his mind, however, and left late in the afternoon.

Andy Smith took charge of his second regional nattily arrayed in blue. A sartorial gem.

Tom Spry, Boston exchange manager, is here. He's a veteran from the original First National days.

Photos, lobby display size, of the three Warners hang over the speakers' table.

A change in convention plans will give the delegates the new product lineup Tuesday when today was to have been the day.

Jake Wilk, Warner story editor, is one of the unannounced who is in attendance.

Many Warnerites are nicely sunburned, but most of it was gathered on golfing forays, not here at the beach.

It was Hackney's, famous sea food eatery, which figured on schedules of practically all Atlantic City visitors.

Warner followed and commended Will H. Hays for his speech at Wabash College Saturday night.

"I have just read an account of what Hays had to say in MOTION PICTURE DAILY and I agree with him thoroughly," Warner declared.

manager, will start the first session tomorrow morning. On Thursday evening salesmen will be entertained with a beefsteak and vaudeville show. Showings of completed product are to be given at the Carnegie Theatre.

After the convention Laemmle, accompanied by Joe Weil, his personal representative, and Jack Ross, his secretary, will leave for a European business trip.

Bader in From London

Dave Bader, Carl Laemmle's representative in England, arrived from London yesterday on the Carinthia to attend the Universal annual sales convention here this week. Bader will also take a brief American vacation before returning to England within the next two weeks.

U. S. Court Won't Act In Para. Trusteeship

Leake and Charles C. Richardson as the company's trustees.

Counsel for Bensinger told the court the trustees were disqualified by their business connections. He pointed out that Leake is president of the Film Securities Corp. and connected with the Chase National Bank, while Hilles is a director of the Bankers Trust Co., prominent in film financing, and Richardson is treasurer of Fox.

Monogram to Aim Product At Families

with its new lineup Monogram will be able to continue the splendid record it set for itself during the first four years of its existence. During that time no Monogram picture has been turned down by any censor board, nor is there a Monogram picture to be found among the 55 recently banned by women's federations, according to a recent survey of the Motion Picture Herald.

"Monogram is making a definite bid to please the family trade and is making pictures that will provide entertainment for juveniles and adults."

Details of the company's forthcoming 28 features were discussed.

Johnston will return to New York Wednesday. Edward Golden, general sales manager, and J. P. Friedhoff, treasurer, left in time to reach New York late tonight.

10% Amusement Levy Sought in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, June 4.—A bill has been introduced in the state legislature calling for a 10 per cent tax on film grosses as well as on receipts from all other amusements, including night clubs, circuses and private theatricals. The bill would legalize lotteries, slot machines and other gambling devices so that they may be made sources of public revenue.

Burger was the only one to leave for New York yesterday. Stephen Pallos, producer for London Films, who attended the session, will accompany Joseph M. Schenck to London on June 9.

Lichtman spent the greater part of today in conference with James Coston and plans to stay here until the end of the week.

Eastern branch managers are expected back from Chicago today after attending the annual sales convention.

U.A. Forces to Handle World Release of B. & D.

CHICAGO, June 4.—That United Artists will handle world distribution of British and Dominions product beginning with the new season was revealed by Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of the former, at the close of the company's convention here.

Lichtman also announced that national trade showings of all U. A. releases in exchange centers throughout the country will be continued during the coming year. The first three will be "The Affairs of Cellini," "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" and "The Last Gentleman."

protesting the contention of United Artists that it is not subject to the 10 per cent code cancellation clause. Meyn said he intended to file a protest with the grievance board.

It was expected here in event such a protest is filed, that regardless of the local board's decision it would be appealed to Campi.

Schenck in; Sails Soon

Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, who arrived in New York yesterday from the coast after a stop at Chicago to attend his company's convention, will sail for Europe after a short stay here.

Many home office executives return from Chicago today. Among them will be Joseph Moskowitz, Harry Buckley, Harry L. Gold, Charles Stern, C. Erickson, Manny Silverstone, Etienne Pallos, Hal Horne and Morris Helprin. Paul Burger got in yesterday.

Jane Baxter, English stage and screen player, has been signed by Samuel Goldwyn for the second feminine lead in "We Live Again," the Anna Sten picture. She will leave for these shores shortly.

figured when the final batch is counted, the figure will reach the 1,000 mark.

Campi members are not prone to reopen the compliance date for the benefit of exhibitor leaders who have taken the stand previously that independents should not sign the code because of administration antagonism. Code Authority is willing to help out the rank and file who have been misled, and it is figured that Friday will be the determining date.

Expect Court Tests On Cleveland Zoning

CLEVELAND, June 4.—That the courts may be called in to decide whether the proposed new protection schedule can supercede Cleveland's present agreement is seen as a likelihood here.

The problem was brought up by the recent grievance board case of the Cedar Lee Theatre vs. Loew's Stillman, Park and Granada and Warners' Lake, Uptown and Variety. The complainant had asked the right to show pictures the week after their first run showing whenever such pictures were shown on a dual policy. Such films now get 63 days' protection. Dismissal of the charge is now being fought by the Cedar Lee management.

Charnow Gets a Cut In Leonia Clearance

Julius Charnow, operator of the Leonia, Leonia, N. J., yesterday won his protest on reduction of clearance on his theatre after a rehearing before the New York board. The Leonia has been following Hackensack and other neighboring houses as much as three months after release dates on product and wanted a day-and-date availability with the Park Lane in Palisades and seven days after the Fox, Englewood.

Omaha Board Drops Overbuying Charge

OMAHA, June 4.—Ray Selker, manager of the Broadway at Council Bluffs, Ia., has lost his overbuying complaint against Fox West Coast and Ben Harding, operator of the Liberty, that city. The board decided there was no evidence that the two defendants had more films than required or were making changes too frequently.

Settle Dubinsky Row

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—Under a compromise decision handed down today by A. W. Dubirney of Washington, special assistant U. S. attorney general and assistant NRA counsel, acting as arbitrator, Ed Dubinsky will employ six operators at the Regent and Liberty, three for each house, instead of seven, on a schedule of 35 hours a week instead of 40. Dubinsky had demanded five operators and the union seven before the case was submitted to arbitration.

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—Exhibitors from outlying communities today expressed satisfaction with the new clearance at a hearing of the clearance and zoning board.

The code comes first, says Campi.

Coast Sees Lazarus Victor Against FWC

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Although eastern advices held that Campi's decision ordering Fox West Coast to turn over 13 pictures of its allotment to Simon M. Lazarus of the Garfield, Alhambra, did not find F. W. C. guilty of overbuying, local authorities declare that the independent won his case despite the reduction of seven pictures from the original Los Angeles board verdict.

Following an investigation of the case, eastern advices have it that the testimony in the case was put in the hands of Nathan Yamins, independent member, and he upheld the local board's opinion, although Campi was evenly divided on the vote on appeal. Yamins' findings then decided the vote in favor of Lazarus.

It was found, it is understood, that F. W. C. had 40 pictures more than it can use at the Alhambra house and 13 of the availabilities were selected for the Garfield, the first to start June 6. F. W. C. was found to have started duals before the Garfield, which also influenced upholding of the original verdict.

National Board Gets Consolidated Dispute

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Officials of Consolidated Film Industries and representatives of the firm's employees today conferred with the National Labor Board in an effort to settle the labor controversy between the company and the Printing Pressmen's Union, which brought about a strike involving some 50 Consolidated workers early in April.

The case came before the board on appeal from a decision of the New York regional board, which ruled that the strikers should be returned to work and the wage dispute arbitrated. The company brought the case to Washington on the contention it could not arbitrate wage matters.

Capital Board Bans Surcharge on Passes

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Advertising courtesy passes are not to carry a surcharge, it was ruled today by the local grievance board in ordering Leon Zeller, operator of the Roy, South Baltimore, to end the practice. The complainant was Eugene B. McCurdy, operator of the Columbia in the same town. The contention was Zeller was lowering prices through passes on which five cents was charged at the box-office.

B. & K., which cashed in heavily on last year's fair, is ready to put heavy money into a strong line of stage talent in the belief that they will get it back—plus. Barney Balaban has lined out for some of the biggest names of the screen, stage and radio for the Chicago Theatre. Among those for whom Balaban is angling are Amos 'n' Andy, Jack Benny, Cab Calloway, Joe Penner, Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, Jimmy Durante, Eddie Cantor, Laurel & Hardy, Bing Crosby and others. Even Mae West is said to be one of Balaban's hopes as an attraction.

Contest Developing At IATSE Gathering

LOUISVILLE, June 4.—A contest between the so-called progressive and conservative elements for control of I. A. T. S. E. is expected to be settled here and highlight the 32nd annual convention of the organization, which opened here today with more than 800 delegates and approximately 200 visitors in attendance.

Advance indications are that William F. Canavan, former head of the I. A. T. S. E., will be the candidate of the "liberals" to head the organization again. There was some doubt here today as to whether or not William C. Elliott, incumbent head of the organization, would be a candidate for reelection. In order for Canavan to be elected, however, by-laws of the I. A. T. S. E.'s constitution which specify that only an accredited delegate can be elected would have to be changed. Canavan is not a delegate.

Labor sections of the film code are due for discussion here as are "jurisdictional problems."

Rules Against Schine

BUFFALO, June 4.—The overbuying charge brought by Reliance Theatres against the Schine Theatrical Co. in behalf of the Palace Theatre, Lockport, N. Y., has been upheld by the local grievance board, which has found that by playing first run pictures in a second run theatre the defendant is depriving the complainant's house of enough product to keep going. The board has ordered 17 first run films turned over to Reliance.

Harman Yaffa Appeals

Harman Yaffa yesterday appealed from two decisions of the New York grievance board. The board last week decided against Yaffa, operator of the Gem and Majestic, in his complaints against Springer and Cocalis and Vitagraph. In the first case, Springer and Cocalis won the overbuying decision without a defense. The second case had to do with two pictures being switched from lower to higher brackets.

Morally "Debasing"

CHICAGO, June 5.—In a statement issued today urging a moral censorship of films addressed to Catholics in the Chicago diocese, Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, stated that while he helped to draw up the present moral code for films believing "we were dealing with moral gentlemen, we were mistaken. To them it was just another scrap of paper."

In his statement Cardinal Mundelein charges that in recent years no other agency has exercised "so debasing an effect on public morals as films." He declares that sin is made to appear attractive and vice is treated as the acceptable thing by producers.

It is true that many wholesome pictures are made, the Cardinal's state-

Looking 'Em Over"The Love Captive"

(Universal)

Based on the play, "The Humbug," by Max Marcin, this Universal release directed by the playwright deals with hypnosis and some complications that follow.

Nils Asther is the practicing hypnotist who plies his tricks on a group including Gloria Stuart, thereby setting Paul Kelly, her sweetheart, on the course that finally brings Asther to his end at the hands of Allan Dinehart, presumably the subject of the hypnotist's wiles, but not too completely so to prove incapable of pulling the hair-fine revolver trigger that fires the fatal bullet, because the jury leans toward the idea that Dinehart was under Asther's influence at the time, he is held not responsible for the gun play and thereafter freed.

This frees Miss Stuart from the baleful influence, sends her back to Kelly and removes a menace from society at large. Running time, 63 minutes.

The picture is routine.

"Fog Over Frisco," tonight's premiere at the Strand, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on May 22.

"U" May Advertise Film Running Time

Universal may advertise running time on prints of all features as well as on posters and other accessories. Carl Laemmle has sent out inquiries to numerous exhibitors asking for opinions, giving his reason "that many people have a limited amount of time in which to see pictures. For example, transients taking in pictures between trains, housewives wanting to get home at a certain time, etc."

Provided there are sufficient replies in the affirmative, the plan will be adopted.

In the afternoon, the selling plan and outline of prices determined upon by the company for territories represented at this meeting were gone into and given to the sales crew as their objective for the new season.

Further expansion of Warner activities abroad is planned. Sam E. Morris, vice-president in charge of distribution overseas, expects to have his 87th office in operation shortly now as part of a plan which calls for direct company representation "wherever there is a chance of making a dollar."

Warners quietly have been liquidating their German business and expect to be out of that market by the end of June, it was learned.

Late today Albert L. Warner, vice-president in charge of sales; Sam Morris and Joseph Hummel, his assistant, and Jake Wilk, eastern story editor, left for New York and were followed later in the evening by Gradwell Sears, who drove back. to the spirit of the National Industrial Recovery Act in that it fosters unfair methods of competition."

The charge is made that, since members of the I.T.O.A. can have complaints filed against them without being able to file any themselves, they are placed at "the mercy of any of their competitors" because "any competitor can violate the provisions of the motion picture code with impunity."

It is explained in the petition that the reason the members of the I.T.O.A. did not sign the code was that they feared loss of their constitutional rights by assenting. Elaborating on this, Weisman said that "the code is a contract and once we sign it we can be deprived of our constitutional rights."

Ask "Equal Protection"

"We have been complying with the code," asserted Weisman, "even though we have not signed it. If the code is a law, we are entitled to equal protection under it whether we have signed it or not."

The Garden City Amusement Co. and the Nu-Deal Amusement Corp. are named as joint plaintiffs in the action. Both are members of the I.T.O.A. The former operates the Williston, Mineola, and the latter the Mineola in Mineola. It is declared that the two theatres were denied a hearing on complaints filed against the Century Circuit's Queens Theatre, Queens Village, and Beacon, Port Washington, and against two Skouras houses, the Hempstead and Rivoli, both in Hempstead. The charge was that the defendants' houses, though charging lower admission than the theatres operated by the complainants, were getting favored protection.

Campi Committees Will Confer Today for reopening the code for new assents and the budget plan for assessing distributors and producers.

Tomorrow, joint sessions will be held by committees on code boards administration with George J. Schaefer, Harold S. Bareford, R. H. Cochran and Charles L. O'Reilly conferring. Nathan Yamins and Ed Kuykendall, members of some of the committees, are out of town and will not attend.

Recommendations as a result of the discussions by the committees will be passed on Friday when Campi meets. It is generally conceded throughout the trade that the compliance date will be reopened and when the decision is handed down a new date will be set.

Lester Martin, who arrives from Nevada, Ia., today to discuss the Iowa-Nebraska exhibitor units disturbance, will also appear before Code Authority on an appeal he has coming before the board.

Answers Are Forced In Jersey Grievance

Despite reluctance on the part of Dave Levy, M-G-M manager, and Robert Wolff, Radio branch manager, and objections by Louis Nizer, attorney for distributors, to answer questions of John Benas, the New York grievance board yesterday ordered the men to talk. Benas, buyer for the Orient, Jersey City, interrogated the two local branch heads in connection with his overbuying grievance against the Skouras Apollo, same city.

Benas wanted to know why both companies refused to sell him last season and gave preference to Skouras. After Nizer's objections had been overruled in an executive session, both heads stated that they had had other customers for the product. Benas then asked questions in regard to his credit standing and found both companies agreed it was of the best.

Objects on Procedure

At another point Nizer and George F. Thompson, impartial member, argued whether the meeting was an open forum on sales policies. Louis Weber, Skouras attorney, objected to the procedure on the grounds that the board had no jurisdiction over conspiracy cases. However, peace reigned after Benas had been told to give his story of Skouras's alleged buying up practically all of the major first run product in his own way without interrogating witnesses.

The buyer for the Leon Rosenblatt circuit then brought out the fact that during past seasons he had bought 165 and 120 pictures, with the Apollo getting an even split. During the 1932-33 season, he said he has been able to buy only 65 first run major pictures, 35 from Columbia and 30 from Paramount, while Skouras has 279. Deliberation and decision will take place today.

Buffalo Board Ends More Grocery Nights

BUFFALO, June 5.—Cease and desist orders have been issued by the grievance board against the Commodore, operated by R. Sarber; the Roxy, operated by Byron Inderbitzen; the Rialto, operated by Herbert Hock; and the Columbia and Colonial, operated by J. A. Schuchert. All were charged with giving away groceries in a complaint filed by Nicholas J. Basil, head of Basil Bros. The board in its decision took cognizance of the fact that Schuchert had discontinued the practice in his two theatres on May 3. Mrs. Victoria Behling, operator of the Ellen Terry, has been ordered to end two-for-one tickets. The complaint was filed by Nicholas J. Basil, of Basil Bros.

Drops Overbuying Case

PORTLAND, June 5.—The overbuying case of Henderson vs. Adamson has been decided in favor of the latter by the grievance board.

Union Row Near End As Lightman Signs

MEMPHIS, June 5.—M. A. Lightman's labor troubles neared their end today with the signing of contracts to return union operators to the Strand August 7, when the house will be reopened after repairs and improvements. The new agreement calls for four operators at a total weekly pay of $200.

Both Lightman and the union expressed themselves as highly satisfied and expressed the hope of reaching an agreement on the Princess, the other Lightman non-union house. The two theatres have been non-union since their opening, the Strand exactly a year ago. The house was recently leased for 10 years by Lightman, who expects to spend $25,000 improving it.

Signing of the agreement ends a year's battle marked by picketing and stench bombings.

Two Rulings Handed Down in Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, June 5.—Two decisions have just been handed down by the grievance board.

An overbuying complaint brought by P. C. Osten of the Carolina, Anderson, S. C., against Palmetto Amusement Co., headed by H. F. Kinsey, was dismissed.

L. L. Drake's request for a 10 per cent cancellation on his M-G-M contract was certified to Code Authority and his demand for cancellation of the entire contract was dismissed.

One Appeal Dropped; Balto. Gets Another

BALTIMORE, June 5.—One censorship appeal, that of Gold Medal Films against the ban on "The Unknown Blonde," has been dismissed by Judge Samuel K. Dennis in Circuit Court and a new one has been filed.

The latest case is an appeal by Bert Lewis to Judge Charles F. Stein in City Court against the censors' ban on "Children of the Sun." Hearing will be held tomorrow.

To Map Wichita Zoning

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—Because one independent exhibitor opposed the new clearance recommendations submitted by other independents and Fox Midwest for Wichita, Kan., the local zoning board at a hearing today took the matter under advisement and will formulate a new plan itself. The schedules submitted would impose restrictions on duals, premiums and other price-lowering practices. The original Wichita complaint was against first run protection held by Fox Midwest, but the circuit agreed to adjust the situation with the independents.

The board also heard demands from St. Joseph, Mo., subsequents, which want Dubinsky first run clearance reduced. The board will set up schedules for both cities.

Casey and Flinn Confer

Pat Casey, coast studio labor contact, yesterday conferred with Executive Secretary John C. Flinn on problems pertaining to the code.

Roxy May Take Over English Film Series

The Roxy will be the Broadway showwindow for English pictures starting with the fall. Negotiations are under way between the Roxy, Gaumont British and United Artists for the latter two companies' selective product made in England.

Howard S. Cullman, receiver, already has played several British pictures, namely "I Was a Spy," "The Constant Nymph," "Night and Day," "After the Ball" and "The Ghost Train" with some success. Cullman believes that a selection of English made pictures will show better results at the Roxy than some American made films.

CLEVELAND, June 5.—Airo-Vita, Inc. of Toledo today was held in violation of the code in its use of the Swaine Field Ball Park there for the exhibition of pictures. The complaint was brought by the Auburndale Theatre Co., the Eastside Amusement Co. and Loew's Valentine, all of Toledo. The board found Airo-Vita was offering unfair competition to theatres and distributors were warned against supplying it with film.

"One Night" Sets Record For Capitol

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In going into its fifth week, "It Happened One Night" set a new run record here. A take of $7,500 betters the "Little Women" record on the fourth week to play was the only other picture to play RKO-Keith's for four weeks. The Metropolitan's box-office is holding up under the reduced scales inaugurated March 9.

The combination of a good mystery picture, "The Mystery of Mr. X," and Sid Gary's "Broadway Fox" top honors the stage gave Loew's Fox top honors for the week with $22,000. Sophie Tucker, billed as the "last of the red hot mamas," headlined the Earle bill, with "Let's Fall in Love" as the screen attraction, trailed along at $19,500.

"I Like It That Way" failed to click in spite of an extra heavy campaign. The Columbia and Palace, respectively, with a return engagement of "Carolina" and a first run "David Harum," held their own. Total first run business was $77,500. Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending March 22:

"CAROLINA" (Fox) 35c-40c, 7 days Gross: $6,500.

ment declares, adding that it is absurd to say these are not patronized. "Catholic schools and spiritual leaders cannot stand supinely and see salacious films menace and destroy the souls of little children," the statement continues, "and for this reason, if for no other, the church urges a censorship regulation from without."

"In Chicago and other large centers, work has already begun which will demonstrate the effectiveness of refusals to patronize theatres which continue to offer indecent and debasing pictures," the statement concludes.

Cardinal Mundelein's statement was given an eight-column streamer across the first page by The Chicago Tribune today.

K. C. Watches Drive Of Catholic Legion

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—The Catholic Legion of Decency crusade soon will descend on Kansas City, according to church leaders, who said the extent and effectiveness of the campaign in this diocese will be closely watched elsewhere because the Kansas City diocese is a strategic one.

Important churchmen interviewed said that while they have been calling for a screen "clean up" for some time, the Legion of Decency has been slow in starting here, but they looked for Bishop Thomas F. Lillis to launch it in the near future.

Bishop Lillis had considerable to do with formation of the legion. He is vice-chairman of the administrative committee of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and chairman of the social action department.

Clean Film Fails to Draw

NEW ORLEANS, June 5.—That New Orleans favors sexy films despite the cry for clean pictures seems to be borne out by the disappointing showing made by "No Greater Glory" at the St. Charles. The film, booked by Harry S. McLeod, operator of the house, after he had been urged by women's organizations and civic bodies that he would break records by booking lily-white product, went to the lowest gross in the history of the house.

Omaha Action Sunday

OMAHA, June 5.—Fifty thousand Catholics here are expected to sign pledges next Sunday not to patronize "indecent" films, when the Committee of Catholic Standards, appointed some time ago, goes into action officially. The committee is being supplied by Tri-State Theatres here with lists of pictures for consideration.

Protests Halt Booking

crusaders and had in mind specifically the presence in Kansas City of some 4,000 delegates to the National Conference of Social Work, where some of the sessions were devoted to lambasting the industry. Though the picture was scheduled to leave the Uptown the day after the ad appeared, it was held over four days.

Under the large, black heading, "I'm Sore!" Chambers told the reformers: "On every side I hear the demand for 'better' motion pictures."

"I do everything in my power to get the producers to make 'better' pictures. That's part of my job."

"The producers are making 'better' pictures. . . . Yet when one of them comes along, the public has a perverse way of showing their appreciation by lack of good attendance."

"What I want to know is . . . where are all these people who are always demanding that the movies get away from sex and crime and 'hokum' and all the rest of what these self-appointed critics of the movies criticize most?"

Milwaukee Students Sign Film Pledges

signed a pledge to "attend only such movies as are approved by competent church authorities."

The movement also advocates passage of the Patman anti-block booking bill. A film questionnaire recently distributed among 1,000 Messmer students showed that 208 attended the movies once a week; 182, twice a week; 38, three times a week, and 10 four times a week. Twenty-five saw movies three times a month; 180, twice a month, and 125, once a month.

Ohio Tax Stirs Row Over Availability

W. C. Chesborough, operating the Salem, first run subsequent, at Dayton. His availability is 45 days after first run, when admission is 15 cents, and 60 days, when a 20-cent rate is maintained, as specified by the Paramount contract, executed before the admission tax went into effect.

Upon complaint of the opposition, the Semmelroth suburbans, that Chesborough was advertising admissions at 20 cents, plus two cents tax, with a supplemental line, "We pay the tax," Paramount brought the case to an issue on the ground that the admission thus was 18 cents. Chesborough, however, contends the price is 20 cents, and has refused to play Paramount product on 60-day availability.

E. M. Booth, local M-G-M manager; Maurice White, Warner manager; Willis Vance, president of the Ohio Valley Independent Exhibitors' League, and Ralph Reisinger, Columbus exhibitor, deadlocked after hearing the case and Chaster R. Shook, former Common Pleas judge, as umpire, will hear it again.

local zoning board. Arnold Shaak remains as treasurer, while R. D. Whitson replaces George Bromley as secretary. More than 100 theatremen were present.

Named to the directorate were: Berinstein, Hicks, Whitson, Shaak, George I. Hanes, Robert Gumbiner, H. J. Siler, Bromley, Irving Carlin.

After the election two important problems confronting California exhibitors were discussed, duals and previews. Berinstein said 33 signatures were needed to make the pledge to end duals 90 per cent strong. That is the percentage demanded by Fox West Coast before it will end duals on its part. The independents expect to go over the top by Thursday, when the pledges will be turned over to Louis B. Mayer, who has received Charles Skouras' word that Fox West Coast will institute single bills 100 per cent in this territory.

The exhibitors voted in favor of raising admission price to 55 cents wherever previews are shown.

Skouras today personally promised Berinstein cooperation in ending duals and requested that before independents went to the grievance board with their complaints against Fox West Coast they should lay them before him personally and he would try to remedy matters. Skouras asserted overbuying in certain territories was due to overzealous district managers acting without his knowledge.

Berinstein discusses single bills and previews with Mayer Thursday. Mayer will represent producers and distributors and Berinstein independent exhibitors.

Women on Coast Ask Week-End Dual Ban

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—The abolishment of dual bills due to the inability of theatres to get two approved pictures simultaneously for juveniles on Saturdays and Sundays was asked at a meeting of the M. P. Council, consisting of representatives of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

It was brought out that for every approved film on week-end bills there was always one unapproved.

Assurance by Ben N. Berenstein that steps had been taken to abolish duals was received enthusiastically by the group.

Decatur House to Open

CANTON, O., June 5.—Another new house, the New Adams, opens this week at Decatur.

At Coshocton work is about to start on a 1,200-seat spot to be backed by Joseph Hickman of Columbus and S. C. Carnes of Cambridge. Hickman will be manager.

The Botzum interests have closed the Valentine here for renovation.

tractual restrictions on double featuring convened today in advance of what was advertised as an "open" meeting of the M. P. T. O., then marched in a body into the latter's meeting.

Proposals were immediately put to a vote of the open meeting which called for withdrawal of the M. P. T. O. from the national M. P. T. O. A.; elimination of affiliated theatres from membership in the organization; changing the name of the organization and holding a new election of officers. In the disorder which ensued it appeared that most of the proposals were carried by vote from the floor, but ballots were not counted.

When order had been restored, M. P. T. O. members gained control of the meeting and defeated all four proposals and, in addition, passed a ruling prohibiting anyone from being a member of both the M. P. T. O. and the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Assn. It is believed this resolution was aimed at, and will cause the resignation of, David Barrist, chairman of the board of the M. P. T. O., whose sympathies for the aims of the new organization were manifest throughout the meeting.

Current interest locally in double feature and premium bans now being balloted on by exhibitors in the territory is credited with stirring up the feeling which developed at today's meeting. The meeting is believed to have demonstrated that the new protective association had sufficient support to assure for the first time in local exhibitor history the existence of a second theatre organization in Philadelphia.

United Artists will take a minimum of two pictures from British & Dominions for distribution here next season, Maury Silverstone, U. A. managing director in England, said yesterday. The B. & D. additions bring U. A.'s new season list to a minimum of 24.

Silverstone is here from London for his annual home office visit. He plans to return to England in about 10 days, probably accompanying Joseph M. Schenck overseas on the latter's scheduled business trip.

Nora is eight.

San Francisco, June 6. — Questioned by Motion Picture Daily, Eddie Cantor, appearing at a local theatre, today denied a report he intended resigning from the Code Authority.

"Say, do you know I do five shows a day," he said. "Red Kann ought to know I haven't got time to do any thinking at all, much less to think of resigning."

The comedian added he would not resign so long as his services on the authority were desired.

Skouras Loses Second Charge Of Overbuying

Skouras Theatres Corp. lost a second overbuying case yesterday when the New York grievance board handed down a decision favoring the Orient, Jersey City, which contended that since Skouras took over operation of the Apollo in 1931, the independent house has not been able to get the first run major product it has had in former years. Deliberations yesterday were heated and when the first vote was taken the two affiliated men voted for Skouras while Jack Bellman and Louis Geller voted for the Orient getting pictures. The tie ended when the impartial man, George F. Thompson, cast his vote in favor of Leon Rosenblatt, operator of the Orient.

The case was considered more important than the first overbuying com-

Truckmen Fight Cut
In Express Charges

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—The Ass'n. of National Film Carriers, Inc., has cited Railway Express Agency, Inc., before the Interstate Commerce Commission on charges of discrimination in reducing the rate on express shipments of film 25 per cent, according to E. E. Jameson, manager of Exhibitors' Film Delivery & Service Co. here.

The complaint charges it is unfair to film delivery trucking firms for Railway Express to offer low rates on film shipments without granting similar reductions to other industries. A motor truck delivery group in another industry has filed a similar complaint, said Jameson.

The reduction in express rates was 50 per cent of the return charges from the theatre to the point of origination, effective June 15 last. At that time it was estimated the saving to exhibitors would amount to $450,000 annually.

Despite opposition from the railroads, express companies and other truck lines, the Missouri Public Service Commission has granted the application of Exhibitors' Film Delivery for a permit to operate an irregular truck service in western Missouri for delivery of film to theatres.

Skouras Loses Second Charge Of Overbuying

plaint filed against Skouras by Rogowsky Brothers, who were awarded 22 pictures for their Embassy, Port Chester. The Orient case, at the initial hearings Tuesday, stirred many objections by Louis Nizer and Louis Weber, the former representing distributors and the latter Skouras, all of which were overruled in executive session.

John Benas, buyer for the Orient, claimed that for the present season he has been able to obtain only 65 major first run product while Skouras had a total of 279. In former years, Benas stated he had from 120 to 165 first runs. When Dave Levy of M-G-M and Robert Wolff of RKO took the stand as witnesses they were reluctant to discuss the Orient situation.

Terms of Decision

According to the decision, the Orient will get 50 per cent of the Universal, RKO and Vitagraph product to be released during the remainder of the season, Skouras and the independent alternating on the releases. The case will be appealed by Skouras, whose appeal from the Rogowsky decision comes up tomorrow before Campi.

Of the 17 grievances filed by Loew, 14 defendants were found guilty of premature advertising and reduced admissions. Two cases were withdrawn and one was postponed. Defendants found guilty in Loew actions were: Empire, Bobby, Marvin, Coliseum, Endicott, Tompkins, Hollywood and Mapleton, in Brooklyn, and Stanley, Hub, Uptown and Gem, in Manhattan. Withdrawn were the complaints against the Etude and Sunset, while the Adelphi grievance was postponed a week.

The Wallack's complaint against the Liberty theatre, Fox, Big U and M-G-M was dismissed. So was the Orient's complaint against the Apollo for reduced admissions. With the Wallack closed, Max Cohen wanted to have the pictures bought for this house transferred to the Liberty. The Apollo is charging 10-cent admissions, but the board ruled it could not revise any admission scales.

Herrington Seeks An Industry Probe

Darrow board," has been asked of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania by Fred Herrington, secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Western Pennsylvania.

In a letter to the senator, Herrington contends that the confusion created by the conflicting statements of General Johnson and his subordinates and of Clarence Darrow "makes it imperative for a neutral investigation of all facts, with the Senate taking a hand in this matter."

"The facts surrounding the highly controversial issue of the motion picture code will be settled once and for all," Herrington writes, "and, in our judgment it will inevitably lead to proper legislation designed for the ultimate good of the American people."

NRA Seeks Rules to Govern Dealings with Actor, Writer

Washington Board Hears Three Cases

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Three cases were heard by the clearance and zoning board. A. Lauritz Garman acted as chairman and Sidney Gates sat as alternate for William S. Wilder.

In the twice postponed case of Sidney Lust, who complained against the clearance given theatres on lower Ninth St., the board found Lust's Hippodrome in the same zone as heretofore and decided that the 21 days' clearance now enjoyed by Central Theatre is fair and reasonable. The board ordered that the Hippodrome should have pictures 55 to 60 days following the last play date of first runs. Under the terms of this decision the Notes theatres are given no clearance over Lust.

For this case only, Lust and John J. Payette stepped down from the board, their places being taken, respectively, by Herman Blum and Carter Barrow.

Play Dates Involved

The second case was that of J. William Cleveland, who asked for equality in play dates with the Colony and York theatres. The case had been postponed from June 1. The hearing opened with W. E. S. Wilcox, Seco Theatre, Silver Spring, Md., appearing as an affected party, although he was not listed in the complaint. The board decided that the Takoma should get product seven days after the Colony or York, depending upon which house had the first showings. The decision places the Seco and Takoma on the same basis.

A protest of Harry Silver, Overlee Theatre, Baltimore, against clearance afforded Gartner Brothers' Vilma was set for rehearing, but an amicable arrangement had been made between the parties and the case was withdrawn.

A new case heard was a protest of Louis Bernheimer, Jesse Theatre, Washington, against the clearance afforded the Cameo at Mount Ranier and the Arcade at Hyattsville, both Maryland. Bernheimer asked for a specific availability date after first run, eliminating the present clearance after the Tivoli. The board found the present seven-day clearance now afforded the Tivoli fair and reasonable. However, on product not purchased by Warners for use at the Tivoli, both Bernheimer and Lust, who operates the two other houses, have equal access 21 days after the last first run playdate on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

Eight cases will be heard by the clearance and zoning board next Tuesday, according to Secretary James B. Fitzgerald. The time for filing of protests by exhibitors against the present clearance and zoning has also been extended to that date. All protests must be filed with Fitzgerald on or before June 12 at Room 846, Earle Building. Board decisions will take effect with the new 1934-35 contracts. Fitzgerald also stated.

May Shift McCoy Films

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Columbia is considering dropping the Tim McCoy action pictures next season. McCoy will return to westerns instead.

that the committees provided for in the code to investigate and make recommendations as to provisions governing these relations will be set up after the middle of the month. These committees will deal, respectively, with directors, technicians and other classes.

The notice was issued in order to avoid the formality of a public hearing on the question unless well-based objections are voiced.

Appointment of the committees has been delayed, it was said, because of the lack of enough recommendations from which to select the members. An adequate number of names have now been suggested to enable Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt to proceed.

ITOA Suit on Code Cases Set June 15

acceptance of complaints from non-assentors was postponed yesterday until June 15. The suit is in the form of an application for an injunction to prevent code members from refusing to accept grievances and protests on clearance.

Haree Dillard, of the NRA legal staff in Washington, flew in yesterday for conferences with Campi's legal committee, comprising Austin Keough, J. Robert Rubin and Willard McKay at Keough's office.

William T. Silverberg yesterday was retained by Campi's legal force to represent Code Authority in the suit filed by Edwin Wick of the Majestic, Buffalo, against major distributors and Campi. The case is slated to come up in the N. Y. Supreme Court at Buffalo, tomorrow. Silverberg, after conferring with Campi's attorneys, returned to Buffalo yesterday.

A joint meeting was held yesterday at Campi by the compliance, finance and production committee with S. R. Kent, J. Robert Rubin, Harold S. Bareford, W. Ray Johnston and Walter Vincent attending. Vincent acted for Ed Kuykendall, who is out of town. The compliance committee, it is understood, will recommend reopening of the code assent date, but this must be approved by the NRA before it is definitely set.

Hearing on Tuesday On Denver Clearance

DENVER, June 6.—The local clearance and zoning board, acting on numerous complaints filed with it, has invited signers and non-signers of the code to appear for a hearing Tuesday on the new zoning schedule for the city. A zoning setup had been sent out by the board but it was recalled on orders from Campi and protests on the former setup were invited.

Para. Men Off June 13

Paramount home office executives and eastern sales forces leave for the coast next Wednesday to attend the annual sales convention in Los Angeles, June 18-20.

Pact Approved By Creditors Of Fox Groups

Film, F. W. C. and subsidiaries and counsel for some 20 unsecured smaller creditors ratified the agreement. It will become final when an order is signed by the referee.

Testimony by Herbert V. Jones, trustee in bankruptcy, and Elliott H. Jones, attorney for the trustees, aimed to show that the agreement would be to the best interests of creditors and the bankrupt estates.

Under the agreement major creditors recognize the Woolf and Shanberg claims as superior and secured. An old agreement with F. W. C. and subsidiaries will be superseded by a new one providing for a long extension of payments with no definite annual payments provided. Woolf and Shanberg are to be paid periodically a certain proportion of the net income from theatre operations until the full amount of $478,000 has been paid. The agreement calls for payments to be completed by Feb. 15, 1940.

K. C. Board Rules Against Throwaways

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Throwaways were outlawed by the grievance board today in ruling against J. F. Rigney, Westport Theatre, in a complaint brought by Mrs. A. Baier of the Lindbergh. The board withheld decision in another complaint in which Mrs. Baier charged Rigney with playing pictures at 10 cents in a 20-cent spot. I. W. Maple of Albany, Mo., has filed a complaint that R. L. Robinson bought film from four companies without having a theatre in the town with the intention of depriving him of product.

Price Complaint Upheld

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—The local grievance board has ordered O. A. Kihchel to discontinue offering four 35-cent admissions for a dollar at the Princess, Jeannette, Pa. The complainant was the Harris Amusement Co., operating the Harris in the same town.

Tomorrow the clearance board will hear a number of protests against the existing zoning schedule. It meets again June 12. The grievance board is scheduled to meet June 8 and 15.

Brought Three Appeals

Lester F. Martin, Iowa-Nebraska exhibitor leader, arrived in New York yesterday to present three appeals to Campi. Two cases deal with overbuying. One concerns the Princess, Boone, Ia., versus the Central States Theatres Co., and the second is the case of the Iowa, Fort Madison, Ia., versus Fox Midwest. Third deals with a new theatre under way at Monticello, Ia.

Civic Leaders Are 5-1 Against Duals

the M.P.P.D.A., according to an article appearing in this week's issue of Motion Picture Herald.

"In reply to the questionnaires, 1,339 organizations and individuals representing organizations, cast their votes—1,182 against double features and 217 in favor," the Herald states.

"The contention, according to Mrs. Winter's office, is that the reason for the present situation is directly the fault of the producers and distributors themselves, in that they do not concentrate sufficiently on quality production and intelligent advertising and exploitation of short subjects. Most short subjects, the answers to the questionnaire charged, are made with inferior talent, incapable direction and generally all-around poor technical treatment."

Fox Uptown Includes Parking at 25 Cents

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Coincident with Fox Midwest's price reduction at its first run Uptown from 40 to 25 cents, making the latter figure the prevailing price at all of Kansas City's first runs, the circuit has leased a large lot nearby and fitted it up for parking, offering the convenience free to patrons and at a saving of 15 cents.

Fox Midwest has obtained a lease to the lot for eight and one-half years, concurrent with the balance of the lease on the Uptown. The property is the former site of a hotel which was destroyed by fire, and has a frontage of 170 feet.

Formerly the Uptown had a parking arrangement with a large station across the street, but the new development eliminates crossing Broadway on foot. The parking station is to be operated by Fox Midwest. Non-patrons pay a fee of 15 cents.

Three New Bombings Arouse Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Local exhibitors see in outrages at three neighborhood theatres, including two bombings, renewal of "warfare" in which a series of theatre bombings occurred about two years ago. Police ascribe the violence to labor trouble. The houses hit do not employ union operators.

Recent attacks have been on the Pasco, where vandals demolished the projection equipment and cut the screen to shreds; at the Murray, where a dynamite bomb tore a large hole in the roof and damaged the interior, and at the Nu-Era, recently reopened, where 14 sticks of dynamite were discovered in the box-office before they could explode.

The operators' union has been demanding these theatres employ their members.

Coast Neighborhoods Hit by an Epidemic

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—First run houses are affected only lightly, but neighborhoods are suffering as a result of an infantile paralysis outbreak. General Hospital reports 190 definite cases with 310 others under observation.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Here Comes the Groom"

(Chas. R. Rogers-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Highly diverting and hilarious is this comedy of jolly crooks, crooners and a society bud's romance.

Jack Haley, an amateur crook, would rather be a piccolo player but wife (Isabel Jewel) wants him to be a big time burglar. So to win her favor and her return, he attempts to hold up a poker game and is himself held up, escapes in his BVD's, hides in a compartment where Patricia Ellis awaits her crooner husband, the Masked Marvel, who telegraphs canceling their honeymoon. The resourceful Miss Ellis inveigles Haley to then pose as her crooner hubby.

At her folks' home Haley gets into merry mixups complicated by finding Miss Jewel there as the maid, a stolen necklace, the arrival of the real crooner, a thrill chase and a piccolo finale—a complete comic concoction.

Laughing highspot is Haley's singing in synchronization with the crooner on the radio while Mary Boland, Miss Ellis' mother, twitters all over the place.

Edward Sedgwick directed smartly, getting top laughs from all situations. The cast includes Neil Hamilton, Lawrence Gray and Arthur Treacher, who is great in a small role.

Getting them in may need exploitation, but once in they'll enjoy this. Running time, 73 minutes.

"Bachelor Bait"

(Lou Brock-Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—With the unique central idea of a bachelor running a matrimonial agency, humorous situations and pleasing comedy are evolved.

Stuart Erwin, fired from his job at the city's marriage license bureau, decides, with the aid of Rochelle Hudson, to open Romance, Inc., formed to foster and promote love and marriage. Erwin runs his agency on the level, but Berton Churchill, a politician, wants to muscle in and tries to frame him. Aided by "Skeets" Gallagher, Erwin's lawyer-assistant, business booms, and marriage soars until complications arise whereby Erwin tries to effect the marriage of Miss Hudson to an oil king, Grady Sutton. Pert Kelton, Gallagher's flame, tries to land the oil boy, until a raid on Romance, Inc., uncovers Sutton as a detective and brings Gallagher and Miss Kelton together with Erwin and Miss Hudson marriage-bound, also.

The production moves nicely with a balance of values under George Stevens' direction. Lou Brock produced from Ed and Vic Halperin's story and Glenn Tryon's screen play. As a honey idea of comedy with feminine appeal primarily, it should entertain in neighborhoods and small towns. Running time, 75 minutes.

"Baby, Take a Bow"

(Sol Wurtzel-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Shirley Temple dethrones Mae West as the most-talked-of screen luminary by her consistent past performances and her lovable appeal in "Baby, Take a Bow." Combining ability with charm, modesty with histrionic versatility, Shirley is really a star.

As the daughter of Jimmy Dunn, an ex-convict going straight, she innocently becomes the centrifugal force accountable for planting some stolen pearls on her dad, creating suspense that sets the household agog. Naively she also helps Ralf Harolde to escape, but which allows the police to capture the villain.

Dunn and Shirley steal the show in a song and dance number that will bring down any house. Claire Trevor, as Dunn's sweetheart and wife; Ray Walker, as his pal, also an ex-convict; Alan Dinehart, as a square-necked flatfoot; Harolde, as "Trigger" Stone, and James Flavin, as a detective, all contribute fine troupings.

Harry Lachman directed from the screen play by Philip Klein and E. E. Paramore, with John Stone as associate producer.

It's a swell show with comedy, drama and action—a clean family picture, one to remember with pleasure. Running time, 65 minutes.

"Sisters Under the Skin," this morning's opener at the Music Hall, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on April 5.

"Men in White," tomorrow's opener at the Capitol, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Feb. 6.

"Many Happy Returns," tonight's preview at the Paramount, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on April 28.

IATSE in Stiff Fight Today Over Slate

LOUISVILLE, June 6.—Indications here today pointed to a stiff battle tomorrow over the nomination of officers of the I. A. T. S. E., which is holding its 32nd biennial international convention here at the Jefferson County Armory, after it had been announced William C. Elliott was not a candidate for reelection to the presidency. The announcement was made after the president's report had been submitted to the delegates.

Elliott was elected by the executive board to serve the unexpired six months' term of William F. Canavan two and one-half years ago and was later elected to serve a two-year term. Several candidates are out, but apparently George E. Browne, Chicago, has the inside track, having become very popular for the nomination. He is a former president of the I. A. T. S. E., and is now business manager of Local 2 of Chicago. It was also indicated that John P. Nick, St. Louis, of Local 6 was a strong possibility for reelection. Nick was reported supporting Browne.

One of the resolutions passed today limits appointment of juniors or apprentices by locals to one for each five regular members, and in no case more than 20 juniors or apprentices shall be permitted. Another resolution, which was killed and left to the discretion of the executive board, would have reduced the salary of the president from $20,000 to $10,400 annually and that of the secretary from $20,000 to $9,100, plus traveling expenses.

"Elysia" Brings on Big Smear of Eggs

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—While Catholics are fighting objectionable films with a boycott, more forceful measures were adopted to express disapproval when "Elysia," nudist film, was shown at the Dickinson in Fayette, Mo. The showing almost caused an uprising in the small community, and the theatre was smeared inside and out with eggs and perishable vegetables. Students at the Methodist college in Fayette are blamed.

"U" to Finish Full 36, Says J.R. Grainger

with a final address by Carl Laemmle, who reached Chicago yesterday en route to the meetings from Hollywood.

Grainger formally opened the initial session and was followed by R. H. Cochrane, senior vice-president, who reviewed the Universal situation in toto and predicted an auspicious season in the one about to open.

Ground covered yesterday was largely routine, among those talking being William Kramer, head of the playdate department; Herman Stern, head of the non-theatrical department, and Sig Wittman, eastern district manager. In the morning, the conventioners saw "I Give My Love," a feature, and the opening releases of the "Going Places" and "Stranger Than Fiction" series for the new year at the Little Carnegie Playhouse. A three-reel convention trailer, also run off, elicited much favorable comment.

Talks today will include a code analysis by Willard McKay, general counsel; sales slants by F. J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager, and E. T. Gomersall, western sales manager; Andrew Sharick on accessories and Eddie Bonns on shorts.

Product and policy are being held for tomorrow, when Grainger will divulge the company's plan.

Last night, with no schedules to meet, the visitors were on their own. Many took in "As Thousands Cheer." Others visited the Paradise and Hollywood, night spots.

One-Day Regional in Chicago Set June 13

CHICAGO, June 6.—Salesmen and bookers of 13 mid-western Universal exchanges will hold a one-day regional at the Drake June 13 as a follow of the national convention now under way in New York. This will be the only regional convention the company plans.

Executives to attend include Carl Laemmle, James R. Grainger, E. T. Gomersall, Eddie Bonns and Sidney Singerman. John Le Roy Johnston, studio publicity director, now in New York, also will attend and later return to Hollywood.

Montgomery in "Zest"

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Under his new Universal contract, Douglass Montgomery's next will be "Zest," adapted from Charles G. Norris' novel of the same name. B. F. Zeidman will produce, with William Wyler scheduled to handle the direction.

"U" Starts "Romance"

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—"Romance in the Rain" has gone into production at Universal City with Roger Pryor, Heather Angel, June Knight and Victor Moore in the principal roles. Stanley Bergerman is producing.

Heading for $72,000

"Little Man, What Now?" grossed about $72,000 at the Music Hall, where its one week run ended last night.

With the Laemmle Men

Universal's "100 Per Centers," or salesmen who sold all of their possibilities, total 13. JAMES R. GRAINGER, vice-president in charge of distribution, gave the roll call of the honor men to the convention yesterday. They are:

KELLY of Boston, FURST of "Big U," New York; ENGLE of Philadelphia, BARNHOLZ of Pittsburgh, FUNK of Chicago, BAKER of Detroit, TIGHE of Detroit, HAAS of Los Angeles, FIELDS of Los Angeles, PERCY of Portland (Ore.), ADAMSON of Portland, BLOOM of Seattle, and PRICE of St. Louis.

The opening of the three-day pow-wow finds branch managers around Essex House from 37 United States and Canadian offices. The number will swell to about 70 when salesmen from New York (Big "U"), Albany, New Haven, Boston and Philadelphia offices hit town this morning.

Resignation of MIKE LANDOW as Philadelphia branch manager to enter the pottery business elicited much comment from the delegates. It was good-natured railery built around the pottery angle, not Mike's resignation. All unprintable.

When GRAINGER informed BARNEY ROSE, 'Frisco manager, he would have to stay on for three weeks to discuss coast conditions, BARNEY almost passed out, then realized it was a gag. He's a newlywed and that means he wants to get home as soon as he can. During the lunch hour, ROSE fulfilled a long-standing ambition. He taxied to the Empire State tower and nabbed for himself a peek of New York and environs from the high places.

Some of those not so long in the LAEMMLE ranks were introduced by the chair. Those who took bows include: JIM DERMODY, New England district manager; JOHN LANGAN, Seattle manager; JACK RUE, Salt Lake; E. E. GRUENBERG, Sioux Falls; LOUIS PATZ, Des Moines; JOHN EZELL, Atlanta; JAMES HOBBS, Charlotte, and J. A. WILSON, Calgary.

W. A. SAULT, St. John's, took a bow on another count. It was because his was the one office GRAINGER had never visited. SAULT, by the way, is one of the real veterans in the ranks.

"SNAKE" RICHARDSON, southern district manager, arrived completely outfitted in a Palm Beach suit and immediately became the center of much envy. BILL HEINEMAN, coast district manager, and AL O'KEEFE, Los Angeles manager, seemed particularly disturbed. Investigation revealed they had brought along flannels, but hadn't the nerve to wear them.

OSCAR BINDER, who handles exchange operation, probably was the most uncomfortable individual in the ballroom of the Essex House. He persisted in moaning over the number

Pick 2nd Sullavan Role

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Margaret Sullavan's second role for Universal's new season list will be "Within This Present," an adaptation of a novel by Margaret Ayer Barnes. The story covers a woman's emotional life from war days through 1933.

Avid Reader

"There is a newcomer in my office who simply eats up Motion Picture Daily," said Joe Weil, assistant to Carl Laemmle, yesterday. "He tears through page after page as soon as I am through with my copy. It must be a great paper otherwise no one could have such a voracious appetite for its contents."

"He is a nice fellow, too. His name is Boojey—he is a fine, little wire-haired pup."

of Coronas that went up in smoke during the day.

The Canadian contingent proved funny. With the exception of SAULT, all of them turned down flat any drinks offered. Those in this distinguished group included WILSON of Calgary, LEDUC of Montreal, BRINT of Toronto, SCOTT of Vancouver, VAUGHN of Winnipeg and HAGUE, Canadian general manager.

CLAIR HAGUE, by the way, has been pretty sick for the last nine months. He's around the convention, however, and the gang is glad to see him.

LEO ABRAMS, New York, is another who continues seriously ill. He sent his best wishes to the convention. At the behest of GRAINGER, the delegates combined in sending him a joint wire expressing hopes for a quick recovery.

LOUIS LAEMMLE, "Uncle Carl's" brother, was among those who sat through the opening day's session.

Two hours in the morning and a brace in the afternoon—this was the routine. It holds today and tomorrow as well. "Snappy, short and enthusiastic, is the way I like 'em," remarked JAMES ROSS.

DAVE BADER, once a local Universalite and now stationed in London, wants to take back a record of the proceedings. He's all atwitter about the way it's been going so far.

Wires of congratulations from exhibitors yesterday included: SPYROS SKOURAS, EDDIE ALPERSON, of New York; E. C. BEATTY, of Detroit; FRISCH and RINZLER, of Brooklyn; JOHN HAMRICK, of Seattle and Portland; RUGOFF and BECKER, of Brooklyn; SAM BENDHEIM and MORTON THALHIMER, of Richmond; HAROLD J. FITZGERALD, of Milwaukee, and J. L. MURRAY, of Renfrew, Ont.

BEATTY, of Butterfield, wired: "Be sure to make plenty of A pictures."

GRAINGER replied: "If you can convince me you have any A houses, we'll make plenty of A pictures."

McCrea in Runyon Yarn

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Joel McCrea has been added to the cast of "Million Dollar Ransom," the first of two Damon Runyon stories set for the Universal lineup. Joan Bennett and Edward Arnold have already been cast.

main exhibition will be confined to the British Isles, as American exhibitors have an antipathy to British-made product.

The number of pictures to be produced in England and other details hinge on arrangements Laemmle makes on the ground, he said. Players, directors and others will be chosen from British ranks, but there may be talent imports from this country where these are suitable or needed for individual pictures.

While abroad he will confer with European representatives on business there.

Laemmle spent today seeing the fair and will leave tomorrow for New York so that he can attend the closing session of the sales convention on Friday. He will be accompanied to Europe by Jack Ross, his secretary, and Joe Weil, his personal representative.

Landow Out; Engle In

Mike Landow, Philadelphia branch manager for Universal, has resigned, effective July 1, to enter the pottery business. Joe Engle, salesman and assistant manager in that office, succeeds him, in keeping with Universal's policy of making promotions from the ranks.

Jack Doyle, formerly with "U," rejoins the company as Harrisburg salesman. He replaces Jack Engle, who transfers to New Jersey.

"Gift of Gab" for Lowe

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Edmund Lowe's first for Universal's 1934-35 list will be "Gift of Gab." In order to permit Gloria Stuart to play opposite Lowe, her starring picture, "Transient Lady," has been set back for four weeks.

C. Francis Jenkins Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, June 6.—C. Francis Jenkins, who 40 years ago invented the machine which eventually developed into the present day projector, died at his home here today after an illness of more than three years.

Jenkins was noted in several fields for his inventions, one of which was a steam automobile, and in the film field he is said to have developed a slow-motion camera capable of taking 4,000 exposures per second, and a system of television transmission. For a time he operated his own broadcast station. At the time of his death he was interested in a home film and sound recording camera.

For the invention of his projector, Jenkins received the John Scott and Elliott Cresson gold medals of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, but secured only a few dollars in real cash. He was 67 years old.

Saenger Plan Calls for Cut In Territory

50 per cent. stock interest in the reorganized Saenger, and becomes Paramount's operating partner in the circuit as president and general manager of the new company, providing the reorganization plan receives Federal court approval.

Effectiveness of the plan is dependent largely upon the cooperation of bondholders, to whom the plan offers interest on defaulted obligations from November 1, 1933, to May 1, 1934. If bondholders in sufficient number deposit their securities under the plan, a foreclosure and receivership sale can be avoided. If not, Paramount retains the right, with court approval, to cause cooperating bondholders' committees to bid in the properties at sale and reimburse them for the additional reorganization costs which may be involved in the event that procedure is made necessary.

In effecting the withdrawal of Saenger from the three southern states mentioned, with the exception of Pensacola, Fla.; Houston and Texarkana, Texas, Paramount buys up the Saenger interest in those states, aggregating approximately 40 theatres.

"As a result," the plan states, "the theatre properties controlled by reorganized Saenger will be confined upon consummation of the plan to a much smaller area than are the properties now operated by Saenger and its subsidiaries, and the management and control of the properties will be greatly facilitated."

To Form New Companies

The move is regarded as in line with Paramount's decentralized theatre operations and localized control. New companies will be organized to operate the former Saenger holdings in the three states from which it is withdrawing.

The Paramount trustees' petition, asking approval of the plan by the court, sets forth that Paramount Publix owns all of the outstanding stock of Saenger except 20 shares of Class B common. Paramount's holdings, therefore, are 18,000 shares of preferred, 100,000 Class A common, and 12,380 Class B common. Saenger owns all of Saenger Realty Corp., Inc.

The Paramount petition also states that the company has a claim of $546,454 against Saenger, and the latter a claim of $319,397 against Saenger Realty.

Saenger operated 160 theatres in the seven southern states, heretofore named, at the time it went into receivership. Since then a number of leases have been repudiated by the receiver and, with the withdrawal of the company from North Carolina, Florida and Texas, the reorganized company will operate approximately 100 theatres. Saenger also owns a 25 per cent. interest in Dent Theatres, a Paramount subsidiary operating in Texas and New Mexico.

The bond issues involved in the reorganization are a $952,500 Series A, and a $597,500 Series B, first mortgage and collateral trust sinking fund 6½ per cent. gold bonds of Saenger;

Looking 'Em Over

"Madame Du Barry"

(Warner)

Royalty become common mortals when their private lives are dug into. Family quarrels, in high places or low, are merely that; they have no respect for crowns.

Madame Du Barry, who had a reputation of a sort in the court and in the nocturnal activities of Louis XV, raises the same sort of excitement any modern day counterpart would in any well-placed family. Her meteoric rise to a position of dominance at Versailles and her equally meteoric fall after the king dies comprise the story in the film of the same name.

Played for comedy, the attraction at the writing hand of Ed Chodorov, former press agent, and at the directorial hand of William Dieterle achieves its objective with results amusing and entertaining. Historical equations are touched upon, but never permitted to stand in the way of either laughs or situations.

Reginald Owen, as reported by telephone from Atlantic City, where the picture was shown to the Warner eastern regional, pretty much steals the show as the king. But Dolores Del Rio, exquisitely photographed and accoutred, delivers a refreshing rendition of the fickle and care-free mood which characterized the woman who added some sort of distinction to the world's oldest profession.

The attraction, gorgeously mounted and a gem in production detail, has other commendable performances, principally from Verree Teasdale and Henry O'Neill.

"Madame Du Barry," like its chief character, is generally naughty, but always nice.

"Uncertain Lady"

(Universal)

Good light entertainment is this sophisticated comedy handled spiritedly by a fine cast, including Edward Everett Horton, Genevieve Tobin, Paul Cavanagh, George Meeker and Mary Nash. For the grown-ups it is satisfying fare.

While the plot is not exactly original, it is developed with sustained interest and surrounded with clever dialogue. It is the tale of the wife who seeks to win back her husband by arousing his jealousy. Miss Tobin is the wife in the case and Horton the husband, with Cavanagh the jealousy-inciter.

Horton asks his wife for his release to marry another woman (Renee Gadd). Miss Tobin consents on condition Horton and Miss Gadd find her another husband, as she is too busy a business woman to ferret one out for herself. Horton invites two men friends, but both prove wash-outs.

Determined to teach Horton a lesson, Miss Tobin invites Cavanagh to be a week-end guest. Horton and Miss Gadd do not know the whole thing is prearranged. When they find Cavanagh outside the house acting like a drunk, they drag him in in the hope Miss Tobin will fall for him. Cavanagh plays his role so perfectly Horton becomes so jealous that he is won back to Miss Tobin. The rapprochement between husband and wife is helped by the discovery Miss Gadd is making a play for Cavanagh because of his millions.

Other players are Donald Reed and Dorothy Peterson. Karl Freund directed. Running time, 66 minutes.

a $674,000 first mortgage issue of Saenger Realty, secured by a mortgage on the Saenger, New Orleans; a $240,000 first mortgage on the Saenger, Mobile, and a $40,000 issue secured by a first mortgage on the Paramount, at Clarksdale, Miss. All issues are in default on interest payments.

Of the two Saenger issues, 59 per cent of the bonds involved have been deposited under the plan. Of the remaining three issues, 79 per cent. of the New Orleans issue has been deposited; 88 per cent. of the Mobile issue, and 95 per cent. of the Clarksdale issue.

Saenger's indebtedness to subsidiaries and affiliates is listed at $667,093. In addition, there are $168,355 of general claims against it and a large amount of contingent liabilities. A total of $641,965 of claims against the company were purchased for $28,432 by Arklamiss Theatres, Inc., a new corporation organized by Paramount for that purpose. The trustees request authority of the court to advance up to $60,000 to Arklamiss to proceed with its claims purchases.

Under the reorganization plan the Arklamiss claims will be assigned to Saenger without warranty of any kind, as will Paramount's own claim against the company. In addition, if approved by the court, Paramount will advance $200,000 to the bond committees for the costs of the reorganization; will pay $10,000 owed to Richards, as receiver, by Central Florida Theatres, Inc., and will execute a Paramount film franchise with the reorganized company.

In return, Paramount receives three-year, six per cent. notes of the new company in the aggregate amount of the costs of the reorganization; all of the stock of the new company; all

"There was a time when British producers were worried principally about getting the funds with which to make pictures," said Wilcox. "That day is gone now. The industry there definitely is making progress, but we are still seeking the formula."

"The topnotch British picture is grossing very substantial money at home. The in-between film is gone. The cheaper American films haven't a chance in the market there."

Wilcox will be here for several weeks. Yesterday, he spent considerable time conferring with Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, on future plans. Hubert T. Marsh, managing director of B. & D., who was slated to make the trip with Wilcox, was detained in London.

Set Date Back to 16th

Joseph M. Schenck will sail for the other side on June 16, not June 9, as first planned. Etienne Pallos, sales manager for London Films, will return at the same time.

Sees Swing to Romance

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—The agitation of the Catholic Church for a screen cleanup leads Mary Pickford to believe the time is ripe for a swing back to romance.

"However," she says, "I don't believe any amount of agitation will solve the problem because it is so much harder to produce a halfway intelligent romance than it is to do any other type of story. I don't believe we will do better than achieve one high class romance out of 10 attempts."

CLEVELAND, June 6.—Criticism of American-made films as a harmful influence to foreign missionary work was one of the highlights of the concluding session of the Presbyterian General Assembly here. The criticism was made by the Rev. D. C. Buchanan, missionary to Japan.

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—The I. T. O. is renewing attempts to stabilize prices among suburbans based on information brought back from New York by Elmer C. Rhoden, operating head of Fox Midwest. Circuits promise they will increase first run scales if suburbans do likewise. Fox Midwest favors an immediate agreement.

Paramount will also advance up to $200,000, if needed, for working funds of the new Saenger company. Richards will buy from Paramount all of the Class A stock of the new company for $25,000, and will finance 50 per cent. of the reorganization cost. Paramount retains all of the Class B stock of the new company.

Saenger Down To 45 Houses In New Plan

Paramount's decentralization of Saenger Theatres, as proposed in the plan of reorganization for the circuit which will be heard by John E. Joyce, referee in bankruptcy, June 21, reduces Saenger operations to 45 theatres. At the time of the circuit's receivership, Jan. 27, 1933, it operated 160 theatres in eight states.

The decentralization will be accomplished, the plan proposes, through the acquisition by Paramount of Saenger's interests in theatres in North Carolina, Virginia, Florida and Texas, with the exception of two houses at facts

Efforts to reach Joseph M. Schenck last night for a statement were unsuccessful.

Insiders' Outlook

WIDESPREAD interest prevails over what changes will mark the front in the metropolitan area now that the new season is no longer so far off. The balance of power, at least numerically in pictures, has been pretty well maintained all of those years leading up to this one. Loew's has all of M-G-M and United Artists. Also half of Paramount. RKO has all of Radio, half of Paramount. This is regular procedure, the Paramount split operating under a franchise agreement. In a swell spot annually because both of the major New York circuits require more pictures than those they start out with every season are all of the others. . . .

Thus, last season Loew's bought the Warner-First National 60 and RKO, all of Columbia, Universal and Fox. Originally a five-year deal, the latter company, exercising its prerogatives for its own good reasons, has cancelled and so becomes a free agent in this, the most lucrative territory in the country, with its 1934-35 lineup. Warners, dissatisfied with the treatment accorded its product by Loew's, now becomes the stormiest petrel of the bunch. Alleging its arrangements provided for 16 big halves of the week, including Saturday and Sunday naturally, the story told by the Warners is they have been given about six to date. . . .

While plenty of time between now and Sept. 1 remains for Loew's to meet the claimed 16, the Warner attitude is one tinged with much peeve that some of its more important attractions to date have been dropped into the early and less lucrative playing time half. All of this, therefore, may lead to a new setup in the Warner camp and result in a split a la Paramount, with Loew's and RKO each drawing fifty-fifty for '34-'35. Nothing definite about it, but it begins to look that way. . . .

What about those Fox Met. houses then? Merely this: That one does not necessarily have to have anything to do with the other. Warners, we happen to know, don't get the idea of Nick Schenck having his own way in this sector. This explains the bid which, by all indication, will reach the Federal Court on June 20. You might wonder about pictures those 85-odd theatres will play if the Warner offer, to be loaded with a real consideration in cash, is winner. The answer is what they have under contract now. The Fox Met. string, in practically every instance, is not opposition to Loew houses. Most of them are second neighborhood runs anyway. All, or almost all of them, could, however, be turned into first runs if the Warners owned them and should so decide. . . .

Picking up the strings where this same interesting situation was aired a few days back, the expectancy, even in Warner quarters, is that Schenck, being a fighter, will move into action on several Warner fronts at one time. The fracas immediately would graduate into a major war to end nobody is willing to predict where. For instance, and entirely by way of a guess, there is Philadelphia, where the Loew outfit has stayed out through an agreement once made with Jules Mastbaum. Milwaukee is another city, and Wisconsin another territory where the situation matches Philadelphia and Eastern Pennsylvania. This is just a rough idea of how rough the immediate future may be. In the meantime, the Skourases, plus Louis Frisch and Sam Rinzler, who are sometimes known as Randforce, are sitting back uneasily awaiting the disposition of Fox Met., but believing they have a swell chance of winning out. In the meantime, also, is what is described as Schenck's absolute determination not to permit the disputed circuit to go to Warners even if he has to proceed so far as to buy them himself on behalf of the Loew company. . . .

Broadway operators are plenty glum over the presence of the fleet. It may not be patriotic, but it's a case of business. The armada is diverting thousands daily from theatres to warships. Circuit willingness to hand out thousands of free tickets to the gobs daily is cutting down grosses. Dance halls and saloons, nautical delights, are getting the bulk of whatever is being spent. Plus burlesque. Which may prove again that, while the life of a sailor boy may be full of gin and dames, the exhibitors' existence continues full of red ink. . . .

would be starred in several adventure pictures as well as at least one serial.

Grainger will indicate the company has concentrated on stories by well known authors, with 18 novels and five plays coming under this classification. In addition, there will be five musicals.

The number of shorts the company will make next season, Grainger will indicate, will be governed to some extent by developments in the dual feature situation, but present plans call for 26 two-reel comedies, 58 one-reelers, 104 issues of the newsreel with Graham McNamee continuing as "the talking reporter."

Novelties scheduled include 13 serials called "Going Places with Lowell Thomas," each complete in one reel.

There will be 13 "Stranger Than Fiction" one-reelers, with 10 or 12 subjects in each. Alois Havrilla, Jimmy Wallington and other well known radio announcers have been signed to do the off-screen narrative.

Twenty-six "Oswald" cartoons, single-reelers, the same as during the current season, are set.

In addition, the program includes six "Cartoon Classics" in Technicolor, by Walter Lantz, each burlesquing an amusing or graphic episode in history. Music and lyrics for these will be written by James Dietrich and Victor McLeod.

Budget Up a Million

Last year, $2,000,000 was added to the production budget for the 36 on the current season's list and this year the budget has been increased by another $1,000,000, it will be stated.

In preparation for the enlarged program the company has 20 stars and featured players and a sizeable group of youngsters recruited for its stock company.

"This enlarged schedule of features, the expensive novels and plays that it includes, the 20 stars and featured players, the experienced directors and the money which is in hand to pro-

What They're Down For

Universal has two co-starring teams among the only four features for which casts are designated. One of these is "Gift of Gab," in which Edmund Lowe and Gloria Stuart will have the stellar roles, and the other is "The Human Side," in which Doris Kenyon and Adolphe Menjou will be teamed.

Margaret Sullavan has been set for two starring roles, "The Good Fairy" and "Within This Present." Russ Columbo is down for one, "Castles in the Air," and Buck Jones is due to star in a serial, "The Red Rider," as well as an unannounced number of adventure stories.

The lineup so far set follows:

DORIS KENYON—Co-starring in "The Human Side" with Adolphe Menjou.
RUSS COLUMBO—Starring in "Castles in the Air."
BUCK JONES—Starring in a serial, "The Red Rider," and several adventure stories.

duce this ambitious program," Grainger will tell the delegates, "is an evidence of the faith that Carl Laemmle has in the solid recovery of this country from depression. It is an indication of his belief that the market not only will absorb this enlarged program, but that it demands it."

Heading the list as specials are the Ziegfeld production of Edna Ferber's "Show Boat," with a new treatment; Blaise Cendrars' novel, "Sutter's Gold," two productions described as of roadshow calibre; "The Good Fairy" and "Within This Present," starring Margaret Sullavan; and a big musical, "The Great Ziegfeld," written by William Anthony McGuire and Billie Burke, in which William Powell will be starred.

The remainder of the list follows:

"Great Expectations" and "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," by Charles Dickens.
"Princess O'Hara" and "Ransom, One Million Dollars," by Damon Runyon.

Novels, Plays Figure Strongly in "U" List

Universal has gone in strongly for well-known novels with modern American backgrounds among the 31 feature titles of its proposed 42 to be announced today by James R. Grain-

Dickens, Poe Are Authors On Schedule

ger. Fully half can be thus classified.

One of these will have a tennis background and the remainder lean to romance and comedy. Only one horror story is on the list to date—"The Bride of Frankenstein," a sequel.

Five will be either straight musicals or with considerable interspersed music.

The classics have been dipped into for three stories, two by Dickens and one by Edgar Allen Poe. There is also one historical novel with an American background, "Sutter's Gold."

Modern plays will furnish five of the stories, and Willard's comic strip syndicated by the Daily News, "Moon Mullins," will also be worked into a feature.

Four serial titles are listed and Buck Jones is down for several adventure stories.

The list breaks down as follows:

Novels

Historical—"Sutter's Gold."
Classics—"Great Expectations" and "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," Charles Dickens; "The Raven," Edgar Allen Poe.

Douglas; "Strange Wives," Edith Wharton; "Zest," Charles G. Norris; "Transient Lady," Octavus Roy Cohen; and the following with the authors unnamed: "Confessions of a Modern Woman," "What Women Dream," "I've Been Around," "The Joy of Living," "Gift of Gab," "The Human Side."

RKO in Court Under the New Bankrupt Law of the petition did not mean that reorganization of RKO was any nearer at hand; that, in fact, no reorganization plan has yet been prepared. The petition if granted, it was pointed out, will merely place RKO in a position where it can take advantage of the new bankruptcy laws and their provisions for simplified reorganization procedures.

The petition was filed and will be argued without the participation of Irving Trust Co., receiver for RKO, or the receiver's attorneys, Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lombard. If granted, the petition will not disturb the RKO receivership, which will be continued under its new statutory classification with Irving Trust in charge.

In its effort to qualify under the new statutes for reorganization of embarrassed corporations, RKO sets forth in its petition, its liabilities, aggregating about $16,240,000 in gold note and debenture issues and about $35,400,000 in claims, as against assets of approximately $25,000,000, comprising for the most part stock and notes receivable of subsidiaries and affiliates.

The petition states that "on information and belief, the debtor (RKO) alleges that there is no prospect that improved earnings in recent months will be sufficient to enable the debtor to pay the amounts due and payable."

The petition also alleges that RKO "has no means of borrowing or otherwise securing funds sufficient to pay and discharge such amounts, so that a reorganization of the debtor is clearly necessary. The debtor believes that such a reorganization may be carried out more economically and expeditiously under and pursuant to section 77B, Chapter 8, of the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, and that a reorganization under said section will be in the best interests of creditors and security holders of all classes of the debtor."

The new bankruptcy measure permits reorganization of embarrassed corporations through the scaling down of claims against it with the consent of two-thirds of each class of creditors and security holders.

debtor corporation, however, may file a petition without securing the approval of creditors or stockholders.

Plans of reorganization are to provide for the scaling down of the interests of both creditors and stockholders to a point where the company can eventually "pay out." Provision is made that such plans shall be acceptable to holders of two-thirds of the claims and a majority of the stock.

The legislation is expected to save many corporations which otherwise would be forced to go through bankruptcy proceedings.

Looking 'Em Over

"The World in Revolt"

(Mentone Prod.)

Any effort to encompass the wide course of revolutionary uprisings since the advent of the century into 68 minutes of running time would appear to be a well-nigh insurmountable job. Combing the facts, as recorded by the newsreel camera over a period of almost two decades, made it necessary to scrutinize about 150,000 feet of film to whittle the 6,120 feet edited into "The World in Revolt." But it has been done in workmanlike and dramatic manner in this instance.

Acknowledging that the civilized world, or large segments of it, is in revolt against despair, hunger and "military gangsters," this record traces the highlights of modern history in Russia, Cuba, Italy, Germany, India, France, Austria, Ireland and China. It tells the story in footage largely hitherto unrevealed of political spellbinders, great and small, including Mussolini, Stalin, Dollfuss and Hitler. It shows police and troops riding down the populace; firing squads at their worst, the struggle for existence, the surgings against economic oppression, and tops a gripping account of a world sad to live in with a contrast of that which The New Deal is doing for America.

Those who see "The World in Revolt" may not necessarily agree either with its premise or the unanswered question as to the future which it poises, but undoubtedly they will be stirred and gripped by what they see, competently edited by Harry D. Goldberg, and the narrative, written for Graham McNamee by Emil Lengyel. This is not a pretty picture, but the facts are anything but dulcet themselves.

Recommended definitely as authentic entertainment.

With the Laemmle Men

Universal salesmen from eight eastern offices swooped down on the company's convention yesterday and swelled the numbers by about half. JAMES R. GRAINGER, who is running the show, called upon the arrivals to stand on their feet and introduce themselves. In swift array came Buffalo, Albany, Boston, New York, New Haven, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Washington.

Boston sent along O'FLAHERTY, O'BRIEN, KELLY and MCGUINNESS. "What is this?" asked Grainger. "Only Irishmen up in Bean Town!"

GLADYS DILLON, head of the contract department, is the only woman at the convention. Trained by CLAIR HAGUE, Canadian general manager, MISS DILLON is an important individual in the exchange system.

Many of the answers to queries on the code, which was delved into by WILLARD S. MCKAY, Universal's general counsel, were fired by her.

Incidentally, MCKAY's code talk was accorded a fine reception. He spoke about contracts and those elements in the code which touched activities of the sales department.

FRANK MCCARTHY, eastern sales manager, was given a real ovation. Jocularly, several of the boys accused him of stacking the meeting.

OSCAR BINDER continued to be miserable yesterday. Again, it all had to do with those Coronas going up in smoke. Therefore, to make him feel better, GRAINGER sent out for six additional boxes.

JOE WEIL, assistant to CARL LAEMMLE, flew in from Chicago and precipitated much discussion. Reason for the discussion: Checkered trousers, white shoes and double-breasted blue serge jacket.

ANDY SHARICK, who succeeded WEIL in charge of accessories, is usually the "patsy" of the outfit. When something goes wrong, ANDY gets it. He knew his speech was O. K. yesterday. Nobody threw anything at him.

LOUIS LAEMMLE, brother of CARL, took a bow yesterday.

The Universal president arrives on the Century this morning and winds up the convention with a speech this afternoon.

provided the current program is increased in 1934-35.

The independent men are understood to have the backing of Allied, the I. T. O. A. and other eastern unaffiliated exhibitor units. On the buying committee are L. F. Blumenthal, chairman; J. B. Fishman, John Benas, David Barrist, Sidney Samuelson and Harry Brandt. They will meet today to further discuss product.

Saenger Down To 45 Houses In New Plan

Pensacola, Fla., and two at Texarkana, Tex. In all, there are 107 theatres in four states in which Saenger relinquishes its interest under the plan.

Under the Saenger reorganization plan, Paramount takes over Publix Saenger Theatres, Inc., which owns 50 per cent of North Carolina Theatres, Inc., and two-thirds of Publix-Saenger-Sparks Theatres, Inc., and all of Publix Saenger Theatres of Florida, Inc. The last named company is now inactive. North Carolina Theatres operate 40 theatres in North Carolina and three in Virginia. Publix-Saenger-Sparks operates 11 theatres in Florida.

Paramount also acquires Saenger's interest in Central Florida Theatres, Inc., which operates 17 theatres in Florida, and the Saenger interest in Jefferson Amusement Co., Texas, which operates 36 theatres in that state. In addition, Paramount acquires Saenger's 25 per cent interest in Dent Theatres, operating in Texas and New Mexico.

Remaining in the Saenger fold under the reorganization plan are 26 theatres in Mississippi; eight in Louisiana; four in Alabama; three in Arkansas; two at Pensacola, and two at Texarkana.

E. V. Richards, receiver for Saenger, who becomes president and general manager of the reorganized company under a 50 per cent stock partnership deal with Paramount, is allotted up to $600 per week for salaries for himself and an assistant under the agreement with Paramount.

Ask Shift of Para. Setup for Tax Law

Federal tax laws on the filing of consolidated returns, is proposed in a petition filed with John E. Joyce, referee in bankruptcy, by Paramount Publix trustees yesterday.

Under the plan, Famous Theatres Corp., the new Paramount theatre holding company, releases $1,075,437 of its $1,690,636 claim against Southern Enterprises and receives Southern Enterprises' claim against Publix Theatres Corp. for an amount equal to the release. Famous also releases the $615,198 balance of its claim against Southern Enterprises and sells to it a number of other claims aggregating more than $1,000,000 which it holds against affiliates of Southern Enterprises in return for which Famous receives Southern's note for $984,793 and the cancellation of a number of claims which Southern holds against affiliates of Famous.

The result makes possible a separation of the income reports of Famous and Southern made necessary by the new Federal tax law on the filing of consolidated returns. The petition for approval of the plan will be heard by the referee June 21.

Bondholders Buy in 3 St. Louis Houses dor and fee and the Grand Central and leasehold at $1,400,000 and the Missouri and fee at $600,000.

Sam B. Jeffries, representing the Warner interests, bid $1,000,000 on the Ambassador and Grand Central.

The sale paves the way for a contemplated reorganization of the properties. It is subject to the approval of the Federal court.

Dysart's committees represent about 80 per cent of all bondholders. It is estimated the sale will net non-depositing bondholders of the Ambassador and Grand Central about 35 cents on the dollar, with Missouri bondholders realizing about 30 cents on the dollar.

Jeffries, who is local counsel for Warners, is expected to ask Federal Judge Davis to disapprove the sale.

Harry C. Arthur and Harry Koplar have made a deal with the bondholders of the three St. Louis theatres to operate the group starting August 1, it was learned here yesterday.

Court Hears Buffalo Code Case on June 22

BUFFALO, June 7.—Two more weeks' adjournment will be granted by Justice Samuel J. Harris in Supreme Court tomorrow on the request of Edwin Wick, Majestic Theatre operator, in his suit against the Buffalo grievance board and five exchanges.

Justice Harris will approve a stipulation entered into between Leo J. Rosen, Wick's attorney, and Herbert T. Silverberg, attorney for the grievance board, which permits Wick to receive film service as usual during the adjournment. The defense questions the court's jurisdiction in the case.

Ordered by the grievance board to cease and desist from giving away groceries, Wick obtained an injunction to prevent the carrying out by five exchanges of instructions to cease delivering films to him until he should comply with the order. The injunction, which was returnable tomorrow at the end of a week's adjournment, now is returnable June 22.

Various constitutional questions, such as restraint of trade and deprival of property without due process of law, were raised in Wick's suit.

Omaha Board Fight Not Aimed at Code

Dissatisfaction over appointments of Omaha code board members by exhibitor units in that territory is no reflection on the code itself, it was stated authoritatively yesterday. In explaining the situation, those interested pointed out that repeated efforts have been made to change the appointments without success. As a result exhibitors in the Omaha territory have requested withdrawal of assents until the suggested changes are made.

Lester F. Martin, Allied executive of Iowa and Nebraska, now in New York, refuses to discuss the situation. He refers all inquiries to Calvin Bard, who has been appointed to act as spokesman. Charles L. O'Reilly, who was recently named by Campi to investigate the situation, will make a trip to Omaha shortly and report his findings to Code Authority for action.

Industry Heads to Confer About NRA

Recovery Act and to develop suggestions for changes in the methods of National Recovery Administration.

With the adjournment of Congress, the Administration will be free to consider reorganization of the recovery effort, subjected recently to criticism in reports of the National Recovery Review Board headed by Clarence Darrow.

Publication of the review board's reports was the apparent signal for a general loosening of criticism of General Johnson and the recovery administration which demonstrated, it is claimed, the necessity for broad changes in the organization.

By herculean efforts, Democratic leaders in Congress were successful in quelling a demand for an investigation of the recovery administration, but during the summer officials are expected to be busy in an effort to revamp the NRA so that the iron fist of government control will be clothed in a heavily padded velvet glove.

Des Moines Delays Moves on Zone Plan

DES MOINES, June 7.—Due to the fact that there has been no set zoning in Iowa, the Des Moines clearance and zoning board has postponed definite action until further instructions are received from Campi as to the scope of its activities.

The board is undecided whether it is expected to zone all the Des Moines territory or deal with the subsequent run situations, according to Dallas Day, secretary. Another meeting will be held to discuss the situation in about a week.

Four cases are to be presented at the grievance board meeting June 13. Louis Patz will preside.

Meyer's Grievance Post to Be Filled

Fred Meyer will be replaced on the Milwaukee grievance board today by Campi. Meyer has been ill since the M.P.T.O.A. convention and the Milwaukee board has asked for another appointee. Charles Stern of U. A. will be replaced on the Manhattan advisory committee on clearance and zoning in addition to other out of town appointments.

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—Fred S. Meyer, successful in a battle for his life and now recuperating here, is gaining ground steadily.

See Code Victory in Coast Board's Rule

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—Refusal of the California Industrial Welfare Commission to hear a complaint charging Warners, Busby Berkeley and Tenny Wright with working chorines 23 hours is regarded here as a victory for the NRA and its committees.

The commission referred the complaint to the extras' standing committee which includes Mrs. Mabel E. Kinney, Fred Schuesler and Harry Steers.

Seven Appeals Set For Campi Hearing

10 minutes for each litigant and five minutes for questions which may be asked by the board.

Appeals to be heard are: Imperial, Charlotte, against J. F. Miller, U. A., Warners, Universal and RKO. The vote of the Charlotte clearance and zoning board was in favor of the protestant, who is appealing.

Rogowsky Brothers against Skouras. The New York grievance board awarded the Embassy, Port Chester, 22 films of the Capitol, Port Chester, allotment, which is appealed by the respondent.

E. T. Landis of the Princess, Monticello, Ia., against R. C. Lambert, Mrs. Sophie Lambert and Floyd Carter, Monticello and Amana, Ia. The decision of the Des Moines grievance board was that it did not see possibilities to warrant an additional theatre in Monticello.

Dick Gaston, Iowa Theatre, Fort Madison, Ia., against F. W. C., Fort Madison, on overbuying, which was dismissed by the Des Moines board. Appeal filed by complainant.

Louis Linker, Criterion Theatre, Bridgeton, N. J., against Atlantic Theatres, Inc., Stanley Theatre, same city, on overbuying. The complaint was awarded 17 pictures by the Philadelphia grievance board. Appeal filed by defendant.

Langheinrich Brothers, Burleigh Street Theatre, Milwaukee, against Sax Amusement Management, Inc., Garfield Theatre, Milwaukee. The grievance board in Milwaukee ordered reduced admissions and lotteries stopped and appeal was filed by respondent.

Decisions will be handed down in the following two appeals, already heard.

LaCrosse Theatres Co. and Kayess Theatres Co., LaCrosse, Wis., against L. J. Burkitt, Classic Theatre, Sparta, Wis. The reduced admissions appeal was referred last week to Neil Agnew, who will recommend a decision today.

Consolidated Amusements, Luxor Theatre, against Loew's Grand, on clearance. The New York clearance and zoning board dismissed the protest, but last week Campi referred the matter to Jack Cohn for investigation and recommendation.

Of the 35 appeals on Campi's calendar, seven already have been determined. Seven come up today.

Darrow Announces End of Board July 1

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Formal announcement that the National Recovery Review Board will conclude its work and dissolve by July 1 was made today by Chairman Clarence Darrow.

Before closing its doors the board will make a final report to the President covering all codes investigated. A report covering some 10 of the codes is now nearing completion. The board is said to have before it some 1400 complaints on which it has never acted.

Wieck Joins G. B.

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—Dorothea Wieck has concluded her contract with Paramount and leaves for England to accept a starring contract with British Gaumont.

Dempsey, New York, incumbent, and James Lemke, Troy, for general secretary-treasurer.

Election will be held Friday, the final day of the convention. Kansas City and Indianapolis are making a bid for the next meeting.

Matthew Woll, third vice president of the A. F. L., told the delegates in an address today that in his opinion the balance of the NRA is in favor of the employer. The workers, he said, should be united as never before to be entrenched for what may happen. He expressed himself in favor of unemployment insurance. He pleaded for harmony within the Alliance.

The NRA was credited with having accomplished tremendous good for members of the Alliance in the report of the assistant president, Louis Kraus. More than 200 unions reported to the officials that the code had been definitely beneficial, while only 39 were either non-committal or of the opinion that it had failed to help.

Phila. Yarn Meets Attack and Defense

A wire signed by Morris Wax, president of the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Ass'n., Philadelphia, yesterday described an account of an open meeting of M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, which appeared in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of June 6, as a "gross misrepresentation of facts." "You have been imposed upon and deliberately misled," the wire stated.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY's account said that the meeting had been nearly "stampeded" by adherents of the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Ass'n. Substantiating this account, MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday contacted several Philadelphia exhibitors who attended the meeting and who described it as "the wildest and most riotous in the history of old timers in the territory." It was also stated by those in attendance that the open meeting was "packed" with a majority of I. E. P. A. adherents.

The Moaners

Great Neck, Long Island, June 7.

All records for early arrival of contestants at a Film Daily Golf Tournament were broken at the 22nd affair, held today, when Early Birds HOWARD DIETZ, JACK SHAPIRO and J. H. SEIDELMAN awakened the chef of the Glen Oaks Country Club at six in the morning demanding breakfast.

The Hays organization, led by DAVE PALFREYMAN, rode up to the clubhouse in a brand new streamline La Salle.

ED FINNEY of Monogram, donated automatic lighters to each entrant. DON MERSEREAU presented a folder of matches with each lighter.

Again HARRY THOMAS donated frothy golden beer. The fluid broke up 17 foursomes in which contestants insisted upon "bending the elbow."

WILLIAM R. FERGUSON played lacrosse. He said it was golf, but, as such, it was unrecognizable. He did look pretty, however, in a brand new outfit of various tints.

"I started off like a house on fire," remarked JOE HORNSTEIN, RUSS BELL, JULIUS COHEN and CLINT WEXER. All of them forgot to add, however, that they ended up on the 18th hole like smoldering ruins.

DAVE LOEW was a symphony in brown; PAT GARYN was done in white and HARVEY DAY sported baby blue. GARYN represented the Sons of Irish Freedom—also United Newsreel.

A-MIKE VOGEL rushed breathlessly to the committee room with the news that he played nine full holes without losing a single ball. The ball did go out of bounds on one occasion, but MIKE retrieved it at the cost of a dime awarded the caddy.

GEORGE BLAIR, DICK BRADY and TED CURTIS again represented Eastman.

Prosperity must have turned that corner. Half of New York's exhibitors were on hand, many of them, kidningly or otherwise, having indicated that they could not raise the entry fee last year. Some of the theatre men present were: BILLY and HARRY BRANDT, HARRY CHARNAS, S. D. COCALIS, SI FABIAN, LOUIS FRISCH, EDWARD HYMAN, MORRIS KUTINSKY, CHARLES MOSES, SAMUEL RINZLER, JACK SPRINGER, et al.

"Terrible! I've never played golf so rotten before," shouted HERB YATES as he walked away from the last hole.

"Oh," answered his caddy, "you have played before, then?"

EDDIE GOLDEN did a neat 79—for the first four holes, thereby proving he's better at selling film than pounding golf balls.

Some of the best drives were recorded in the putting contest.

TED SULLIVAN, scorekeeper for the fivesome which included HERB FECKE, RAY GALLAGHER, ED FINNEY and RUSSELL BELL, had to count out 15 minutes to tally GALLAGHER's score.

LOUIS NIZER told the incident, a year old, when HARRY RICHMAN took five strokes on a drive, missed every time, used his cane and scored a hole in one.

FRED MCCONNELL played in the wilds off the fairway persistently. His alibi it was all a publicity stunt for the FRANK BUCK film.

Said almost everyone: "I don't like to look at the cups and trophies. It's bad luck."

Replied almost everyone else: "What have you got to worry about?"

Golfers Transfer Plowing Maneuvers to Great Neck

GREAT NECK, L. I., June 7.—Almost a year ago to the day the wrecking crews turned their agricultural libido outward and did fancy farming maneuvers on the svelte reaches of the Rye Country Club in Westchester.

Because repeat runs in the same or closely contiguous territory can't follow without the intervening healing touch of Father Time, the same wreckers, this year calling themselves golfers, turned themselves loose on the Glen Oaks course here today with variable results to fairways, putting greens, golf clubs and tempers.

Once again, the occasion was The Film Daily Golf Tournament, 22nd in a series started years ago when Joe ("Danny") Dannenberg was editor of the paper.

Technique Not So Good

Again the boys, the spirit willing if the technique, in many instances, needed improving, turned out to see what they could do about the royal and ancient game. Attendance ran between 150 and 175, including a last-minute group which, as usual, journeyed out for the dinner and pictures which climaxed the day's fun in the evening.

The morning round was capped by a putting contest in which Jack McEvoy, son of the Ed who is one of Radio's sales managers, emerged victor. The afternoon round got going about three, slightly later than usual, and this set back the rest of the festivities somewhat beyond its usual ken.

Today's was the largest turnout for a film golf contest since the first Film Daily tournament was held 12 years ago. Generally the golf was pretty bad, but the spirit of the day was good.

Don Mersereau was the official handicapper. Each foursome winner and the runner-up received a prize.

In the evening production, distribution and exhibition executives sat down at dinner with members of the trade press.

At the dais were: Louis Nizer, who was toastmaster; John W. Alicoate, sponsor of the tournament, who served as master of ceremonies; Charles Pettijohn, Harry and Albert Warner, H. J. Yates, Harry Thomas and members of the M. P. Club and A. M. P. A. teams.

Sees Education Film Restrictions Removed

Returning from a two-months' trip abroad, where he attended the Rome conference on educational films, Carl E. Milliken yesterday stated a move has been started to remove trade restrictions on educational pictures. He said this type of product is not being regarded as commodity, but as an exchange of ideas, adding that 26 countries, including the United States, have signed a compact to remove these restrictions. This applies, he said, to 16mm. film used in schools and other educational institutions.

Milliken was one of six American representatives at the conference.

Selznick Has Deal With Lloyd George

M-G-M has received a radiogram from David O. Selznick, now on the high seas, stating that David Lloyd George has consented to have his war memoirs filmed, if a treatment suitable to him can be worked out. Any adaptation will be submitted to him. If it is approved, the film may be made either in California or England, or both, the message states.

13 Shorts in Color

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—Leon Schlesinger has signed a contract with Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus for 13 Vitaphone shorts to be made in Technicolor.

The Winners

Great Neck, L. I., June 7.

A prize for almost every entry in The Film Daily Golf Tournament tonight kept golfers, goofers and pill swingers happy.

There were major prizes, such as cups, et al, but also awards covering a wide range from ash trays to sweaters for the winners of flights, in keeping with the formula under which this popular trade event has been proceeding for so long.

Honesty being a virtue and the picture business being virtuous always, prizes were handed out on the basis of score cards submitted by the swatters. Nobody had the nerve to check up on the next fellow, because there was no way of telling how far accuracy for accuracy's—and prizes'—sake might be carried.

Notable, too, was the fact that this was the first of the tournaments to be held in the enlightened, non-prohibition era. It wasn't important, and certainly it didn't make any difference, but, since facts are facts, there it was.

Principal winners and what they won, if not why, follow:

The Motion Picture Club team, managed by Louis Nizer, again triumphed over the A.M.P.A. team, managed by William R. ("Billy") Ferguson in a match play and grabbed for itself another leg on the Albee cup while each member walked off with a gold medal. The winning foursome was composed of Ted Curtis, president; Harry M. Warner, Herbert J. Yates and Mitchell May, Jr. The defeated team was composed of Tom Gerety, captain; Herbert Fecke of Quigley Publications, Gerald Keyser and Arthur Dickenson.

Putting contest (Consolidated Film Laboratories trophy)—Jack McEvoy. George Blair, in second place, was awarded an RCA Victor radio. George Brown, in third, was awarded a Kodak camera.

Low net (leg on Film Daily trophy and RKO Radio cup)—Ed McEvoy.

Low net runner-up (Pathe Exchange trophy)—William Frankel.

Low net, M. P. Club member (Al Lichtman plaque)—Gradwell Sears.

Low gross (Quigley Publications trophy)—Ted Curtis.

Low gross runner-up (Gaumont British trophy)—Tom Gerety.

Low net, morning round (Dupont Film trophy)—Leopold Friedman.

Low gross, morning round (Ches-terfield radio clock)—Mitchell May, Jr.

Low gross, exhibitor score (Erpi trophy)—Ed Hyman.

Low net, exhibitor score (U. A. trophy)—Carl Wolff.

Winner of putting contest (Consolidated Film trophy)—Jack McEvoy.

First putting contest runner-up (RCA Radio trophy)—George Blair.

Second putting contest runner-up (Eastman Kodak trophy)—George Brown.

For most birdies (set of Grossett & Dunlap books)—Al Levy.

For an eagle (Budd pajamas)—I. J. Hoffman.

Special prize for something or other—Howard Dietz.

Best dressed golfer (Nat Lewis robe)—Gabriel Hess.

Most strokes on one hole (Variety mug)—A-Mike Vogel, who made 14 strokes on a single hole.

Laemmle for Clean Film, His Avowal

Says "U" Will Aim at Family Pictures

"I am for clean pictures. I have always been for clean pictures," Carl Laemmle told the Universal sales convention yesterday in a speech which brought the parleys to a close.

Declaring he was aware of the "present widespread agitation against unclean movies," he continued:

"I believe the situation is being painted blacker than it really is. I think the average motion picture is clean and wholesome. There are some exceptions, I am sorry to say, but the exceptions are few, indeed, when you

Wants Johnson to Pass Assent Date

Campi has referred to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson a suggestion that the code assent date be reopened with reservations to exhibitors who have not yet signed compliances. The limitations will be announced next week when it is expected the Administrator will approve Code Authority's recommendation.

Executive Secretary John C. Flinn yesterday reported assessments received up to date from 5,996 exhibitors total $63,027.

The next session of Campi will be held June 15 with Ed Kuykendall as chairman.

Stagger Board Meets To Avoid Sale Delay

Clearance and zoning and grievance boards are to meet not more than once in 10 days from now on, according to a resolution adopted by Campi yesterday. All boards currently meet once a week.

The reason for the extra three-day lapse before succeeding meetings is to enable sales representatives on the boards to devote more time to product deals during the selling season.

Kuhn, Loeb Pick Securities; Can Continue Para. Support

Continued availability of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., financiers for Paramount, following the reorganization of the company, appears to be indicated in the reported decision of the banking firm to remain in the investment and securities field while conforming to the new Federal banking laws beginning June 16.

Kuhn, Loeb, it is reported, will abandon its deposit banking activities and continue as an investment and securities house. Had the bank selected the deposit banking field, as did J. P. Morgan & Co., it would have been barred from private investment activities.

Opposes Receivership Fees Out of RKO Cash Collateral

Ambidextrous

William J. Kupper, western sales manager of Fox, received his appointment as a Kentucky colonel yesterday. In the navy during the war, Kupper is also known as the "Admiral," thereby giving Fox complete land and sea defense in case of war.

Opposition to payment of RKO receivership fees out of the cash collateral for the company's six per cent secured notes was voiced yesterday by Morton G. Bogue of counsel for Chemical Bank & Trust Co., one of the trustees for the noteholders, at a hearing before U. S. District Court Judge William Bondy.

The third report of the Irving Trust Co., receiver for RKO, and the petition of the receiver and its counsel, Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lombard, for aggregate interim allowances of $225,000, both of which were filed with the U. S. District Court here on May 22, were presented to Judge Bondy. Declaring he was familiar with the complex work of the receiver in the RKO case and believed the job to be well done, Judge

How much is one-tenth of one picture?

Expect Others Will Turn to Bankrupt Law

Want Benefits Opened By Simplified Act

Virtually every company in bankruptcy or receivership in the industry, including many subsidiaries of Paramount, RKO and Fox, are expected to avail themselves of the simplified reorganization procedure offered by the new Federal bankruptcy laws.

Saenger Theatres, Inc., Saenger Realty Corp. and Fox Metropolitan Playhouses may file petitions for reorganization under the new corporate bankruptcy laws if complications in their existing plans for reorganization develop from minority creditors' groups, it was learned yesterday from spokesmen for creditors of the three companies.

Reorganization plans of all three contemplate the exchange of securities in the reorganized companies for old trustee for the Roxy under the new bankruptcy law.

Albert Rose, attorney for the receiver, yesterday stated that from Nov. 10, 1933, to May 3, 1934, the operating loss was $27,079.06. He also stated that since the NRA the weekly payroll has been increased $830. Rose also brought to the attention of the court that during the last period the house netted $12,000 from coupon admissions, which are not permitted under the code.

Carlos Israels, representing 65 per cent of the first mortgage bondholders, stated yesterday that there is no deal under way which would provide for the closing of the house at any time. Israels said three deals for the house "are hot," but none is near the consummation point.

Monogram Men Here
To Launch Regional

Monogram salesmen from all over the eastern territory converged upon the city yesterday for the company's third and final regional meeting at the Park Central today.

The convention will close with a banquet this evening.

Among those who will speak are President W. Ray Johnston; Edward Golden, general sales manager; Ralph Poucher, H. J. Yates, Jr., Edward Finney, Pete Harrison, Director Phil Rosen and Herman Rifkin.

Merian C. Cooper Here

Merian C. Cooper, former Radio production head, accompanied by Mrs. Cooper, the former Dorothy Jordan, arrived in town yesterday on his way to Europe, where he will visit the ruins of Pompeii to do research work for "The Last Days of Pompeii." Cooper plans to sail shortly and will be gone an indefinite period.

M-G-M Dates to Be Set

Dates on the M-G-M convention will be definitely set by Felix F. Feist, general sales manager, sometime next week, he stated yesterday. Two tentative dates are Cleveland, June 18-19 and Chicago June 21-22.

Campi Pleased on Moves for Extras

Code Authority yesterday unanimously passed a resolution for the approval of the Administrator endorsing all unanimous regulations governing extras which have been passed by the extras' standing committee in Hollywood. There were 11 resolutions referred to Hugh S. Johnson. At the same time, Campi highly praised the work of the committee. The resolutions will be made public on approval by the Administrator.

Name Him, Pay Him, Is Flinn's Ruling

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—If the code agency committee here wants to select its secretary, it must pay his salary, according to word received here from Executive Secretary John C. Flinn. The letter was in response to a formal request.

If the secretary's salary is to be paid by Campi, the appointment must be made by Flinn, he says.

The committee reports its findings directly to Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and its members feel Rosenblatt should be asked to make an appointment for the post.

Having no money to defray the expense, the committee has sent Flinn another request, this time asking if Campi can suggest someone who can devote his entire time to the agency group without salary or expense.

Campi has eight employees working under Major J. R. O'Donovan and one of them may be assigned to the agency committee exclusively.

May Revive Tussle Over Review Board

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Revival of the Clarence Darrow-Hugh S. Johnson fight over the code tonight was intimated by avowal of the Review Board's intention of making a report to the President before it leaves Washington this month in which it will make general recommendations for reorganization of the Recovery Administration's handling of industry.

A second report, covering 13 codes, was filed with the President by Darrow today. Like the initial report, which "analyzed" the film pact, it is understood the board found much to criticize and nothing to praise in the administration's handling of the industries investigated.

Scores Other Codes For Premium Stand

Contending that it is enforcing provisions of the code prohibiting rebates in the form of lotteries, prizes, reduced admissions, scrip books, coupons, throw-away tickets or two-for-one admissions, Campi yesterday passed a resolution protesting against violations by members of other industries of their respective codes prohibiting rebates in any form which are to the detriment of exhibitors.

Powers Transferred Here

William T. Powers, attorney for Fox West Coast, has been transferred to New York where he is now making his headquarters. He is working on reorganization plans for the circuit and also is handling code appeals involving his circuit.

Friction and Fractions

purchased has nothing to do with the next picture being released by the same company. If U. A. releases 24 pictures next season, the exhibitor will have to sign 24 different contracts, the company points out.

United Artists' sales executives state they ask exhibitors to make eliminations before they buy any or all of the groups. An exhibitor can buy as many or as little as he wants, officials say, but he must buy each one on its own merits and individually.

U. A. men hold that other companies offer all, half and certain portions of product on agreements that do not provide for individual contracts. However, specials may be offered on special contracts. U. A. feels no producer on its roster should suffer because of any other.

Again, the contention is made that before U. A. signed the code, an agreement with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt was reached that the company's product would not be subjected to the 10 per cent cancellation clause. It is said details on the producer and sales setup were explained to Rosenblatt at the time.

A test case came before Campi yesterday when a Chicago exhibitor, who bought 20 of 21 U. A. pictures, asked for his cancellation rights. A decision may be handed down next Friday. Rosenblatt and Edward Rafferty, U. A. attorney, freely discussed before Campi the cancellation situation as it affects U. A. and exhibitors.

Consolidated Loses, Loew Wins Appeal

Decision of the New York clearance and zoning board in denying Consolidated a reduction of the protection now maintained by Loew's Grand over the Luxor was affirmed yesterday by Campi. Referred to further investigation was the appeal of LaCrosse Theatres and Kayess Theatres Co., LaCrosse, Wis., against L. J. Burkitt of the Classic, Sparta, Wis.

Hearings of the following appeals were held and decisions will be rendered next week:

Rogowsky Brothers, Embassy, Port Chester, against Skouras' Capitol, Port Chester, on overbuying; E. T. Landis, Princess, Monticello, Ia., against R. C. Lambert, Mrs. Sophie Lambert and Floyd Carter of Monticello and Anamosa, Ia.; Dick Gaston, Iowa theatre, Fort Madison, Ia., against Fox West Coast Theatres, Fort Madison; Louis Linker, Criterion, Bridgeton, N. J., against Ben Amsterdam, Stanley, Bridgeton; Anderson Theatre circuit, Egyptian theatre, De Kalb, Ill., against United Artists on 10 per cent cancellations.

Agency Code Up for Vote in Two Weeks

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—After several weeks' work on the part of sub-committees representing each branch of the industry, the agency code committee, at a meeting in Emanuel Cohen's office, has reviewed the first skeleton draft of a code of fair practices for producers, agents and artists.

Various changes were discussed and were turned back to representatives of each branch for definite action within two weeks. A vote on acceptance will be taken at that time.

Join N. Y. Labor Board

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Additional members appointed to the New York Regional Labor Board today by Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, included William B. Mahony of the Associated Actors and Artists of America, as a labor representative, and General James Harbord of the Radio Corporation of America, as an industry representative.

Rosenblatt Off Today

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has postponed his departure from the city to tonight.

Denver's Giveaways End; Ruled Lottery

DENVER, June 8.—The cooperative cash night, by which 13 theatres have been giving away $600 a week, is out. Discovering the plan was in violation of state laws on lotteries, exhibitors decided the best thing to do was to drop the scheme. It has been running for several months, and is the outgrowth of efforts of the 13 houses to find something with which to fight the free auto Harry Huffman was giving away at his eight houses.

Code Amendment on "Employee" Up Soon

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Reopening of the section in the code dealing with the term "employee" will take place Tuesday with Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt presiding. Article I, Section 6 will be amended because of the tendency on the part of some theatre owners to avoid the standard of wages through employment of maintenance agencies to do general cleaning work.

New Zoning in N. O. May Cut Time Limit

NEW ORLEANS, June 8.—Down town first run protection may be cut in the new clearance and zoning schedule being worked out by the clearance and zoning board. It is hoped to have it ready by July 1.

Protection in some spots now runs from 120 days to seven months.

Pending working out of the new schedule the board has decided not to receive complaints on clearance.

NRA Man on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—Donald Renshaw, special assistant to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson has arrived here for a general survey of all codes, including that for this industry. He leaves Saturday on his way back to Washington.

Martin Flies Home

Lester F. Martin flew to his home in Nevada, Ia., last night following the Campi meeting at which he was heard on two appeals. He returns next week on another appeal.

Expect More to Turn To Bankrupt Law

securities. Should minority groups reject this procedure and demand cash settlements, it was learned, all three would probably apply for qualification under the new Federal bankruptcy laws which permit a reorganization which is approved by the court and two-thirds of creditors. The plans of reorganization advanced by all three appear to have a safe two-thirds of creditors cooperating and, with approval of the courts, they could undoubtedly be placed in effect.

Paramount Publix and Roxy Theatre Corp. filed petitions for reorganization under the new bankruptcy laws immediately after RKO. Answers must be filed to the petitions within 10 days. If the court approves the applications, it appoints trustees and sets a date for the submission of a plan of reorganization. If the petitions are denied, the court directs a liquidation of the applicant company.

Although the new bankruptcy laws require the court to name trustees on approving the new petitions, it is regarded as highly unlikely that in cases as far advanced toward reorganization as Paramount, RKO and the Roxy, new trustees who would be strange to the activities involved would be named by the court to replace present ones. Thus, all indications point to the renaming of Irving Trust as trustee under the new statutes for RKO; Howard Cullman as trustee for the Roxy, and Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson as trustees for Paramount Publix, if the petitions of those companies are approved by the court.

Paramount's petition makes possible a new attack on the renaming of that company's trustees under the new act, such as was carried on by small creditors' groups throughout the bankruptcy. Recent affirmation of the appointment of the trustees which was implied early this week in the refusal of the Supreme Court at Washington to hear an appeal of an action to obtain the removal of the trustees, indicates, it is believed, that such opposition probably would not succeed.

5 Replacements Set On Different Boards

berg of the Grand, Milwaukee, replaces Fred Meyer on the Milwaukee grievance board; James G. Balmer replaces Frank J. Harris on the Pittsburgh grievance board and Guss Eaer is the new independent subsequent run exhibitor on the Minneapolis clearance and zoning body. Oscar Ruby replaces George Ross on the Milwaukee grievance board. Ruby was recently named Columbia manager, succeeding Ross there.

Ruling Effective June 10

Decision of the New York grievance board whereby the Orient, Jersey City, gets 50 per cent of Vitagraph, RKO and Universal product originally bought by Skouras' Apollo, same city, for the rest of the season, becomes effective with releases starting June 10.

The Apollo and Orient will alternate on releases, the first and third availability going to the Orient.

Laemmle for Clean Film, His Avowal

consider the great number of good pictures being turned out.

"Speaking for my own company, I am proud of Universal's record. For years our policy has been based on clean entertainment. As far back as 1925, Universal was being lauded for its so-called 'white list' of wholesome pictures. We needed no reform movement to set our policy. We need none now.

"I welcome constructive, helpful, honest criticism. I am against fanatical reform. We can be clean without being prudish. We should not read double meanings into every line of dialogue.

"I have made clean pictures in the past. I will continue to make them in the future—reform or no reform. I have always pledged my company to wholesome screen entertainment for the whole family."

The Universal president, stating the sales force "didn't deserve the dickens as much as in former years," continued:

"We have been through a hard year. We still have a lot of unplayed business on our books. I guess all companies have. I want you to do the very best you can to see that this business is played as soon as possible. We don't want the exhibitors to have this hanging over their head, and we certainly don't want it hanging over our head.

Says Progress Made

"But we have made progress the last year. I want you to know how much I appreciate the work you have done in the face of things which I don't like to talk about and you don't want to hear about."

Indicating definitely Universal was preparing to step into the "big money" classification, he said at another point:

"You can't have your cake and eat it, too. We have been in business a long time and we expect to be in business a lot longer. We have a reputation for delivering the goods, but we also have a reputation for delivering them too cheaply. That may be good for the buyer, but it is no good for the seller. It takes money to make the kind of pictures that the exhibitor wants and unless you get the money that they cost, we just can't go on, that's all. It isn't hard for anybody to understand that.

"Personally, I feel confident that we have the worst of the unfortunate conditions back of us. I have become an optimist about the future. I begin to see daylight ahead."

He also paid James R. Grainger a compliment. "I must give him a great deal of credit for helping us put together the big program of pictures which we will sell this year," Laemmle said. "He came out to the coast and sat in with us for almost six weeks in preparing this program. He took off his coat and told us what he wanted and what he didn't want. We gave him all the leeway he wanted. I want to acknowledge before you all publicly here the part that Mr. Grainger has played in making this program."

Addresses at the final session were Bondy asked to hear opposition to the application for allowances.

Bogue stated that, while the Chemical Bank did not object to the amount of the allowances asked, it did oppose their payment out of the cash collateral securing the six per cent notes. He pointed out that $60,000 principal and interest on the notes falls due July 1, and $300,000 principal amount falls due monthly thereafter until Jan. 1, 1935. Judge Bondy indicated that in the event the application for allowances was approved, stipulation would be made that the fees should not be paid out of the cash collateral on the notes.

Bogue also raised the point that RKO's petition for reorganization under the new bankruptcy laws which was filed the preceding day might complicate payment of the notes at their maturities and declared that, if such proved to be the case, the receiver and its counsel should wait for their fees on the same basis as the noteholders for their payments.

Attorneys for holders of a $700,000 bond issue on St. Louis theatres, for which RKO is guarantor, urged the court to require additional information on time and work spent on the RKO receivership by William J. Donovan, the receiver's counsel, and his associates. The information was volunteered by counsel.

Judge Bondy took the application for fees under consideration and will render a decision later.

exhibitors on a blanket deal for next season's output.

The exhibitor group is understood to have asked Columbia not to sell to any circuit not represented in the independent group and also to increase the 1934-35 schedule to 40. Columbia, it is said, will not listen to dictation as to where it will sell or how many films it will make.

Dorothy Dell Killed

HOLLYWOOD, June 8.—Dorothy Dell Goff, known as Dorothy Dell, and under contract to Paramount, was instantly killed this morning when a car driven by Dr. Carl Wagner left the road near Pasadena and was wrecked. Dr. Wagner died six hours later from a fractured skull.

Miss Dell was born 19 years ago in Hattiesburg, Miss., and received her early schooling in New Orleans. She first attracted national attention when she won the title of Miss Universe in 1930 at Galveston. She had just finished a part in "Shoot the Works." She is survived by her father, Edward Goff, her mother and a younger sister.

and morals in America today," the letter reads, "is the motion picture theatre, attended every week by almost 77,000,000 persons, of whom some 23,000,000 are young people less than 21 years of age.

"A very great proportion of the screen productions deal largely with sex or crime. The usual theme of these moving pictures is divorce, free love, marital infidelity and the exploits of gangsters and racketeers. A vicious and insidious attack is being made on the very foundations of our Christian civilization, namely, the sacrament of marriage, the purity of womanhood, the sanctity of the home and obedience to lawful authority.

"This sinister influence is especially devastating among our children and will often undo years of careful training on the part of the school, the church and the home.

"Many remedies have been suggested for this evil. Appeals have been made to the film producers, and a certain amount of censorship has been in force for many years; but all have been in vain.

"The only argument likely to be heard now is that which affects the box office.

"Nothing is left for us except the boycott. The Catholic people of this diocese are, therefore, urged to register their united protest against immoral and indecent films by remaining away entirely from all motion picture theatres.

"Long ago the Catholic Church in this country attacked the evil of intoxicating drink by urging its members to join the Total Abstinence Society. Today it again begins a campaign against a similar evil, and requests all the faithful, especially the young people, to join the Legion of Decency which is pledged to boycott the motion picture theatres.

"Since a very large proportion of the present screen plays are dangerous to faith and morals, they are a proximate occasion of sin, and as such must be avoided at any cost.

"To stay away from them, therefore, is not merely a counsel but a positive command, binding all in conscience under pain of sin. Our Reverend Clergy are urged most earnestly to explain to their respective flocks the doctrine of the Church on this important subject."

In his closing paragraphs Cardinal Dougherty reminds the clergy of the Legion of Decency pledges which have been distributed.

Washington Protestants Join Catholic Movement

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Washington Protestants today joined with Catholics in the latter's drive against indecent films, through an understanding between the Washington Federation of Churches and a committee of women of the Catholic Church.

Wilbur Laroe, Jr., chairman of the Committee on Civic Affairs of the Federation, declared "we have made up our minds to put an end to disgraceful and indecent motion pictures in the nation's capital."

"We mean business on this thing, which means that we are determined that the box-offices shall feel the result unless they cooperate with us," he said. "I'm reliably informed that the box-offices are already feeling the effect of the crusade initiated by our Catholic friends and our part of it has not yet started."

NRA's Salary Report Viewed Sidetracked

A Further Extension of Time Expected

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The report on salary conditions in the industry, already set back several times, may remain in mothballs and never see the light of day.

Already in the immediate offing is a further extension of time in which to make the report, which constituted one of the reasons which originally took Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt west some months ago. The original extension expired in April.

Cancellation Situation at U.A. Muddled

The United Artists 10 per cent cancellation situation continues muddled. With the company insisting it had an agreement with Division Administrator Sol A. A test case was heard before Code Authority last week when the Chicago

Most major distributors are now including such a provision in all franchises or term contracts made for more than one season's product. three at Danville, Va., in which Saenger relinquishes its interest. E. J. Sparks and M. C. Talley, Paramount partners in Florida, will operate the 17 there in which Saenger has had an interest, while Karl Hoblitzelle will have the operation of the 36 Texas houses in which Saenger gives up its interest and will, in all probability, also acquire the 25 per cent Saenger interest in Dent Theatres, Texas.

In many instances, actual operation of the theatres concerned is not disturbed as Saenger's interest in them was a minority one and, while Saenger was a part owner, actual operations were conducted by the Paramount partners in whose locality the theatres are situated.

Theatres Involved

Saenger's North Carolina interests, now being relinquished, include two theatres at Burlington; two at Chapel Hill; one at Concord; a district office at Charlotte; four at Durham; three at Fayetteville; two at Goldsboro; three at Greensboro; two at Greenville; one at Hendersonville; four at High Point; three theatres and a sign shop at Raleigh; three at Rocky Mount; three at Salisbury; two at Wilson and two at Winston Salem, a part interest in another at Winston Salem and two at Lenoir.

Saenger owns a part interest in three houses at Danville, Va., also being relinquished. Its Florida interests include one theatre and a vacant parcel at Palatka; three theatres and business property at Gainesville; three at Ocala; two at Sanford; and two at Fort Lauderdale. In addition, Saenger has a part interest in Central Florida Theatres, Inc., which operates 17 other houses in the state. Saenger retains only its two Pensacola theatres in Florida.

In addition to relinquishing its 25 per cent interest in Dent Theatres, Texas, Saenger also gives up its part interest in Jefferson Amusement Co., which holds leases on 36 Texas houses. In Texas, Saenger retains only its interest in Houston and Texarkana theatres.

Operations of the reorganized Saenger will be confined to 47 houses; 26 in Mississippi; eight in Louisiana, of which four are in New Orleans, and in one of which, Loew's State, it holds only a 50 per cent interest; four in Alabama; three in Arkansas, and two each at Texarkana, Tex.; Houston and Pensacola.

dropping the name entirely, with circuit names having local identity replacing it, it was learned Saturday.

Neither the Famous Theatres name, the holding company for numerous Paramount theatre operations now, nor Paramount's own name is expected to attain any wide usage among the various operating partnerships, it was stated. The desire of both Paramount and its theatre partners appears to be to avoid, insofar as possible, the adoption of a national organization name in the face of the new order of localized operations.

The Roxy with "Now I'll Tell" garnered $14,400 on the second week. In its first week, the picture grossed $23,000.

Monogram Winds Up
Last of 3 Regionals

Monogram on Saturday wound up the third and last of its regional conventions with a banquet at the Park Central. Branch managers and salesmen from all eastern offices attended the one-day meeting presided over by W. Ray Johnston.

Other speakers included Edward Golden, general sales manager; H. J. Yates, Jr., Ralph Poucher, Edward Finney, Herman Rifkin, Pete Harrison, and Director Phil Rosen. Product highlights were the main topic.

Golden, in opening the morning session, said the type of pictures Monogram plans next season will get attention from first runs in key cities. He praised Johnston for his code work, declaring the Monogram head "has done more to let the little man stay in business than any other man because of his stand for fair play." Golden added the company will make all of the 28 productions promised this season.

Cancellation Situation at U.A. Muddled

grievance board referred the complaint of the Egyptian, De Kalb, Ill., against U. A. to Campi for a ruling. The distributor, in this case, refused to cancel one of 20 pictures bought by the exhibitor early this season. The exhibitor was originally offered 21 films and bought all but one, it was pointed out.

At the hearing, Edward Raftery, U.A. counsel, told the board the company's pictures are sold on individual contracts and that it is impossible to cancel one-tenth of one or three pictures. Raftery then brought up what he said was an agreement with Rosenblatt, at the time of signing the code, that U.A. films were not to be included in the cancellation category because of the firm's selling policy.

Rosenblatt took issue with this statement, declaring he did not recall such a conversation with Raftery which involved the company's entire output. Rosenblatt, however, put into the record a discussion with Raftery centering around the selling policy of one Cantor and three Goldwyn pictures. It was admitted no one could figure out how it was possible to cancel one-tenth of one or three films.

Refers to Letter

Rosenblatt then referred to an answer he made to a complaining exhibitor recently. The exhibitor said he could not buy a single U. A. film unless he bought all. The division administrator wrote the exhibitor and told him he was entitled to the cancellation. Rosenblatt also declared any company could start selling its product individually and get around the cancellation clause. He hinted that the word "license" may have to be made plural. A special hearing for reopening of the code on this subject may be held shortly.

Edward Golden, substituting for W. Ray Johnston, asked Raftery if product sold on franchises were not bulk deals. The U.A. counsel admitted most of them were, but not all. It was also brought out that 20th Century makes more than 10 pictures annually.

United Artists sales heads contend that, before completing sales, exhibitors are asked to make eliminations. They also declare no exhibitor need take all the product and that he is offered all, but takes as many as he likes. One contract is not binding on any other picture, it is held. Each film is sold on an individual agreement which specifically states, "this picture has nothing to do with any other."

It's still a moot question no matter how approached, but Campi will be referee in the matter.

Friday will tell the story.

Yamins Is Named to Campi Legal Board

Nathan Yamins has been added to Campi's legal staff, which consists of Austin Keough, Willard McKay and J. Robert Rubin. This staff drafts the language incorporated in decisions handed down by Code Authority on appeals.

Gets Further Set to Handle Premium Vote

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Two more zones have been set up by the code committee for premium votes. At the request of the Norris Amusement Co., Norristown, Bridgeton and Conchohocken were set up as a voting zone. At the request of the Victoria Theatre, Camden, the following South Jersey counties, Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland and Burlington, were established as a zone.

Two clearance cases were settled before the zoning board Friday. The Stonehurst, originally petitioning against a group of Stanley-Warner theatres in its neighborhood in West Philadelphia, reduced its claim to a seven days' clearance against the Landsdowne, also S-W, which request was granted by consent.

The Benson in southwest Philadelphia, recently reopened, sought to establish its clearance rights in a case against the Orient and Lindy of the Stanley-Warner chain. It was given a parity with the Benn, a S-W house in the neighborhood, and both houses were given seven days clearance over the Orient and Lindy.

Star. Both houses are independents, but the Star was giving away groceries.

Interesting is the decision of the board permitting the Muse to continue handing out groceries, on the other hand, because it was held the house had no competitors in its zone.

It was declared no code violation for the Columbus, Columbus, Neb., to give away free tickets with its newspaper advertising since it was demonstrated the newspaper there purchases such tickets and then distributes. The complaining house was the Swan.

Campi Checking on Impending Complaints to determine how many complaints are piling up each week.

All boards are being asked not to meet more than once every 10 days. Campi now is anxious to find out if the three-day difference from the former procedure will clutter calendars. If so, some means will be taken to expedite procedure.

The three-day additional grace between meetings was made because it was felt branch heads needed the time during selling seasons.

Nullify Cleveland Case

CLEVELAND, June 10.—The case of the Cedar Lee vs. Loew's Ohio and Warner theatres playing first run duals, originally dismissed by the local clearance board, has been nullified by the body and set aside because Harry Horwitz, temporary member substituting for Martin Smith, was selected contrary to the code manual.

pictures in this territory was made by Fred Wehrenberg, head of the M.P.T.O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, at a conference with Archbishop John J. Glennon. Others at the conference were Louis Ansell of the Ritz and Harold W. Evens of Loew's State.

The purpose would be to help decide what pictures were objectionable. Wehrenberg, Ansell and Evens assured the prelate local exhibitors would be willing to cooperate to the utmost with such a body. Archbishop Glennon took the suggestion under advisement.

Other Denominations With Chicago Catholics

CHICAGO, June 10.—Support of the Catholic movement against pictures from other denominations is seen locally, at least, in the published statements of the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Chicago Temple, and Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Temple Anshe Emet, supporting Cardinal Mundelein's statement early last week. Clifford P. Morehouse, editor of the Living Church and a spokesman for the Episcopal clergy, also is on record in favor of the campaign.

Local exhibitors feel that there is little they can do about the matter. Their viewpoint is that, since they do not make pictures, any protest from them would appear awkward and be difficult of handling.

Cardinal Mundelein will not amplify his statement at this time, but further developments await a meeting to be held in Cincinnati June 20 with the committee of the Legion of Decency, headed by Archbishop John T. McNicholas.

O'Reilly, Bard Will Air Code Situation

Following refusal by Lester F. Martin to discuss the Omaha code situation prior to his departure for the west Saturday, Charles L. O'Reilly leaves sometime this week for Omaha to confer with Calvin Bard, who has been appointed by the midwestern independent group to act as spokesman in the situation.

After conferences in Omaha, O'Reilly will return accompanied by Bard for further discussions before Campi. Martin will be in town again Friday on another appeal and it is expected all parties will be heard on objections to the code board setup in Omaha.

Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the committee, last week bought the properties at auction for $2,000,000. The lone opposing bid was $1,000,000, offered by Samuel B. Jeffries, Warner counsel here. Warners plan to oppose the sale when Judge Charles B. Davis is asked to approve it.

End of Score Charges Seen In Pact Terms distant date. The manifestation comes to exhibitor organizations that have been agitating for elimination of the charge for years as the first definite encouragement for the success of their fight.

The M. P. T. O. A. in particular has waged a campaign for elimination of the score charge and, at its recent annual convention at Los Angeles, adopted a resolution calling for continuation of efforts to achieve that end.

The provisions now being inserted by the distributors in the long-term contracts immediately follow the listed schedule of score charges. Provision is also made in the same section, however, for re-enforcement of the score charge schedule in the event the collections are put back into effect after a period of suspension.

NRA Salary Report Viewed Sidetracked

cials have made little or no effort to complete the investigation required under the President's letter approving the film code. Faced with many other and more perplexing problems, the full efforts of the Administration have been devoted to questions of immediate importance and it has been impossible to prosecute the salary probe.

It is pointed out that the salary-study provision was inserted in the code largely to stave off any demand for an investigation which might have been made at the Capitol as a result of the disclosures at the time the film operations of the Chase National Bank and other New York banking firms came to light.

Observers here believe that the matter may be held in abeyance until such time as the code is reopened, possibly during the summer when this and other unnecessary provisions may be eliminated.

territory to defer buying of new season product, asserting that it is reported Paramount's new selling policy will not demand preferred playing time and that all of the company's films will be sold on a flat rental basis. Wood's assumption, apparently, is that by deferring their buying exhibitors may obtain identical contract terms from other companies.

Paramount home office sales executives described the Cleveland report as "ridiculous" in the face of the fact that the company's new season sales policies have not been set and will not be until the annual sales convention at Los Angeles, June 18.

English Talk Rental Cuts At Big Meet

Principal Topic Facing Blackpool Sessions

By BRUCE ALLAN

BLACKPOOL, ENGLAND, June 11.—Efforts to hold a joint session with the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) on a plan to effect a sliding scale downward on rentals, hinging on the number of pictures bought, already rejected, the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n. today opened its annual convention here at this seaside resort with rentals and what to do about them the outstanding topic for discussion.

Although the subject is not on the official program, the issue is timely

Hearing Set on RKO Bankruptcy Appeal

A Federal court hearing on RKO's petition to reorganize under the new bankruptcy laws was set for June 26 by U. S. District Court Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday. An answer to the petition must be filed by that date, and, if the petition is granted by the court, instructions will be issued then to file a plan of reorganization for RKO with the court within a certain time.

A trustee under the new bankruptcy laws will be appointed for RKO by Judge Coxe in the event the petition is granted. Indications are that Irving Trust Co., the present RKO receiver, will be made the trustee under the new statutes.

Offer Cancellations to Stop Kansas City Duals

KANSAS CITY, June 11.—Distributors have offered to cancel out product buys estimated at $35,000 in rentals if Kansas City suburbans will agree to ban double bills. To make it easier for exhibitors to establish fair competitive practices and go on the single feature standard, distributors have proposed to eliminate all product over-bought at no cost to the exhibitors.

The proposal is the subject of a series of meetings of the I.T.O. and others. The dual bill ban is one of the conditions laid down by New York circuit heads in a proposed agreement, in return for which the first runs are pledged to raise prices. If approved, the agreement, including higher scales, will go into effect Aug. 3.

The current attempt at price stabilization, in which duals are an important factor, follows conferences in New York by Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager, with cir-

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Out of the welter and maneuvering of clashing factions before the clearance and zoning board there are emerging several belligerent camps.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Because of its alleged refusals to cooperate in a campaign against crime by reducing the crime content of pictures, the film industry definitely is "in bad" with the Department of Justice and the Department of Labor, it was learned tonight from confidential sources.

Insiders' Outlook

MOTION PICTURE DAILY, May 22:

Gaumont British, powerful English producer, distributor and exhibitor, is understood making plans to invade the American market with its own exchanges in about 10 or 12 key cities. . . . Arthur Lee, American representative for the company, when queried yesterday, stated the move was logical. While not denying the current report, he failed to go beyond a partial confirmation.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY, May 24:

Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of Gaumont British Corp. of America, who made no flat denial when MOTION PICTURE DAILY recently asked him regarding a report his company would open its own exchanges in America, became more emphatic yesterday and, in a statement, definitely denied any such move was in prospect "at the present time."

Now, several weeks later, the word is getting around that it was Gaumont British who stepped out of Fox distribution in the States and not the reverse which appeared to be the case at the time of the Fox sales convention. If G. B. decided to forego the revenue, whatever it was, from four of its pictures through Fox distributing machine, why the decision? Simple enough. It all has to do with plans to market its own pictures through its own offices, handled by its own men, in this country. . . .

The Blue Eagle will have to content itself with fewer screams timed at more generous intervals. Campi's decision authorizing meetings of clearance and grievance boards once in 10 days instead of once in seven is marked with much business sense. The idea is to give board members an opportunity to do that for which they were hired: sell film. They tell us that's an important function between now and the fall, this season or any other, NRA or no. . . .

It's still going on, believe it or not. This has to do with the zone manager of a sizable national circuit, some of whose houses needed more comfort in their comfort stations. In other words, seats to sit on. New York sent word that, via the circuit's buying power, the necessary appurtenances could be bought more cheaply around Times Square. Headquarters actually sent along the samples. . . .

Here's something that is earmarked with real significance: Word is around, cautiously and very closely held, that the flood of overbuying grievances, filed by independents against circuits—producer-affiliated and otherwise—will result in more split deals next season than have been on deck since producers decided they had to be big shots in exhibition. Distributors are reported the fellows who will swing this idea on the theory this is the only way to keep themselves out of code board hearings and on their normal job of marketing celluloid. . . .

If this happens in any appreciable extent, immediately there will be created where they do not exist now a flock of new first runs. Many are the independent theatres, now subsequent runs, which equal circuit houses in location, equipment and furnishings. They stay subsequent runs because mass buying power gives many inferior theatres superior product, or whatever superior product is around, when it is fresh. The argument which this raises again over revenue, bulked from individual theatres buying individually, as against revenue, bulked from circuit houses buying in bulk, long has been a moot one with no final tally made so far as this column knows. . . .

If this warm weather rumor develops something into which teeth can sink and retain their hold, the answer then might be told. It's a little too Utopian to imagine distributors proceeding on a policy which would split the product between circuits and independents. Several, undoubtedly, would like to, but have rarely developed the nerve. Yet there was a time when Metro failed to sell Warners in Philadelphia, dealt with the lone-handers around the Warner theatres, created new first runs for one season and caused much fuss. It worked out all right. So much so, Leo made his deal the following year with the Warnerites. Proving it can be done. . . . KANN

Federal Trade Body Receives Saenger Plan

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Plans for refinancing Saenger interests in Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, now in receivership, have been filed with the Federal Trade Commission under the securities act by protective committees for holders of three Saenger bond issues.

The statements filed cover certificates of deposit for bonds totaling $2,464,000, face value, or $1,436,500, market value, of Saenger Theatres, Inc., New Orleans, and Saenger Realty Corp., Inc., New Orleans. Two statements were filed by the committees for the realty corporation bondholders for issues secured by its New Orleans and Mobile theatres.

Reorganization of the two companies involves several claims of indebtedness, principal among which is that of Paramount Publix for $532,723.64, which claim is now owned by the Paramount trustees. Under the plan, it is proposed that this claim be assigned to the reorganized Saenger Theatres, Inc., together with capital stock of Arklamiss Theatres, Inc., which also has claims against Saenger. If the plan is adopted, it was stated, the Paramount trustees will cause Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp. to grant the company a film franchise and will make other considerations.

In turn, the Paramount trustees will receive from the reorganized Saenger company a compensatory amount of the latter's three-year six per cent notes, all of its capital stock, and other stock considerations.

The protective committee for holders of first mortgage and collateral trust sinking fund 6½ per cent gold bonds of Saenger Theatres, Inc., is calling for deposit of $1,550,000 (market value $775,000) of these bonds; a similar committee for holders of Saenger Realty Corp. bonds is calling for the deposit of $674,000 (market value $505,000) of first mortgage bonds of the Saenger Theatre, New Orleans, and a third committee is calling for $240,000 (market value $156,000) of first mortgage gold bonds of the realty company's Mobile theatre, it was said.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"She Learned About Sailors"

(Sol A. Wurtzel-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Comedy and romance hornpipe together with laughter holding both its sides as three gobs and a gal add tang to this love story.

At Shanghai, Lew Ayres, sailor, rushes Alice Faye, singer. They're in love as his boat leaves. Mitchell and Durant secretly write Ayres' heart missives, intercepting Miss Faye's responses to tie them in a love knot which is happily untied in Los Angeles as Miss Faye, ready to sign a contract with Don Jose Rubenstein (Harry Green) demurs on Ayre's motion.

The production is straightaway and the plot simply unfolded with happy characterizations.

Miss Faye is tailor-made with her song number "Key to My Heart" a honey. Ayres, as a nonchalant gob, makes a decided dent in a rollicking romantic part. Mitchell and Durant's knockabout eccentricities groove into the plot with hilarious hokum. They look permanent for pictures. Green's comicalities register neatly. George Marshall's direction, from Bill Counselman and Harry Johnson's screen play, is refreshing and deft. Sam Kaylin's music adds lilt. John Stone produced.

Because it is clean, smart entertainment with laughs and kisses this should hit. Running time, 80 minutes.

"Kiss and Make Up"

(B. P. Schulberg-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Face lifting, reducing, cosmetics, diet and all the vagaries fair ladies pursue in beauty's quest are here pictured with light comedy and revelation contrasted in a meager story and light romance.

Cary Grant, a beauty doctor, runs a high pressure salon where come the frails for new allure. He remakes Genevieve Tobin, a married woman, as his masterpiece of curve and attractiveness much to the chagrin of her husband, Edward Everett Horton, who loved her despite her defects.

Oblivious to Helen Mack, his secretary, Grant follows his Galatea, Miss Tobin, marrying her after she is divorced from Horton. Miss Mack meets Horton and they go places together. Discovering that Miss Tobin eats little, swims less and retires with makeup and gloves, Grant, disillusioned like the sculptor Pygmalion, separates from Miss Tobin when a gigolo intrudes. In a comedy chase, Miss Mack accidentally disturbs Horton's toupee and she rushes to Grant.

The production is lavish, eye-filling and humorous and has a thin coating of heart interest. Harlan Thompson directed with shrewd appeal to feminine patronage.

Grant, Miss Mack and Miss Tobin with exploitable beauty angles plus introduction of the "Baby Stars" evaluate this as a good program film. Running time, 80 minutes.

Charging that San Francisco is the only city of its size maintaining 56 days' clearance, Nasser Brothers submitted a brief saying only three cities maintain this length of time for first runs. The brief also insisted that the drop in first run scales from 65 cents in 1930 to 40 cents at present entitled following runs to relief. In this connection the brief read:

"At the present time the admission prices charged by first run theatres is practically on a par with subsequent runs. This is the first time in 18 years that the first runs have charged admission prices equal to that charged by subsequent runs."

In refutation of these contentions those championing the cause of the first runs point out that the first runs pay higher rentals, have a higher downtown overhead to meet and they must pioneer each first run with expensive advertising, all expenses saved by the second runs.

Willentz at First Code Board Hearing

David T. Willentz, attorney general for New Jersey, yesterday made his bow before the New Jersey code advisory committee on behalf of the Allied unit. He made an instantaneous hit with his introductory remark when he said:

"I have mainly been representing fellows hit by trucks and not those hit by Warners."

Willentz acted as counsel for the Elwood, Newark, which protested clearance of Warners' Regent, Belleville, and Capitol, Newark. He also represented Thornton Kelly of the Grant Lee, Palisades, against four Skouras, four Warners, two Loew, one Paramount and one RKO house.

Joe Lee of Fox was chairman of the session which was held at the Astor because of alterations being made at local code quarters.

Two Cases in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, June 11.—Local clearance and zoning board has two cases on file. E. E. Blair, Ohio theatre Uhrichsville, protests the protection granted Shea's houses in New Philadelphia and Dover over him. L. F. Eich, Elzane and Fenray theatres, Martin's Ferry, protests against the protection granted overlapping territories which include Martin's Ferry.

Make First Run Ruling

ATLANTA, June 11.—Pictures played first run are to be classified for first run clearance no matter whether or not the theatre is usually in this division, according to a ruling of the clearance and zoning board. This means 60 days' clearance over any subsequent run.

Offer Cancellations to Stop Kansas City Duals

Cincy and Columbus Protest Clearances

CINCINNATI, June 11.—A group protest against the existing schedule has been filed with the local clearance and zoning board by subsequent in the Greater Cincinnati territory. Columbus exhibitors, acting as a group, have filed similar protest.

C. F. Pfister, of the Mayflower and Jewel, Troy, O., has filed protest against priority for Greenville, O.

Protest also has been filed by G. T. Tynes, operating the Paramount, Ashland, Ky., against seven days' protection for Huntington, W. Va., a contiguous situation.

Arthur Frudenberg, RKO division manager, substituted for Ike Libson, regular board member, when the Ashland-Huntington case was heard. Libson is interested in the Keith-Albee at Huntington.

All protests have been taken under advisement. Decisions are expected by time the new schedule is ready for release about July 1.

Jacksonville First Runs' Clearance Cut

ATLANTA, June 11.—Sharply reducing the time between first and second runs, the clearance and zoning board, in the case of E. J. Sparks Enterprise, Inc., vs. M. C. Moore, of the Riverside, Jacksonville, made the maximum time between runs 60 days. First runs playing double features are given 30 days' protection over second runs playing single bills.

Moore claimed that in some instances he had had to wait six months to get features following the Sparks houses in the Jacksonville zone. Houses involved are the Florida, Imperial, Palace and Empress, Sparks houses, and the Riverside, a de luxe suburban, the Moore house.

The same action was taken with regard to the case of L. D. Joel, operating a second-run house in downtown Jacksonville, against the Sparks houses.

Frisko Overbuying Case Won by FWC

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—F. W. C. has won an overbuying case before the grievance board. The board has dismissed a complaint filed by three Fresno theatre groups. The protestants were Gerald Hardy's Fresno, Wilson's State (first run) and the State and Kinema (second run).

A similar complaint against F. W. C. is on file from D. B. Levin of the Baywood, San Mateo.

The board has upheld James Beatty of the Librey, San Jose, in Beatty's complaint against Maurice Klein of the Victory over "bank nights." The board ordered Klein to stop the practice.

Certifies Waukesha Case

MILWAUKEE, June 11.—The grievance board today certified to Campi the complaint of L. E. Thurwachter of Waukesha against United Artists on the 10 per cent cancellation privilege.

cuit heads. Rhoden obtained a promise from the circuits they would hike the prevailing first run price of 25 cents to 40 cents minimum, provided the suburbans performed certain conditions.

These are that the suburbans eliminate 10-cent admissions, establishing 15 cents as the minimum, ban double billing, children's five-cent admissions and similar bargain offers.

Elimination of premiums and prizes, which was sought by the circuit in previous negotiations, is not mentioned, presumably on the premise that the referendum provided in the code will take care of these practices.

Exhibitors who held out for double billing and thus blocked successful negotiation of fair practice agreements attempted in the last year, are more amenable to the proposal since the distributors offer to take all excess product off their hands.

Rhoden has agreed to raise prices at Fox Midwest's Kansas City houses if the independents approve the conditions of the proposed agreement.

Independents demand 25 per cent cancellations on next season's contracts as a condition of acceptance of the agreement to raise prices and ban duals.

Horwitz Here To End Duals In Cleveland

about the evils of double features. All right, I'm here now with every Cleveland exhibitor's name. Doubles are out when these two circuits sign."

Horwitz conferred with Moe Silver, district manager for Warner Theatres, and I. Levinson of the legal department yesterday and later in the day met Joe Vogel of Loew's, Inc., with the outcome not determined last night.

The agreement, reduced to one typewritten page, covers all theatres in Cleveland, Cleveland Heights, East Cleveland and Lakewood, and is designed to become operative from and after July 8 to continue for the remainder of the 1933-34 and through the 1934-35 seasons. It bans double features, does not preclude the use of vaudeville and defines a feature as one "containing more than 4,000 feet of film."

Horwitz has with him an opinion of the plan prepared by Hartshorn, Thomas and Abele, Cleveland attorneys, who declare the plan would not violate either the Federal or Ohio anti-trust laws. "While there is a certain small amount of restraint of trade contained in the agreement, it is very limited in scope and entirely reasonable," the opinion holds.

In Cleveland, Warners are double featuring at the Lake downtown and the Uptown and Variety uptown. Loew's is doing likewise at the Stillman downtown and at the neighborhood Park and Granada the last half of each week.

S. & C. Overbuying Case Set for Today

The second overbuying complaint against Springer and Cocalis will come up today before the New York grievance board when the complaint of Jacob Grossman of the Roslyn, Roselle Park, N. J., against the Park, same city, will be heard at the Astor.

The complainant states he cannot get any first run or splits of product from M-G-M, Universal, Columbia, United Artists, Warners, RKO, Fox and Paramount.

First Major Charge Filed on the Coast

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Vitagraph, Inc., has filed a claim with the local grievance board against A. R. Baldwin, operating the Baldwin, claiming the theatre was transferred under an alleged false pretense to get out of a contract with the exchange. This is the first case filed by a major company against an independent one. All previous claims have been filed against the majors by the independents.

Milwaukee's Zoning Plan Up on June 19

MILWAUKEE, June 11.—A general meeting of Milwaukee county exhibitors has been called by Ben Koenig, secretary of the code boards, for June 19 for the purpose of adopting a clearance and zoning schedule.

Government Is Perturbed by Screen Crime

Justice are said to be more perturbed than ever over the glorification of crime in certain newspapers and films. They attach less blame to the papers, however, believing them to be more likely to listen to appeals for cooperation, but efforts which are said to have been made to have the soft pedal put on crime pictures are said also to have been flat failures.

Not only have the newsreel companies been approached, it is understood, but leading producers have been asked to minimize crime pictures without result. Officials of the department are said to figure that while the industry may claim the purpose of its pictures is to show that crime does not pay, the average adolescent who sees crime pictures is little interested in eventual reward, but is engaged by the easy life which the criminal is supposed to lead to the final reel.

Shoulder to shoulder with the Department of Justice stands the Department of Labor, which is said to be wrought up over the effect of current productions on children and which claims that child delinquency is largely a result of improper film diet.

See Little Chance For Cannon's Bill

by reform factions, but has no chance of becoming law at this rapidly-closing session of Congress.

Preparing to adjourn the end of the week, Congress is interested only in those measures which President Roosevelt has said must be enacted. Leaders in both Senate and House will fight clear of any highly controversial bills not on the "must" program.

Cannon's bill also would ban pictures which are "suggestive and morally objectionable." Either offense he would make punishable with a $5,000 fine or five years' imprisonment or both.

While the measure is expected to be sidetracked, sentiment against indecent films is rapidly gaining headway and films are expected to come in for sharp criticism at a conference of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religious leaders here late this week to consider pictures and how they affect morals.

Spokane Catholics Join in Film Drive

SPOKANE, June 11.—Ninety-four Catholic churches here and inland have launched a drive on objectionable films under the leadership of Bishop Charles D. White by asking for pledges to the "Legion of Decency." Charging producers with violation of the Hays code of morals, the prelate asserts "we are heartily in favor of entertainment that is wholesome."

"Exhibitors," he adds, "should be just as interested as are their patrons in promoting the campaign for decency. If the present system of booking pictures makes it difficult for exhibitors to avoid immoral films, they should see to it, by united effort if need be, that the system is changed."

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—The effect of the first reading of Cardinal Dougherty's pastoral letter in Catholic churches here yesterday is not noticeable as yet, although exhibitors, and those with neighborhood houses in particular, are much concerned with the prelate's "positive commands" to boycott certain pictures as a protest "against immoral and indecent films."

Predict Appeal on Tri-Ergon Ruling

it was stated yesterday by attorneys for Paramount.

The circuit court's ruling, handed down here last week, came as a reversal of a decision by U. S. District Court Judge M. B. Campbell, of the eastern district, Brooklyn. The higher court's decision was not unanimous. Written by Judge Martin Manton, it was concurred in by Judge Harrie Chase, with Judge Thomas Swan dissenting. The two-to-one decision, it is believed, assures the case of a review by the Supreme Court when the petition is filed after the court's summer recess.

In its suit, American Tri-Ergon, of which William Fox is president, claims exclusive patent rights to a double print sound-on-film recording process which, it alleges, is being infringed by Paramount. The plaintiff asks a permanent injunction restraining Paramount from using the process and for damages in an amount equal to whatever profits have been made by Paramount through use of the process and whatever loss American Tri-Ergon has sustained.

Erpi Defending Para.

Erpi, which is made a defendant in a similar action brought by American Tri-Ergon, is defending Paramount in the present action and its attorneys will carry the appeal to the Supreme Court.

The Circuit Court's decision holding that the Tri-Ergon patent is valid and had been infringed by Paramount stated that "while it might be said that superficially the positives... produced by the Tri-Ergon process... are similar to positives produced by single film processes, still the function and effect is different and in the practical art that difference has been demonstrated. Combining steps of the double film system and steps of the single film system, the inventors have made a combination and a process for achieving a new result which has been effective and enduring and has become the standard practice in the industry."

Distinguishing the Tri-Ergon process, the decision says, is the uniformity of quality photographic records and quality sound records, each made on a separate negative, but transferred in the product to a single positive. Other processes, the decision states, result in either distorted photography or distorted sound when made on, and reproduced from, a single film.

"There is no material difference between the purpose for which the appellee (Paramount) uses the process and that described in the (Tri-Ergon) patent," the decision concludes. "In any case, the appellee uses the process of the patent and achieves the results intended by the patentees. The patent is valid and infringed."

affiliated companies." Among the features listed for special handling he listed "Anthony Adverse," "Gold Diggers of 1935," "Black Hell," "Lafayette Escadrille," "Captain Blood," "Casino de Paree," a musical starring Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell and "Sweet Adeline."

Enthusiasm marked the opening of the session. New season plans were discussed by Gradwell Sears, western and southern distribution head. Albert L. Warner was also present.

The meeting was switched later in the day to the Medinah Club by S. Charles Einfeld, advertising and publicity director, who was dissatisfied with arrangements at the hotel.

Among those scheduled to speak are: Joseph Bernhard, theatre head; Dave Weshner, Warner zone manager with headquarters in Milwaukee; Nat Wolf, zone manager in Cleveland; Howard Waugh, theatre advertising and publicity in Memphis, and James Coston, Chicago zone manager. Sessions continue tomorrow.

Film Shipment Cut Extended for Year

KANSAS CITY, June 11.—The 25 per cent reduction in express rates on film shipments granted exhibitors by Railway Express Agency a year ago has been extended another year. The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the extension.

The reduction has resulted in gradual increase of film shipments by express, it was said.

Complaint filed with the I. C. C. by the Ass'n. of National Film Carriers, Inc., charging discrimination by the Railway Express Agency in lowering the rate, is still pending.

Breen Due Tomorrow

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Joseph I. Breen, executive assistant to Will H. Hays on the coast, is en route to New York.

English Talk Rental Cuts At Big Meet

and mass exhibitor opinion throughout the nation may result in forcing through a national policy on the issue. This is apt to develop when the open sessions are reached Wednesday.

A minor sensation was created today when organ makers informed Phonographic Performances, Ltd., they must pay a five-guinea license to play organ records, although the latter assert such performances are by way of trade demonstration, not for entertainment.

Handmaiden to the rental problem is the question of overbuilding which has champions on both sides. Sam Eckman, managing director of MGM, is slated for an address in which he will point out how too many theatre seats have damaged the American industry.

The convention promises to break all previous ones in point of attendance. Four hundred and twenty exhibitors already are registered at the Imperial and over 100 at the Metro-pole while several additional hundred are scattered in other hotels. It is expected total registration will reach 800. Tonight there was a mayor's reception and a dance at the Winter Garden followed by a special showing of "20th Century."

"U" Chicago Meet Stirs Up Optimism

Friday with a take of $4,700, may jump the house's gross for the week to nearly $40,000, it is estimated.

At the conclusion of the meeting James R. Grainger, general manager of distribution for Universal, said there exist very definite indications that general business is improving on a slow but sound basis.

Poe Tales Combined

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Universal's scenario department is combining into one script Edgar Allan Poe's work, "The Raven" and "The Gold Bug," and will use the former title for release. The studio will again team Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi as a horror duo.

"U" Signs O'Connell

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Hugh O'Connell, New York stage actor, has been written in for a long-term contract by Universal. He arrives in July, but as yet has no definite assignment.

Fiddes Succeeds Bostick

WINNIPEG, June 11.—John T. Fiddes, veteran Winnipeg exhibitor, has been appointed manager of Universal's three theatres here. He succeeds E. D. Bostick, who died recently.

Capitol Beats Rivoli

The Capitol baseball nine beat the Rivoli sluggers by a score of 13 to 12. "Windy" Stern, an usher at the Capitol, struck out 14 Rivoli men during the game.

Capital Dull With "Villa" Leading Draw

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Spring apathy continues with a total estimated gross of $57,100 on seven theatres.

The Gayety, which on the close of its burlesque season on May 26 went into two weeks of sex pictures, closed Saturday for the summer.

RKO-Keith's continues to juggle opening days, a four-day run of "Strictly Dynamite" closing on Saturday, June 2, followed by a full week (ending this evening) of "Where Sinners Meet." The subjoined report, however, covers only the theatre week, ending June 7.

"Viva Villa," with Abe Lyman and his own revue as the stage attraction, topped the town at Loew's Fox with $18,800. The Earle was a poor second at $14,900, with "Merry Wives of Reno" and Gracie Barrie, Britt Wood, Large & Morgner, and Paul Tisen & Gypsy Girl Orchestra on the stage.

"Manhattan Melodrama" at Loew's Palace did a satisfactory second week at $6,600.

While not a gold mine, "Keep 'Em Rolling" did a better than average week with $4,300. By special permission, the Metropolitan was able to screen the picture under the original title of "Rodney," the name with which many Washingtonians were familiar, due to the filming at Fort Myer, last fall. It was this fact that may have accounted for the somewhat better percentage business here than in some other locations.

Estimated takings for the week ending June 7:

"Murder" and 'Enemies' Get $7,500, K. C.

KANSAS CITY, June 11.—"Murder at the Vanities" and "All Men Are Enemies," on a dual bill, grabbed $7,500, up by $1,500, at the Newman last week.

It was the only strong attraction in town. "Easy to Love," with a vaudeville bill, reached $5,100 at the Tower, but business elsewhere was off.

The Fox Uptown inaugurated its 25-cent price on Memorial Day with "The Black Cat," giving the picture a four-day run.

"Finishing School" and "The Crime Doctor" went five days at the RKO Mainstreet.

Sizzling weather drove Kansas Citizens outdoors.

Total for the week was $27,000. Average is $30,900.

By BRUCE ALLAN

BLACKPOOL, Eng., June 12.—British exhibitors are disturbed over the quota act and the lack of quality in pictures which they maintain is evidencing itself in product made under that law.

"There will be a report by July 7 definitely," Rosenblatt asserted.

"Bystanders" Hit by Church Move—Allied

Independent theatres are the "innocent bystanders" in the church fight for clean films, according to the latest Allied bulletin from Washington.

Independents should petition leaders of the Legion of Decency to have the boycott of objectionable films press harder on affiliated theatres than independents, the bulletin reads. The text follows:

"The independent theatre owners respectfully petition the prelates, the leaders of the League of Decency, and the heads of the various organizations seeking motion picture reform to take into account their peculiar and helpless situation and to spare them as much as possible in the boycott campaign.

Want Clean Films Recommended

"Of course, the independent exhibitors cannot and do not ask that the leaders of the movement recommend attendance at the forced showing of salacious pictures in their theatres. The independent exhibitors do ask, however, that the producer-owned and producer-controlled theatres be made the primary objects of the boycott and that attendance upon good pictures when shown in independent theatres be recommended and encouraged as an offset to the reduced attendance at the forced showing of salacious pictures."

In another section of the bulletin Will H. Hays is blamed for the boycott.

"Responsibility for the serious boycott of motion pictures being put into operation throughout the country," the bulletin reads, "rests squarely on Hays' shoulders. If he had done the job it was represented to the country he would do, the industry would not now be in such sorry plight. Even though, as is now apparent, Hays did not have the authority to control production in the interests of decency, he allowed the public to understand and believe that he had such authority. And when the public became suspicious, after he had been on the job several years without working noticeable improvement on the screen, he brought forth his morality code which was adopted by the producers with a fanfare of trumpets. Several times since its first adoption, the morality code has been trotted out to silence criticism when the going has been rough."

This topic will highlight the two-day national board of directors meet which gets under way at the Warwick today. In addition, discussions will be held on the production and distribution plan and reopening of code assents. Sidney Samuelson, president, yesterday would not discuss the compliance situation. Neither would he talk on Allied's policy on duals.

Attending today's session will be about 35, among whom will be: Samuelson, Abram F. Myers, Nathan Yamins, Walter B. Littlefield, M. B. Horwitz, Edward Ansin, Ray Branch, Bennie Berger, Al Steffes, H. M. Ritchey, Abe Stone, William Smalley, Chester Didsbury, Frank Hornig, Herman Blum, Arthur Price, Ruben Frels and Fred Herrington. In addition, numerous other representatives from Allied units will be on hand.

Three Allied Units Are Started in N. E.

Three new Allied units have been formed in New England and are functioning as part of the national's organization. The units and officers are:

Allied Theatre Owners of Rhode Island, Martin Tuohy, president; Abe Spitz, vice-president; John Findlay, secretary; Charles Williams, treasurer. Trustees are: Messrs. Stanzler, Gould, Bomes, Nelson and Romano.

Film Morals May Feature Capital Meet

and strengthening of moral purpose upon which any enduring civilization must be founded," recently inaugurated campaigns against so-called "indecent" pictures are bound to bring the subject before the meeting.

Leaders in the movement are reluctant to discuss their plans in advance of the meeting, but it is pointed out that films are accepted as one of the leading cultural mediums of the day, and that, therefore, it would be but natural for them to be considered in relation to the church program.

It is expected that the campaign of Catholic organizations, joined last week by Protestant leaders, will be brought before the conference with a view to giving it national sanction by all creeds. This campaign is intended to clean up pictures by slapping the box-office, but may next winter develop into a demand for censorship. In that event, the movement will have support from the government itself, in the shape of the Departments of Justice and Labor, both of which are more than a little irritated over the refusal of producers to cut down on their crime content.

in Rome. Thirty are planned next season.

Fox's Spanish output will continue to be made in Hollywood. Ten originals and 25 "dubbed" pictures are planned for 1934-35. While abroad, Sheehan signed Rosita Diaz for Spanish pictures. She will arrive from Spain Oct. 21.

Sheehan said Fox is represented throughout the world with exchanges, except in Russia, where, it is hoped, the company will be represented shortly. He also stated Fox business in Europe is "very satisfactory" and conditions are on the upgrade.

Report Columbia to Produce in England

LONDON, June 12.—Reports afloat here have it Columbia will abandon practice of purchasing quota pictures and make its own. This probably will be one of the matters discussed with Joe Friedman, British representative, when J. H. Seidelman arrives here shortly.

Joseph H. Seidelman, Columbia's foreign sales manager, sails for the Continent Saturday.

Will Meet at Waldorf

The Waldorf will be scene of the Columbia sales convention, date so far undetermined but believed to be within the next two weeks. The New York meeting may be followed by a second in another section of the country.

Selznick Sees Americans Filming More in England

strates what can be done on both sides of the ocean."

His visit to England had to do with preparation for "David Copperfield." Thousands of photographs shot on the scenes described in the Dickens novel were made while Selznick and his party toured by auto the locales described on the printed page. Returning with him were Hugh Walpole, well known British novelist and an expert on Dickens. He is vice-president of the Dickens Fellowship of London and will collaborate on the film with Selznick and Howard Estabrook who finished the script on the boat.

In the M-G-M party also was George Cukor, who will direct, and Fritz Lang, German director, who has "Siegfried" and "Metropolis" to his credit and now is under contract to M-G-M.

Selznick signed Peter Trent, young Englishman and member of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, while abroad. Six other British actors and actresses were signed for "David Copperfield" in which Trent may be assigned a role. The group arrives here in a few weeks en route to the coast.

The M-G-M producer was enthused over Antoinette Cellier who was given a contract, and Leontine Sagan, woman director who made "Maedchen in Uniform." Assignments for them have not been determined.

Asked about the impending deal with David Lloyd George, British war-time prime minister, Selznick said:

"We are working on a deal. The picture, if set, will deal with the war behind the lines. It will not include a single war scene, but show how diplomats, sitting around the dinner table, fashioned the course of the World War. The picture will be non-fiction. Lloyd George will not appear, but his part, as well as other internationally known figures, will be impersonated by actors. There will be no effort whatsoever to write a story around the Lloyd George memoirs."

Natan, David, Berger To Study Production

Bernard Natan, head of Pathe-Natan of Paris, was another arrival on the Ile de France yesterday. He is here on what he describes as a vacation and tour of inspection. With him are Henri Diamant Berger, well known French producer and director, and Karl David, general manager of the Pathe-Natan studio. They brought with them two pictures. "Amok," one of them, was shown on the boat on the way over and the other is a new version of "Les Miserables." This party leaves for Hollywood on Friday and sails on the return to Paris July 7.

J. C. Bernhard, French producer, who was scheduled to sail, did not make the boat.

Britishers Advance, Declares Estabrook

Three English producers are stepping ahead of the entire British market, Howard Estabrook, scenarist, said yesterday upon his return from Europe

Hollywood Speaks

George Cukor, on his arrival yesterday from England, said that he may have to go to Boston to finish casting "David Copperfield."

"Boston is the only place outside of England where English is spoken," he said.

where he visited the locale of Charles Dickens' settings in "David Copperfield." Estabrook says the producers are Gaumont British, Alexander Korda and Basil Dean in the order named.

Estabrook gives as his reason for not making the entire Dickens picture abroad, the fact that "all good technicians are tied up by British producers. If we wanted to go ahead, we would have to take an entire unit from Hollywood and it wouldn't pay for one picture."

Many shots of original backgrounds were taken and numerous tests were made for character parts. Estabrook considers the trip very profitable inasmuch as much has been learned in the lore of Dickens and all that remains to complete the picture is the exterior shots.

Messeri Brings Cheery Word of Spanish Trade

Spanish conditions are on the upgrade, according to M. J. Messeri, Paramount managing director in Spain, who arrived here yesterday on the Ile de France along with one of the most imposing contingents of film men to dock here in a number of years.

There are several Spanish studios engaged in active production, Messeri said, but only one of importance, located in Madrid. Its output is so small, he continued, that it is of practically no account and American films are still the greatest in demand.

Messeri leaves for the coast tonight to attend the Paramount convention in Los Angeles June 18, after which he will return here. He plans to sail the first week in July.

Swedish Theatres Doing Well, Declares York

"Theatre conditions in Sweden are better than ever," said Carl York, Paramount's general manager for Scandinavia who arrived here yesterday on the Drottingholm. "Conditions throughout Scandinavia are improving from day to day," he continued.

York leaves here for the coast tonight to attend the convention next week and will return around the end of the month. He plans to return to Sweden July 7.

Ruben Another Arrival

J. Walter Ruben, Radio director, returned yesterday from three months in England where he directed "Java Head" for Associated Talking Pictures at Ealing. He leaves for the coast in a day or two to resume work for RKO.

The company gave him a cocktail

Poor Quality Quota Films Worry British

throughout the country. It is possible action of some nature may develop before the exhibitor convention closes the end of the week.

The general plaint is that exhibitors at large have been complying with the letter and spirit of the law while certain distributors have complied merely with the letter. It is argued distributors should be made to produce and to handle product which would be a credit to the English producing industry and not a discredit which is the way many exhibitors now view the situation. The quota act, it is maintained, was designed to further the percentage of domestically-made product, but not on the basis of a "pound-a-foot quickies."

Exhibitors declare distributors no longer now are satisfied with shelving poor quota films, as some of them did when the law was young, but are now compelling exhibitors to take them in order to book some of the better American product.

Theatre operators declare many of the quota pictures are "insults."

The general council referred its deliberations to a committee for a subsequent report.

Mayer, Strickling Will Go to Chicago

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—Louis B. Mayer and Howard Strickling will fly to Chicago next Wednesday to attend the M-G-M convention. Mayer will be one of the principal speakers. Strickling, now in New York, will return to the coast by plane the end of the week.

party at the Waldorf late yesterday. George Cukor, who crossed on the same boat, dropped in. Which prompted Ruben to remark:

"I'm giving the party for Cukor."

White Back from Abroad

George White returned from abroad yesterday on the Ile de France. He is scheduled to make one more picture for Fox, but efforts to reach him yesterday for a statement were unsuccessful.

Myron Selznick Back

Myron Selznick of the Selznick-Joyce agency, is back from a trip abroad. He leaves for the coast with the returned M-G-M party, headed by his brother, David O., Friday.

Strickling Flies Here

Howard Strickling, publicity head at the M-G-M studios, and Milly Lou Mobley, secretary to Myron Selznick, flew in from the Coast to be on hand when the Ile de France docked yesterday with the M-G-M production personalities. Marcelle Bennett, David Selznick's secretary, has been here for the past month, and all return to Hollywood Friday.

policy in the past, the scope will be wide enough in appeal to cover the entire field.

"I returned from Hollywood less than two weeks ago, after an inspection of the studios, and am in a position to say that the production organization is now, as never before in its history, geared to handle any type and size of film product."

Zukor named personalities and varied types among the players under contract and also said the company was developing new directors. Among these he mentioned Alexander Hall.

The special section of the Iroquois Limited will carry delegates and home office personnel out of New York tonight at 10:30 P. M., standard time.

Additional delegates will be picked up along the route at Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Kansas City, and LaJunta, Colo. The party will comprise about 115 members when the train, which will be a special section of the Santa Fe's California Limited out of Chicago, reaches Los Angeles.

complaints on the amount of screen time devoted to the Dillinger hunt.

"States have veered away from censorship of newsreels on the theory that they perform the same function as the press," said one editor who refused to allow his name used. "Are departmental suggestions as to what we should not use to be construed as commands?"

It is understood the Labor Department's interest centered around recent riot scenes.

Rich, Calm, Argues S. & C. Code Cases

Comparatively calm in contrast to his former objections against members of the New York grievance board, Benjamin Rich, attorney for Springer and Cocalis, appeared before the local group yesterday to defend his client in the overbuying complaint by the Roslyn, Roselle Park, N. J.

During the two previous sessions, Rich vociferously denounced the board as biased and vehemently protested against Louis Geller as prejudiced and George F. Thompson as having no right to give orders and sit as chairman. At yesterday's session Rich just noted his objections against the same men for the record and went on with his defense.

Of the nine cases on the calendar, eight were grievances filed by Loew against the following theatres for premature advertising and reduced admissions: Adelphi, Granada, Terminal, National, Stoddard, Symphony, Bunny and Heights. Decisions will be rendered today.

Limit Code Notes

No stenographer may take a record of the minutes of the New York code boards until he, or she, is approved by the body. Whoever takes the minutes must submit a copy of them for the board to pass on before they can be used for future purposes, usually appeals.

Cleaning Firm Hits Amendment to Code

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A hearing before Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt today uncovered a lone objector to the proposed amendment for the definition of labor in the code.

The objector was Joseph R. Berger, attorney representing the American Building Maintenance Co., who asserted the amendment would affect chiefly concerns which have maintenance contracts with theatres. Berger said the company, now operating on a 48-hour week with a minimum wage of 30 cents per hour under the President's reemployment agreement, would have to amend its operations to provide for a 40-hour week and a 35-cent hourly wage if covered under the film code.

As a result of agitation, it was represented, a number of theatres in New York have canceled their contracts with the company, and inclusion of this branch of its work in the film code, Berger said, would probably result in the loss of practically all other contracts it now has with theatres.

"Bank Night" Group Files Patent Suit

DENVER, June 12.—Whether the "Bank Night" plan is entitled to copyright and patent protection hinges on the outcome of a suit filed by Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., with headquarters here, against C. W. McFarling, Jr., owner of the Grand at Tulia, Tex.

The case, filed in the U. S. District Court for the northern district of Texas, asks for $10,000 damages for alleged breach of contract and asks for an injunction to prevent McFarling from using a plan similar to "bank night."

Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., claim that McFarling contracted for the use of Bank Night at a weekly cost of $10 and 50 per cent of the gross above $75, and that after using the plan for about six weeks he refused to pay further, and started using a plan of his own, but similar.

The petition points out that the plan is registered in Texas, and patents and registration rights have been applied for in Washington.

Approval of Extra Terms Likely Soon

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Recommendations of the extra players' committee, submitted to Washington some time ago with the approval of Campi, will probably be given final approval shortly, it was said today at the Recovery Administration.

It was also disclosed that a representative of the Administration will go to New York within a day or two to investigate labor conditions with a view to the coordination of operators' and stage hands' pay scales.

an even chance for acceptance by independent suburban.

A few object, it is said, mainly on the ground that they must have assurance not only that low scales will be hiked, but that the increases will be general.

When the committee has obtained sufficient assents a general exhibitor meeting will be called to approve the agreement.

One small group of independents has raised questions as to the legality of the proposed agreement.

W. D. Fulton, who operates three theatres and whose opinions carry weight with some small exhibitors, is willing to subscribe to the agreement, although he questions its legality. This is a reversal of his attitude in the past, when his efforts were blamed for defeat of previous attempts at arriving at standards of fair practice and price stabilization.

Cleveland Clearance Seen Endangered

Dec. 31, 1934. Approximately 20 independent exhibitors have filed protests with the local clearance and zoning board objecting to the present schedule.

A general meeting is expected to be held Friday as a result. M. B. Horwitz, now in New York on the elimination of duals and also attending the Allied directors' meeting, filed six of the 20 complaints.

Exhibitors were given until June 10 to file protests for a general hearing for reclassification of existing clearance and zoning schedules. The local men just met the deadlines.

Seek Roxy Trustee Under the New Law

Application has been made in Federal Court by the Roxy Theatres Corp. for appointment of a temporary trustee to conduct the proposed reorganization under the new bankruptcy law signed last week. It is understood that Howard S. Cullman, receiver, is satisfactory to the principal creditors for the appointment.

Carlos L. Israels, counsel for the bondholders, says the next move is for the court to sign an order making the appointment and then a reorganization plan can be started.

Maps Recuperative Plans

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—S. R. Kent, in from New York because of his wife's illness, is making plans either to take her to the mountains or back to New York for recuperation. He would have remained here if the recent sales convention had not made a return east necessary.

RKO and its affiliated picture and theatre companies will hold a boat ride and picnic at Indian Point on June 18 and 25 for home office employees.

NEW YORK AND CHICAGO AGREE!

A Hit at the Radio City Music Hall, New York:

"Miss Sullavan and Mr. Montgomery give admirable performances in the leading roles. It is a picture which deserves applause, for it is a relief after the tawdry, silly effusions which seem to have predominated on Broadway screens recently."

—New York Times

A Hit at Balaban & Katz Beautiful Chicago Theatre:

"A human, touching and finely acted picture...Universal's fascinating young star, Margaret Sullavan, who did such beautiful work in 'Only Yesterday,' achieves a repeat triumph as Lammchen. She has a freshness, spontaneity, and sincerity that are all her own."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"We're Rich Again"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—This farce depicts the chills and fever of a once rich, but now poor, family still in luxurious surroundings and about to marry off the daughter to a rich broker, with a country cousin upsetting the apple cart.

Billie Burke and Grant Mitchell are the frantic parents. Joan Marsh is the daughter. Reginald Denny is the prospective groom. Marian Nixon is the country cousin. Edna May Oliver is Miss Marsh's polo-playing grandma. Buster Crabbe, talking little, and Miss Marsh's sister, Gloria Shea, always talking, barge in and out in bathing suits and finally elope. Edgar Kennedy is a funny process server and a Jap valet is witty.

The comedy is based on the reactions of the crazy quilt household beset by the depression, but putting up a false front. The story is well chosen and has a good premise with screen values emerging humorously with laughter intermittent and characterizations unsympathetic. William A. Seiter's direction is effective with the technical procedure okay.

This film, lacking draw names, should please in neighborhoods as a programmer. Running time, 75 minutes.

Looking 'Em Over

"Heart Song"

(Ufa-Gaumont British-Fox)

Ufa and Gaumont British have joined hands in fashioning this highly satisfactory musical romance. It is a worthwhile effort full of wholesome fun, tuneful music, sparkling lines, gay charm and capable acting. The production has been given expensive and tasteful settings.

The cast contains a trio of names that ought to prove helpful in putting the picture across. They are Lilian Harvey, Charles Boyer and Mady Christians. Boyer is now on the coast under contract to Fox. Their work is first-rate, with Miss Harvey captivating in the role of maid to a queen.

The plot is one of those light-hearted affairs. Miss Harvey sets Boyer's heart palpitating when she sings to him as he lies in a soldiers' barrack with a bandage over his eyes, near death from a fall off a horse. Boyer, a duke, sets out to discover the possessor of the voice when he is recovered. One day he hears the voice in the royal palace. He thinks it belongs to the queen, with whom he believes himself in love.

The mistaken identity leads to considerable merriment. Miss Harvey is in love with Boyer, but simply allows herself to suffer on in silence; that is, until the closing footage, when the duke learns the voice belonged to her.

Erich Pommer produced. Other players are Maurice Evans and Ernest Thesiger. Friedrich Hollaender directed. Running time, 81 minutes.

"Voice in the Night"

(Columbia)

Tim McCoy fans will find their favorite just as virile a hero as ever in "Voice in the Night," a fast bit of entertainment filled with many exciting moments. The kids particularly will revel in the physical encounters and the automobile pursuits in this picture.

McCoy, the son of the head of a telephone company, goes to work under an assumed name for a rival outfit with the intention principally of disproving that his father's concern is responsible for the violence and destruction being perpetrated against the competitor. Another thing that draws him to the job is the pretty daughter of the president.

Tim starts a vigorous campaign to discover those at the bottom of the dirty business. This he succeeds in doing, but not before a number of pretty close shaves with those responsible for the villainy. The aim of the guilty persons was to force the company out of business by disrupting its service and so causing it to lose its charter. Tim is just as successful in courting the boss's daughter.

That the plot is more than a bit strained will probably mean nothing to McCoy's fans. Supporting the star are Billie Seward, who plays the heart-throbber; Ward Bond, Joseph Crehan, Kane Richmond, Frank Layton, Guy Usher, Francis McDonald and Alphonz Ethier. Charles C. Coleman directed. Running time, 59 minutes.

"Sane, Reasonable," N. Y. Censors' Rule

Department of Education, known in the trade as the censor board.

Esmond spoke before the Syracuse Herald Cinema Critics Club.

"During the past few months, and at the present time, special efforts are being made, as you know," he said, "by churches and other welfare organizations to obtain a better appreciation of good pictures and to discourage the making of salacious and improper pictures."

"As I view the situation, legal censorship is a first line of defense against pictures that may tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime. It may not accomplish all that may seem desirable, and the efforts of the churches and welfare organizations are valuable, just as is the exercise of discretion on the part of parents as to what pictures they will permit their children to see. No one expects that all pictures will be made for children or that the production of legitimate drama will be hampered unreasonably through the exercise of legislative regulation. We all want clean pictures. So far as our reviewing board is concerned, it has been our effort to give a sane and reasonable construction to the law and its application to pictures."

simplify the capital structure, if a quorum can be arranged.

It is also reported the new proposal would involve the creation of a new common and a new preferred issue to be issued in exchange for the present common, "A" and preferred, the accumulations to be paid off in common shares.

Back dividends on the 8,043 shares of eight per cent preferred total $50 a share, while accumulations on the 242,823 shares of $4 Class A totals $26 a share. There are in addition $2,065,500 of seven per cent bonds, due in 1937, and 948,581 shares of common stock outstanding.

"Hollywood Party" was one of the season's major disappointments, doing only $2,600 at the Fulton, the worst at this house in some time, while the Pitt, in its last week before closing for the summer, got a weak $5,000 with "Woman's Man" and the "Broadway to Rio" unit. Allied Heads Study Joint Buying Plan

Would Supplant Proposed Producing Venture

A plan for marshaling independent exhibitor buying power nationally is being considered by Allied States directors in session at the Warwick Hotel, it was learned yesterday. The plan provides for booking arrangements through Allied field offices of the product of cooperating distributors and, if approved by the organization, would supplant its earlier plans for sponsoring its own productions, according to report.

An Allied official denied yesterday that Allied's producing plan was dead now. It was reported, however, that

Insiders' Outlook

JOE SCHENCK is unworried over what's in the offing for the immediate future if (1) admissions are raised generally throughout the country and (2) some sort of a brake is applied to what he terms the "recklessness" of double features. In a long talk with him yesterday, these thoughts on his mind, as well as some others, he unloaded. His argument on admission hikes is that producers won't be able to afford further expensive negatives unless the returns from exhibition support their judgment by swelling their returns. . . .

"It seems simple to me," he continued, "that the Capitol Theatre, for example, charging 50 cents, single feature, is entitled to protection over the house around the corner that charges 15 cents, double feature. What about stage shows, you ask? They don't mean a thing unless the theatres can get names. How many names are there and how many houses running stage shows or presentations anyway? It's all in the film. That's where the protection should come in." . . . He might have added that's where the amusement comes in, too. . . .

As if in direct answer to his slant on presentations, which have been pretty bad along Broadway, developed the yarn on the operating pool between the Capitol, which Schenck spoke about, and the Paramount. Battle scarred and financially dented by their own competitive bidding for "names," the necessary individuals at Loew's and Paramount first discussed the pros and cons of a pool a year ago. Difficult to arrange at best, nothing came of the idea. . . .

Five weeks ago and because grosses were what they were, the seed took root again. Last night and immediately prior to the departure west of the Paramount home office group, saddened by the untimely death of Stan Waite, the detail was washed up and the booking gents at Paramount instructed to rearrange their dates—with film we mean. What does it mean? For the Paramount: No more stage show competition and second choice on M-G-M and Paramount product. For the Capitol: An all-sound policy, with product selected from the cream of both companies' crop. . . . For vaudevillians: One booking where two prevailed and less competition, for their services. For Boris Morros: Loss of "It Ain't No Sin" to Edward Bowes.

Offspring of the New York Central Vanderbilts, George of that illustrious name is Europe-bound to make a picture. He likes to dabble with cameras and celluloid, "Devil's Playground" being his maiden effort. If he sticks to his hobby up to and including September a year hence, it may result in a new film bankroll. For then George walks into a $10,000,000 heritage and also his majority, in point of years. . . . Cullman-to-KAO, a potential move which the Banking Lehman's know about but nobody else, if everybody else is to be taken at face value, may begin to pop when David Sarnoff gets accustomed to these shores after a Continental jaunt. Which will be shortly now. . . .

Around the Columbia office. Jack Cohn: "That's what I've been telling you. You can't analyze doubles." Nat Spingold: "For God's sake, that's what I've been telling you for six months.

This double feature situation—"Cohn: "I don't mean pictures. I'm talking about bridge." . . . M-G-M paid copy, under a photo of Edwin C. Hill, reads:

On May 22 the trade press printed the announcement that Edwin C. Hill, the Magic Voice, was signed by Hearst Metrotone News.

Thanks for the compliment, Si Seadler. MOTION PICTURE DAILY carried the yarn alone on that day. . . . KANN

Giveaways Stopped; Film Ban Is Ended

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—On their promise to comply with code provisions prohibiting giveaways, two Oakland theatre corporations will now receive film product from San Francisco exchanges, it was stated yesterday by Rowena Foley, secretary of the code boards.

The exhibitors are Monarch Theatre Corp., operating the Granada, and the Foothill Boulevard Amusement Co., operating the Capitol.

Testimony was completed today in the hearing before the zoning board of the Nasser brothers' protest for shorter clearance.

Two appeals to Campi have been filed, one by Maurice Klein of the Victory, San Jose, who was ordered to stop "bank nights," the other by Gerald Hardy of Fresno, whose charge of overbooking against Fox West Coast was dismissed.

W. F. Cooney of the Plaza, Oakland, was victorious in his charge Aaron Wagon of the Rialto, the same city, was printing advance bookings two months ahead.

K. C. Board Frees Fox on 2 Complaints

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—First complaints involving Fox Midwest were considered today by the grievance board, which dismissed two charges of reduced admissions on proof that the Fox houses did not run the pictures cited in the complaints. In a third complaint on the same charge Fox was found guilty of running "Sons of the Desert" at the Isis for 15 cents in a 25-cent spot.

While absolving L. M. Robinson of the charge he bought up product in Bethany, Mo., without having a theatre there in order to deprive I. W. Maple of films, the board adjudged him guilty of violating the code by unduly interfering with the complainant's negotiations for a lease on a new house.

Admissions Govern In Memphis Zoning

MEMPHIS, June 13.—Admission prices will be the dominant factor in the new zoning schedule which probably will be completed today. After two days of hearings it is understood that, in spite of a seven-day cut in the schedule as presented for argument, downtown houses will get greater clearance over local neighborhoods than they have had in the past.

Downtown theatres had complained against non-theatrical showings like the Hotel Peabody, Memphis Country Club and the Lake Forest resort, but withdrew the complaint during the second day of hearing without giving any reason.

Rule on "Bank Nights"

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13.—In its first decision the grievance board has ruled that "bank nights" are not violations of the code if the exhibitor advertises in advance that ticket holders are not required to buy admissions to theatres. The case was a complaint of A. B. Momand, owner of the Odeon, Shawnee, against the Griffith Amusement Co., operating the Bison, Critterion and Rex, Shawnee.

Washington Board Hears Four of Six Clearances

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Four of the six cases on the local clearance and zoning board's docket have been heard to a conclusion. The two not heard are scheduled to come up before the board June 19.

The first case heard was that of Sam Tabor, operating the Lyceum, Sparrow's Point, Md., protesting against the clearance now afforded Frank Durkee's Grand Highland, Baltimore. Tabor claimed that 10 miles between the two houses made the present clearance of 14 days unreasonable. Durkee replied that due to his extensive advertising and mailing list the protection should be maintained. The Board decided that the present clearance was fair and reasonable.

After suffering two adverse decisions on the same situation here and in Norfolk, A. E. Lichtman won his case against the White Theatres of Richmond, operated by Loew and Wilmer-Vincent interests. Lichtman charged that the present clearance of 47 days was unreasonable and unfair. The board decided that the Booker

T., the Lichtman house involved, was entitled to product 28 days following the last first run playdate in Richmond.

Hunter Perry, operating the Paramount and James, Newport News, protested the clearance enjoyed by Loew and Wilmer-Vincent houses in Norfolk and asked the elimination of all protection now afforded the Norfolk houses. The board decided that the clearance of the first run Norfolk houses over Newport News first runs was unreasonable and that none at all should exist.

William S. Wilder, operating the Gates, Portsmouth, filed a complaint against the first run theatres of Norfolk. But before the case was called and officially opened, Wilder proposed to Joseph Eagan and Carter T. Barron, attorneys for the Norfolk houses, that they agree not to exhibit pictures second run until Portsmouth had played them first run. Eagan and Barron accepted the agreement and the case was withdrawn. The original protest had provided for this arrangement with a clearance of seven days to be enjoyed by Norfolk.

N. O. Board Adopts Clearance Changes

NEW ORLEANS, June 13.—New clearances have been adopted by the clearance and zoning board.

First runs operated by Saenger get 60 days, with Lazarus houses in the commercial area waiting 90 days. First subsequent runs, generally sold to United Theatres, get 60 days after first run; second subsequent runs, 120 days; third, 150 days. First runs sold to Loew's are identical except for the second run, which is 45 days after first run.

Orpheum first runs get 30 days over second, or first subsequent run, 60 days over Lazarus commercial area houses, 90 days over second subsequent run and 120 over third subsequent run. St. Charles and Liberty are identical, but for the Lazarus houses, which get product 30 days instead of 60 days after. Zoning areas are to be adopted soon and will probably conform to the zoning now used by the major exchanges selling Saenger and Loew. Protests will be heard on these schedules.

Clearance Hearings Given in Portland

PORTLAND, June 13.—At the weekly meeting of the clearance and zoning board today the cases of Geller vs. Paramount Distributing Co. and Paramount Theatre, and the William Cutts vs. Radio, Warner-F. N., Universal and Fox complaint. Both were on questions of clearance.

The board took under advisement the question of re-zoning the city.

The grievance board heard a complaint of Cutts against the C. B. Hudson Colonial covering admission prices and decided in favor of Cutts.

Buying Up in Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, June 13.—One overbuying complaint is scheduled to come before the grievance board June 15.

Clearances Are Set By St. Louis Board

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—The clearance and zoning board has declined to grant the Publix Great State Theatres, Inc., request that their first run houses in Springfield, Ill., should be given clearance over theatres in Jacksonville, Ill. The applicant was willing that the Jacksonville houses should play immediately behind Springfield, but the board decided they were not entitled to any clearance.

The Publix-Great States and Fox first run houses in Springfield were granted 35-day clearance over the subsequent runs in Springfield.

In another group of cases involving the Publix-Great States Theatres, Inc., first run houses in Alton, Ill., those houses were given 30 days over Wood River, Ill., a prior run over Hardin, Ill., provided that the pictures are played within 28 days of availability in Alton, 45 days over East Alton and Upper Alton, instead of the 60 days asked, and 30 days over the Temple in Alton. The board declined to grant any clearance for Alton over Edwardsville.

Walter A. Thimmig of the McNair Theatre has asked the clearance and zoning board to re-hear a case decided against him in favor of the Cinderella and Gravois. He claims Louis Ansell should not have sat on the board when David Nelson, an exhibitor in his classification, was available.

Ansell sat after Fred Wehrenberg, owner of the Cinderella, had disqualified himself. Thimmig wants Wehrenberg's 42-day clearance cut.

Thompson Quits Job On the Review Board

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Charging the National Recovery Administration with aiming at Fascism, W. O. Thompson of Chicago today resigned from the National Recovery Review Board.

With the board scheduled to dissolve before the end of the month, Thompson's resignation is purely a gesture to emphasize his disapproval of the recovery administration. His action is not entirely unexpected, as it has been known he had refused to sign the report made public by the board yesterday, covering 14 industries.

Thompson, in leaving the board, assumed full responsibility for the "supplemental" report which accompanied the report on the film and seven other industries last month, in which he said the country was faced with a choice between government fostered monopoly and socialization of industry.

a group of Paramount Publix bondholders, and asserted that the Paramount trustees, particularly Charles E. Richardson and Eugene W. Leake, were disqualified from acting in the settlement because of old associations with Fox Film and Film Securities Corp. Leake was president of the latter organization which was set up to take over the Fox interest in Loew's a number of years ago.

Counsel for the Paramount trustees pointed out that Richardson, a former treasurer of Fox, had taken no part in the West Coast settlement because of his former association. Judge Coxie denied Zirn's petition from the bench.

The Paramount-F. W. C. settlement, approved by Referee Ehrhorn several weeks ago, was a complex agreement providing for new leases to be taken by Fox West Coast on a number of Paramount theatres at San Francisco, Oakland, Portland and Seattle, and for the payment of back rent to Paramount on a number of the defaulted leases. F. W. C. had repudiated the leases, contending that Paramount had defaulted on the original agreements, made in 1930.

New RKO Bankrupt Move in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 13.—A petition for the reorganization of RKO under the new bankruptcy laws has been filed in U. S. District Court here by a group of RKO bondholder creditors. The petition is similar to that filed by RKO in Federal District Court at New York last week. RKO is expected to file an answer to the bondholders' petition here within the next few days.

The new Federal bankruptcy laws require corporations to file answers within 10 days to petitions instituted by creditors for reorganization of the corporations under the new statutes. The petition in U. S. District Court here was filed by RKO itself on approval of its board of directors, hence no answer to that petition is required.

security holders may file a petition to reorganize a distressed firm, but before the court names a trustee 75 per cent of creditors or security holders must approve. The mortgage firm alleges it holds $225,000 of 10-year six per cent debenture bonds of General Theatres which are in default in interest.

General Theatres is now in receivership.

Allied Heads Study Joint Buying Plan

the organization had definitely abandoned the plan for this season, at least, due to the short length of time which remains before exhibitors will be required to book new season's product. Allied, it was said, could not have its proposed product lineup in definite enough form to meet the buying deadlines of a large number of exhibitors. Under the organization's "recommended booking" plan, co-operative arrangements would be made with any distributor who agreed to a playing term basis to be outlined by Allied.

National Screen Service established headquarters in the Warwick for the period of the meeting and is cooperating with Allied in the latter organization's opposition to producer-made trailers, a subject also on tap for the directors' attention. Church and civic campaigns against "indecent" films, code subjects and Allied's plans for expanding organization in new territories are also under discussion. The meeting continues throughout today and may be extended into Friday if action lags on the numerous subjects up for discussion.

Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, is presiding at the sessions. In attendance are: Abram F. Myers, general counsel; Nathan Yamins, Walter B. Littlefield, W. A. Steffes, H. M. Richey, M. B. Horwitz, Ray Branch, Edward Ansin, Ben Berger, Fred Herrington, Herman Blum, Arthur Price, Ruben Frels, William Smalley, Chester Didsbury, Frank Hornig and Abe Stone.

the meantime organization details will be worked out.

Officers are: Ike Katz, Montgomery, president; Earle E. Griggs, secretary; C. A. Coart, Atlanta, treasurer; C. D. Swint, Atlanta; Mrs. Fay Ellis, Miami; N. H. Waters, Birmingham, and Ben Borisky, Chattanooga, vice-presidents. John Gillooly, St. Petersburg; L. J. Duncan, Lanette, Ala.; Sam Borisky, Chattanooga, and Alpha Fowler, Atlanta, are directors, with the officers.

Approximately 70 theatres were represented at the first meeting, all signers signifying they were in no way affiliated with producers or distributors.

Looking 'Em Over

"Are We Civilized?"

(Raspin)

Those who think the screen has a message to deliver, some function to perform in solving the world's problems probably will like this. Those who put down their quarters for straight entertainment are apt to resent it, unless they happen to be among those who argue as to whether Hitler is right or wrong.

Harold Sherman, author of the story, apparently has set up the thesis that human happiness can be obtained only by subduing national rivalries and spreading the gospel of universal brotherhood. To get his views across he takes a wisp of a story—a father who returns to his native country, presumably Germany, to find his editor son the victim of all kinds of censorship, but at the same time engaged to the censor's daughter. At a dinner in his honor he criticizes the government.

Police burn the son's library, the boy is attacked, the girl rescues him, and finally the father is killed by a mob. Between the riot scenes William Farnum talks almost continuously expounding the views of the author. He dies for his frankness.

To illustrate Farnum's monologue World War scenes, naval battles, the Civil War, riots, peace parades and other stock shots are introduced.

The picture is well staged. All the principals, Farnum, Frank McGlynn, Oscar Apfel, Anita Louise, Leroy Mason and Stuart Holmes are adequate, but the film can't be classified as entertainment. Edwin Carewe produced. Running time, 60 minutes.

"Randy Rides Alone"

(Monogram)

A fast moving, exciting western that should not only appeal to kids but to adults as well, for besides the routine shots of the hero dashing about on a white horse followed by the rest of the cast on black ones, there are plausible situations and mature dialogue.

John Wayne arrives at the Halfway House to find the proprietor and several guests murdered. He is about to leave when Earl Dwire, the sheriff, arrives with his posse, led by George Hayes, the town storekeeper, and arrests him. Wayne is allowed to escape by Alberta Vaughn, niece of the slain proprietor, and falls in with the gang that did the killing, only to find that Hayes is their leader. Wayne then leaves the gang after it captures Miss Vaughn, removes the money it is seeking and substitutes dynamite in its place. He then leads the sheriff and his posse to the bandits' hideout. Hayes escapes in the ensuing battle, but is killed by dynamite when he tries to get the money. Wayne is then disclosed as a secret agent of an express company and the fadeout finds him and Miss Vaughn in each other's arms.

The cast also includes Yakima Canutt, Tex Phelps and Arthur Ortega. Harry Fraser directed. Running time, 53 minutes.

"Private Scandal," tonight's preview at the Mayfair, was viewed by wire from Hollywood on April 25.

"The Life of Vergie Winters," today's opener at the Radio City Music Hall, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on May 25.

Court Refuses Ban On K. C. Auditorium

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—The Kansas Supreme Court has denied the appeal of Kansas City Kan., exhibitors on a petition for an injunction to restrain the trustees of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial building in that city from leasing the auditorium to the local American Legion post for wrestling and other athletic events.

The original suit, in the Wyandotte County District Court, was in the name of Paul F. Rodenbeck, a taxpayer, contending the memorial was built and maintained by taxpayers and its use for commercial enterprises was unfair competition.

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Bijou Fernandez is eastbound on a talent scouting expedition for Fox. She will concentrate on summer stock companies in the Middle West and New England.

Carroll Working on Films as Stage Aid

Experiments to revivify the stage through the medium of the screen are being conducted by Earl Carroll at the Eastern Service studios in Astoria. The producer believes that by use of rear projection in color a play can be given greater continuity and added realism. In this way off-stage happenings and effects need not be imagined by the audience. The film portions would be shot with the same players appearing in the play, according to Carroll.

Ward H. Johnson Dead

Stanley Waite Dies Suddenly In His Office

Monday. He had appeared at his office as usual yesterday morning, apparently in good health. Toward noon he was seized with pains which became increasingly severe. While a physician was being summoned, he lost consciousness and died soon after.

Waite was 44 years old. He became associated with Paramount in 1927 as sales manager of short subjects and the newsreel. He continued to occupy this post until the realignment of the Paramount sales organization in 1931, when it was given its present three-division setup. He was manager of division No. 2, which included Boston, New Haven, Maine, Atlanta, Memphis, Charlotte, Jacksonville, New Orleans, Dallas and San Antonio.

Started With Pathe

He entered the industry as branch manager for Pathe at Boston, in which post he remained for two years. Thereafter he was advanced to central division manager for Pathe and later became home office sales representative for the company, the post he occupied just prior to joining Paramount.

Waite was born in Menominee, Mich., and studied at Yale and the University of Michigan. On leaving school he went to South America, where he managed a fibre plantation for two years. He returned to the States and engaged in selling for a machinery manufacturer. During the World War he served as a first lieutenant in the Second Division for three years and participated in all major engagements in which that division figured.

His home was in Bronxville. He is survived by his widow and a nine-year-old daughter.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed up to late yesterday.

"We have lost a fine man and a most capable, young executive," Adolph Zukor, Paramount president, commented.

"He was one of the men I could depend upon in any emergency," said George Schaefer, general manager. "I feel the loss more deeply than I can express."

"We who worked with him know the extent of the loss and the gap in Paramount ranks his passing leaves," said Neil Agnew, general sales manager.

William Wilby Killed

ATLANTA, June 13.—William Wilby, father of R. B. Wilby, president of the Wilby-Kincey Theatres, Inc., was killed in an auto accident near Kingsport, Tenn., last week. He was buried at Selma, Ala., the family home. He was en route home from a plumbers' code conference.

Adolph Samuels Passes

ATLANTA, June 13.—Adolph Samuels, pioneer exhibitor, died suddenly from a heart attack. He was entering his office at the Alamo. He had operated the house for more than two decades. He was 66 years old.

United Artists while we may be distributing 24. Immediately the four which do not play Loew time are hurt with other exhibitors, who assume the product is inferior. By handling that type of picture through a separate distributing company, we hope the situation will be met from our point of view."

Schenck pointed out U. A. has deals with both London Films and British and Dominion for release yearly of a limited number of pictures. Recently Maurice Silverstone, British managing director for U. A., declared the company would handle two from B. & D. here next season. However, B. & D. are making 12, thereby leaving a possible 10 for American distribution through Mundus, if the parties of both parts can get together on terms.

Phila. Business Hit By Church Boycott

normal but a good percentage of it has been attributed to the boycott. With the neighborhoods the squawk is louder. Theatres in strong Catholic parishes have felt a definite reaction. Worrying showmen is the fact that the full strength of the boycott hasn't been felt yet. They look for its full force next week.

Era of Cleaner Film Foreseen by Skinner

COLUMBUS, June 13.—Dr. Beverly O. Skinner, state director of education and ex-officio head of the censor board, predicts an era when there will be less objectionable material in films.

"I am thoroughly in sympathy with the general movement among both Catholics and Protestants to arouse public sentiment against indecent films," he says. "The cooperation of these groups has been very helpful to the board, which is doing the best it can under the circumstances."

Second Boycott List Appears in Buffalo

BUFFALO, June 13.—The second monthly list of pictures being boycotted by the Catholic Legion of Decency in Buffalo has just been made public. It includes: "Laughing Boy," "He Was Her Man," "Murder at the Vanities," "Dr. Monica," "The Life of Vergie Winters."

The list has been compiled by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, of St. Louis, editor of the Catholic publication America.

Here on Dual Bills

Eckman Urges Britain to Avoid Overbuying Urge

applications for new theatres. I was and still am in favor of some such plan."

Emphasizing that he was speaking for himself alone, Eckman said the plan had failed "because of what I consider a mistaken belief renters would be relinquishing their privilege of transacting their own business with whom they pleased."

He cited such a committee in his opinion would be a safeguard against three types guilty of overexpansion. One, he described as exhibitors, more ambitious than judicious, who need the advice of representative exhibitors and renters. The second, he viewed as investors from other fields who were misinformed on theatre possibilities. The third, he said, were speculators who build only for a sale to competitors.

Eckman argued a clearing house such as he suggested would prove a deterrent to all new projects except those viewed as necessary in the opinion of all branches of the industry. He concluded with an outspoken appeal to John Maxwell, president of British International and Eckman's successor to the presidency of the K. R. S.

"I appeal, as an exhibitor and a renter, to the president of the K. R. S. to use his great influence in exhibition and renting circles to assist in the establishment of some curbing influence either through a plan propounded by the C. E. A. with modifications or some other plan."

The M-G-M official, who rates high in British trade circles, traced the course of overbuilding in America and blamed its start on the disintegration of the original First National through the purchase of its franchise holders' interests by Paramount.

Delegates Are Stirred

His speech created a stir among delegates, many of whom expressed their fear over a repetition here of the troubles which beset the American industry. Sidney Bernstein, London theatre operator, made the statement insurance companies were putting "loose money" into theatres and added he looked forward to the day when there would be a merger of mortgagees. "Too many people are trying to grasp quick profits," he stated.

J. Davies argued for a governing body for the industry to save it from what he described as "the degradation of wholesale bankruptcy."

Maxwell, speaking as a producer, went on record in favor of less dialogue and more left to the imagination of the public. He discussed a formula which would provide films with greater universal appeal and concluded this might prove the answer. Hollywood had been successful in putting over snappy dialogue, he added, and commented this met the taste of the British public. Declaring the great mass of the public was "starved of music," Maxwell concluded here was a great field. He said B. I. P.'s experience with musicals had been successful, placing that type of picture, plus farces, at the head of the list in the public's favor.

Blunt language on the rentals situation was another highlight of today's session. Vice-President Dooner pleaded for an elastic, sliding scale varying with the grade of product concerned. He argued that exhibitors should be permitted to retain the greater portion of grosses and to agree to percentage splits with distributors only after theatre overhead was met.

Arthur Dent of Wardour Films took the stand that when films were plentiful exhibitors had no consideration for either producers or distributors. He said the advent of talkers had marked a decline in the profits of producers and charged exhibitors were "squealing" now that distributors were trying to get better prices.

It is not possible to standardize rentals any more than such a move could be possible with production, he continued. He pointed out that there must be free competition and that distributors could not be expected to perpetuate what he described as "the dead hand of the past." He further declared he saw no reason why they should grant concessions to meet over-capitalized theatre ventures.

A resolution expressing disappointment over the defeat met by the Webb amendment which sought reductions in the entertainment tax was passed and a determination expressed not to rest until relief is achieved.

shows, signed through its own booking resources as well as those of the Loew Booking Office and pick product from M-G-M and Paramount releases which the Capitol, as the impending "ace" house, rejects. Edward Bowes continues in charge of the Capitol and Boris Morros in charge of the Paramount.

Under the arrangement, the first M-G-M release to go into the Paramount will be "The Rear Car," with Charles Ruggles. The first Paramount to play the Capitol will be "It Ain't No Sin," the long-awaited Mae West vehicle. The Paramount thus becomes the only major first run on the street to continue with pictures and stage shows. Cut-throat competition for "name" acts waged by both houses long has been viewed as ruinous by many Times Square theatre-men.

Directors Say They Want Block Booking Ended

Allied States is making no effort to obtain an increase in the cancellation percentage as established in the code but is endorsing the Darrow review board's report which recommended abolition of block booking, it was stated yesterday at the meeting of Allied directors here.

Local efforts of independent exhibitor units to obtain 15 and 25 per cent cancellation privileges, particularly in sections where moves are under way to increase admissions and abolish double featuring, were described at the national directors' meeting as of "purely local significance."

It was also indicated at the meeting that Allied will withdraw quietly from

Worry Over Trade Restraint

Loew's and Warner theatre executives are awaiting legal interpretation of the proposed pact to eliminate duals in Cleveland after July 8 on the premise that the agreement, as drawn, smacks of restraint of trade.

Declaring privately they would welcome the move, it is this angle which is holding up clearance of the agreement which M. B. Horwitz, representing the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n, brought east Monday signed by 92, or all of the theatremen in Greater Cleveland, sans the two missing circuits.

Laemmle Favors One Nation Boycott to Defeat Quotas

By RED KANN

Disturbed, as are all American distributors, by the constantly increasing pressure brought to bear by foreign legislation cramping distribution of American pictures on the Continent, Carl Laemmle believes complete withdrawal from one of those markets by the industry—all of it—would deliver an object lesson and a deterrent to similar activities in other parts of Europe.

The Universal president yesterday expounded his theory, which is merely that—at least, so far:

"It so happens American pictures

Insiders' Outlook

INFINITESIMAL, of course, by comparison with the $22-645,000,000 lost by the nation in foreign trade in the last 38 years, it is, nevertheless, true that films supplied part of that shrinkage. The reasons are several. One has been the lure which has dazzled several of the majors into maintaining distributing points in generally non-productive territory, principally because it sounds swell to have the globe dotted with their own offices. Second has been the rising tide of nationalism on the Continent and now in South America where Brazil the other day enacted a quota law. This has thrown barriers—many of them—in the path of American operations thereby making their year-by-year experience a precarious one. . . .

The larger companies today are committed to a policy which keeps them in any territory where a dollar may be earned. Earning it, however, doesn't always mean getting it into New York, for the countries which have banned transfer of cash over their borders are greater than the normal total of fingers and toes. A question, difficult to determine, however, is whether the shriveled profits from countries like Germany rate the effort when matched against the investment tied up and the intangible computation of what might be done with similar amounts of capital diverted to enterprises where travail is less and operations lesser. . . .

In the meantime, the curious attitude of the American Treasury Department, as reflected in its policy, continues to sweeten the efforts of foreign producers and importers angling for a break in this market. The latest along such lines is the decision of a judge of the customs court who, by ruling, makes it possible to bring in films without import duty, to have as many prints struck off as may be desired so long as the original is shipped back to its source six months after arrival in any port in this land. . . .

The situation which thus pieces itself together is as simple as it is confounding. British quotas, French, Italian, German, Brazilian and others rest on the statute books of those governments. Import taxes of various descriptions have been conceived to dwarf the commercial progress of American pictures in world markets. Yet in defense of a major industry, the American government plays along with its competitors. Whose country is this, anyway? . . .

The bugaboo angle that it may prove restraint of trade is stopping Loew's and Warners from signaturing the Cleveland pact to eliminate duals after July 8. Circuit officials are hanging on lawyers' words. Moe Horwitz, fiery Cleveland independent here with 92 brother independents ready to go along, is sizzling. Says the circuits talk about duals, wring their hands because the practice is so difficult to eliminate and now hedge when they get their chance. . . .

Some there were yesterday who read significance into the first M-G-M to reach the Paramount under its pool with the Capitol. "The Rear Car" is the opus. Radioites, thinking affectionately of their Music Hall, view the deal eliminating the stage show from the Capitol swell. Say they're ready to send letters of thanks to both Loew's and Paramount. . . . Filmdom was scattered all over the Bowl in Long Island City last night to see Baer capture the heavyweight championship of the world from Carnera by a technical knockout.

The break between Fox and Lilian Harvey is hardly a surprise. The tip that all was not well has been around on both coasts for months. . . . Title jam over "The World in Revolt" and "The World at War" was Hays-adjudicated the other day in favor of the former. Fox objected, claiming its Laurence Stallings-edited picture of the World War faced encroachment by the Mentone edition of world revolutions, 1914-1934 style. . . .

set up for it. Joe Breen is doing an excellent job, but it's a question if this isn't too big a job for any one man to handle. Perhaps we will not only tighten the existing machinery, but add to it as well."

This slant developed in a discussion with Schenck in which the president of United Artists was asked how he regarded the rising tide of church opposition against objectionable films, led largely by the Catholic Church.

"The Catholic Church has been liberal," he stated. "I believe the current agitation against pictures, however, develops largely from the fact that prelates and bishops do not see pictures. There can be no question that the tone of the product today is better than the tone of the product, let's say, four or five years ago."

"I think most pictures today are fine. Certainly, many of them do good. But what happens to the good? Nobody argues for them because they are good. That seems to be taken for granted, but the bad are singled out."

Deplores "Obstacles"

"It is true we have overstepped the line from time to time. But isn't it a fact that we must deal with life as it is? The public demands reality and the reality of life is different today from what it was years ago. The United States Government, the public and the newspapers, instead of being proud of the picture industry—which leads the world—are ready at all times to put obstacles in the way of its development. Every intelligent, thinking Britisher, all newspapers in Great Britain, do everything in their power to help the British picture industry. Governments on the Continent have done likewise."

The pre-censorship machinery to which Schenck referred is conducted in Hollywood under the aegis of Joseph I. Breen, executive assistant to Will H. Hays there. It sets up a system whereby properties purchased for production are read and analyzed by Breen and his staff and a written opinion submitted as to whether or not the resultant picture would observe the mandates of the production code.

Anent Scenario Treatments

Scenario treatments subsequently are submitted and checked over under the same system and changes urged where revisions, in the light of Breen's experience with censor boards and club organizations, indicate specific incidents or dialogue will run afoul of objections upon release of the picture in question.

The third step finds Breen previewing product, suggesting changes where necessary. In the main, major studios have bowed to Breen's judgment. In the event of disputes, a rotating committee of three, drawn alphabetically from a selected list of major studio executives, determines moot issues. In some instances, objections registered by Breen have been overruled, but these have been infrequent.

Toronto Court Puts Fines on Picketers

TORONTO, June 14.—Picketing of the Lareta here for two days cost reputed members of Toronto Operators' Local 173 $200 and costs when the owners of the house, Jack Barden and Albert Holloway, sued film men, including W. P. Covert, international I. A. T. S. E. vice-president, for damages for loss of business. The court awarded the above amount, but also ordered the theatre to pay back wages owing to Fred Pearson, operator, one of the defendants. The decision established an important precedent in Canadian law.

In the Balance

Columbia has made no decision relative to production in England, although the possibility that it will use pictures made on order for quota purposes in favor of its own is strong.

Sailing tomorrow on the Ile de France, Joseph H. Seidelman, foreign sales manager, is expected to decide after he arrives in London.

Cullman Made Roxy Bankruptcy Trustee

Howard S. Cullman at 12:01 this morning officially assumed the title of trustee for the Roxy. U. S. District Judge Caffey on Wednesday evening signed an order making the receiver a trustee.

The transfer of the Roxy receivership to bankruptcy under the new law originally came up before Judge Alfred C. Cox and he decided because the company was in equity receivership, court actions should continue under the same judge who had been handling the corporation in the past.

Again first mortgage bondholders state there will be no hiatus in operation of the house, which this morning changes all contracts to conform to bankruptcy procedure. A spokesman for the bondholders yesterday said there was no definite deal near consummation. However, there are three or four under consideration, but none has a definite commitment to make.

Cancellation Jumps Not in Allied Policy

cooperation with the M. P. Research Council, with which friendly relations were established last fall, Allied even pledging itself to participate in the raising of a campaign fund for the council. Explaining the apparent breach is the stand taken by Rev. William Short, secretary of the council, in advocating exhibition of films by non-theatrical agencies, such as churches, clubs and civic organizations.

With the bulk of the business before the Allied meeting still unfinished at the close of yesterday's session, the directors voted to continue the meeting today. Resolutions opposing producer-made trailers and definite plans for organization booking deals, rather than an Allied-sponsored production program, are expected at today's session.

MPTO of Maryland Hits Block Booking

BALTIMORE, June 14.—The M. P. T. O. of Maryland met today and passed a resolution stating its members are innocent victims of block booking and have absolutely no control over the type of pictures found objectionable.

The unit asserts it must accept without elimination all pictures produced. It was requested that efforts be concentrated on producers and the boycott on theatres is being withheld until producers are given time to answer.

distributed on the independent market, according to E. W. Hammons. The arrangement has no bearing on Educational shorts. R. N. ("Bob") Savini becomes general sales manager of World Wide.

Two franchises with former Educational men already have been closed. New England went to Leo Britton, former city salesman there. Philadelphia and Washington went to J. A. Bachman, who will open exchanges in both cities. He was formerly a district manager for Educational.

Harry Brandt, Dave Rosengarten and Moe Kerman have formed Time Pictures Corp. to handle New York with offices in the Film Center Bldg. That Brandt would become ambidextrous by becoming a distributor as well as continuing as an exhibitor was reported first in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on May 29.

Brandt denied the story at the time. His brother, William, said: "What do we want in the exchange business? We have enough to do taking care of our circuit."

Nevertheless, he's in it.

Horse Film for Hoffman

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—M. H. Hoffman is now planning an outdoor picture on a big scale featuring the horse "Cloudy." Most of the locations will be in the High Sierras. It will be released as "King of the Sierras."

Non-Signing Theatres May Secure Eagles

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's order authorizing the issuance of code eagle insignia to employers who have not signed the codes for their industries, but are living up to code requirements is expected to bring under the NRA a number of exhibitors who, for one reason or another, have failed to assent to the film code, although complying with its provisions.

The order followed months of wrangling over the Ford motor case, although officials of the Administration denied that it was aimed particularly at that company.

Although the insignia is to be distributed to non-signers, it is stipulated that to secure the blue eagle they must have no obligations charged against them. Once conferred upon them, the code eagle may not be withdrawn except for code violations.

Kelly Wins Jersey Clearance Verdict

E. Thornton Kelly of the Grant Lee, Fort Lee, N. J., is the second Allied of New Jersey exhibitor to win a clearance and zoning decision by the New York board. In his complaint against Fox and Oritani, Hackensack; U. S., Paterson; State, Capitol and Lincoln, Union City; Park Lane, Palisades Park; Plaza, Englewood; State, Jersey and Stanley, Jersey City; Embassy, North Bergen, the contestant was given the following verdict:

"The board finds the Park Lane, Palisades, and Grant Lee, Fort Lee, both competitive and entitled to seven days clearance on each other, both these houses to follow 14 days after the Embassy, North Bergen, State Capitol, Union City; Lincoln, Union City; seven days after Englewood and in no event less than 14 days after Hackensack.

New Clearances Set In San Jose Sector

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—First general clearance plan for the San Jose zone has been adopted by the San Francisco clearance and zoning board. It affects 13 theatres.

Under its terms first runs using dual bills lose some of their clearance over second runs playing only one picture. Where first runs use single bills and second doubles the clearance is lengthened.

Where first runs charge 40 cents top they get 63 days' clearance over second runs charging 30 cents. First run duals get 42 days over second run singles. First run singles get 105 days over second run duals.

Theatres in San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties have signed 75 per cent strong to stop giving rebates in the form of premiums or gifts and the agreement goes into effect in 90 days.

The grievance board session was attended by Charles Skouras and R. N. McCullough, who are here settling the details of readjustments of Paramount-Publix leases.

Dillard Here on Code Costs

Tyree Dillard, Jr., of the NRA legal department in Washington, is in New York conferring with Campi executives on the administrative order for approval of the plan submitted by Code Authority for allocating assessments of producers and distributors. He is also working on the NRA order approving 11 resolutions recently adopted by the extras' standing committee in Hollywood.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt today is expected to approve one of several plans promulgated by Campi for reopening of code assents to non-signers.

Confirming Campi's order of May 25, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson yesterday signed an executive notice whereby code boards will hear all protests on clearance and zoning beginning July 3. This applies to situations where entire schedules are affected.

Twenty Appeals on Tap; Campi In for Busy Day

With 20 appeals on tap, Campi is in for one of its busiest sessions today.

The appeals are in addition to administrative work also on the calendar, such as replacements and reopening of code assents.

Of the 12 appeals scheduled for this morning, six are holdovers from last Friday's meeting and decisions are due today. They are: LaCrosse Theatres and Kayess Theatres Co., LaCrosse, Wis., against L. J. Burkitt of the Classic, Sparta, Wis.; Rogowsky Brothers, Embassy, Port Chester, N. Y., against Skouras' Capitol, same city; E. T. Landis, Princess, Monticello, Ia., against Mrs. Sophie Lambert and Floyd Carter of Monticello, Ia.; Dick Gaston, Iowa Theatre, Fort Madison, Ia., against Fox West Coast Theatres, Fort Madison; Lou Linker of the Criterion, Bridgeton, N. J., against Ben Amsterdam, Stanley, same city; Anderson Theatre Circuit, Egyptian Theatre, De Kalb, Ill., against U. A.

Witnesses Will Not Appear

Six appeals, for which witnesses will not appear, will be heard in executive session. They are:

Imperial, Charlotte, against U. A., Warners, Universal and RKO; Langheinrich Brothers, Burleigh St. Theatre, Milwaukee, against Saxe Amusement Management, Inc.; Pacific National Theatres, Los Angeles against Jay Ben Corp., and Harry Goldfarb of National City, Cal.; M-G-M of Charlotte against L. L. Drake, Ansonia Theatre, Wadesboro, N. C.; C. V. Crawford, Magee Theatre, Magee, Miss., against Sanatorium Theatre, Sanatorium, Miss.; U. A. against A. L. Adams, Palace, Silverton, Ore.

The M-G-M and United Artists appeals are the first two of their kind to come before Campi. In each case the distributor filed the original complaint. On the M-G-M complaint, the distributor asked for designation of percentage dates and when the Charlotte board handed down a decision the Drake appealed. In the U. A. case a definition of contract is involved. The Portland board couldn't agree on the matter and referred it to Code Authority.

The eight appeals to be heard by the board with litigants giving additional testimony are:

Harvard Amusement Co., Brookline, Mass., against Olympia Theatres, Boston, appeal by complainant from the clearance and zoning board decision; Harvard Amusement Co. against Olympia Theatres involving overbuying; Edward T. Bloomberg, Strand, Gloucester, Mass., against Olympia Operating Co., on overbuying, respondent appealing; Dade Theatrical Enterprises, Atlanta, against Sparks Enterprises, Paramount Publix, Fox, appeal by complainant; Louis Tenick, Brooklyn Theatre, Baltimore, against McHenry and Pacey's theatres, Baltimore, appeal by respondents; Lichtman Theatres, Washington, against Loew's State, same city, Loew's appealing 30-day clearance granted by board; Lichtman Theatres, Washington, against Loew's State on another clearance and zoning, Lichtman appealing; Herbert Zimmerman, De Luxe, Baltimore, against McHenry Theatre, on clearance and zoning, appealed by Zimmerman.

Summon Long Island Men Upon Clearance

Exhibitors in eight Long Island towns will be called in next Thursday to appear before the New York clearance and zoning board. The board will attempt to set up clearance schedules for Glen Cove, Huntington, Huntington Station, Smithtown, Port Jefferson, Patchogue, Sayville and Riverhead as a result of a complaint filed by the Port Jefferson, Port Jefferson.

The protesting exhibitor claims unfair clearance by the Smithtown, Smithtown; Sayville, Sayville; Patchogue and Granada, Patchogue; and the Riverhead, Riverhead. Defendant houses are part of the Prudential circuit.

Hear Tampa Case Again

TAMPA, June 14.—A second hearing has been given in Atlanta on John Gillooly's complaint that E. J. Sparks' clearance over his Capitol is excessive. The Capitol is a $140,000 house in a residential section operated only during the tourist season. Sparks' houses are located downtown here and are open all year.

Monogram to Pathe

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Having been assured ample studio space at Pathe, Monogram today leased space there for production. Headquarters will be moved to the new studio within a fortnight from General Service Studios, where Monogram has been producing for the past year.

Producers Seeking Vaude Code Change

Asserting that they are unable to earn a profit under the vaudeville provisions of the code and will be unable to remain in business next year, members of the Vaudeville Producers' Ass'n. are preparing a brief setting forth operating losses and recommendations for changes in the code which they hope to be able to present to President Roosevelt within the next few days.

Charles Maddock, president of the association, said that an appeal for a hearing and for reopening of the code had been sent to Code Authority some time ago. He said that the requests had been denied in language which made "everyone in the association sore."

He said that Senator Royal S. Copeland and Representatives Sol Bloom and William Sirovich, all of New York, had shown an interest in their predicament and through them the association hoped to get its brief before the President.

"Bank Nights" Given Des Moines Approval

DES MOINES, June 14.—"Bank Nights" are not a violation of the code as practiced by the Rialto at Adel, the Garden at Guthrie Center, the Grand at Greenfield and the Iowa at Winterset, according to the local grievance board, which met here yesterday.

The grievance was filed by J. H. Johnson, Princess, of Stuart. The board stressed that it is not necessary to purchase a ticket of admission in order to win an award, and advertising regarding "bank nights" must mention that the winner need not be inside the theatre.

Renshaw Ends Coast Studio Labor Fracas

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Donald Renshaw's first action on the code since his survey here on general code matters as direct emissary from Hugh S. Johnson's office was to order the local NRA compliance board to turn over boards, namely the studio extras' complaints to Major J. R. O'Donovan, Campi secretary.

O'Donovan, in turn, will parcel them out to their respective grievance boards, namely the studio extras' committee and studio labor board. These, O'Donovan has assured, will receive prompt attention with both boards going into action tomorrow.

This will clear up definitely that the local NRA grievance boards has no jurisdiction in adjudicating complaints concerning studio workers. It is the moot matter which George Creel and Judge Lindsey disputed as to authority of studio boards, leading workers to believe they could file complaints with the local NRA board.

Renshaw Goes to Frisco

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Donald Renshaw, special emissary of the NRA, sent here from Washington to enlighten local boards on code problems, today contacted Major J. O. Donovan on film code matters. After a hurried visit to San Diego on other codes Renshaw went to San Francisco and will return here the latter part of next week.

NEW SHOWMANSHIP
TRAILERS

The home of M-G-M trailers... the Greatest Studio on Earth...

A NEW SHOWMANSHIP

The M-G-M trailer will not be "colossal" or "terrific," nor will it be noisy with the adjectives which in the past have been an annoyance both to exhibitor and public. Produced with the same high quality standard of M-G-M features it will enjoy the resources and personnel of the world's greatest studio. No other trailer will be able to show scenes-in-movement and talking sequences from M-G-M productions. Created at the studio, during the filming of the picture, the M-G-M trailer will be of immediate showmanship concern to the producers and directors of the feature picture which it is to advertise. It is the belief of M-G-M that a trailer, in addition to selling seats, should be an entertainment in itself. The new trailer-showmanship of M-G-M is to be the most important promotion step in 10 years!

This is an advertisement of record for many exhibitors who have already contracted for M-G-M trailers.

International Reel Studied By the League

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Development of an international newsreel "for the promotion of mutual understanding between nations" is under study by the League of Nations, it is disclosed by a report on the first international congress on educational cinematography held in Rome last April, just received here.

All phases of the educational possibilities of motion pictures were discussed by the Rome conference, special emphasis being placed upon those activities possible of use in the furtherance of league policies.

In addition to the newsreel as a medium for world peace, the conference considered the censorship question and suggested that a study of systems now in force be made as the basis for preparation of model regulations which could be generally adopted.

To Stimulate Sport Films

With a view to stimulating the production of films on physical culture and sport, it was proposed that an international competition should be organized next year and that the International Olympic Games Committee should be asked to award in 1936 a gold medal for the best sport film, as it had already done for the best book on sport.

Resolutions expressing the view that films should be used as an important auxiliary in teaching of all kinds were adopted by the conference, and it was recommended that studies be made of the possible application of films to research and to improvement of scientific instruction; to assisting young people to choose a profession; to stop the exodus from rural districts by showing how conditions of country life can be improved; to health education and social hygiene, and to accident prevention.

Lang Denies Making Hollywood Attacks

Fritz Lang, German producer, recently signed by M-G-M, yesterday entered denials of disparaging remarks about Hollywood credited to him by newspapermen who interviewed the present exile from Nazism during his last visit here in 1926.

The interviews quoted Lang as saying at the time that he loved films too much to return to America again; that, left to themselves, Americans would kill the motion picture art, and that Pola Negri's artistic career had been ruined by Hollywood casting directors.

Yesterday, Lang denied he had made the statements, attributing them to inaccurate interviewers. He leaves for Hollywood today.

Coast Votes on Premiums

LOS ANGELES, June 14.—The local clearance and zoning board today distributed blanks to all exhibitors defining the area in which premiums and giveaways can be practiced. These practices are to be voted upon and 75 per cent of the exhibitors must approve the plan before it can be adopted.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Little Damsel"

(Principal)

Music by Noel Coward; direction by Herbert Wilcox; cast headed by James Rennie, Anna Neagle and Benita Hume. All of which makes an enjoyable musical from British and Dominion.

Enticing tunes, swell acting by the principals and Walter Angel and first-class direction by Wilcox are what is offered, but exhibitors must bear in mind it is an English film. If their audiences like them, this will go over nicely.

The story concerns Rennie, broke and grieving over his lost love, Miss Hume. He is offered 15,000 pounds to marry Miss Neagle, a cabaret headliner, by Angel, who himself wants to marry Miss Hume. The only way he can get her to consent is to get Rennie wedded to another. Ultimately, Miss Neagle gets wind of the financial transaction, quits Rennie and returns to her cabaret. Losing his wife, although he still loves her—and she has not lost her love for him—Rennie plans suicide. Miss Neagle's manager informs the singer and dancer of Rennie's intention. Although she is at first inclined to stand pat, she later catapults. The reunion takes place on a boat supposedly headed for China. Running time, 65 minutes.

"It's a Boy!"

(Gaiety British)

This farce comedy from the Gainsborough studios is lively entertainment. It is a succession of laughs and clever situations and offers Edward Everett Horton a splendid opportunity to reveal his capabilities as a farceur. The American comedian receives good support from Leslie Henson and Albert Burdon, as able a pair of English funsters as could be imagined. The three are the whole show and make a sure-fire combination in this smartly plotted film, which has many brilliant lines and settings of a high order.

Horton plays the sort of part most typical of him, a fluttery swain. The bride-to-be's father calls off the marriage when Horton turns up late without any sensible explanation. His delay has been caused by some difficulty with a blackmailer who makes a living by presenting himself as the love-child of each of the men mentioned in his dead mother's diary. Under the circumstances Horton feels he cannot tell the truth about the cause of his delay.

With the assistance of a close friend, he tries to lie his way out of the whole mess. Just when an explanation seems to be acceptable to his fiancée's dad something turns up to make the old fellow change his mind. The marriage is on and off time and again. The suspense is ended for Horton when the blackmailer is arrested by the police and his nasty practice revealed to the girl's father.

Among the other players are Heather Thatcher, Alfred Drayton, Wendy Barrie and Helen Haye. Tim Whelan directed creditably. Running time, 74 minutes.

"Mother"

(Garrison Film Distributors)

In "Mother," Mejrabpom Film has seized upon Gorky for the purposes of Soviet propaganda. The producers lose no opportunity to remind the spectator of the brutality of the Czaristic regime toward the laboring classes. The temptation to use this Gorky tale to advance the gospel of communism is understandable, since the novel deals with the uprising of the Russian factory workers in 1905 in an effort to free themselves of the yoke imposed upon them by the government of the Czar.

The film has all the surging power and stark realism commonly to be found in Russian pictures dealing with life among the masses, plus photography that is effective if a bit harsh, but the picture is not popular entertainment for American audiences, chiefly because it is terribly depressing. Not a ray of humor is allowed to break the tragic mood of the story. As a result the film is a trifle monotonous.

A great asset to the film is the faithfulness of its atmospheric detail and the interesting gallery of faces it offers. The chief parts, handled by Vera Baranovskaya, A. Tchistiakov and Nikolai Batalov, are well handled.

The story relates how a mother takes her son's place as leader of the workers after the boy is thrown into jail for heading the factory hands in a strike. In a march on the prison to free the youth and his comrades the workers are shot down in cold blood. The mother dies with her son, who only a moment before was successful in making his escape from jail.

V. I. Pudovkin directed. Running time, 80 minutes.

Short Subjects

"Mickey's Steamroller"

(Disney-United Artists)

Another of Mickey Mouse's harum-scarum adventures, this time having to do with the rescue of two infant nephews who have appropriated Mickey's steamroller while he made love to their nurse. After a wild chase after the runaway steamroller and its two infant passengers, Mickey recovers them unharmed in the debris of a hotel which finally stopped the runaway machine. Good, but slightly less amusing than the average Mickey Mouse. Running time, 8½ minutes.

"The Wise Little Hen"

(Disney-United Artists)

A good Silly Symphony in color, depicting the fable of the wise hen, who, refused help in planting her corn by the pig and the duck, planted and harvested it herself. At eating time she sets out to invite the pig and the duck to join herself and family, but believing she has come to ask them to aid in more work they feign illness. She leaves castor oil with them while the chicks sit down to their corn banquet. Nicely executed and introduces some tuneful melodies. Running time, 8¾ minutes.

"Music in Your Hair"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Good for a bunch of laughs, but a little outdated, because speakeasies are a thing of the past. Billy Gilbert and Billy Fletcher, the latter off beer because of a promise to his wife, meet on the fire escape. Gilbert has a big goblet.

An argument develops about beer and it gets keener when Fletcher's son announces he has a job in the cabaret of a speakeasy. Much of the comedy centers around the efforts of the pair to get into the place. The show is good, once they make it. Running time, 20 mins.

"The Song of Fame"

(Vitaphone)

The story concerns Ruth Etting's attempt to attract the notice of an impresario while she is a singing cigarette girl in a cheap night club, the trick by which she gets him to notice her, and her ultimate success in a Broadway review. Minor and Root, the dance team, do several of their intricate dances. The chorus routines by the Vitaphone Girls are better than average. Ruth Etting fans will eat this one up, though it drags in spots. Running time, 21 mins.

"Those Were Wonderful Days"

(Vitaphone)

A "Merry Melodie" musical cartoon that deals with songs popular some 10 or more years ago. Opens with a barroom quartet and switches to an old-time picnic, during which the hero rescues the girl from the well known villain, only to have her turn on him in the end. Very amusing. Running time, 7 mins.

Major Pacts Not to Have Ban on Duals prohibiting double featuring through restrictive clauses in new season's contracts.

While the replies disclosed that virtually all large distributors are opposed to the dual policy, individual distributors declared that they were unwilling to incorporate a ban on double featuring in their contracts unless all distributors did the same. Fear of losing sales to competitors not enforcing a double featuring ban in some territories was given as the reason for the distributors' unwillingness to take the action urged by M. P. T. O. A.

Two or three distributors stated in their replies that they believed double featuring should be left to the exhibitor to decide and declared that they would take no action on a ban of the policy unless exhibitors themselves outlawed the practice.

The M. P. T. O. A. is now concentrating on this objective, with its local units devising plans in each territory for eliminating the practice. The bulk of these plans, it is indicated, will call for an exhibitor vote on ending duals in individual territories.

Culkin Hits Films In Congress Record

the Congressional Record. It's an old political custom.

The speech is supposed to be in support of his bill to establish a motion picture commission to control the industry. Among other things he charges films with being "a crime-breeding influence among the youth of America."

Not only are pictures showing "the weird and anti-social presentments of crime and love as interpreted by decadent Hollywood," he asserted, "but public officers in every branch of the Government service are ridiculed."

Outlining the efforts of the industry to improve its product through the National Board of Review and other agencies, Culkin said: "It is my belief that the motion picture industry is incapable of self discipline or of court-martialing these grievous offenders against public taste and decency within its own ranks."

This, he declared, has been conceded by "that interesting citizen"—Will H. Hays—in his condemnation of the "cheap vulgarity and sex perversion presented in so many of the present day films."

Condemning block booking, the Congressman declared "many of the theatre owners and managers of the country are definitely restive under the existing order," but their protests have been in vain.

Admitting that 30 per cent of the pictures produced are "rational and artistic presentations of life and nature," Culkin declared that his bill would clean up the other 70 per cent of "salacious, criminal or indecent" films by the elimination of block booking and the establishment of standards to be observed. His bill, however, he contended, is not censorship.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Grand Canary"

(Jesse L. Lasky-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Illogical story developments retard this. Cast, direction and photography are its main values.

The story centers around a doctor, Warner Baxter, who voluntarily exiles himself from London, where, experimenting with a new serum, he is accused of killing three persons. Boarding a tramp steamer headed for the Canary Islands and determined to drink himself to death, he is regenerated through the devotion of Madge Evans, who is returning to Santa Cruz and a wealthy planter husband.

Zita Johann, the doctor's former nurse on the same boat, creates the love triangle with tense, dramatic situations while en route. Landing at Santa Cruz, Baxter misses the boat and resumes the romance with Miss Evans, with her husband becoming involved. Yellow fever breaks out, with Baxter and Miss Johann taking charge. When Miss Evans becomes afflicted he saves her as well as the natives.

Baxter, returning to England, finds a cablegram stating that Miss Evans has squared things with her husband and is returning to him. What little comedy relief, somewhat forced, there is, is furnished by Marjorie Rambeau and Roger Imhoff. Others in the cast include H. B. Warner, Barry Norton, Juliette Compton, Gilbert Emery, John Rogers, Gerald Rogers, Desmond Roberts and Carrie Daumery. Irving Cummings directed and Bert Glennon photographed. Miss Johann's performance ranks second to Baxter's. Running time, 80 minutes.

Looking 'Em Over

"White Heat"

(Seven Seas—J. D. Trop)

Hawaii furnishes practically the entire background, and the director, Lois Weber, has shrewdly included as much scenery as possible for production value.

David Newell, wrapped in his sugar plantation, takes time out for romance and brings Mona Maris, half-caste, into his house. On a trip to San Francisco he meets and marries Virginia Cherrill. The novelty of Hawaii wears off for her and she turns joyfully to Hardie Albright when he arrives on a yacht.

In a jealous rage Newell attacks Albright. Miss Cherrill sets the sugar cane on fire. Newell falls from his horse in the midst of the fire-fighting and he is rescued by Miss Maris. Miss Cherrill flees with Albright.

Some native music and customs are introduced.

The big punch scene is the fire in the sugar cane and Mona Maris' rescue of Newell. Up to this point the story runs along with very little dramatic suspense and only occasional touches of comedy furnished by a Chinese boy and a pig.

At the Gaiety opening yesterday something seemed wrong with the sound. Interior shots had a hollow ring and the dialogue seemed a bit amateurish for a group of trained players.

"Back Page"

(General Pictures)

A tale of small-town journalism, "Back Page" is rather commonplace and unconvincing because it strays too far from the hard facts of truth. Treated with a heavy hand and acted routinely, it fails to avoid touches of dullness.

The story relates the story of Peggy Shannon, newspaper girl, and the wonderful things she does with an anaemic hick town sheet. Fired from a job in the big city, she blusters her way into the editorship of the paper with the help of a recommendation from Russell Hopton, a fellow newspaper worker with whom she is in love, and a friend of the publisher.

Miss Shannon, with a success too meteoric to accept, turns things topsy turvy and remakes the whole sheet. Her big coup is her discovery that the town's banker is crooked and is trying to get hold of the people's earnings, which have been invested in an oil well. He claims the well is a failure when in reality it contains oil. She thus becomes the savior of the town. The fadeout shows Hopton and the miracle girl in close embrace.

Running time, 65 minutes.

Laemmle Favors One Nation Boycott to Defeat Quotas

are necessary to the film industries abroad. It has been demonstrated they cannot get along without our pictures. When I say 'our' pictures, you understand I mean American product.

"Withdrawal in total from one of those markets would soon convince those who may doubt it that this is the case. I believe the consequences would result in relieving the legislative pressure in countries which now insist upon quotas."

Laemmle, in New York for only a few days, sails on the Ile de France tomorrow. It will be his first real vacation abroad in three years. Always carrying his business with him wherever he may happen to be, this time he leaves these shores with the avowed intention of spending two hours a day only on business. He is heading for Carlsbad for the cure and proposes loafing much of the time while there.

But the loafing idea is not to be taken too seriously. Laemmle, advancing in years now, nevertheless manages to hold on to youthful enthusiasms. How he does it after 28 years of ups and downs—plenty of downs, as he himself admits with a big grin—is one of the near-miracles of the film business and a constant source of surprise around Universal headquarters—distribution in the East and production in the West.

A Patron of RCA

Hours are meaningless. He shoots cables and puts through long-distance telephone calls at odd hours of the night. When he's at sea, the wireless room can depend on few dull periods. Laemmle's constantly sweetening the coffers of RCA Communications.

Aside from Junior, Rosabelle and his two grandchildren, whose pictures are part of his travel trappings wherever he may be, Universal is the big thing in this veteran's life.

He eats film as figuratively as literally he eats food, and Laemmle eats lots of food. His relaxations are few and of the kind that permit pictures to intrude. He likes the horses and always bets because, minus bets, the thrill is nix. Even at the races, Laemmle, whose secretary is constantly with him, surrounds himself with a handful of film people and between heats makes notes of things he wants to do or asks questions about pictures and players.

Laemmle is fond of poker. Yesterday at the Pierre with appointments bouncing in, one after the other, at five, 10 or more minute intervals, the mantelpiece was decorated with a deck of cards and the inevitable box of chips.

Laemmle at poker still breathes celluloid. The man thrives on it. It gives him a kick, as does a profit at cards. Nothing tickles him more than to empty pockets on his desk when he arrives in the morning and show who is around the checks that represent his winnings. There is no data available on whether or not he goes ditto on his losings.

A Walker and Muncher

After dinner, a Laemmle habit is to walk. If he is in New York, he selects a busy street. Before he finishes exercising his pedal extremities he starts to munch. It may be popcorn. Or raisins. Or peanuts. But it's something. If he is in Hollywood, he tours the estate, now his, but once Tom Ince's. He follows a regular route and rarely varies his itinerary.

His own column of paid advertising space in the Saturday Evening Post and the letters it brings to his attention would be enough of a job for one man to handle. Laemmle answers those communications personally, many of them at great length and evidencing genuine research to explain what questions are advanced for explanation.

His dexterity with figures indicates another facet in his makeup. Laemmle reduces every problem to figures, lets them sink in and thereafter remembers. What Milwaukee did in a certain week a couple of years ago and a comparison of its receipts last week—that's lead pipe cinch. Once a bookkeeper, it is probably from this experience that Laemmle since has drawn.

Tomorrow he sails. He insists his working day will run exactly 120 minutes. Perhaps 180 on one day, but down to 60 the next. The intention and the plan sound convincing. No doubt Laemmle means to live up to the agenda. Nobody around Universal expects he will.

Pathe Expansion in Indie Field Studied for the purpose of expanding the financing of independent production.

Poole says the outlook is favorable. He will present his findings to S. W. Webb, president of Pathe, who will turn them over to the directors for action. The company is interested in a few independent ventures at present and wants to expand in this field.

Esther Ralston Signed

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Esther Ralston has been signed by Universal to take June Knight's role in the delayed "Romance in the Rain."

Bader Gives Ampas Lowdown on England

Dave Bader yesterday gave the Ampas the lowdown on the English situation.

He started his speech saying that "if I told you what I was doing in London you could understand why Universal pictures cost so much."

Bader explained the demise of the Bumpers, an organization composed of English advertising and publicity men. He said that the Britishers do not have the cooperative spirit that prevails in America.

Talking on British production, Bader said that within the next year English studios will turn out a number of unusually fine pictures. He said the producers abroad miss in every department of production, particularly showmanship.

"American stars are far more popular in England than any native player," he said.

Laemmle Off Tomorrow

Carl Laemmle will sail tomorrow on the Ile de France for a two-months European trip. While in London he will determine Universal's foreign production policy at a series of conferences. Later he will go to Paris and to Carlsbad. Accompanying Laemmle will be Mrs. Maurice Fleckles, his sister-in-law, and Joe Weil, his assistant; Jack Ross, his secretary, and Dave Bader, who recently came east for the sales convention.

Strong Wynyard Cast

HOLLYWOOD, June 14.—Universal is going the limit in giving Diana Wynyard a strong supporting cast in "One More River," now being directed by James Whale. The lineup thus far includes Gilbert Emery, Arthur Hoyt, Tom Ricketts, Helene Grant, Bobby Hale, Alphonse Martell, Joe North, Gino Corrado, Montagu Shaw and Billy Bevan. Others will be added.

"U" Signs Two Players

Lee Crowe of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Philip Thomas Dakin of Elgin, Ill., have been signed by Universal as part of the company's country-wide search for new talent. They will report to the coast immediately.

Overbuilding In U.K. Finds Renters Cool

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 15.—Silence on the part of John Maxwell, president of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) to the plea made by Sam Eckman for machinery to check overbuilding in England was viewed in Wardour Street circles today as indicating distributors generally would not fall behind the suggestion of M-G-M's managing director here.

Originally broached by an executive of the C.E.A. (exhibitors) to Eckman, when he occupied the position now

Restraint Suit in Atlanta Develops Under the Code

ATLANTA, July 15.—Resulting from evidence introduced at clearance and zoning hearings here, John Gillooly, operator of the Capitol, St. Petersburg, Fla., has filed a Federal Court suit for $450,000 against E. J. Sparks' Enterprises, operating about 60 theatres in Florida, several in St. Petersburg, charging restraint of trade. This is probably the first action to develop directly from operations of the code.

The complaint charges the Sparks company is restraining trade by reason of buying first and second run pictures, running them first run and closing many theatres for the summer months; by not running them second run for many months, thus causing such pictures to be outmoded and

Buying Power Lack Defeats Allied Plan

*Production Idea Is Out
As a Result*

Inability of Allied State to deliver sufficient buying power to meet the requirements of independent producers willing to finance a picture schedule for the organization was reported yesterday to explain Allied's decision to abandon the production plan discussed earlier in the season.

The decision was reported to have been reached at the conclusion of the Allied directors' meeting here yesterday. Internal opposition was also reported to have swayed the directors, several of whom are said to have sided with Herman Blum of Maryland Allied, who declared earlier that

Bothering Aldermen

CHICAGO, June 15.—The campaign against films penetrated through to the city council today when resolutions were introduced by Alderman Joseph C. Actors Behind Church

Seek Rapprochement
On Silent Cameras

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Sam Briskin, chairman of the Academy research council, today laid his cards before local representatives of Bell and Howell, Debie Co. and the Mitchell Camera Co. regarding the development of a silent camera.

Representing eight major producing companies, he declared they would have to cooperate jointly in establishing some standard of silent camera, otherwise the studios would band together and develop their own. Studios say they control certain patents and likewise the camera companies, but unless both factions pool these patents there can be nothing done.

Cancellation Deal Unknown To Schaefer proposal was unreasonable and said Paramount would not grant demands of some local independent exhibitors for a 25 per cent cancellation next season in addition to cancellation on this season's surplus product to eradicate double features.

The nine-car special arrived from Chicago at 8:45 A. M. Central Standard Time and left at 9:30 after delegations from several midwestern and southern cities got aboard. Some of them had stayed over in Kansas City a day or two before entraining west.

A. F. Baker, president of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n., made a last minute decision to accompany the Kansas City delegation. This is his first trip to the coast in his more than 20 years in the business. He is now a Kansas City, Kans., exhibitor and a former Publix operating manager. His trip is in the nature of a vacation.

tribute to the memory of Waite, whose remains at that hour were being laid to rest from his home in Bronxville, N. Y. Expressing regret at the inability of Paramount officials to be present at the services, Schaefer wired Mrs. Waite of the planned tribute.

LA JUNTA, Colo., Saturday, June 16.—The Paramount special made a brief train stop here at 9:40 P. M., Mountain Standard Time, Friday night (12:40 A. M., Saturday, Eastern Daylight Time), en route to Albuquerque and Los Angeles.

Rogers Stays on; to Produce 10 for Para.

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Charles R. Rogers continues with Paramount after all. Emanuel Cohen, Paramount production head, has signed him as an associate producer. Rogers will make 10 pictures, the first of which will be "MacFadden's Flats," to get under way in September. Rogers plans to leave for a vacation in New York around the first of August before taking up his new duties.

First Non-Assenter Appeal Filed Here

First instance of local non-assenting exhibitor filing an appeal from a decision of the New York grievance board is Harry Brandt.

Brandt appeared before the New York board as defendant in two complaints filed by Loew against the Marvin and Empire in Brooklyn. The board held that the two houses were guilty of reducing admissions via the giveaway route.

supreme court here, according to Milton C. Weisman, attorney for the I.T.O.A. Weisman declared that the I.T.O.A. felt that the state court had wider jurisdiction over the relief sought in the action than the Federal court, and, therefore, desired the withdrawal.

William Whitney of Cravath, De Garsdorff, Swaine & Wood, attorney for Campi in the case, opposed the withdrawal and sought to have the case argued and decided in Federal court yesterday. Judge Cox, however, authorized the withdrawal.

Minimum Admissions Stand, Says Detroit

DETROIT, June 15.—Two decisions handed down by the grievance board emphasize that body's intention to insist that minimum admissions specified in contracts are to be observed.

In one instance, Arthur E. Koch, of the Fredro, filed against Edward Helki, of the Perrien. In the second, Julius London of the Arcadia filed against Fox, Paramount, Warners, First National and M-G-M. The board ordered the distributors to enforce minimum tariffs specified in contracts with exhibitors.

K. C. Waits on Campi

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—The local clearance and zoning and grievance boards are awaiting approval of three Kansas Citizens recommended to Campi as impartial alternates, to serve as substitutes for the originally designated government members.

The nominees are V. P. Thompson, head of Thompson-Hayward Chemical Co.; Fred Wolfson, attorney, and Robert Greenlease, motor car dealer. Recommendations were by both boards.

Fleishman Appointed

Campi has appointed Samuel Fleishman of the Rex, Portland, Ore., to replace Philip Blumauer on the Portland clearance and zoning board. Fleishman fills the unaffiliated subsequent run exhibitor spot vacated by Blumauer's resignation.

59 Non-Signers Pay

Fifty-nine exhibitors who have not signed the code but accepted 10 per cent cancellations paid assessments to Campi within the last week. The sum derived from this source was $573.

Total number of theatres paying as of yesterday was 6,266, or $67,164.

obsolete when they reach Gillooly's theatre by reason of a clause in his contracts which reads "subsequent to Sparks." Gillooly's attorney is Clint W. Hager, until a few weeks ago United States district attorney for the northern district of Georgia, a position he had held for 12 years during the Republican regimes.

In connection with the same case, Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., and John T. Ezell, Atlanta branch manager, were made parties to a suit in city court for $50,000 by Gillooly, charging libel, in that Gillooly alleges Ezell, as agent for Universal, wrote Sparks his company had offered Gillooly all product for 1934-1935 and that he had failed to take advantage of the offer. Gillooly claims he received no offer of this product. Ezell stated that he and Harry Williams, Universal's Florida salesman, did make the tender of the product in question.

First Complaint on New Zoning Heard

The first protest on new clearance and zoning schedules effective with new season product was heard yesterday by Campi.

Charles Waldon of the Tivoli, Miami, and John A. Cunningham of the State, Miami, appeared before Code Authority objecting to the new clearance schedule set up by the Atlanta board. The objection was in the form of a complaint against the Sparks and Wometco circuits in Miami.

Waldon and Cunningham claimed that the 61 days' clearance over second runs and the additional 14 days by second runs over subsequent runs is unfair and that a schedule should be set up according to admissions rather than the run of pictures. Fred Kent and Sidney Mayer appeared for Sparks and Wometco. Decision is expected next week.

All but one of the 20 appeals scheduled were deliberated upon and heard by the board. All but eight decisions are expected to be made public Monday.

W. Ray Johnston will be chairman of next Friday's meeting. Ed Kuykendall presided yesterday.

the provision that two paid up assenters of the same territory endorse the applicant. New applications must be accompanied by checks for the first half year's assessment.

The privilege does not become effective until Rosenblatt approves. This is expected some time next week. Several hundred non-assenting exhibitors already have requested the reopening. They will be notified immediately upon Rosenblatt's sanction.

MILWAUKEE, June 15.—A. C. Gutenberg said today his tenure of office on the grievance board will continue only until Fred S. Meyer, ill in California, returns to Milwaukee.

Buying Power Lack Defeats Allied Plan

he was "as much opposed to exhibitors entering production as he was to producers engaging in exhibition."

Allied members will be urged by the directors to refrain from signing up for producer-made trailers and to report any instances of attempted linking of feature contracts with trailer sales when new season selling opens.

The organization will advance plans, it was reported, for taking to the public a campaign for the abolition of block booking which will be tied up with current church and civic agitation against "indecent" pictures. The campaign will stress the contention that the independent exhibitor is the innocent sufferer, because of block booking, in any theatre boycott by the public, and will urge that the ending of block booking is the solution of the clean-picture problem.

Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, declined to comment on the reports at the close of the meeting.

BOSTON, June 15.—Independent Exhibitors of New England will hold a session Tuesday to discuss developments of the Allied national board of directors meeting in New York.

Dismiss Complaint On Bus and Tickets

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—On the ground the evidence showed no rebate had been enjoyed by the patron, the grievance board dismissed complaint of the Westmar, Norristown, against Norris Amusement, in the same city in which the latter company's bus tie-up was the bone of contention.

The Norris Company's agreement with the Schuykill Valley Lines, Inc., whereby a combination rate for a bus ride and theatre admission was effected, was construed in the Westmar's complaint as a "reduced admission."

Ruling of the board follows:

"The evidence both as to the bus complaint and as to benefit tickets indicates that no rebate was given to the patron and complaint is thereby dismissed on ground that provision of code (for complaint grounds) required that patron be admitted at a sum less than the announced admission price."

AFA Lodges Complaints

BOSTON, June 15.—Complaints alleging violations of the code have been filed with P. A. O'Connell, head of the NRA for Massachusetts, by Ralph Whitehead of New York. Whitehead has been in Boston for 10 days conducting investigations into alleged unfair practices on behalf of the American Federation of Actors. There were 20 complaints filed.

Turns Over 94 Complaints

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—The California State Compliance Board has turned over 94 complaints to the studio labor committee and the extra standing committee, 67 of which involved objections pertaining to extras and 27 labor.

The two committees were ordered to hear immediately as many complaints as possible for quick disposition.

held by Maxwell in the K.R.S., the plan died because some distributors refused to part with their "inalienable" right to do business with whom they pleased and how.

In the final hours of the exhibitor convention at Blackpool, the open sessions which were expected to be loaded with sensational developments, petered out. The organization, however, did go on record in opposition to "pound-a-foot quickies."

Out of the parleys, there is a possibility of an official C.E.A. policy on percentage engagements on lines which would allow exhibitors to retain the major portion of their receipts until theatre overhead first is met.

Decision Is Reserved In Perelman's Suit

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—Decision was reserved by Judge George A. Welsh in U. S. District Court here today in the suit of Harry Perelman, exhibitor, challenging the right of six distributors to ban duals in new season contracts. A decision is not expected until the middle of next week.

Benjamin M. Golder, attorney for Perelman, sought an injunction to invalidate the double feature restriction, charging the defendants with conspiracy to restrain trade and monopoly of the industry by employing the services of all the outstanding stars, without whose pictures independents could not get along.

The defendants were Vitagraph, RKO, Paramount, M-G-M, Fox and United Artists.

Golder stated he would demand a U. S. Grand Jury investigation on charges of violation of anti-trust laws.

Judge Welsh, in reserving decision, tried to get the defendants to waive the restriction on duals in Perelman's contract. Morris Wolf, defense attorney, refused, stating it would be the same as granting Perelman a preliminary injunction.

Looking 'Em Over

"Hell Bent for Love" (Columbia)

There is enough excitement in this Tim McCoy vehicle to atone for most of its shortcomings. Since the production is aimed at lovers of action films, the fact that "Hell Bent for Love" does not satisfactorily explain some of its incidents and does not always seem believable may not cut deeply into its entertainment value. Acting of the principal helps to make the picture enjoyable as a neighborhood attraction.

In this one, McCoy is a motorcycle patrolman. He meets Lillian Bond when he tags her for speeding. When he learns she is an entertainer at a gay spot operated by the town's Public Enemy No. 1 (Bradley Page) he sees a chance to realize his ambition to end local racketeering by putting Page out of business. McCoy falls in love with Miss Bond when he learns she is not the bad sort she has been made out to be, and with her aid sets out to bring the downfall of Page. Jealousy is at the bottom of Page's hatred of McCoy.

In the hope of breaking up the romance between the two Page breaks Tim by staging a holdup to make it appear McCoy has been guilty of neglect of duty. With the help of a group of ex-criminals whom he has helped on their release from jail Tim beats Page at his own game. The end finds Page in the hands of the coppers and McCoy reinstated, while Miss Bond beams with love.

Other players are Vincent Sherman, Lafe McKee, Harry C. Bradley, Wedge Wood Newell and Eddie Sturgis. Ross Lederman is responsible for the direction. Running time, 58 minutes.

"The Tell-Tale Heart" (DuWorld)

Edgar Allan Poe's macabre tale, "The Tell-Tale Heart," has been given an impressive screen treatment by Clifton-Hurst Prod., British company. It is a weird, gripping, terror-inspiring piece of work entirely faithful to the original. So intent were the producers in capturing the mood of the story that nothing was allowed to intrude that might give a touch of cheer to the production. In short, this is serious entertainment, intelligent and appealing primarily to arty audiences.

"The Tell-Tale Heart" is a brilliant camera achievement. The photography enhances the eerie quality of the story. Atmospherically, the film is no less good. The acting is commendable. Norman Dryden and John Kelt as the leading characters put fascination into their roles.

The story is in reality the study of a psychopathic case. Dryden kills Kelt, an old relative with whom he is living, because he feels the man is casting an evil eye upon him. It is a fixation and the boy feels he will not be free until the old man is dead. He buries the corpse under the floor boards. When the police arrive to investigate the man's scream, the boy tells them it was he who screamed. The investigators are satisfied and are about to leave when the imagined thumping of the dead man's heart drives the youth to confess.

Desmund Hurst directed. Running time, 50 minutes.

page of the Commercial Appeal today, announced himself in favor of the idea. Charles Mensing, Orpheum manager, secured a restaurant license today and bought lunch stand equipment for the lobby with the announcement of free shows all day Sunday to those buying food and drink. Waugh has also taken out a license, but it is understood the Warner home office is against the proposition.

This is believed the first time such a scheme has been tried in this country. Reports here are that Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville may follow suit.

Short Subjects

"Carnera-Baer Fight" (Oliver Film Corp.)

With excellent photography, camera angles and sound effects, this is by far the best fight picture filmed in some time. Every bit of action is clearly shown, with most of the important knockdowns reshowed in slow motion at the completion of the different rounds. The entire last round is also shown in slow motion. Running time, 32 mins.

"Corn on the Cop" (Vitaphone)

Shemp Howard and Harry Gribbon are up to their hilarious antics, but funnier, in this one. The story concerns their attempts to sell a fake corn cure, their mixup with the cops and their getting in the police lieutenant's home where they are mistaken for his nephews by his wife. They wind up in jail with the lieutenant revenged. Running time, 19 mins.

with definite decision on the building program to be determined thereafter.

The contemplated program by Loew's ties in with reports, unverified, that M-G-M has been unable to make a satisfactory percentage deal with Robert McNeill, president of United California Theatres and associated companies, such as Golden State and T. & D., Jr., Theatres, and the most powerful independent in Northern California. McNeill is in New York, but on reliable authority it is learned there has been no break with M-G-M. He declared new product had not been offered as yet to any exhibitor in the territory.

St. Louis Deal Over, Arthur Is Returning

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—Harry Arthur departed for New York today after spending several days here in connection with final details of the proposed management contract of Fanchon and Marco contemplating a new owner of the Ambassador, Grand Central and Missouri theatres.

It is understood that when the deal is approved by the court the new corporations that will lease the houses plan to continue first run showings of Warner and First National pictures as at present.

Add Teeth to Industry's Self-Regulation System

Vatican Letter Emphasizes Pope's Concern Over Films

In a letter written for the Pope by Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Pacelli, to Canon Brohee, president of the Catholic International Cinematographic Office and Chaplain General of the Centre Catholique d'Action Cinematographique en Belgique, Pius XI expresses his concern over films.

While the Pope has expressed his disapproval of films in general encyclicals in the past, this is believed to be his most extended and most direct reference on the subject. Extracts from the communication follow:

"The Catholics of all the countries of the world ought to make it a duty of conscience to concern themselves with this question, the importance of which is constantly growing.

"The cinema is going to become the greatest and most efficacious means of influence, more efficacious even than the press, for it is a fact that certain films have been seen by several million spectators.

"His Holiness desires to emphasize the urgency of this apostolate, in which all well-minded people should unite, coordinating their efforts, energies

Total cash receipts of the trustees for the period aggregated $2,244,747.

Insiders' Outlook

THE wash-up and the inside on the Paramount-Capitol pool yarn:

The agreement is for one year from June 29 and may ultimately result in an admission hike at both theatres although there is no immediate prospect now. The increase will depend entirely upon results rolled up under the pooling move. This ties in with the belief, subscribed to by many important film men, principal distributors, it is true, that admissions must clamber up the ladder and that very soon. . . .

Boris Morros, Paramount manager, and Louis K. Sidney, in charge of Capitol stage shows, will carry out the operating arrangements. In the event of a disagreement between these two, controversial matters go to Sam Dembow, Jr., of Paramount, and Joe Vogel of Loew's for settlement. Disagreements between them progress to George Schaefer, Paramount general manager, and Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's and M-G-M president. Anything these two are unable to agree on is left for final settlement to two alternates, one to be named by each executive. Sort of a United States Supreme Court idea. . . .

The pool, as stated exclusively in your favorite trade paper last week, provides for elimination of stage shows at the Capitol with that theatre taking first choice of M-G-M and Paramount product, the Paramount to continue stage shows and have second choice on the product of both companies. Under this arrangement the Capitol is expected to become a long-run house, with many of the attractions of both companies holding over for three to five weeks. It depends on how good the celluloid is, as usual. . . .

There will be 160 pictures from M-G-M and Paramount combined next season. With the Capitol running extended engagements on a number of pictures, as expected, approximately 35 are believed ample for the house's requirements. Maybe a few less. In view of these expectations, the Paramount anticipates no shortage of good pictures for itself from the 125 features remaining available to it. The pooling agreement will have no effect on the stage show policy of Loew's State. Provisions are made in the agreement for the roadshowing of certain pictures of each company, which would be available to the Capitol thereafter for popular priced first run. . . .

The film colony's social formula was aptly typified not long ago by the wife of a writer who was concocting a masquerade party. Camouflaging the masque, as a "Suppressed Desire" party, invitations requested recipients to come garbed as their suppressed desire. Going over the list, the wife came upon the name of an up-and-coming young producer. "We must invite him, he means so much in Hollywood. Besides, when we go to his home later, so-and-so will report it in her column, and you'll be on a friendly basis, so when you write for him, he'll overlook certain things in your writing that your present boss always notices." Quaint, that place called Hollywood. . . .

Definite now is the decision of Kuhn, Loeb and Co. to continue their investment and banking business under the Banking Act of 1933. This was tipped off over a week ago, but the decision is a decision now, formally and officially wrapped up. The step removes a worry over and at Paramount where K. L., for years, have been financially active in the company. Any shifting of horses in the middle of turgid financial waters at this time could easily have set back the Paramount emergence from bankruptcy. . . .

"I can't escape it; everywhere I go I bump into this crusade against dirty films." Joe Breen, during a short train stop at Kaycee, had just finished making that remark when his eye lit on a five-column banner head on the front page of the Chicago Tribune screaming, "Anti-Smut Storm Shakes Hollywood." The next minute, a mutual acquaintance introduced Breen to Mayor Bryce B. Smith of Kansas City, a passenger on the same train. "So you're with the Hays organization," drawled the mayor after the formalities. "Well, from what I read in the papers, you've got a lot to do now." Breen dryly agreed. . . .

Joe Lee, the exploitation doctor, did a swell job in exploiting run of "The World in Revolt" at the Rialto, concentrating much of his barrage on foreign language newspapers. He went after the suburbanians with hammer and tongs, too, striking at 125 towns within a radius of 40 miles from 7th and 42nd St. . . . Germany banned "My Weakness," starring Lilian Harvey, the other day. Now Miss Harvey is returning to Ufa for more pictures. Serves Hitler right. . . . K A N N

Add Teeth to Self-Control Of Industry

Hays in the west. Breen not only reads purchased properties and scenario roughs, but also scans the completed product solely from the angle of the production code of ethics. His recommendations, the record reveals, have, in the main, been followed. Where a studio registers objections, the current system calls in a rotating committee of three, drawn alphabetically from a list made up of major studio executives. This committee's decision to date has been final.

While the decision to throw to the Hays directors in New York settlement of disputed points is known to have been reached, it is understood there will be no formal word issued on adoption of the plan.

Drive Against Films Gains in Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 17.—Pledges to stay away from "all movies except those which do not offend decency and Christian morality" have been signed by more than 4,500 Catholics, and thousands more are expected to sign.

The pledges of membership in the League of Decency were given out by pastors at the request of Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, who asked for the support of his people in a pastoral letter, read at all masses Sunday, containing a scathing denunciation of immorality and indecency in pictures and in theatre advertising.

The bishop directed that "strong sermons" against indecent shows be preached.

Catholic Drive Reaching Into Tennessee Cities

MEMPHIS, June 17.—The Catholic movement against objectionable films will be extended to Tennessee this week. Bishop Alphonse Smith of Nashville has asked all Catholics in the state to sign Legion of Decency pledges.

Philadelphia Indies Set to Meet Today

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—Further developments in organization of the newly formed Independent Exhibitors' Protective Assn. will take place tomorrow when a meeting is scheduled at the Broadwood Hotel.

President-elect Congressman Golder will be principal speaker in addition to Sidney Samuelson and Harry Brandt from New York.

to talks by Jack Warner, Albert Warner and Harold S. Bareford.

The afternoon session will be opened with a discussion on the code, to be followed by a talk on current product by Carl Leserman, assistant to Sears. Moray will then take the floor to acquaint the men with the Vitaphone plans.

Vatican Letter Emphasizes Pope's Concern Over Films

and activities to make this powerful modern means of diffusing ideas serve for the moral education of the people.

"Despite the measures taken by the public authorities of various countries, the Holy Father continues to receive from all sides allegations and denunciations of the moral and religious harm caused by cinema shows, which exercise an irresistible influence on a great part of humanity, but very particularly upon youth—truly a matter of concern for the future.

"The laudable efforts of legislators and men of learning, of parents and teachers who have to train the new generations to honest ways of living and thinking, are consequently in danger of being irremediably compromised by these frequent representations of an artificial and immoral life: the materialism which is there dominant is in itself a negation and a refusal of the supreme gifts communicated by Christianity, which are indispensable to the conservation and development of Christian civilization in the world.

"The discoveries of science are the gifts of God, and must be used for the glory and the extension of His Kingdom. . . .

"It is highly desirable that organized Catholics should occupy themselves constantly with the cinema in their meetings for Catholic Action, in their programs of study, etc.

"It is equally important that all the Catholic papers should offer criticism of the cinema, praising good films and censuring the bad. . . .

"The Catholic International Cinematographic Office rightly seeks to secure the multiplication of large halls, equipped with modern improvements, and strongly inter-coordinated, either for the presentation of instructional or recreational Catholic films, or by their demand for good films, to induce film companies to provide them.

"Besides—and this, perhaps, is the essential object to drive at—the program of the C.I.C.O. conduces to arouse the energies of well-minded people to an understanding that, having by this co-ordination assured a very ample supply of good films, they will be able to devote themselves competently, after the necessary serious preparation to the production of high-class films, and thereby to establish an enterprise which, while safeguarding good morals, and succeeding by their technical, artistic and human value, will materially benefit industry.

"The Holy Father ardently desires that in so salutary a work the C.I.C.O. will meet with a perfect understanding and a generous collaboration by the Catholics of the various nations, and very specially, as has been said, by the Catholic Action of the countries."

"White" Is $61,000 Hit at the Capitol

"Men in White" chalked up a gross of $61,000 for the first week at the Capitol. This is $1,000 more than the anticipated take as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY June 11. If business holds up the current week, the M-G-M film will be held a third week.

"Such Women Are Dangerous" at the Roxy last week garnered a weak $17,000. Business along Broadway was generally dull, due to the Baer-Carnera fight. The pictures of the fracas are doing a turnaway business at the Palace this week and may be held over.

Appeal Is Expected In Tri-Ergon Case

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—An attempt is to be made by RCA Photophone, it is understood, to appeal the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tri-Ergon patent decision here to the U. S. Supreme Court.

The case is one of a number pending in various parts of the country. In its decision here the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the validity of the Tri-Ergon fly-wheel patent. The case was the suit of the American Tri-Ergon Corp and Tri-Ergon Holding, A.G., against Wilmer & Vincent, Locust Real Estate Co. and Altoona Publix Theatres, Inc. It was defended by RCA Photophone.

M-G-M Will Start Slowly in England

Loew is in favor of the plan and the actual setup now remains in the studio's hands.

Mrs. William Bolitho, widow of the journalist, recently engaged by Selznick to handle a special London office, is now concentrating on editorial work for the Hollywood studio. She will also work on the new English project.

Two Broadway Spots To Darken Tomorrow

Two Broadway houses close tomorrow for an indefinite period. The Astor, which has been housing "The House of Rothschild," darkens with the end of the run of the U. A. picture tomorrow night, while "Are We Civilized?" bows out of the Rivoli the same evening.

No new attraction is in sight for the Astor. The Rivoli, which plans to reopen with "The House of Rothschild," may be dark two or three weeks, but this is not definite.

Capture Alleged Bandit

OMAHA, June 17.—Police have captured a man who, they say, attempted to hold up the Paramount Theatre. He was taken in a hotel room and was identified by Clifford Jennings and Nora Bell, cashier.

Feel Boycott Will Induce Dark Houses

BALTIMORE, June 17.—A boycott at this time probably would accomplish its objective, but would, at the same time, probably close many small neighborhood theatres operated by independents and aggravate the unemployment situation, feels the M.P. T.O. of Maryland. The unit, an Allied States affiliate, late last week passed a resolution in which it declared its members were innocent victims of the block booking system and, therefore, had no control over types of pictures they showed.

If the boycott is applied at once without any warning, theatre owners believe the innocent will suffer more than the guilty, but if the industry is given time to put on a clean-up campaign a boycott against objectionable films would be fair to all, they feel.

Call Violations Deliberate

In the resolution passed it is claimed producers deliberately violated their code of ethics and the pledges which were made to organizations when several years ago the same situation came up.

Plans for summer activities were made by members of the publicity committee of the League of Catholic Students who met at Loyola High School. Meetings are tentatively scheduled to be held every second Thursday during the summer.

The Baltimore Catholic Review will print a blacklist weekly of those pictures considered unfit and another list of those approved. In each parish a bulletin will be posted calling attention to those lists.

Students are being urged to write to producers and complain against films they consider unworthy and declaring their intentions to boycott them. About 5,000 students have signed pledges they will not attend those pictures which are blacklisted, it is asserted.

A committee has been named by the exhibitor body to confer with Archbishop Michael J. Curley and other church dignitaries.

Consolidated Labor Trouble Up to Board

Union, which brought about a strike of some 50 employees early in April.

The case originally was heard by the New York Regional Labor Board, which ruled that the strikers should be returned to work and the wage dispute arbitrated. An appeal was taken to the national board by the company on the contention that the local body could not arbitrate wage matters. A conference was held by the board with representatives of the company and the employees on June 4 in an effort to end the controversy.

The matter also involves a dispute as to whether the company is subject to the graphic arts or film laboratory code.

"RKO Night" All Set

CHICAGO, June 17.—Monday night will be "RKO Night" at the Palace, by way of the theatre department's recognition of the fact Radio conventioners are in town. Featured on the program will be Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in person as well as in celluloid in "Cockeyed Cavaliers." Ben Bernie will be master of ceremonies. Frank Buck and Morton Downey will also participate.

Van Beuren Spreading

Cancellation Talk Turning Into Mystery

considered a definite one. Other reactions were in the nature of complete denials.

KANSAS CITY, June 17.—It is learned on unimpeachable authority that the cancellation deal in return for elimination of duals and hiking of admissions here was submitted to Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager, at an informal meeting attended by representative exhibitors, distributors and zoning board members following Rhoden's return from New York where he is reported to have discussed the local situation with circuit heads and Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox.

Jay Means, president of I.T.O., who was present at the meeting, said the offer was not submitted directly by the distributors, but by an intermediary, whom he did not name. Means revealed the unnamed intermediary intimated cancellations would be made as distributors' concessions toward eliminating ruinous competition and stabilizing local situations. He also said that the intermediary's proposal was not definite, as that would depend on the independents' agreeing to perform their part of the proposed pact, but that the intermediary did intimate that he had pretty reliable information the distributors would go through with it.

Offer Held Definite

Regardless of the denials, the general impression among independents is that the offer is definite, even if unofficial, although some skepticism is evident among them as to whether or not the distributors actually would cancel all excess pictures if they eliminate dual bills.

The reported offer was discussed at a four-hour meeting of the independents late last week. No decision was reached as three or four key suburban were reported holding out for individual concessions by their competitors. Whether or not the pact goes through rests entirely with the independents, as the circuits are pledged to increase scales and ban duals provided the independents agree similarly.

LOS ANGELES, June 17.—Distributors had not discussed cancellation of product in Kansas City in exchange for a ban on duals, George J. Schaefer of Paramount said upon his arrival this morning from New York.

In Kansas City, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Saturday, he spoke for Paramount. Today he spoke apparently on behalf of all distributors.

Luke Wants to Act

HOLLYWOOD, June 17.—Keye Luke, Chinese advertising and publicity department artist at RKO, has secured a leave of absence to do a featured role in the Leigh Jason short. Luke is now being tested for one of the roles in the Lou Brock feature, "Ho, Shanghai."

Radio Dots and Dashes

CHICAGO, June 17.—Some of what arriving Radiomen found to greet them:

A blue and gold welcome banner strung around the marquee of the Drake and a company trademark floating in the breeze alongside the national standard. . . . An illuminating on-and-off flash reading "Convention Headquarters" in the foyer leading to the convention hall, arranged by LEON BAMBERGER and WARREN LEWIS. . . . Inside the foyer a series of one-sheet easels representing either a circuit or an exhibitor who has already signed for the new season's stuff. . . . Lots of flags, bunting and sales accessories all over the lot. . . . In the convention room nine feet cutouts representing anticipated outstanding features for the new year. . . . Full length figures of stars and featured players against the balcony railing around the hall. . . . Flags of all nations with the Radio flag alternating and hanging from center chandelier to corner chandeliers. A giant valance across the hall and above the speaker's table, reading "Productions—Not Predictions." . . . And bathing all, revolving spotlights. . . .

A battery of those new streamline Chryslers met conventioners upon their arrival. Also a police escort to get them safely to the hotel.

EARL BURNETT, leader of the Drake orchestra, is preparing a special convention song.

Fair officials have extended invitations to conventioners to take in the activities there. A mimeographed list of high spots has been made up for distribution to the delegates.

The boys arriving at Central Station Saturday, P.M., gave NED DEPINET one great big hand.

SOL NEWMAN, the Englisher was telling everyone that "Bo" DOWLING missed this year's confab because he is busy rounding up the loose biz around the Swedish way.

ROBERT TRILLO from Panama was busy giving everyone the lowdown on conditions there. He spent a busy luncheon time getting acquainted with many of the boys whom he hasn't seen for more than three years.

EDDIE HORNE, head of the print and negative department, was around boasting of the long list of conventions to his credit. This is the sixth straight for EDDIE.

LEE MARCUS, formerly at the home office and now a studio man, gave the glad hand to many of the Easterners.

HARRY GITTLESON, the RKO Flash editor was on deck to record all the details for his minions.

FRANK BUCK was getting acquainted with AMOS 'N' ANDY, surprise visitors to the confab. BUCK is to fill the Pepsodent boys' spot for five months on the radio bugles.

BAMBERGER was busy to the last minute prior to the opening of the convention attending to minor and major details.

All pages and messenger boys looking for RKO men at the World's Fair found 'em at FRANK "Wild Cargo" BUCK's animal emporium with FRANK slipping the boys tall yarns that drew laughs and guffaws.

JACK JOSEPH and WARREN LEWIS pulled a last round-up of tie-ups and had samples and souvenirs for all the boys ranging from tooth-paste to a paste in the eye.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"His Greatest Gamble"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, June 17.—Able cast performances, marked by good story characterization, alleviate a somewhat rambling plot which somehow holds the interest. The production is for general audience appeal.

Richard Dix is well cast as a romantic, adventurous vagabond. He kidnaps his daughter, Edith Fellows, from his estranged wife, Erin O'Brien Moore, and instructs her in the way of vagabondia. Loss of his money at roulette leaves the duo penniless.

Dix's former sweetheart, Shirley Grey, offers to move in and furnish finances, but the offer is declined and she declares her intention of tipping off the wife as to their hiding place. Dix binds and gags her, but neglects to turn off the gas under the coffee pot before leaving. Boiling over, the coffee kills the flame, and fills the room with gas.

Returning to his daughter after a big winning at the gaming table Dix is placed under arrest for murder and is subsequently sentenced to 15 years. He serves 11 and escapes to America, to find his daughter, Dorothy Wilson, now grown and suffering from the illusion that she is crippled through the mental suggestion of her mother.

Dix removes the illusion and arranges a reunion with her fiance, Bruce Cabot, against the mother's wishes. Dix sends them to Europe and gives himself up to the authorities. John Robertson directed smoothly and convincingly. Running time, 80 minutes.

Para.'s Cash Increases to $3,226,836

tres Corp., new theatre holding company for Paramount, drew $300,000; Lares Theatre Corp., also a holding company, $122,979; Strand Leasing Corp., $128,670; Seneca Realty Corp., $185,287, and Holston Enterprises, drew $148,405. The latter company is engaged in acquisition of claims against Tennessee Enterprises, bankrupt theatre subsidiary of Famous.

The remainder of the trustees' report is given over to a review of reorganization activities of subsidiary companies, all of which have been detailed in accounts appearing earlier in MOTION PICTURE DAILY. Reorganizations reported on are those of Publix Enterprises, the assets of which were acquired by Famous last December for $1,800,000; the Saenger Theatres and Saenger Realty reorganization plans, which are scheduled to be passed on at a hearing before Referee Joyce, June 21; the G. B. Theatres Corp., New England subsidiary, to be operated by Goldstein Brothers under a partnership arrangement; Dent Theatres, Inc., being operated by Karl Hoblitzelle on a partnership deal with Texas Consolidated Theatres; the Fox West Coast leasing arrangements on Pacific Coast theatres, recently affirmed by the Federal court here, and progress on the reorganization plan for Tennessee Enterprises. Under this plan, the report states, $415,000 of a $435,000 bond issue outstanding has been acquired by a Paramount subsidiary, Holston Enterprises, organized for the purpose.

Reports on Para. Building

Reports are also made on the agreement reached with bondholders on the Paramount Building, under which the existing 5½ per cent bonds, maturing Jan. 1, 1951, will be exchanged for new 20-year bonds at reduced interest rates, in return for which the bondholders withdraw their $178,543,000 claim against Paramount Publix.

Also reviewed are agreements reached with mortgagees on property held by Seneca Holding Corp., which include agreements not to foreclose on the Criterion and New York theatre properties in Times Square, on which a $4,000,000 mortgage has been defaulted; the Astoria studio on which there is an unpaid mortgage of $930,000, held by the Prudence Co., and lesser mortgages on other plots held by the same subsidiary.

The report states that negotiations for a revision of terms on a $2,900,000 serial bond issue on the Paramount west coast studio have not resulted in any satisfactory plan of readjustment.

The report notes that approximately $18,000,000 of claims contested by the trustees have been expunged, withdrawn or reduced, and that $33,000,000 of claims to which objections have been filed are still pending.

The report takes note for the first time of the reorganization plan for Paramount being developed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in conjunction with Paramount bondholders, stating that the trustees are now furnishing information to the bondholders' committee pertinent to development of the plan.

Paramount to Release 64; Meets Today

Daylight Time) today, and unloaded a dusty crowd which made a beeline for the Ambassador, a shower and a change of linen.

The home-office contingent which left New York Wednesday night swelled in proportions as it traveled further west. Buffalo and Detroit loaded on delegates in the wee small hours of Thursday morning. In Chicago, the Balabans, N. L. Nathanson, H. F. Kincey and sales delegations from adjacent exchanges took up quarters, the number being additionally swelled at Kansas City Friday morning and at La Junta, Colo., later that evening. Many of the company's theatre partners from the South and Southwest traveled on their own and by the most direct route.

With four days uninterrupted by telephone calls or routine business, ranking executives had plenty of time on their hands to further complete convention arrangements and plans.

Opening Monday morning at the Ambassador, this convention is expected to be significant in Paramount history. The general impression prevails that Paramount is making fast progress in its long and arduous fight toward discharge from bankruptcy and its eventual reorganization.

Chance to Discuss Setup

The presence here of practically every major theatre partner is viewed as presenting an opportunity to discuss the company's entire setup and to analyze its possibilities for the new season with all of the necessary individuals around one large conference table at the same time.

Adolph Zukor arrived from the east expressing his complete confidence in Paramount's future and optimism for the impending season.

George J. Schaefer, who will run the meetings, again doubled back on the talk made recently in Boston where he excoriated certain, unnamed groups in the industry for bringing about the present boycott on films by making religious and social groups cat's paws.

The Paramount executive made it clear the clean film crusade is a sincere, mass censure of the industry and said he believed the only solution was to make clean pictures. He blamed the present situation chiefly on smutty gags injected unnecessarily into pictures.

Trustees of Para. Act Under New Law

Judge Alfred C. Coxe in U. S. District Court here, Saturday.

The temporary appointment of the trustees was made at a hearing on the bondholders' petition filed June 7, asking for reorganization of the company under the new bankruptcy laws. Paramount filed its answer, assenting to the petition, and both the answer and petition were approved by the court, with the trustees in bankruptcy named trustees under the new laws pending a creditors' hearing before Judge Coxe on July 10, at which time appointment of the trustees will probably be made permanent.

Two petitions asking for reorganization of Paramount under the new laws were filed at approximately the same time and efforts seeking to consolidate the two actions are being made.

Maxwell Hits Eckman on Overbuilding

Calls It Dangerous for Setup in England

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 18.—John Maxwell, president of the Kinematograph Renters' Society, today hit Sam Eckman's proposal for a trade formula to check overbuilding as "fundamentally unsound."

In a letter to the press, Maxwell denied a statement that he was not in favor of such restrictions.

"I disagreed with the scheme put forward because I thought it fundamentally unsound as it depended entirely on a boycott on the part of the K. R. S. by refusing to supply films to the offending exhibitor. I thought such

Insiders' Outlook

A COUPLE of years ago dope on new theatres was met with a yawn. Today, after all that has happened, it's news—front page. Of itself, therefore, word of Nick Schenck's current intention of building houses in Northern California towns where Bob McNeill has been boss for so long would be something. That's the face value reaction. But digging a bit below the surface, other angles, or what appear to be other angles, drag themselves into the light and make the puzzle less puzzling and far, far more interesting. . . .

One of the slants hard to fit into the California picture has to do with Fox West Coast, the Pacific colossus. FWC holds minority interests in T. and D., Jr., Circuit and also Golden States Theatres. These are two companies which make McNeill such an important bird in his native heath. Strange Factor Number Two is that FWC, for some years now, has been operating Loew's Warfield in Frisco for the Schenck interests. The question obviously becomes this: Is it logical for Loew's to build against a circuit with which it has several tie-ins or for Loew's to bring competition into holier than holy FWC territory? The answer is simple. Yes, the logic might be there if there is reason.

That brings us to the reason. We don't know that this is it, but it could easily be. Quietly, the Skourases are understood to be working on a rather far-flung plan to develop a third circuit in Greater New York, the other two obviously being Loew's and RKO. The dope filtering in over this telephone wire and across this desk has it that the Skourases have been talking to operators like Abe Schwartz of the Century circuit and himself a partner in many theatres with Loew's; Randforce, meaning Louis Frisch and Sam Rinzler; Joe Seider, which means Prudential Playhouses, and that in turn, means principally Long Island, or much of it, anyway, and Springer and Cocalis, meaning about 40 houses well scattered all over the territory.

Skourases, with Randforce, operate the Fox Met. string here. Charlie S. runs F.W.C. Spyros is head of general theatre operations for Fox. Schenck, having built up the Loew position in the metropolitan area, won't take back seat for anybody. You'd know that if you know Schenck. That's the yarn. About it or with it, there always exists the chance something may go screwy, even the author. Once this column gets around town this morning, however, the telephone on our left is apt to start going and stay that way the rest of the day. It'll probably be too hot to work anyway and the view of the park from these heights is something this time of year. . . .

MOTION PICTURE DAILY wires were busy again for the second time yesterday when employees of the Capitol and other Broadway houses called to inquire if the pooling deal with the Paramount was on the level. The first batch came when this publication broke the story last Thursday. To all queries: the pool is on the square, even if it hasn't been signed or the staff of the Capitol notified. . . . KANN a scheme dangerous to both exhibitors and the K. R. S.," he said.

"The scheme appeared hastily improvised and not properly thought out. It is obvious to me and to others that the boycott proposal will break into pieces on the first determined resistance and, after valuable time had been wasted trying to operate a scheme inherently unworkable, the whole thing will have to start afresh."

Maxwell says he can point out a case where a proposed theatre ban under a scheme such as Eckman's would be entirely superfluous and any ban flouted and the theatre get a supply of films despite a boycott. He obviously alluded to the situation where circuits with production contacts, such as his own, no doubt, would be in a position to laugh off any such step.

"I thought Eckman's attempted analogy between conditions prevailing in the United States during its mad orgy of gambling speculation to 1929 and conditions in this country completely unjustified and misleading. The case against overbuilding is strong enough itself without recourse to such forced and artificial arguments and offensive comparisons. I am sure it was not Eckman's intention to frighten off capital from this business either in existing concerns or new ones, but if such had been his intention the speech seems admirably designed for the purpose," Maxwell concluded.

In his reply issued tonight, Eckman declared he welcomed Maxwell's statement that the latter would support effective steps to prevent overbuilding. "Regarding Maxwell's references to my paper, I stated facts as I knew them and I am far too gratified over his present attitude on overbuilding to attempt to vie with him in the use of such adjectives as 'misleading' and 'offensive' which I can afford to overlook."

Eckman added exhibitors who met at Blackpool last week obviously disagreed with Maxwell as the C.E.A. arranged to publish and circulate his (Eckman's) paper. Eckman's statement concluded with an expressed hope that the C.E.A. (exhibitors) and the K.R.S. (distributors) meet shortly to continue the discussions.

Nye Reviews Attack On Industry, Code

the quality has been debased until "a destructive type" of pictures is being shown.

Nye assailed the alleged relations of Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt with the so-called monopoly group and asked whether Nathan Burkan, "an intimate of Hays," pulled the strings for the industry.

The Senator quoted from the review board report about the failure to make records of conferences on the code and attacked Rosenblatt for his refusal to permit anyone to take notes at those meetings.

"The record shows," he declared, "that he, through the code, waited upon and figuratively allowed the trust to do as it pleased, gave them everything they wanted, fought their battles and reported to them personally in New York rather than to his own Federal government superiors."

Nye again criticized Rosenblatt's refusal to testify before the review board, as he did in his speech a month ago.

"I think," he asserted, "in view of this it is quite proper to ask whether Rosenblatt is working for the Government or for the motion picture trust; whether his task is furthering the program of President Roosevelt or the pandering of spokesmen for monopoly."

Truly Independent

The Senator mentioned and identified all of the members of Code Authority and told the Senate "truly the independent under this code must let his enemies write the law that he is to obey, interpret that law, draw the indictment against him, prosecute the case, act as judge, render their own decision and enforce their own punishment."

"There is nothing in American history so contrary to every fundamental principle of decency, fairness, honesty and square dealing guaranteed by the Constitution and promised in the present New Deal. The New Deal under this code is simply a shuffling into annihilation through legal means for those not in the trust."

Nye referred to the testimony of Justice Department officials before the Darrow board and attacked block booking and price fixing.

"Of course," he commented, "it cannot be shown that the blue eagle laid the egg of block booking, but it hatched it and nourished the young vultures that came forth."

The alleged inability of exhibitors to get clean pictures was dwelt upon at length by the Senator in his address of some 5,000 words.

must be handed down, Campi has been referring cases heard to individual members for investigation and recommendation.

Although the U. A. 10 per cent cancellation issue which came up recently when the Chicago grievance board referred it to Campi was heard 10 days ago, no decision has been rendered. Rubin has been investigating the facts and has not submitted his recommendation. A decision must be handed down Thursday.

Code authority is sending copies of all decisions to code boards so that code groups may be guided accordingly at local sessions. Many decisions will be precedents for cases to follow, and it is figured that when the boards study these the number of appeals will dwindle.

Plan 3,000-Seater For Oklahoma City

to use $100,000 of its capital in Oklahoma.

A spokesman for the operating company says the proposed theatre will be a 3,000 seat house and when completed will be the largest in the state. Work is expected to be started in late summer.

Foster McSwain, former owner of Ada theatres, has been elected head of the new concern. W. T. Spears, Altus, is secretary-treasurer, and A. R. Powell, Guthrie, vice-president. Spears is owner of Altus and Duncan Oklahoma theatres. Powell is a Guthrie exhibitor. These three, with the addition of Harry M. Lowenstein, Ardmore theatre owner, and R. M. Clark, Oklahoma City, of the Griffith Amusement Co., are temporary directors.

It is reported the company will later open other houses in Oklahoma and Texas.

Announcement of the plan is the first major development in the city theatre field since last year when Warners and Paramount interests joined to dominate Oklahoma City.

Loew's to Proceed With Sydney Plans house has been playing M-G-M product for some time, but runs an average of about 12 pictures yearly, thereby leaving a gap in playing time which the company evidently proposes filling.

Loew's is also operating a theatre it built in Melbourne and opens in Brisbane in a few days.

The Paramount did only $5,500 with "Little Miss Marker," but the picture evoked raves from all who saw it.

"Henry" Tops Philadelphia In Dull Week

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—Combination of Catholic boycott and hot weather sent Philly grosses on the toboggan again. Outlook therefore is gloomy for showmen, though it is generally believed that the first run houses downtown will feel less effect than the neighborhoods.

"Springtime for Henry," with $14,000 at the Fox, led the week and "Strictly Dynamite" just crossed the average at the Earle. Rest of the town under the mark.

Total grosses, $56,000. Average is $61,300.

stressed to the sales force the box-office value of family-type entertainment.

Announcement of an RKO employee's cash Opportunity Drive, from June 30 to Aug. 20, was made early during today's session.

Indicating acceptance of American films abroad, Phil Reisman told the convention foreign business this year would exceed by $2,000,000 that of any year. He introduced Ralph Doyle and Sol Newman, managing directors for RKO in the United Kingdom.

Levy Cites Promotions As RKO Company Policy

CHICAGO, June 18.—Citing 10 promotions in the field force this year, Jules Levy told the Radio convention today advances from within will continue to mark company policy in the future.

Those promoted since the 1933-34 season got under way are:

J. H. MacIntyre, Los Angeles manager, to district manager of the southern territory; H. H. Greenblatt, Chicago salesman, to Cleveland manager; S. M. Sachs, Dallas salesman, to manager; N. P. Jacobs, Los Angeles salesman, to manager; N. M. Durant, Toronto accountant, to Montreal manager; C. J. Dressell, Minneapolis booker, to salesman; L. Choquette, Montreal booker, to salesman; H. F. Taylor, Toronto booker, to salesman; J. A. Davidson, Winnipeg booker, to salesman covering Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver; J. G. Chinell, Buffalo shipper, to salesman.

The list of newcomers to the sales force includes:

T. M. Conlon and G. Tucker, Albany; F. W. Salley, Atlanta; J. J. Clarke and R. Egner, Chicago; J. A. McKnight, Cincinnati; W. D. Ward, Cleveland; W. V. Adwell and J. E. Huey, Dallas; N. Sandler, Des Moines; J. F. Sharkey, Detroit; G. R. Giroux, Los Angeles; W. M. Snelson, Memphis; J. Kaliski, Minneapolis; F. R. Fielding, New York; E. Leiby and J. Graham, Pittsburgh; H. Levy, St. Louis; J. Marks, Salt Lake City; Fred Horn, Sioux Falls; H. F. Bachman, Washington; Mark Plottel, manager at the Winnipeg office, and R. A. Young, head office accountant at Toronto.

Radio to Make Two in Three-Way Technicolor

CHICAGO, June 18.—Radio will use Technicolor's three-way color process in at least two features next season. One will be "The Last Days of Pompeii" on detail of which Merian C. Cooper is enroute to Italy. Three negatives are shot at once in place of the two formerly used.

"Improved quality of modern recorded pictures necessitates the use of the latest advanced type of sound reproducing equipment, if theatres are to give their audiences the full sound value of their screen entertainment," E. O. Heyl, vice-president of RCA Photophone, told the delegates to the Radio convention today.

Radio Gets Hopkins

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Radio has lined up a story titled, "The Richest Girl in the World" for Miriam Hopkins on her loanout deal from Paramount. William Seiter will direct with Pandro Berman handling production reins.

Radio Dots and Dashes

CHICAGO, June 18.—"Wild Bill" HALLIGAN of Albany recited his harrowing tale of woe of the days he ran the Daisy in Green Island near Albany.

JACK OSSERMAN was on good behavior. It's the home town.

EARL BURNETT, maestro of the Drake Hotel orchestra, found many old friends among the former Pathetics. And what was a song EARL composed for the convention.

LOU GAUDREAU, purchasing gent, was boasting to everyone about the record accessory sales year.

WARREN LEWIS was out papering the town, just like a sailor.

WALTER BRONSON, Chicago's big boy grinned all over.

WILLIAM MALLARD and the other RKO law boys including MUCHNIC and YOUNGMAN stayed together.

R. R. DOYLE made the longest trip to the convention coming from Australia, where he is manager.

RALPH WILLIAMS, Oklahoma's branch manager, spent all day Sunday challenging everyone to a game of marbles. Knowing RALPH's aptness at this famous game everyone said nix to his many yelps.

C. W. ALLEN, one of Jacksonville's citizens, plays a great game of bridge and poker. CHARLIE made many of them testify to that fact on Sunday night.

JACOBS of Los Angeles demonstrated a few neat tricks in wardrobe smartness.

"EPH" ROSEN of Minneapolis couldn't adjust himself to the class beds at the Drake. "ROSEY's" specialty is sleeping in the cool confines of his Ford lizzie, particularly in Northern Minnesota at 30 and 40 below.

LARRY GARGDINER wanted to shoot AL AVERY a game of golf, but both forgot to remember that they left their clubs behind.

A gent resembling "ONE EYE" CONNOLLY tried to crash the gate, but from the grin on the official gateman's face he evidently failed.

HARRY ZEITELS of New Haven made the grade in bald-headed row just by a hair.

The vet's are here again this year, headed by JOE SKELLY, who does not remember the time he missed one of these affairs.

Branch Manager FITCH of Sioux Falls gave a lengthy talk on the present beer situation which had them all howling during the lunch-time.

PAGE BAKER of Memphis almost broke loose with a strong arm act. lookout for FRANK BUCK.

AL MERTZ hobnobbed with the Cleveland gang.

HARRY GITTLESON sported the latest style 5th Ave. Robertson suits.

ED McEVoy and CRESS SMITH, those east and west boys, are arm-in-arming it. Just brothers under the skin!

BOB SISK and BARRET McCORMICK smuggled in a trunkful of campaign books, but they threw away the key until Tuesday.

Incidentally, those convention badges designed by JACK MEYERS under HARRY GITTLESON's supervision are right snappy. That nonchalant placing of type on the bias had the boys dizzy at first glance, but how they liked it.

FRANK McNAMEE cornered JACK CONNOLLY to cook up something new in exploitation for Pathe News. It's well nigh two or more years since FRANK started that clever plug via Philly radio stations.

G. MUCHNIC of the legal staff made his debut as a conventionite.

Radio Turns to Stage Names for '34 Bets

CHICAGO, June 18.—Radio is gambling much on Broadway stage players for next season.

Fred Astaire is under contract for two. One will be "The Gay Divorcee."

Violet Kemble-Cooper will appear with Ann Harding in "The Fountain."

Barbara Robbins is working in "Hat, Coat and Glove" with Ricardo Cortez and John Beal, who is out of the cast of "Another Language."

Thelma White, "Follies" girl, is down for two.

Francis Lederer, signed earlier, will make two.

Radio Has New Camera

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Development of a camera which, it is said, will result in the saving of much time and money is claimed by Radio. William Eglington and Harry Cunningham of the camera department are largely responsible for the invention. Claimed for the device are a minimum of noise and bulk, improved sound quality, synchronization of the focusing of lens and finder and complete control and operation of all operations from the outside of the camera instead of from the inside of the casing.

Certain of Sound's Gains

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—There is every reason to expect that progress made in naturalness of reproduction of both dialogue and music during 1933-34 will be just as stable for the 1934-35 season and will continue to enhance public interest and salability of product, according to Carl Dreher, chief of Radio's sound department.

including recording, reproducing, replacement of parts and servicing.

The complainants and the amounts they are suing for follow: Standard Sound Recording Corp., $9,000,000; Service on Sound Corp., $4,500,000; Macy Manufacturing Corp., $3,000,000; Granger Manufacturing Co., $1,500,000; Standard Sound Service, Sound Picture Engineers and Audio Equipment Maintenance, Inc., $1,500,000 each.

The plaintiffs, charging violation of the anti-trust laws, declare they were forced to use equipment sponsored by the defendants.

The suits allege the defendants, jointly with General Electric, Westinghouse and RCA, pooled their patents in 1919, cross-licensed one another, and allocated certain territories to themselves, with all other equipment firms barred. It is also charged licenses were issued to major producers on condition the defendants were given sole supervision of recording and reproducing equipment and no product would be sold to theatres having equipment of any other make.

The plaintiffs are being represented by David Garrison Berger and Ralph Vatner.

Efforts to obtain a statement were unavailing yesterday at the Erpi offices.

Guilty in Memphis Test of Blue Law

MEMPHIS, June 18.—Charles Mensing, manager of the Orpheum, was fined $25 in City Court today for violating the Sunday blue law in connection with his opening of the house yesterday under the restaurant licensing ordinance, with movies free with the eats. His intention was to test the idea as a means of beating the Sabbath closing statute.

Mensing will appeal to the Circuit Court. At today's hearing the court offered to drop the charge if Mensing agreed not to repeat the offense, but the manager preferred the fine so he could appeal. The Orpheum will not open again on Sunday pending outcome of the appeal.

68 Page Product Book

CHICAGO, June 18.—Radio's announcement book for 1934-35—68 pages strong—was distributed to the convention this morning. The book was produced under supervision of Robert F. Sisk, director of advertising and publicity, by S. Barret McCormick with assistance of Art Director David L. Strumpf, Ralph Lund and other members of the staff.

Leslie Howard and William Gargan arrive from the coast tomorrow. A few days thereafter Howard sails for England and a vacation. Prior to his departure from the coast, the star finished "Of Human Bondage" for Radio.

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Liberty's "School for Girls" will be placed in production Friday under the direction of William Nigh. Sidney Fox and Paul Kelly head the cast.

Indianapolis

Little Man' Biggest Biz In Indianapolis, $4,500

Indianapolis, June 11.

Grosses are not especially strong this week with the exception of the take by 'Little Man' at the Lyric. Sullavan is still talked about excitedly by the women as a result of her work in 'Only Yesterday' at the same theatre last fall, and she is responsible for the good gross this week on 'Little Man' which is expected to reach $4,500. This is in the black for the Lyric in its second week of its summer policy of straight films minus its usual vaude.

Only outstanding picture currently is 'Little Man, What Now?', at the Chicago.

Golder Named IEPA Head in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—First open meeting of the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Ass'n. resulted in putting the organization into definite shape with B. M. Golder elected as president for six months.

Morris Nemez was named treasurer and Morris Wax was elected chairman of the board. Resolutions were adopted condemning salacious pictures and asking producers to clean them up.

Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, advised the new group not to cross state lines as the local M. P. T. O. unit does, because of the semi-political, semi-public service aspects of the industry. He cited the advantages of a strong organization. He claimed New York had the best clearance agreements.

The Allied head condemned organizations with affiliated circuit members and said Allied would welcome the new group if without affiliates and not a "decoy duck for the enemy." Discussing clean pictures, he said exhibitors were helpless in the face of blind booking.

"Clean Up," He Says

"Unsuitable pictures are not the primary element," he said; "the trouble lies deeper in dirty commercial methods. Exhibitors should join to clean up and not be like the ostrich element in the industry blind to the perils."

Samuelson intimated that New Jersey was considering a state control law for films.

Harry Brandt of the I. T. O. A. attacked Lewen Pizor, M. P. T. O. head here, for not bringing about elimination of affiliates as agreed upon in New York. Michael Egnol threw the meeting into a buzz of excitement by defending Pizor. He declared Pizor had tried to do this, but had been blocked.

Hits Pizor Pamphlet

Brandt also took exception to a pamphlet circulated at the meeting by Pizor denouncing what he described as an attempt to disrupt the M. P. T. O. He also aimed a verbal shaft at the code saying: "We want to get away from both old and new ideas." He insisted this industry was the only one to have a code "thrust upon it," and said more grievances had arisen than in any other industry.

He described what he said was an attempt to establish arbitration with Charles C. Pettijohn and Will H. Hays on independents' problems, and said he was leaving immediately for Washington to retain Clarence Darrow, "if necessary" to fight for independents.

David Barrist spoke for the new organization and Golder called upon

Thespian-ism

Hollywood, June 18. — It looks as if M-G-M's production staff is slowly going histrionic. First it was Production Manager Edward Brophy who turned actor. Now James Wong Howe, one of Hollywood's ace cameramen, is being tested for a role in "The Good Earth." The studio wants Director Richard Boleslavsky to impersonate a doctor in a new film.

pleasant shock by notifying him of his decision and Richardson passed the shock on the James R. Grainger, vice-president in charge of distribution.

"I appreciate the fact that the distributor has his problems just the same as does the exhibitor," he wrote, "and I have no desire whatsoever to take advantage of the 10 per cent cancellation clause set up in the code. It is a foregone conclusion that if a large percentage of exhibitors exercise this privilege it will cut heavily into your revenue."

He says he knows distributors need revenue to produce good pictures and states he knows they did not contemplate the cancellation when they set up their budgets.

"Furthermore," he goes on, "I am deeply grateful for the very fine cooperation that has been given me in the past, at times when our business was rent asunder through losses by the various distributors with whom I have business relations. I made no misrepresentation about our losses and asked many distributors for reduction in prices of pictures sold us and my appeal for this assistance was sustained."

those present to "make a fight for their rights."

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—If members of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware favor election of a new slate of officers and withdrawal of the organization from the M. P. T. O. A. they will be given an opportunity to vote on both issues at the regular meeting of the organization Thursday, Lewen Pizor, president, declares in a bulletin issued to members in which he replies to recent attacks by the Independent Exhibitors Protective Ass'n.

Pizor's bulletin declares that many members of the opposition "have never paid dues" to the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania; "others of them have selfish, personal motives, and still others desire to become officers of the M. P. T. O., but are not wanted by the rank and file." Pizor describes them as "mischief makers who have definitely decided that unless they can control our organization they will wreck it."

N. O. Indies Write To the White House

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—Ten local independents have individually written to President Roosevelt complaining of not getting a square deal under the code. Henry Lazarus has asked the President to send a Department of Justice man to investigate the situation here.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Murder in a Private Car"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—More or less burlesquing murder mystery melodrama for laughs and thrill reactions, this tidbit also introduces a new comedy character in the crime deflector, instead of a detective.

Charlie Ruggles works on the theory that warding off crime prevents crime, so he ingratiates himself with a telephone operator, Mary Carlisle, and her co-worker, Una Merkel, in time to start deflecting.

Coming into a fortune, Mary is beset by criminal forces, led by her uncle. Aboard a private car, a lawyer broker, an orang-outang, a colored porter, secret panels, strange voices offset by the deflecting of Ruggles and the comicalities of Miss Merkel keep the action alive and laughter bouncing. When the private car is uncoupled and starts down hill with the limited racing up, the film exposes railroading thrills breathtaking in variety and novelty.

Ruggles, easily one of the screen's top funny men, with Una for added laughs, together with Miss Carlisle and Russell Hardie for romance, highlight the cast. The dialogue by Ralph Spence, Edgar Allan Woolf and Al Boasberg sparkles. Harry Beaumont's direction is paced for suspense and laughs.

Altogether, an entertaining program picture. Running time, 71 minutes.

Boston Group Will Pass on All Films

BOSTON, June 18.—Plans today were understood to be progressing for formation of a central committee to pass on the merits of films as released.

The development has to do with a form of boycott to which Catholics, as voiced in this instance through the State Council of the Knights of Columbus, are objecting and has the sanction of Cardinal O'Connell.

The plan is to boycott producers of objectionable film in the case of major producers or of individual theatres in the case of independent producers.

A producer so boycotted for a month or more will find his product on the "not recommended" list for six months after conclusion of the boycott. A producer who escapes the boycott for three months running will have his product recommended.

Milwaukee Parents Hit Block Booking

MILWAUKEE, June 18.—Resolutions protesting against block booking have been adopted by the League of Catholic Parent-Teacher Ass'n's here.

Indecent pictures were scored by the most Rev. S. A. Stritch, D. D., archbishop of the Milwaukee diocese, while in Beloit, Wis., to confirm 300 persons at the three Catholic churches in that city.

CLEVELAND, June 18.—The League of Decency campaign reaches this section of the country with intention of 50,000 Catholics of 14 Northern Ohio counties pledging themselves to shun objectionable films.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The Presbyterian Church has joined hands with the Catholic Church in the film campaign. The Presbyterian, national weekly published locally, has announced its intention of accepting no picture advertising.

10 cent admissions or both where their practice by subsequent runs is demonstrated to injure prior runs. In other words, the company will proceed on a policy of individual situations.

Following the roll call by G. B. J. Frawley, and the opening and welcoming address by Sales Manager Neil F. Agnew, Schaefer today addressed the group on sales policies for 1934-35 at the morning session. At the afternoon meeting, John Hicks, Jr., vice-president and general manager of Paramount International, spoke for the foreign department. Agnew, Lou Diamond and Max Fleischer, reviewed short subjects.

At luncheon Adolph Zukor, Paramount head, addressed the conventioners on the outlook for next season.

The "Hundred Percent Club" members were announced at the morning session as follows: J. J. Oulahan, Washington; I. Lesser, New York; J. B. Gardner, Columbus; B. P. Brooks, New Jersey; L. C. Lowe, Atlanta; Bert Adams, Charlotte; Jack Curry, Oklahoma City; Lester Hughes, Maine; Frank Smith, Salt Lake City; William Esch, Indianapolis; M. C. Burles, Los Angeles; P. W. Robbins, Des Moines; G. H. Haviland, Seattle; L. M. Palmquist, Minneapolis.

Theatre Attendance Up

Theatre attendance in the United States and Canada has returned to the normal of pre-inflation days, according to the consensus of opinion of 50 leading theatre operators of the two countries attending the convention as guests of Paramount. Sam Dembow pointed out that while the code has increased materially the costs of production and exhibition, there has been to date no corresponding increase in box-office prices generally.

"The consumer of every other commodity," he said, "has during the past six months been asked to pay slightly more for his purchases. Motion picture prices have remained where they were during the worst depression days."

Dembow explained that the increased costs have been met by a general increase in attendance figures.

At the opening of the convention a one-minute period of silence was observed in tribute to the memory of two Paramount executives, Emil Shauer, who died several months ago, and Stanley Waite, who passed away last week the day before he was to have left for the convention.

New Product Screened

Pictures screened today were "Cleopatra," "It Ain't No Sin," "The Scarlet Empress" and "Shoot the Works." Max Fleischer's new "stereopticon" Betty Boop short in color called "Poor Cinderella," won extended applause.

Percy Block, Paramount district manager in Philadelphia, reported that theatre business there was on the up-grade despite the church's boycott on objectionable films. A. F. Baker of Kansas declared himself enthusiastic over the increase in business there, attributed by him to higher type pictures.

Louis Marcus, mayor of Salt Lake City and a leading exhibitor there, was the last to arrive for the convention. John Howard of the Indianapolis exchange was unable to attend because of a sudden attack of pneumonia.

At Tuesday's meeting, Emanuel Cohen will discuss the production department before the group. In the afternoon Schaefer will make formal announcement of the 1934-35 product.

Wednesday the morning meeting will be devoted to a talk on advertising by Robert M. Gillham. Louis Phillips will review the code and Agnew will talk on sales for the coming season's product. In the afternoon Schaefer will talk on plans for 1934-35 and Zukor will give a talk. Evenings during the convention are being devoted to screenings of short subjects and feature product.

Para. Will Confine Self to One-Reelers

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Paramount will confine itself to one-reelers in the short subject field next season, it was reiterated today by Lou Diamond, in charge of shorts, at the opening session of the company's convention. Included on the list are 12 "Popeye the Sailor," 12 "Betty Boop," 6 "Color Classics," 13 Grantland Rice shorts, 13 pictorials and 18 "Headliners."

Martin J. Mullin is president of the company and Marion Coles, secretary.

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Adolph Zukor made no promise to the Rev. Andreas Bard, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Kansas City, to make a picture on the life of Martin Luther authored by the clergyman, it was revealed today by the Paramount president, who said he told the minister when he passed through Kansas City on his way to the convention that he would be glad to consider such a story upon submission.

Giveaways Feature Grievance Hearings

Reduced admissions and giveaways continue to highlight the majority of cases to come before the New York grievance board. Up to now most of these have been brought by Loew against independents with the major circuit victorious in decisions. At one hearing 15 cases were decided in Loew's favor. Last week eight more were added to the list. Today Loew has three coming up against the Apollo, Hollywood and Paras-Court in Brooklyn.

In addition to these cases, there are two which involve complaints against exhibitors claimed to be negotiating for theatres while present tenants are dickering. One is the complaint of Max Cohen against Harry Brandt on the Wallack and the other is Leon Rosenblatt's objection to David Weinstein's alleged negotiations for the Orpheum, Jersey City.

Kelly to Appeal on New Jersey Decision

Declaring the clearance verdict granted by the New York board over theatres in Hackensack, Paterson, Union City, Palisades Park, Englewood, Jersey City and North Bergen is a "hollow victory" and that it offers no relief in the order in which he must play product, E. Thornton Kelly of the Grant Lee at Fort Lee, said yesterday he will appeal the decision to Campi.

"If that doesn't help us, we propose carrying the case up the line to Washington. The decision told us nothing we haven't known for the last five years."

S. & C. to Sign Code When It Is Reopened acquisitions, it was learned yesterday.

Suit to recover $12,237,000, the amount of the stock repurchases, was begun against members of the Paramount board of directors, which authorized the repurchases, by the Paramount trustees last April. Some of the theatre circuits which were acquired in this manner, and the probable liability of whose former owners is being studied by counsel for trustees, are Rickards & Nace, Arizona; Hostettler Circuit, Nebraska and Iowa; Kunsky - Trendle, Detroit; Great States, Illinois, and a half interest in the Dent Circuit, Texas and New Mexico.

All of the 17 defendants named in the suit begun against the 1931-32 Paramount directors have now been served with summonses with the exception of Jesse L. Lasky. Jules E. Brulatour, one of the defendants, recently obtained leave of the state supreme court here to replace the law firm of Konta, Kirchwey and Engel with Max D. Steuer as his counsel in the action. Most of the remainder of the defendants are being represented by Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood. All are required to file answers to the original complaint late this month.

Congress Ends with An Eventful Record

industry for what it did not do than for what it accomplished. Little or no film legislation was given consideration during the session, which was devoted toward enacting measures designed to put the New Deal machinery into full operation.

The reciprocal-tariff legislation, permitting the President to change rates of import duties in the negotiation of trade pacts with other countries, was probably the most important measure of the session, from the point of view of the picture business. Under that legislation, the President may be successful in securing the elimination of the political handicaps which have tended to reduce the market for American films in France, Poland and other countries.

The high spot of the session was reached in May, when Senator Nye of North Dakota made a bitter but futile attack upon the National Recovery Administration's handling of the code, following publication of the report of the National Recovery Review Board and the answers of General Johnson, General Counsel Richberg and Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Industry Gets Off Easy

Tax legislation enacted by the session just adjourned passed by the amusement industry. No change was made in admission taxes. Members of the industry, of course, will be affected to the same extent as other business men by the changes in income tax rates and the revision of corporate, partnership and other provisions.

Corporation bankruptcy legislation, already availed of by a number of film companies, will save distressed concerns from receivership and enable them to reorganize and continue in business.

Loans to industry by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. may also aid the picture business by providing needed new capital.

On the other side of the books was the legislation placing the Government in control of the securities markets, which may slow down new financing.

During the session hearings were held on the Patman bill for supervision of production and on legislation designed to pave the way for adherence of the United States to the Rome copyright convention, no action being taken on either.

As the session just ended was the final session of the Congress, legislation not disposed of "died" upon adjournment and if still desired next session will have to be reintroduced.

Among the bills and resolutions introduced during the 73rd Congress and not acted upon were the following:

Prohibiting the transportation of crime pictures, introduced by Representative Cannon of Missouri.

Investigation of financial and business irregularities and illegal operations in the industry, by Representative Sirovich of New York.

Department of Justice investigation of production, distribution and exhibition, Representative Patman of Texas.

Copyright revision, Senator Dill of Washington.

Repeal of ban on transportation of fight pictures, Representative Celler of New York and Senator Barbour of New Jersey.

Prohibiting block and blind booking, Representative Celler of New York.

Adherence to the International Copyright Union, Representative Luce of Massachusetts.

Prohibition of interstate transportation of indecent films and pictures showing actors convicted of moral turpitude, Representative Cannon of Missouri.

Creation of a motion picture commission and ban on block booking, Representative Culklin of New York.

Nye Introduces New Bills as Final Shot

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Making a parting gesture against the industry, Senator Nye of North Dakota, staunch defender of the Darrow board, shortly before the adjournment of Congress introduced two bills providing for censorship, prohibition on block booking, requiring the furnishing of accurate synopses of all pictures to exhibitors and amending the Clayton Act to apply to license agreements and leases. The bills were identical with those introduced in the House some time ago by Representative Patman of Texas.

The Nye bills were the only ones introduced in the Senate on the last day of the session.

Try Out New Camera

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—Mascot is trying out a new camera device called a "velocitor." The camera, in a new patented "blimp," moves on duralumin tracks. Lateral and perpendicular movements, it is claimed, are controlled at any desired speed. Ernie Miller is using it on "Young and Beautiful." It was developed by the Fearless Camera Co.

Horne Promotes Two

Alexander Gottlieb, for the past few months assistant to Hal Horne, director of advertising and publicity for United Artists, has been promoted to advertising manager.

Kenneth O'Brien, formerly of the publicity department, is successor to Gottlieb and is now working as assistant to Horne.

Hal Rosson Stricken

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—Hal Rosson, former husband of Jean Harlow, is in quarantine with a slight attack of infantile paralysis following a swimming party in a private pool three days ago. He is the first picture name to become afflicted in the present epidemic. At present 685 cases are on report.

Would Delay Availability To End Duals

competition of previews by setting admission prices for them at 55 cents has also been adopted by the code board, the price to apply to all seats. Seen as the deathknell of five cent admissions is a third decision setting back availability dates to that type of theatre one year behind any Los Angeles first run.

Houses charging 40 cents will get pictures 21 days after downtown first runs, it is proposed in the new schedule. Thirty-five cent houses would get them 35 days; 25 centers, 49 days; 20 centers, 77 days; 15 cent houses, 126 days; five cent houses or those running five cent matinees for kids, one year.

There is nothing final in the plan of the Los Angeles clearance board or of any other board for that matter on the question of clearance. Campi points out all schedules are tentative and that they must be approved at code headquarters. Code authority, as a general matter, anticipates all proposed plans will be protested somewhere along the exhibition front.

Baltimore House's Films Are Stopped

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Film deliveries to Moe Kohn, Leader Theatre, Baltimore, have been ordered stopped by the grievance board on the ground that he failed to obey the board's order to stop issuing advertising passes.

Kohn's case first came before the board on complaint of Max Cluster, operator of the Cluster. At that time he was ordered to stop advertising passes with a box-office surcharge and also to end premature advertising. He announced an appeal to Code Authority, but later withdrew it.

Cluster secured a reopening of the case and presented testimony that on three occasions passes had been obtained since the issuance of the original order. Kohn failed to appear at the hearing. He wrote to Secretary Fitzgerald that he had discontinued the practice.

Gradin Theatre, Roanoke, won a non-theatrical competition decision against R. W. Carper and Lakeside Park. Lawrence M. Corcoran, southern licensee for Western Electric, appeared as respondent.

Campi Speed Plans May Be Ready Soon

Charles L. O'Reilly, R. H. Cochran, Edward Golden, Austin C. Keough, Edward McKay and J. Robert Rubin, the joint legal and administration committee, met yesterday at Campi and recommended several plans for disposing of appeals before Code Authority and complaints before local boards.

The recommendation will be presented to Campi tomorrow for approval. Immediate hearings and quick decisions are included in the plans.

ITOA Seeks Court Stay To Protect Non-Signers

Not Significant

Buffalo, June 19.—A highlight of the compliance hearing before the grievance board in which Edwin Wick, proprietor of the Majestic, was accused of disobeying a board order, came in Wick's testimony that each person who bought a ticket on "country store" nights got a present.

"What was the present?" Sidney Samson, presiding as chairman, asked.

"A sucker," Wick replied.

"Is that significant?" another board member asked.

"No, candy," Wick retorted.

Buffalo Code Case Taken Out of Court

BUFFALO, June 19.—Edwin Wick, manager of the Majestic, will withdraw from the Supreme Court his suit for an injunction to restrain the grievance board from interfering with delivery of films to his theatre.

The stipulation dropping the case, entered into today between Wick's attorney, Leo J. Rosen, and Herbert T. Silverberg, counsel for the grievance board, will be filed with Justice Samuel J. Harris Friday.

With the case removed from the courts and back under code procedure, Wick was given a hearing by the grievance board on a non-compliance charge. The board ruled he was guilty of non-compliance with its cease and desist order of May 21. Wick was given until June 25 to comply with the board's order to discontinue reduced admissions and giveaways.

After the June 25 date, it was stated, another order to film exchanges to stop delivery film will be issued unless he has complied. It was the first order of this kind that started the court action.

Stop 5-Cent Tickets

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—The grievance board has ordered J. Richman, Pearl Theatre, to stop admitting children for five cents on the ground that it is cuts under the scales specified in his contracts. The complaint was brought by M. A. Rosenberg, Rialto.

H. Buxbaum of Fox yesterday was served with papers. Campi had not been served at a late hour last night.

Weisman yesterday stated I.T.O.A. members do not want to sign the code and still maintain their constitutional rights. He said members of the organization are conforming to the code and see no reason why they should sign it.

Reopening of the code assent date for non-signers will be set tomorrow when Campi meets and Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt approves the recommendation of Campi. Exhibitors, under the plan, will be given until Aug. 15 to sign up with the provision that two assentors endorse applications which must be accompanied by a check for the first half year's assessment.

Several weeks ago Weisman filed suit seeking to enjoin code boards from preventing filing of complaints by non-assentors. The action came before Judge Alfred C. Cox in the U. S. District Court and was withdrawn by the plaintiff last Friday.

protest against clearance even antedates Cuser's protest and was started by Harry Nepo on the 10-cent admission situation which has the support of the recently-formed Independent Theatre Owners' Ass'n. Its members profess their indignation, alleging present protection finds many of them playing in the seventh week, although their price scale equals houses which get availability dates earlier.

Cuser's protest is aimed at the Crystal, a 2,000 seater which plays a 15-cent matinee. Playing seven weeks later, Cuser says he is forced to charge 15 cents and that the difference in the comfort and facilities of the two houses, as well as the seating capacity, makes this a hardship.

It is Cuser's contention, as it is the contention of R. Christiansen, operator of the La Salle, former "Loop" 10 center, that the general public will not wait seven weeks to save a nickel for a picture it wants to see. On the other hand, they point out, the patron who cannot afford but 10 cents is lost to both classes of houses as a theatre-goer and the exhibitor in a logical 10-cent neighborhood will be forced out of business while the 15-cent house will not profit by his extinction.

The opposite view is that many 15 and 25-cent houses are now only doing a 50 per cent business and would welcome the opportunity to cut admissions, resulting in a general lowering of admissions throughout the city.

This morning's session opened with a talk by Emanuel Cohen on new product. He related how Paramount had overcome obstacles that had existed for years between exhibition and production. He said when he took over the reins production rested on the shoulders of two men, Jesse L. Lasky and B. P. Schulberg, this being gradually changed so that now associate producers are given a certain number of pictures for which they are responsible. These producers, he explained, work hand in hand with the eastern and western editorial boards. According to Cohen, stories are no longer selected solely on the judgment of producers at the studio, but with the full cooperation of those familiar with exhibition.

Cohen introduced Jeff Lazarus and Russell Holman, who spoke of their work on the eastern editorial board, relating how they selected plays and stories with an eye to exhibition needs.

A. M. Botsford, editorial head on the coast, explained how his board functioned in connection with producers, directors and writers and with the eastern story board. He said it was no longer a one-man affair, but one of full coordination among all creative branches, all striving to meet the demands and needs of exhibition and the film-goer.

William Le Baron discussed the new product under his supervision.

Cohen Speech Stirs Zukor's Enthusiasm

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Emanuel Cohen's address this morning was characterized as the "soundest, most constructive speech ever made at a Paramount convention in the past 15 years" by Adolph Zukor in an interview with MOTION PICTURE DAILY today. "It shows we are on the right road," he said.

Zukor asserted there would be nothing said at the convention regarding the reorganization of the company. When asked about the theatre partnership and the possible return of all theatres to Paramount, he asserted that "we are drawing our partners closer together, mentally if not physically. We are strengthening the family ties."

Modern Stories, Five Musicals Set for Para.

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Modern backgrounds, liberally sprinkled with comedy and some mystery stories; two costume spectacles; two straight musicals and three films with music; six based on plays, and three westerns make up the bulk of the Paramount program.

Name authors figure very little in the list. Only four are given prominent mention. These are Francis Yeats-Brown's "Lives of a Bengal Lancer"; Arthur Somers Roche's "The Case Against Mrs. Ames";

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Shoot the Works"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—"Shoot the Works" is a potent blend of comedy-drama and catchy music handled with discerning judgment from every production angle.

The yarn features Jack Oakie, a 42nd Street side show barker, who owns whale shows, a flea circus and flagpole sitters. Romance enters with Dorothy Dell, who endeavors to steer him into better things. Ben Bernie and his gang, Roscoe Karns, Arline Judge, Alison Skipworth, who are part of the show, get a better offer and check out. The climax comes when Miss Dell joins the departing group to get money for herself and Oakie and to do a vaudeville act for a booking by Lew Cody.

The group becomes famous and annexes publicity from William Frawley, Broadway's ace keyhole looker. Oakie misunderstands the situation and the romance breaks, to be renewed happily thereafter. The atmosphere is loaded with showmanship and down-to-earth laughs. The entire cast renders fine performances.

Bouquets go to Howard J. Green for his screenplay and to Wesley Ruggles for his swell direction. Music by Gordon and Revel and Ralph Rainger is excellent. Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler did the original story and Claude Binyon the dialogue. This is entertainment and it's exploitable.

Vina Delmar's "Evening Star," and Damon Runyon's "Lemon Drop Kid."

Radio Dots and Dashes

CHICAGO, June 19.—S. BARRET MCCORMICK of the advertising department stole in quietly as the festivities got under way.

LEON BAMBERGER is being acclaimed RKO's rival to JIMMY DURANTE.

F. L. MCNAMEE of Philly and Washington, as usual, had some good fish stories to keep the boys interested.

EDDY ECKELS from the coast made his RKO convention debut.

FRANK O'HERON, due to a rush of last minute work, missed the convention, but wired his congratulations.

JULES LEVY shook hands with practically everyone at the affair in the first few minutes.

MIKE POLLER was passing the buck continually to A. A. SCHUBART.

Branch Manager HERB GREENBLATT of Cleveland planned to go on a strict dieting season, but when he heard NED DEPINET outline the big shows RKO is to produce, he realized this would be unnecessary.

Harmonizing is what GUY BROWN of New Orleans is most fond of. Bad sentence, but facts are correct anyway.

DEPINET gave LEVY the laugh each time he tried to get funny.

PHIL REISMAN was busy with the handshake. This is PHIL's first season as head of the export department.

The key to the town was presented to DEPINET before the convention got under way.

HARRY MELCHER of Milwaukee is growing himself a mustache to avoid any further embarrassments with police departments. HARRY was mistaken Sunday eve for Al Capone.

Picking violets is the principal diversion of JIMMY AMBROSE, who hails from Wisconsin and is being paged as the best dressed man.

Plenty of swell English overheard. The answer—LEON BAMBERGER, RKO's deacon, is around. He's the chap who planned the English lesson exploitation gag on "Little Women" with the school ladies.

ELY EPSTEIN, now of Philly, was formerly with the Marines with headquarters in Washington.

"SLICK" COLLINS showing around the latest type hairwave. The Atlanta boy denies he had it set.

ART GOLDSMITH of Cleveland trying to pawn off his old Chrysler to one of the boys. This is the fourth year ARTIE has tried and failed.

BOB SISK gave a lengthy talk on the future advertising, publicity and promotional campaigns.

BROWN and HUGHES of the green open spaces were demanding rooms with an ocean view.

"ERNIE" WHELPLEY, a "blue-nose" from St. John, got the glad hand for doing a swell job in the Maritimes.

BOB FOLLIARD of Washington was busy explaining why he has fallen off in his game of golf. He claims it's all because of the new baby.

The convention's chief dialectician and mimic is HARRY ZEITELS of New Haven.

Sales Set for 1,400 Spots, Levy Asserts

CHICAGO, June 19.—Contracts for the 1934-35 Radio lineup have been closed for 1,400 theatres. This includes big circuits as well as individual spots, Jules Levy, general sales manager, told the convention in session here today at the Drake.

Levy pointed out that the contracts were set before a single feature on the new list had been ready for showing.

Comedy Pair at Banquet

CHICAGO, June 19.—Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will head the talent lineup for the banquet which closes the Radio convention at the Drake tomorrow night. Music will be furnished by Earl Burnett's orchestra and Ben Bernie and Morton Downey will appear. Air personalities will be furnished by the Chicago NBC studios.

Shirley Temple Shorts

Smart showmen are cashing in on the sky-rocketing popularity of little Shirley Temple, the wonder girl of the screen, who has swept the country by her remarkable performance in several recent features.

Several good short subjects were made under the Educational banner before she went into featured roles and should be played, regardless of whether you have played them before.

Book them in and give them a good play in all your advertising, lobby, trailers, etc. It will get you dough especially now while everyone is talking about her. Take this tip, Mr. Theatreman, and contact your Fox-Educational exchange right away.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Fifty-two features, 181 shorts and 104 issues of Hearst Metrotone News comprise M-G-M's lineup for 1934-35. The assembled home office and the sales force from the United States and Canada will get the detail, as far as the company is announcing it at this time, on Thursday. This will be the opening of three convention days at the Drake.

Announcing 52 as its total, Felix F. Feist, general sales manager, will list 40 properties by titles, refer to a story by Michael Arlen, sans title, and two unnamed all-star feature comedies. The remainder of the program will go unannounced.

The official program contains no

Clofine Lining Up Hearst Reel Staff

Para. Led in Film Profits In '33—Cohen

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—That Paramount's 1933 production profit was "greater than that of any other company," is the belief of Emanuel Cohen, Paramount production head, voiced in his address to the company's sales executives and theatre operating partners in attendance here at the annual sales meeting.

The 1933 performance, he pointed out, followed a production loss of $5,000,000 in 1932. As a result, Cohen said, Paramount has "ample funds and tremendous encouragement"

Decision Reserved In Chase Bank Suit

Decision was reserved yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here on an action brought by Chase National Bank as trustee seeking authorization to file a claim against Paramount Publix for the full amount of a $20,000,000 bond issue and to receive interest payments on the entire issue.

Paramount trustees are contesting the action and are seeking to have the entire claim expunged. Referee Henry K. Davis ruled last spring that Chase's claim should be only in the amount of bonds actually deposited with it by their owners, or approximately $18,500,000. The U. S. District Court upheld the ruling on review and the appeal in the present case was sought by both Chase and Paramount.

Just a Trifle

"The Skourases," said Attorney Saul E. Rogers yesterday, addressing the court in criticism of the Fox Metropolitan reorganization plan, "pin most of their hopes on a participation in the future profits of the circuit. They're not interested in that $75,000 per year salary."

"No," observed Federal Judge Julian Mack, "in the motion picture business a salary of that kind doesn't seem to mean so much."

Depinet Gets Strong Praise As RKO Quits

CHICAGO, June 20.—Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Distributing Corp., was lauded as the man who kept the company going "in its darker days" at the closing session of the RKO convention at the Drake today. The speaker was J. R. McDonough, president of RKO.

Surprise Move Made at Court Hearing Upon Reorganization

Loew's and Warners joined forces yesterday to put in a $4,000,000 cash bid for the Fox Metropolitan circuit in a surprise move at a hearing on the plan of reorganization sponsored by bondholders of the circuit before Judge Julian W. Mack in U. S. District Court here.

The offer, if accepted by the Fox Met bondholders, would make available to them an additional $1,500,000 in cash now in the custody of Irving Trust Co., as receiver for the circuit. The division of the $5,500,000 aggregate amount would give to the holders of the $13,000,000 bonds of Fox Met an approximate cash settlement of 42 cents on the dollar.

The Fox Met bondholders' committee, author of the plan of reorganization which would continue operation of the circuit by Skouras and Randforce, asked and was granted an adjournment of the hearing before Judge Mack until this afternoon, immediately upon being apprised of the joint "Who Killed Cock Robin?" will be Walt Disney's first mystery melodrama. It'll be in color.

Insiders' Outlook

SO they got together. It isn't all quite clear as yet, but on the basis of what happened in Federal Court in this town yesterday, the Skourases and Rand-force are dangling on a limb insofar as their continued operation of the Fox Met houses are concerned. Interesting and totally unexpected as a development, this came about through a business coalition between Loew's and Warners, for this deal at least, and resulted in a cash bid for the 79 metropolitan area houses involved which the bondholders' protective committee will have difficulty in shaking off. . . .

Interesting from another angle and indicating, if not assuring, a cessation of the potential warfare between Loew's and Warners in this area is the consummation of a product deal, mentioned by Albert Warner in San Francisco, which gives Loew half of Warners' 60 and RKO the other half for the new season. The current now appears to be swirling strongly toward a compromise and a business understanding that will take better care of Warners in New York and keep Loew's out of Warner situations elsewhere. That'll save somebody's fingers from being scorched. . . .

The Paramount-Capitol pool isn't getting on any too well and this before it actually starts. The deal is not off, but enthusiasms have cooled somewhat. Remarkd a chap yesterday: "It's never a deal until the papers are signed." He proved he's been around, thereby. Conversation yesterday had it the Brooklyn Paramount will go to Loew's if the pool on this side of the river is signatured. Prudence Bonds, a substantial creditor in this instance, doesn't appear hot for the idea. Paramount is reported perspiring over it. Charlie Moskowitz, for Loew's, advises forgetting it. . . .

Curious twist. Distributors who have nothing to do with the Carnera-Baer fight pictures find their percentages in the New York district sailing skyward, because the draw of the squared ring opus is sending up grosses with the percentagers benefiting where ordinarily they might not. In several instances, distributors are getting checks from exhibitors such as they never dreamed of. Those fight films are wending their way merrily across the country, by the way. This, despite the Federal law which is supposed to limit exhibition to the state that housed the scrap. . . .

That much denied deal between Paramount (British) and H. and G. Kinemas—meaning Phil and Syd Hyams as well as Major Gale—may go considerably beyond that which the deal itself indicates. It indicates, for one thing, that major companies, now that the worst of the depression is history, are sticking to their original idea of remaining factors in the theatre field, whether here or abroad. It indicates to some, moreover, that Paramount is preparing to throw down the gauntlet to Gaumont British supremacy in England. . . .

The history behind the scenes is interesting. Probably, it has never been published on this side of the water. Here goes: When Will Evans was managing director of Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, which subsequently provided the substantial backbone of what is now known as G. B., he is understood to have made it very clear that no Paramount picture would play those houses as long as he had anything to say about them. Evans had considerable to say for some time and that was that. The argument appears to have involved some of the Paramount personnel which Evans couldn't see. . . .

Came the time later when Paramount determined to take over the Astoria circuit, located variously in London suburbs. Somewhere in that situation was a promise from John Cecil Graham, managing director for Paramount in England, to the C. E. A., which corresponds to the M.P.T.O.A. here, that his company would not expand theatrewise beyond plans already made. Third angle deals more directly with Gaumont British and its attitude, as expressed often by some of those in the outfit that count, that G. B. couldn't see booking Paramount, or any product company for that matter, unless the product played all of the houses in the big British chain regardless of what first runs Paramount, or any other company, may have had in the West End (Times Square) of London. . . .

That's background. Currently, this ancient history appears to be shoved aside for latter day plans, including purchase of the H. and G. houses, all large, all de luxe and all in London suburbs; a flotation, perhaps by the London Provincial Bank to the tune of $9,000,000 or maybe it will be $10,000,000 and consolidation of Paramount's own holdings into one company together with Astoria Cinemas and H. and G. Those who profess to be familiar with the plan and its possibilities see the way pointed toward expansion up and down the British Isle under the aegis of the broadened company. That is where the competition with Gaumont British looms. . . . KANN

Cinema Speeds Summer Pace; Presents Hits

"Fog Over Frisco" Is Leading the List.

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL.

INSTEAD of proceeding according to precedent—it is customary for the cinema to go into its warm-weather repose at this time of the year and, except for the usual run of program offerings, not stick its head out of its summer retreat until late August or early September—the cinema has yielded several pleasant surprises recently.

The first was a brisk, staccato melodrama called "Fog Over Frisco," which is still at the Strand. The story is every bit as fascinating as its title, and is full of gunplay, chases on land and sea, murder and kidnaping and other hair-raising machinery of homicide thrillers.

Thriller's Duty Well Done.

If the duty of a thriller is to thrill, then "Fog Over Frisco" has had no peer this year. A grand cast, headed by Bette Davis, Margaret Lindsay and Donald Woods, works its rapid-fire situations up into a fine lather of excitement.

Current Novels, Stage Hits Favored by M-G-M

CHICAGO, June 20.—The field of current literature and the stage have been thoroughly combed by M-G-M for material. Three musicals, all of the operetta type, are included. There is only one biographical costume film, "Marie Antoinette," and one from the classics, "David Copperfield." Jimmy Durante is set for two unnamed comedies described as all-star.

Ten Committees Urged To Speed Campi's Work

list yet to be submitted. Each committee will be evenly balanced, with one representative each for distributors, independent exhibitors and affiliated exhibitors.

After the committees hear appeals, reports will be made to Campi with a recommendation for decision. Committees will be in continuous session, hearing appeals as they are filed. Litigants will be given an opportunity to appear before the committee hearing a case. No decision will be made by any committee.

The plan follows lines of the New York clearance and zoning board. The main board here is supplemented by three advisory committees, one for each territory. Individual advisory groups hear protests against present schedules first and then submit recommendations to the main board, which sits Thursday. Litigants appear before advisory committees and also can appear before the main board for additional testimony.

Parceling of appeals will virtually eliminate hearings before Campi, but in cases where complications arise another hearing may be referred to Code Authority.

All Campi will have to do, should the plan be approved today by Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and Code Authority, will be to pass on recommendations by appeals committees. Campi will have to meet at least every two weeks to make decisions.

Before Code Authority today are more than 37 appeals. Only 31 of the 68 originally on the docket have been disposed of and more are arriving daily. An important decision is due today on the 10 per cent cancellation issue as it affects United Artists.

The joint committee setting up the plan for expediting appeals consisted of Edward Golden, J. Robert Rubin, Charles L. O'Reilly, Edward McKay, R. H. Cochrane and Austin Keough.

All appeals when coming before Campi committees are treated as new cases regardless of what has happened at local code board hearings. Several opinions will be handed down by Code Authority today, one of which will be the Rogowsky-Skouras appeal.

Refuses to Reopen Labor

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has refused a request of the I.T.O.A. to reopen the labor provision of the code as it affects booth operation.

Depinet Gets Strong Praise as RKO Quits

the man "whose enthusiasm and faith had kept Radio Pictures alive."

"The great work of the sales force headed by Depinet pulled the company through its depression," McDonough went on, and he said it was but simple justice to him to say that he was largely responsible for the fact that the company today "enjoys a reputation of value among exhibitors, some 1,500 of whom have signed contracts for the new season product without even knowing what it would consist of."

McDonough also lauded the efforts of B. B. Kahane, president of RKO Studios, Inc., for his work in maintaining the quality of Radio films. He said Kahane had in two years made himself a respected leader in Hollywood, and everyone had the right to believe that with him at the head of the studio Radio would continue its present speed. McDonough dedicated himself to the leadership of the company's executives who, he said, were the company's "greatest asset."

The convention closed with a dinner at the Drake tonight. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey headed a program of entertainers.

On the dais were: McDonough, Kahane, M. H. Aylesworth, president of NBC and chairman of the board of RKO Radio Pictures; Major L. E. Thompson of the RKO Theatre Corp.; Depinet; Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager of RKO Distributing Corp.; Phil Reisman, vice-president of RKO Export Corp., and Sol Newman, managing director of RKO Radio Pictures, Ltd., of England.

Conventioners return to their respective headquarters Friday. Several executives remain in Chicago for a few days for conferences.

N. O. and Vancouver Win in RKO's Drive

CHICAGO, June 20.—Award announcements in the company's play-date contest were made today at the closing session of the Radio convention by Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager. It was a 10-week contest started when Ned E. Depinet was named president and ran from March 17 to May 25.

First and second prizes, a full week's salary for all the employees of the two exchanges, went to New Orleans and Vancouver. The others, winning a half week's salary, were Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Winnipeg and Chicago.

Shorts to Get Feature Care, Says Lee Marcus

CHICAGO, June 20.—Shorts are to receive as much attention as features, declared Lee Marcus at the Radio convention here today at the Drake. They will be treated as "abbreviated major productions," he said, with as much effort per foot as features.

"The success factors of a two-reeler and a feature are identical," he declared. "The essentials for both are—variety, plenty of time for preparation of scripts, competent writers and directors, and new faces to meet the constantly changing public taste."

for carrying out its new season program. He stated that in 1931 and a large part of 1932 Paramount's pictures were the second most expensive in the business, yet their box-office results ranked them near the bottom of the market.

Cohen asserted Paramount will concentrate on the quality of its product. He declared the company's position had been aided by the development of new and better talent. Cohen outlined the efforts being made by Paramount to keep its product from offending.

"One of the greatest steps of progress made has been the decentralization of our theatres and their operation by the men who built them," he added.

George J. Schaefer, general manager of Paramount, asserted the company "will not have to borrow one red cent from anywhere to meet production costs next year."

Adolph Zukor, Paramount head, said Paramount will meet the problems confronting it "as we met emergencies before." He declared he acceded to a trusteeship for the company to protect its employees, adding that "the future will guarantee Paramount a business course safe and sure."

Series of Regionals Is Set by Paramount

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—A schedule of regional meetings to follow the convention was released by Paramount today. The first will open in San Francisco June 25. The second will be in Chicago at the close of the San Francisco meeting. A third is slated for Atlanta June 29-30. On July 2-3 a meeting will be held in Washington. The final regional will be in New York July 6-7.

Loew's-Warners Join in Bid for Fox Met. Houses

Loew's-Warner offer yesterday. Headed by Morton Bogue of Beekman, Bogue & Clark, attorney for the bondholders' committee, the principals in the plan of reorganization went into an immediate conference with the Loew's-Warner representatives yesterday.

The joint offer by Loew's and Warners came as a distinct surprise to observers who were prepared to witness, instead, a probable competitive battle between the two companies for control of Fox Met. While it was generally expected that both Warners and Loew's would make a bid yesterday for the properties, it was believed that Loew's would enter the fray only in the event Warners' bid was sufficiently large enough to interest the bondholders, the object of the Loew bidding being directed, it was believed, at preventing Warners from acquiring the circuit and thereby upsetting circuit control in the metropolitan area.

Warner-Skouras Contest

The reversal of this situation, which resulted in the joint $4,000,000 cash bid yesterday by Loew's and Warners acting together, is understood to have been brought about by Warners' determination to contest Skouras participation in the reorganized Fox Met and the realization by both Loew's and Warners that, acting alone or in opposition to each other, there was little or no chance for either of making a bid sufficiently large to interest the Fox Met bondholders.

An understanding between the two companies is reported to have been reached on Monday of this week. A. C. Blumenthal, private investment operator, was said to have been largely responsible for bringing it about. Blumenthal marshaled 45 Fox Metropolitan $1,000 bonds and with them organized an opposition bondholders' group, favorable to the Loew's-Warner offer as counter to the bondholders' committee plan of reorganization.

Saul E. Rogers, as counsel for the Blumenthal bondholders, led off at yesterday's hearing with a criticism of the reorganization plan, which he described as being "not a plan of reorganization at all, but merely a continuation of the receivership policies offering bondholders nothing more than a hope of a gradual liquidation of the claims if, as and when the company earns sufficient amounts."

Leopold Friedman, Loew's attorney, then made the $4,000,000 cash offer on behalf of Loew's and Warners. J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of M-G-M, and Abel Cary Thomas, head of Warners' legal staff, offered cash deposits as evidences of good faith, but the court, viewing the offer as valid, did not require a deposit.

An adjournment to June 28 to consider the offer was asked by counsel for the bondholders' committee, but counsel for Randforce objected to the delay, stating that he felt the issue should be settled at once, as his clients, he felt, should not be expected to operate, conserve and build up Fox Met houses now controlled by them for an indefinite period "and for the benefit of the outside bidders." Judge Mack ruled that, if the Loew's-Warner offer is accepted eventually, the deal is to be considered effective as of yesterday and any losses or expenses incurred by Randforce thereafter will be chargeable to the estate.

Counsel for Skouras interposed that the passing of control of the houses to Loew's might lead to a new anti-trust action such as ensued when Fox obtained control of Loew's several years ago. Rogers, who was general counsel of Fox at the time, advised the court that he "believed the anti-trust laws had no bearing on Loew's participation in the present deal."

Reliable sources reported yesterday that Warners' decision to align with Loew's in a joint bid for the circuit was the outgrowth of ill feeling over recent happenings in St. Louis involving, in particular, a proposed deal for the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central. The deal, which was not consummated, was to have been engineered by Warners and Skouras jointly. Retaliation through Warner participation in a Fox Met deal was viewed with favor in the Warner camp, according to these sources.

How Houses Would Be Split

If the Loew's-Warner bid is accepted, it is said, Warners would take all of the Fox Met holdings in New Jersey and the remainder, in New York and Brooklyn, would go to Loew's. Both M-G-M and Warner product would be interchanged.

The principal assets of Fox Met which are being bid for are 79 theatre leaseholds with an average life of more than 16 years and eight theatre fee properties.

The Loew's-Warner bid was the only "outside" bid made yesterday. David W. Kahn, attorney, who told the court some time ago that he was prepared to offer $3,000,000 cash for the assets, did not put in an appearance at the hearing. Kahn is reported to have been representing Walter Reade, Joseph Plunkett and Frank V. Storrs, as a combine.

Indications are that if a majority of the Fox Met bondholders are not in favor of accepting the Loew's-Warner bid, the bondholders' committee may petition for reorganization under Section 77 B of the new Federal bankruptcy laws and under the protection of these statutes will forward their plan of reorganization as already drawn. The committee, representing about 85 per cent of the bondholders, is believed to be in a position to consummate the reorganization plan under the new bankruptcy laws which require the approval of only two-thirds in amount of creditors.

Trustees Hold Up All Action On Paramount

Pending final naming by the U. S. District Court here on July 10 of permanent trustees of Paramount Public under the new bankruptcy laws, all matters pending under the old bankruptcy, including the Saenger theatres reorganization plan, will be held in abeyance, it was learned yesterday.

The former Paramount trustees in bankruptcy, Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, have been named temporary trustees under the new bankruptcy laws, pending the creditors' hearing before Judge Alfred C. Cox, July 10, at which time, it is expected, the appointments will be made permanent. In the meantime, however, all deals inaugurated under the old bankruptcy will not be pressed at hearings before referees in bankruptcy and new deals will not be entered into by the trustees except those of a routine or non-controversial nature.

The first of a number of important pending deals to be delayed is the Saenger reorganization plan, which was to have been passed upon today by Referee John E. Joyce at a creditors' meeting. An adjournment until after July 10 will be taken by counsel for the trustees today and a new petition may be filed in the meantime, retaining the essential Saenger reorganization plan but conforming to technical changes brought about by the new bankruptcy laws.

A second important deal which will be held in abeyance is a permanent operating agreement for the United Detroit Theatres, now being operated by George W. Trendle on a temporary basis. Trendle's offer of a permanent operating partnership is scheduled for hearing before the referee in bankruptcy on Monday, but will also be adjourned until after July 10.

Jersey Overbuying Charges Dismissed

RKO contended it had bought 317 for its two houses, which use six a week under present policies. In dismissing the complaint, the board found that RKO needed all the product it had bought.

Warners Get $4,000,000 In Erpi Case

Six Year Old Litigation Finally Settled

Settlement of all pending litigation between Warners and Erpi was made public late yesterday, providing for the payment to Warners of $4,000,000 in cash and negotiable notes. Terms and necessary papers are understood to have been agreed upon and signed at least three weeks ago.

Under the settlement Warners agree to the surrender by their subsidiary, the Vitaphone Corp., of its right to participation in future royalties received by Erpi from its licensees, and, in addition, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., continues as a licensee of Erpi's. In addition to these considerations and the conclusion of all litigation between the two, the settlement clears the accounts of both companies, one against the other, outstanding at various dates.

The $4,000,000 payment to Warners is to be made by Erpi with

Catholic Bishops Issue Statement in Cincy On Film Drive

CINCINNATI, June 21.—The renewed efforts of the industry at self-regulation were viewed with sympathy in a statement issued after a meeting today of the Catholic Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures at the residence of the Archbishop of Cincinnati in Norwood. The prelates, however, made it emphatic that the drive of the Legion of Decency, which has gathered its forces on a nationwide front, must be maintained.

The members of the committee are Archbishop John T. McNicholas, Bishop John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle of Pittsburgh and Bishop John F. Noll of Fort Wayne.

The statement follows:

"During the past several months the Catholic Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures, in cooperation with the authorities of all the dioceses of the country, has been waging a campaign of protest against the destructive moral influence of evil motion pictures. There has been no wish to harm nor destroy the motion picture business, but the evil character of portions of many motion pictures and the low standards of some motion pictures have forced the bishops to take direct and aggressive action in

"Vergie Winters" Is Turned Down in Ohio

COLUMBUS, June 21.—The censor board here refused a permit today for "The Life of Vergie Winters." Consensus of local trade opinion is that rejection of the picture came as a gesture for the benefit of the meeting of Catholic bishops which opened today at Cincinnati.

A second factor credited in trade circles with influencing the decision is the recent crusade carried on here by Dr. B. F. Lamp, secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, calling upon censors to reject objectionable films in their entirety in preference to deleting only certain scenes.

A number of first run situations hereabouts had set in the film.

SEASON 1934-35

STAR POWER GREATEST IN FOX HISTORY SAYS S. R. KENT IN KEYNOTE MESSAGE!

HAVING put its own financial house in order, Fox Film Corporation faces the coming season with every ounce of manpower and all its resources free to devote themselves to the sole task of producing outstanding motion pictures.

We have recognized that one of the grave problems in present day exhibition is the scarcity of box office personalities. To solve this problem, the production department of this company during the last year has literally scoured the world for talent. From the legitimate stage, from Europe and from the ranks of the most promising of the younger players, we have recruited a large and growing company of talented artists. Already some of these newcomers have registered heavily with the public. Others, in whose talent and personalities we have equal confidence, will be introduced on the screens of the world during the coming season.

The development of new personalities is not alone a problem of Fox Film Corporation. It is a problem of every producing company and every exhibitor. The exhibitor has just as big a stake in the discovery and nurturing of talent as the producer, and he should advertise and exploit these new people for his own benefit and the benefit of the industry at large.

In our Annual Announcement Book, which is now in the hands of the world's leading exhibitors, we have displayed the pictures of Fox personalities and also have outlined some of the productions which we will release next season. We have purposely refrained from advertising all of our productions, preferring to set forth in this book only those pictures that are definitely formulated and which it is our intention to make. Thus, exhibitors can place more reliance on the productions we have announced, while at the same time, our studio will not have its hands tied but will have ample opportunity to enlarge its plans as the season progresses. In addition to the pictures that we do list in the book, we have several other very important ones which we shall announce later.

In the following pages we show you some of the company of Fox players and the pictures which we will release in August, September and October. These pictures are either already completed or are actually in production.

Our production department, under the direction of Mr. Winfield Sheehan, is functioning better than it ever has in the history of this company. Around him Mr. Sheehan has gathered a notable staff of writers, and also has assembled a group of directors whose records prove their ability to make pictures that will suit the public taste.

With this program and with these producing resources at hand we are extremely confident that Fox Film Corporation, during the coming year, will deliver to the screens of the world a product that will bring prestige and profit to every exhibitor playing it.

STORY READ BY MILLIONS BOUGHT
BY HAROLD LLOYD

As the first of his new comedies to be released by the Film Ranch, Lloyd has produced the new picture, "The Kid," a story by Clarence Budington Kowey, which falls into an extremely popular pattern and is a sure bet for a big box office. The picture is a comedy of the "triumph" type, because of the title, and it is a story of a boy who is kidnapped and who is later purchased by a family of means but escapes from them and returns to his parents. Still well-received are "The Kid" and "The Kid's Return," the latter being a comedy of the "triumph" type, because of the title, and it is a story of a boy who is kidnapped and who is later purchased by a family of means but escapes from them and returns to his parents. "The Kid's Return" is a comedy of the "triumph" type, because of the title, and it is a story of a boy who is kidnapped and who is later purchased by a family of means but escapes from them and returns to his parents.

A Statement of Fact—

Harold Lloyd's decision to release his next production through Fox is interesting news to both Exanters and Fans everywhere. It is fitting that the leading exponent of clean wholesome screen comedy should be allied with the world's foremost distributing organization.

Harold Lloyd has gone steadily forward from success to success. There has never been such a tremendous amount of story value and cast support in a Lloyd production as the world will find in the new picture, "The Cat's Paw." Give a call to your patrons to see "The Cat's Paw" at your theatre, and to obtain for it the distinction and prestige this great comedian will bring.

- For the first time, Harold Lloyd appears in a story which was not written expressly as a vehicle for him. But Clarence Budington Kelland must have had him in mind when he wrote this madly entertaining tale. Two million readers guffawed for weeks at the Saturday Evening Post serial... many thousands more at the novelized best seller.

● Imagine America's top-notch comedian as a youth... bred on Chinese maxims in remotest China... bolting into the midst of a big-city mayoralty race... bewildered at his election... beset by graft-greedy politicians and racketeers... with only a sweet little cigaret girl on the level with him.

● There's drama in this... and romance... suspense. But most of all greased-lightning action shot through with healthy, happy laughter.

made immortal on screen

Movie fans will be delighted to learn that Warner Oland again will appear in two pictures this year as Charlie Chan, Earl Derr Biggers' detective character. The pictures are "Charlie Chan in London" and "Charlie Chan in Paris."

Despite his success in other roles, such as he portrayed in "Shanghai Express," "As Husbands Go" and "A Passport to Hell," Oland feels most at home as "Chan." The screen original, he portrayed the fiction sleuth in "Charlie Chan Carries On," "The Black Camel," "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case," and, recently, "Charlie Chan's Courage."

His continued association with the role, plus a physical appearance identical with the mythical detective have caused millions to regard Warner Oland as Charlie Chan, himself.

FOX EXHIBITORS COME FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE

Doctors, lawyers, political chiefs, as well as men from divers other professions, may be found among the picture showmen of the nation, according to the reports sent in by the various Fox Film exchanges throughout the country.

Listed are names of men and women who, aside from operating highly profitable theatres, hold important places in their communities, and who, were they not drawn to the picture business by a natural love for it, could be equally as successful in numerous other lines of endeavor.

Persons who hold political office, men who on a minute's notice could don surgical garb and perform the most delicate of operations, financiers who have come to the aid of their communities in times of stress, former athletes in times of stress, former athletes find them all as you scan these paragraphs about exhibitors on this and other pages.

Para. Is Reported After A.B.C. Chain

H. and G. Kinemas, Ltd. The rumors tie in with a reported plan on Paramount's part to develop an English circuit to rival Gaumont British.

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—John W. Hicks, Jr., vice-president of Paramount International, denies any negotiations are afoot to take over the Maxwell interests or any other English houses "at this time."

LONDON, June 21.—Paramount officials qualified to comment on the report the company was seeking the Maxwell theatres are in Los Angeles. John Maxwell is out of the city until Monday and his office professes to have no knowledge of the report. It does, however, point out that the identical rumor was denied some time ago.

Creditors' Claims To Await Trustees

All creditors' claims against Paramount Publix scheduled for hearings within the next few weeks are being postponed indefinitely, pending the naming of permanent trustees of Paramount under the new bankruptcy laws, it was learned yesterday.

Large claims being contested by Paramount trustees and affected by the postponements include those of the Indemnity Insurance Co. for $229,842; the Citizens Trust & Savings Bank, Los Angeles, for $58,749, and the First National Bank of Boston for $225,000. All were scheduled for hearings yesterday and postponed indefinitely. Indications are that they will be placed on the calendar again for hearing after July 10, when Judge Alfred C. Cox is expected to name the temporary trustees, Charles D. Hilles, Eugene W. Leake and Charles E. Richardson, as permanent trustees.

Special reorganization matters are also being postponed until after that date. Consideration of a reorganization plan for Saenger theatres, scheduled for yesterday before Referee John E. Joyce, was postponed until July 13.

Para. Stockholders Getting Plan Ready

Paramount Publix stockholders, through their protective committee, are expected to advance a plan of reorganization under the new bankruptcy laws in the near future, it was learned yesterday.

The stockholders' protective committee engaged Coverdale & Pitts, prominent firm of consulting engineers, to prepare a report on Paramount's present condition with a view to formulating such a plan.

The Paramount bondholders' protective committee is cooperating with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. on a plan which is described as being in an advanced stage now.

Fight Films in Ohio

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Full of the usual mystery as to how they crossed the state line, the Carnera-Baer fight pictures, nevertheless, have been booked over the entire RKO, Warner and Shea circuits and into all key spots in the territory.

Bond Holders Seen Against Loew-W. B. Bid on Fox Met.

Julian W. Mack that the attitude of the bondholders' committee would carry considerable weight in determining the final disposition of the circuit, it appeared yesterday that the 87-theatre split-up might not be between Loew's and Warners.

It was brought out at the adjourned hearing before Judge Mack that the Loew-Warner representatives had been unable to effect an agreement at a conference Wednesday afternoon with counsel for the bondholders' committee, which represents more than 85 per cent of the outstanding $12,500,000 issue of Fox Met. notes. At the conference, Morton G. Bogue, counsel for the bondholders, advised J. Robert Rubin and Leopold Friedman of Loew's and Abel Cary Thomas of Warners that they would accept the $4,000,000 cash offer for the Fox Met. bonds, but would not accept it, as urged by Loew's and Warners, for the assets of the circuit, which are the 87 theatres in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Long Island and New Jersey.

Bogue meets with the bondholders' committee this morning and will recommend rejection of the Loew-Warner offer in its present form, he told the court yesterday. Judge Mack requested that Rubin be permitted to present the Loew-Warner side at the committee meeting and Bogue consented. The hearing before Judge Mack will resume this afternoon, at which time the attitude of the bondholders' committee is expected to be made known and is expected to be the decisive factor in acceptance or rejection of the Loew-Warner offer by the court.

Kahn Makes Appearance

David W. Kahn, representing Walter Reade, Joseph Plunkett and Frank V. Storrs as a combine, advised the court yesterday that his clients might put in a new bid in the event of a foreclosure sale in the next few days. Kahn had informed the court some time ago that his clients were prepared to offer $3,000,000 cash for the circuit but did not put in an appearance in court Wednesday when the Loew-Warner $4,000,000 offer was made.

Minority bondholder groups representing approximately $160,000 of the $12,500,000 Fox Met. securities, expressed approval of the Loew-Warner cash offer as opposed to the bondholders' committee reorganization plan, which continues Skouras and Randforce as operators of Fox Met. These groups, which urged acceptance of the offer to the court yesterday, include the holders of $45,000 of Fox Met. bonds which were lined up by A. C. Blumenthal as the keystone for the Loew-Warner offer.

Fox Met. bonds advanced from 32 to 40 during the past two days, apparently on the strength of the $4,000,000 offer, which, with approximately $1,500,000 in unpledged cash in the possession of the receiver for the circuit, would give the bondholders approximately 42 cents on the dollar for their claims. Some doubt as to the validity of the present market's strength was voiced by the minority bondholders in court yesterday in urging acceptance of the cash offer.

Still another bondholders' group, representing $150,000 in amount, asked the right to withdraw from participation in the event the bondholders' reorganization plan was eventually affirmed by the court.

Atwood C. Wolf, attorney for the landlord of the State, Jersey City, which is one of the leaseholds in the Fox Met. assets, opposed the Loew-Warner offer, declaring that the immediate competition for the State now consists of one Loew's and one Warner theatre. If the house came under Loew's or Warner operation, he said, his client feared that it would be allowed to deteriorate and eventually be turned back to him, as Jersey City, he said, could not support three first run houses. He told the court that this had been the landlord's experience several years ago during the period in which Fox held control of Loew's. The Jersey City theatre was under lease to Fox at the time but was neglected, Wolf said, in favor of the Loew's theatre when control of the latter passed to Fox.

Wants Quick Action

Counsel for Randforce urged immediate action on the Loew-Warner offer, declaring that Randforce is unable now to negotiate new season film deals with any distributor, due to uncertainty over ultimate control of the houses. Both Rubin and Thomas contradicted the statement and declared that M-G-M and Warners stood ready to make new season deals with Randforce.

In reporting his unwillingness to accept the Loew-Warner cash offer for the leaseholds, Bogue told the court that some of the Fox Met. landlords have the right to cancel their leases in the event of a sale, and, as a result, the bondholders' committee might be liable in the event it was unable to deliver all the 79 leases. He also stated that the committee was unable to deliver its 50 per cent stock interest in Skouras and Randforce holdings, sought by the bidders, because that stock was in the possession of the trustees under the Fox Met. mortgage. He also stated that the Skouras and Randforce operating contracts could not be canceled because the 50 per cent stock interest was matched by an equal amount held by those operators.

Rubin described all objections as "straw men" set up by the bondholders' counsel and declared that none of them was regarded as a genuine difficulty by the bidders.

handling of unfair trade practice charges under the codes.

The first step was taken last week when the commission announced that two rubber companies had appealed to it after failing to secure consideration from their code authority. At the same time the National Recovery Administration filed a cross-complaint, charging violation of code provisions.

The commission has not yet made clear just how it will operate, but it is understood a business man will be able to carry his case to the commission, which will cite the code authority to appear before it. Conversely, a code authority may complain, in which event the business man will be cited. The commission will sit as a judicial body as distinguished from its role in ordinary cases, where it fills the multiple roles of prosecutor, judge and jury.

Insiders now hear definite steps have been taken to continue giving Warners a play in the three houses when, and if, they are taken over by F. & M. some time in September. No one will talk on the report deal and refer all inquiries to New York, where the deal is reported to be in negotiation.

Money Worry Not Hurdled Yet—Schaefer

I am asking for further help because we are not yet out of the woods.

"The industrial world has had a hard struggle during the past five years, but Paramount's was one of the hardest. Without the cooperation and loyalty of our manpower, we would have not been able to pull through," he continued.

Adolph Zukor declared that after 15 months of the closest organization scrutiny, the trustees had found nothing against his conduct and judgment.

No radical departures in advertising policy will mark company plans for the new season, Robert F. Gillham, director of advertising and publicity declared. Heavy barrages will be concentrated on at least 10 of the biggest pictures in the lineup, while others will be given as much as required. He stated radio will be used more extensively, as will other media where the expense involved is not too heavy since economy will be the keynote of all future campaigns.

Theatre partners met with Schaefer behind closed doors and developments were shrouded in mystery. It is understood, however, the discussions were preliminary to decision on future operations with nothing of a conclusive nature expected to be reached at this time.

The convention is practically over. Individual meetings between district and branch managers were held today and in the evening a party given by Emanuel Cohen. Friday and Saturday will find the delegates on their own. Saturday evening the special starts its return journey east.

Maintained Confidence Despite Raids—Cohen

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Paramount developed confidence among its players in the face of "terrific raiding efforts," Emanuel Cohen told the convention. Additional excerpts from his address, already covered in highlight, follow:

"One of the reasons we did not meet with you last year," Cohen said, addressing the meeting on behalf of the studio force, "is that we could not honestly give you more than a hope for the new season. We are glad today because most of the water is under the bridge. We have arrived at a state of organization now which can produce a successful year. "It isn't one picture, or two, that spells success for a large company like ours. If I am to ask you to have confidence in our plans, such confidence cannot be based merely on my asking it. After all, the play is the thing and pictures are the foundation of the industry. We must definitely face the fact that a production company depends upon its production assets of the moment. If you are bankrupt in production assets, your pictures are bankrupt, and when you face bankruptcy in production, no court can help you out by authorizing you not to pay your bills.

"From 1920 to 1930 Paramount had not added any new talent to its players' roster. Analyze the players that Paramount had. Some of them declined in popularity; others were being used in such a manner as tended to defeat any chance of building them to box-office popularity. Our first job was to develop the players we had; second, to develop new, promising material. Since then we have added definite star strength. Our search for new players is now organized thoroughly, both here and abroad.

Won Players' Confidence

"Certain deliberate rumors have been circulated to the effect that we have lost a lot of players, when we have lost only three. The fact that they left at one time gave birth to these rumors. In all cases we have been justified. In face of terrific raiding efforts we developed confidence among our players in our hope of rehabilitation. It was not a question for a time of merely making pictures, but actually a question of remaining in business.

"In the case of directors, we have developed them from our own ranks. Some already show more promise than many established in the high-salary brackets. I refer to Mitchell Leisen, Al Hall, Henry Hathaway and Gil Pratt.

"In 1932, we had just two producers—Bud Lighton and Lord Sheldon. Since, we have added seven established producers, all of whom, working with other heads of production units, enjoy a free interchange of ideas and mutual help."

Adolph Zukor, Paramount head, announced a policy of good taste. He said the company would bend every effort to keep its product clean.

Ida Lupino Ill

M-G-M 100% Behind Code, Declares Feist

CHICAGO, June 21.—M-G-M stands 100 per cent behind the code, said Felix F. Feist, general sales manager, at the initial session of the company's convention here today.

"I want every man in this organization who is in any way connected with the operation of the code to remember first of all that he is representing the United States government," he asserted. "Metro is wholeheartedly behind the code in letter and spirit."

Sidney Bromberg, home office attorney, answered code questions from a legal angle, while Feist invited questions on the practical application of the code.

The convention struck a solemn note when a standing tribute was paid to the memory of Marcus Loew.

Leo's Boys Get Together

CHICAGO, June 21.—WILLIAM ("Billy") FERGUSON, here since last Friday working on the convention, breathed a sigh of relief as the first session got under way today. He's been working like a beaver trying to outdo the World's Fair.

FELIX F. FEIST's right hand is practically sore from passing out the handshakes.

"Sheriff" GEORGE HICKEY, western district manager, forgot his badge, but he's here with his coast crew who are the only one's respecting his police powers.

Several features and shorts are on tap for screening. These will be shown at night after the business sessions.

HOWARD DIETZ and SI SEADLER arrive tomorrow accompanied by JOE VOGEL. DIETZ and SEADLER are headlined for talks on advertising for Friday. FERGUSON will give the lowdown on exploitation.

MIKE CLOFINE is pinch hitting for E. B. HATRICK, who is now in Paris. CLOFINE will disseminate information on the new Hearst Metrotone newsreel.

Although he was scheduled to attend in person, EDWIN C. HILL will talk to conventionites via the screen. He has his address recorded on film and will give the boys a sample of what "The Globe Trotter" will be like.

FRED C. QUIMBY, general sales manager of shorts, arrived last night and couldn't wait until the session got under way. He's got plenty to tell the

Promotions Within Ranks, M-G-M Policy

CHICAGO, June 21.—Promotions within the ranks will be the keynote next year, the same as this, for M-G-M, sales officials attending the annual sales convention here intimated today.

Coast Designates Unassigned Stories

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.—Although the M-G-M product lineup, made public in Chicago Wednesday, merely referred to four properties without cast assignments, talk around the lot ties in the quartet with definite names.

"Tish" has long been on tap as a Marie Dressler vehicle. Production depends upon her health. "Vanessa" and "What Every Woman Knows" are viewed here as Helen Hayes vehicles and "The Casino Murder Case" as a William Powell subject.

Warners Get $4,000,000 In Erpi Case

$2,500,000 in cash; $1,300,000 in negotiable promissory notes, and an amount not to exceed $200,000 payable on certain unstated contingencies.

The litigation between the two was begun early in 1928 when arbitration proceedings were initiated relating primarily to the amount of participation in the royalties received by Erpi from its licensees. The proceedings continued intermittently over a period of several years at a cost of $1,000 per day. When they were abandoned without anything decisive having resulted, the controversy was renewed in Federal district courts and has continued up to the present time. The litigation is understood to have cost both companies well over $250,000 each.

New Agreement Rumored

Whether or not Warners have signed a new licensing agreement with Erpi was not stated and could not be established, but inside stories on the settlement, which comes as no surprise, have indicated that a new agreement was part of the deal.

The formal statement, issued jointly by both groups last night, follows:

"A settlement has been reached of the long-standing controversy between Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and Electrical Research Products, Inc. This controversy began early in 1928 when arbitration proceedings were initiated, relating primarily to the amount of participation of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.'s subsidiary, the Vitaphone Corp., in the royalties received by Electrical Research Products, Inc., from its motion picture licensees. The controversy has continued in various forms ever since and has resulted in extensive court proceedings.

"The settlement clears accounts of the parties outstanding at various dates and in addition provides for the surrender by the Vitaphone Corp. to Electrical Research Products, Inc., of its right to participation in future royalties. In addition to clearing the accounts, Electrical Research Products, Inc., pays Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., $2,500,000 in cash, $1,300,000 in negotiable promissory notes and an amount not to exceed $200,000 payable on certain contingencies.

"The agreement disposes of the arbitration and all litigation between the parties and provides that Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., shall remain a licensee of Electrical Research Products, Inc."

Ross Makes Changes

CHICAGO, June 21.—Harry A. Ross, president of Ross Federal Service, Inc., who is here attending the M-G-M convention as he did the RKO meetings, has made these changes in his organization: W. O. Reddon, Des Moines transfers to Albany. Harry Schriffin, Albany manager goes to Des Moines.

safeguarding the moral well-being of their people.

"These recent activities against motion pictures which offend decency and morality were launched only after years of vain hope that the producers of these pictures would realize the harm being done and take positive steps to correct the trend. The committee is not hostile to the entertainment business; in fact, it recognizes entertainment as a virtual necessity in modern life, but such entertainment must be of a wholesome character, and to that objective the committee has earnestly addressed its efforts.

"The Legion of Decency, whose members pledge themselves not to patronize theatres showing offensive films, has gathered to its banner many thousands of adherents wherever it has been introduced. Plans are being developed to extend its membership to every town and city in the United States and to invite all persons in sympathy with its purpose to lend their support.

Theatre Business Hurt

"The committee has been informed that, through the loyal cooperation of our Catholic people, together with a widespread response on the part of many others who believe that a purification of the cinema is an outstanding moral issue of the day, the motion picture theatres have suffered a severe curtailment of patronage. This curtailment has prompted the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., to send Mr. Martin Quigley of New York City and Mr. Joseph I. Breen of Hollywood to the meeting of the Episcopal committee today.

"The companies which are members of the above-named organization are reputed to be responsible for approximately 90 per cent of the films produced in the United States. These companies are: RKO Pictures Corp., Fox Film Corp., Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp., Paramount Pictures Corp., Warner Brothers, First National Pictures Corp., Columbia Pictures Corp., Hal Roach, Educational Pictures, Inc., Universal Pictures Corp., United Artists, Inc., Walt Disney Prod., Pathe, Inc., Principal Pictures, Inc.

Discuss Hays Plan

"The representatives of the association submitted a proposal covering certain specific revisions of the industry's plan of self-regulation.

"The committee has been pleased to receive these representatives and to learn from them of the renewed efforts towards enforcement of the industry's plan of self-regulation, effective as of July 1, 1934, which have been decided upon. The committee is informed that the producers' jury in Hollywood, a part of the original machinery of enforcement of the production code, which was adopted in April, 1930, has been abandoned and that additional local authority has been assigned to the code administration,

250 at Award

Montreal, June 21.—More than 250 theatre managers, distributors and others witnessed the presentation of the Quigley Publications Awards for May to Gene Curtis, manager, and Kenneth Finlay, advertising manager, of the Palace, by Mayor Camilien Houde of this city at the Mount Royal Hotel last night.

which administration is to be given an amplified personnel. In the past the producers' jury has functioned ineffectively.

"The final responsibility for the character of the motion pictures to be issued by the organized industry has been accepted by the board of directors of the organized industry. The court of last resort in the settlement of any disputes which may arise between the studios and the code administration will be this board of directors.

"The Episcopal committee views with favor the renewed efforts of the organized industry to discharge its responsibility of issuing only such motion pictures as may conform with reasonable moral standards. The committee believes that the production code if given adequate enforcement will materially and constructively influence the character of screen entertainment. Hence it is disposed to lend encouragement and cooperation to these efforts, which it hopes will achieve the promised results.

Won't Halt Campaign

"Our Catholic people, however, are counselled that in the long run the desired result of a wholesome screen can be assured only through unflinching opposition to evil motion pictures. The widespread interest in and loyal support of our campaign of protest must be maintained in order that the producers of motion pictures may constantly be aware of the demand for clean entertainment. The salacious and otherwise objectionable type of motion picture must be avoided.

"The Episcopal committee hopes that the results of the organized industry's renewed efforts looking toward adequate self-regulation will be followed by an adequate moral improvement in the pictures shown, and thus it is hoped that the Catholic Bishops may be relieved of what otherwise will be the imperative necessity of continuing indefinitely and of extending the campaign of protest."

The Episcopal committee approved of a national committee of priests, members of which are as follows: Rt. Rev. Mgr. Hugh L. Lamb, D.D., Chancellor, Archdiocese of Philadelphia; Rev. Edward Roberts Moore, Ph.D., head of the Division of Social Action, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York; Rev. George F. Johnson, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Education, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., and executive secretary, Department of Education, National Catholic Welfare Conference; Rev. F. G. Dineen, S.J., rector St. Ignatius Church, Chicago; Rev. John J. Devlin, St. Victor's Church, West Hollywood, Cal.

The formation of a "Council of the Legion of Decency" was approved.

Group of 50 Will Give Campi Aides list, each of which will be approved first by Campi at its next meet.

Each of the 10 committees will consist of one Campi member as chairman. He will draw two other men from the panel list to sit with him. Every committee will be evenly balanced with one distributor and an independent and affiliated exhibitor.

Because of the imminence of the selling season and disposition on part of sales executives to clear Campi's docket of appeals as soon as possible, the appeals groups will meet four days a week. Committees, after hearing cases, will only recommend decisions and take no definite action on disposition. Campi reserves the right to hear additional testimony after committees have suggested a verdict.

Decisions by Campi will be made within 15 days after hearings by committees. About 20 names for the panel already have been culled by Code Authority and about 30 more will be added before the next session for approval.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY described this plan yesterday.

Non-Theatrical Gets Service Terminated

BUFFALO, June 21.—Exchanges were ordered not to supply films to Nathan Bornkessel, non-theatrical account, following a hearing before the grievance board. H. P. Harper, manager of the Hub, Sea Breeze, resort town near Rochester, complained that Bornkessel was showing pictures free on a screen placed on an extension out over Lake Ontario, to attract attention to a concession. Only shorts were shown, but even this was ruled to be an unfair trade practice.

The complaint was brought against Charles E. Mason, operator for Bornkessel, who was said to have contracted for the film.

Campi in Fog Over U.A. 10% Cancellation

Campi yesterday was in a fog on the U. A. 10 per cent cancellation problem now before it for determination. No action was taken by the body, which turned the matter over to the legal committee. The legal minds will hand down an opinion today or tomorrow.

Gov't Alternates Named

BUFFALO, June 21.—Three government alternates to sit on the code boards when needed have been approved by Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt. They are Francis D. DiBartola, attorney; former City Court Judge Samuel J. Dickey and former Sheriff Charles A. Freiberg.

N. O. Clearance Set

NEW ORLEANS, June 21.—After six hours of deliberation, the zoning board has completed a plan for the city which has been submitted to the New York office. With revised clearances, it will be ready for operation by July 2.

Open Sesame On Changes In Code Set

Public hearings on all amendments to the code as recommended by Code Authority were unanimously approved by Campi yesterday. Code Authority takes the stand that any additions to the code will be above board and anyone having something to say should speak his mind at the open sessions in Washington.

First open discussions will be on a recommendation of the code's legal committee, which has decided it a violation of the code for an exhibitor not to pay an assessment after signing the code. The step was taken pursuant to the new NRA rules and regulations regarding assessments for upkeep of codes.

Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt will set dates for the hearings.

The plan of allocating the $180,000 assessment among producers and distributors also will be subjected to public hearings. This date has not yet been set, either.

Seven Appeals Mark Busy Day at Campi

Campi yesterday heard seven appeals for which litigants appeared to submit additional testimony. Following the open sesame, an executive session was held and a decision arrived at in the Egyptian, De Kalb, Ill.-U. A. 10 per cent cancellation issue. An opinion is being handed down with the decision.

Mrs. Clare Boothe Brokaw, for the second time, was absent from open discussions on appeals. Harold S. Bareford will be chairman of next Thursday's session.

Campi is awaiting an administrative order from Washington granting non-assentors the right to sign the code with certain provisions. Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt has approved the plan and the order is expected any day.

The cases heard were:

Reliance Theatres, Inc., Palace, Lockport, N. Y., against Schine Theatrical Co.; William C. Smalley, Norwich, N. Y., against Schine Enterprises, Gloversville, N. Y.; Ernest J. Wolfe, Avalon, Lowville, N. Y., against Schine, Watertown, N. Y.; Rubin Frels, Uptown and Victoria, Victoria, Texas, against Jefferson Amusement Co., Queen, same city; S. E. Pirtle, Orpheum, Jerseyville, Ill., against all houses in Alton, Ill.; Harry Nagel, Dream, Indianapolis, against M. Margolis, Rivoli, same city; Harry Nagel, Dream, Indianapolis, against Paramount theatre, same city.

Delay General Hearing

The general hearing on a new clearance and zoning schedule for Port Jefferson and surrounding area was adjourned yesterday by the New York board until July 3. Several members were unfamiliar with the purpose of the meeting and were unprepared, causing the delay.

Protest of the Disbury, Waldon, N. Y., for elimination of the 14-day clearance by the Broadway, Ritz and Academy in Newburgh was denied. The Disbury wanted open bookings on all pictures.

"Little Man" Kansas City Wow, $5,800

KANSAS CITY, June 21.—"Little Man, What Now?" was the Uptown's sensation, nabbing $5,800 against a normal $3,500. It built considerably after opening and was held for a second week.

Another hit was "Little Miss Marker" at the Newman, on a double bill with "The Crime of Helen Stanley." Because of the long show there were many turnaways, but the take went to $7,000, above par by $1,000.

The quality of the Tower's stage shows has shown improvement, reflected in a strong $5,700 for "Wild and Woolly" as the stage attraction with "The Party's Over" on the screen.

"Twentieth Century," billed with "Sisters Under the Skin," at the Mainstreet was off, as was "Sorrell and Son," the Midland's feature.

Total for the week was $31,000. Average is $31,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending June 14:

Public to Dictate on Entertainment—Lee

The present agitation for clean pictures is interpreted by Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of the Gaumont British Picture Corp. of America, as a reflection of "a concrete determination on the part of the public to force producers and exhibitors to recognize its rights to dictate its requirements in the matter of entertainment and, further, its intention to see that these requirements are met, at least insofar as wholesomeness of theme and treatment are concerned."

According to Lee, "it is wholly possible to produce suitable adult entertainment which is also fit for juvenile consumption."

Three Star Films Set

Edward G. Robinson, Boris Karloff and Warner Baxter are down for one picture each on Columbia's new lineup, scheduled at 48, eight of which will be Tim McCoy westerns. Jack Holt is slated for four. Howard Hawks is scheduled to direct the unnamed Robinson film.

No Nerve Center

Kansas City, June 21.—The height of something was achieved by a patron at Dubinsky's Liberty. After seeing a two hour and 40 minute show of films and vaudeville for 15 cents, he demanded the theatre pay his parking fee, which was 15 cents, because other theatres offer free parking.

Triple DISTINCTION

EASTMAN Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative has a three-fold distinction. Its introduction has led to more significant advances than any other film ...excepting only Eastman's original motion picture negative. Under the expert hands of the cameraman it has in the last three years photographed a great majority of the biggest screen hits. And...because of this record of accomplishment...it now enjoys by far the widest preference among all motion picture negative films. Eastman Kodak Co. (J. E. Silverstone Made Head of U. A. Abroad

To Direct All European Activity from London

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 22.—Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, said today that Maury Silverstone would handle all of U.A.'s European activities in the future. He will have an enlarged staff and office here.

One of the other objects of his visit, he said, was to induce Alexander Korda to make six pictures annually for U.A. release. He will help him with directors and players, he said, and has suggested Fredric March and Ronald Colman.

The reconstructed London Pavilion will be reopened about the end of Coast Indies Plan National Campaign to Protect Doubles

Hollywood, June 22.—Protests against the new zoning schedule will be voiced at a meeting of the Independent M. P. Producers' Ass'n. called for Monday night.

The schedule, as drawn, penalizes the showing of dual bills. Ken Goldsmith, speaking for the association, said exhibitors should operate their businesses without the influence of monopolistic bodies. The association will launch a nationwide campaign to sustain duals, he said.

Para. Expects $20,000,000 From Exports

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Paramount expects to gross $20,000,000 abroad during the coming season, according to word passed on to the convention by George J. Schaefer.

A variety of interesting slants on conditions overseas have come to light during the sessions. There are, for instance, double features in England. While American exhibitors are struggling with the problem the same situation has long since solved itself in England, according to J. C. Graham, general manager for Great Britain.

"One man's poison is another man's meat," he said. "Following the World War there were 200 or 300 major features in the United States which it had been impossible to transport to Great Britain. These, together with the product

Modification Of Code Seen In NRA Plan

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Possible modification of the film code is seen in plans of the National Recovery Administration to revise codes to eliminate unworkable provisions, clauses which involve radical prohibitions on respectable sections of industries, or "conscript" unwilling groups, and any other sections which require the strong arm of the Government for enforcement.

Warning that arbitrary provisions and methods of enforcement must be dropped has been issued by the Administration, which holds that "it is a perfectly reasonable assumption that no material factor in American life will object to such codes so long as they are not used as a subterfuge for the accomplishment of some unworthy

Little Hope for Theatres Seen in Government Loans

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Regulations issued by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to govern the making of loans to industry indicate that exhibitors will find it difficult to secure the money for improvements to theatres.

Producers needing working capital and unable to obtain it from their usual sources on reasonable terms, however, are expected to find the corporation sympathetic to their needs. A maximum of $500,000 will be loaned to any single concern. Loans may run for as long as five years.

Briefly, loans will be made primarily to supply needed working capital such as for the payment of labor and the purchase of materials. In general

Loew-Warner Offer Lure to Fox Met Group

*Bondholders Favor It;

The bondholders' committee represents more than 85 per cent of the $12,500,000 issue outstanding and its attitude on acceptance or rejection of the Loew-Warner offer is regarded as a decisive factor. No final decision by the committee was arrived at yesterday and further discussions with

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"One Night of Love"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.—Grace Moore's personality and singing triumph in a production that is a credit to the industry.

The audience applauded spontaneously and enthusiastically after the stirring rendition of numbers from "Traviata," "Carmen," "Madame Butterfly" and "Cheri Beri Bi."

Slim and graceful, with beauty and charm, Miss Moore portrays a rising operatic star with human and light-hearted gusto. With an allure distinctively American, she blasts the idea operatic singers must be fat and Italian. It is quite possible that after key city notices this star may find herself a rage, both as star and singer.

Failing to win an American radio contest in Italy as a singing waitress, she intrigues Tullio Carminati, voice culturist, who has dismissed a pupil, Mona Barrie, for amorous reasons. Trials and sacrifices of her climb, her debut under Tullio's spell, her human side, and the final Metropolitan triumph provide the framework for an attention-holding plot, highlighted with heart appeal and drolleries.

Too much cannot be said for Victor Sherzinger's direction, charged with sympathy for his people through his musical knowledge and fixity of mood.

Carminati, at one time Duse's leading man, gives his best screen performance to date. Miss Barrie, Louis Alberni, Jessie Ralph and that glorious warrior, Andre de Segurola, contribute outstanding support.

Grapevine news brought out Norma Shearer, Gloria Swanson, Maurice Chevalier, Mary Pickford and others for the preview.

To Columbia's hit roster, showmen may now add "One Night of Love"—clean, entrancing, yet vital entertainment. Running time, 80 minutes.

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.—Harry M. Warner is visiting his daughter, Doris Warner Le Roy, and plans to be back in New York by July 15.

of independents, provided a surplus which was not consumed until 1923. Then the pendulum swung the other way. Legislation limited advance bookings to protect the home product. British picture production increased. With only 4,000 theatres to serve, double feature bills then proved a life-saver to the industry. Without them, there is no telling what would have happened to values."

M. J. Messeri, managing director for Spain, said:

"Spain and the Spanish people have enough gloom. They do not want gangster, kidnapping, crime or horror pictures. They want to be entertained."

The three most difficult problems confronting distribution in South America, according to John Day, head of sales on that continent, are money exchange, revolutions and titles. The first, he said, is rapidly being adjusted. He said he is getting used to the second, but the third still causes trouble, particularly in the smaller cities where only between 15 and 20 percent of the audience can read super-imposed Spanish titles.

J. E. Perkins, representing the Orient, stated American films in many parts of China are shown on two screens. A large one shows the picture and a smaller one alongside gives the gist of the dialogue in Chinese characters.

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Thirty-two of Paramount's 49 branch managers have been with the company from 11 to 21 years.

Myke H. Lewis and Harold Wilkes date back 21 years; Ralph Li Beau and Ulrich Smith, 20; Frank C. Clark, 18; Earle Sweigert, Harry Hunter and "Scotty" Chestnut, 17; Oscar Morgan, Hugh Braly, Milton Kusell, Carroll N. Peacock, Jack Bettencourt and David Prince, 15; J. J. Coverdale & Pitts, consulting engineers, have been retained by the stockholders' committee to prepare data on Paramount's present position with a view to developing a reorganization plan. Loeb said the committee wanted to be in a position to submit an alternative plan in the event it could not accept the Kuhn, Loeb plan.

Around the Ambassador

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—The Paramount convention went into a series of individual meetings today, but here is some of the sideline stuff that interested delegates.

J. E. PERKINS, assistant to TOM COCHRANE in Shanghai, in reporting on distribution in the Orient, told delegates an important chain there is owned jointly by a Chinese and an Englishman. Name of the firm is Loo-Kan-Backhouse.

CARL P. YORK, head of Scandinavian distribution, claims the distinction of having come the longest distance. He claims Norway has a unique system in that the communities themselves own theatres. One man buys film for all the houses in his town.

MONTAGUE GOLDMAN, general sales manager for Great Britain, proved himself an orator and alarmed the delegates by quoting four poets and two philosophers in describing conditions in England. He held great hope for the future, he said. Not long ago living costs there were 300 percent above pre-war days, five shillings out of each pound went to taxes, and one person out of five was unemployed. These were some of his figures.

During one afternoon session GEORGE SCHAEFER had SID GRAUMAN, CHARLES SKOURAS, MIKE MARCO and MAXWELL SHANE as guests.

W. C. "BILL" FIELDS appeared walking with crutches because of a recent ankle injury.

GAIL PATRICK, along with EVELYN VENABLE, devoted an entire afternoon posing for pictures with the delegates.

The appearance of JIM TIMONY got all the boys anxious and looking around for MAE WEST, who did not appear.

Telegrams were read from TOM COCHRANE, Japanese representative; MARTIN MULLIN, New England theatre operator; DR. A. H. GIANINNI and JOHN HOWARD, latter Indianapolis salesman, who was stricken with pneumonia just before the convention special left.

To show HOWARD how the boys all missed him, SCHAEFER appointed WILLIAM ERBB, DAVE PRINCE and ALLEN USHER a committee to send him special convention greetings.

ization of the corporation under the new bankruptcy act. The decision to file the petition was reached yesterday at a meeting of directors in the office of Robert P. Levis, attorney.

The petition sets forth that the cash position of the corporation has increased to $601,708, a gain of $260,940. Of this amount $81,000 has been derived from investments and the balance from the operation of contracts. Accrued interest from Aug. 8 to date, the petition states, increased liabilities to $660,000. The major assets of the corporation are Loew's King, the Pitkin and Paramount Theatres, all in Brooklyn; Loew's Valencia, Jamaica, a theatre in Birmingham, Ala., one in Fremont, O., and one in Glens Falls, N. Y.

On Sept. 14 last the corporation filed a claim of $23,364,726 against the Paramount Corp., also in bankruptcy, according to the petition and no adjudication of this has been made as yet. Claims amounting to $10,000,000 had been filed against the two Loew Theatres mentioned, it was stated. The petition further states that the excess of assets over liabilities without allowing for depreciation is $10,178,256 and that cash in the banks totals $340,768. Listed among the corporation's assets, according to the petition, is participation to the extent

Only the Clean

Los Angeles, June 22.—Paramount production policy will parallel the first 15 years of the company's life during the coming season, declared Adolph Zukor at the sales convention here.

During that time he said the company avoided salaciousness and its pictures were interesting and successful.

G. KNOX HADDOW was accompanied by his wife and two charming daughters at the Paramount dinner. They are making their home here while the daughters attend a private school and Haddow whiles his time at the home office 3,000 miles away.

LOU EDELMAN, former member of the ad sales department and now a producer here, spent most of the time renewing old friendships from New York and Jersey.

LIONEL BARRYMORE went out of his way to personally meet as many of the boys as possible.

MAX FLEISCHER continued to receive orchids from the delegates for his stereopticon color short, "Cinderella," two days after screening.

A. F. BAKER, general manager of the Electric Theatre, Kansas City, said business in Kansas has shown a decided improvement in recent months.

JACK ROPER, assistant to NEIL AGNEW, says this is his first trip to Hollywood.

SCOTTY CHESNUTT, Jacksonville manager, made his presence distinctively conspicuous by wearing his customary white carnation.

Through arrangements made by MYKE LEWIS and CARROLL PEACOCK, the delegates spent this afternoon deep sea fishing off San Clemente. JAY HAAS arranged with the Hollywood fight stadium to put on an extra program of glove-throwing for the boys tonight.

Schenck and Darryl Zanuck are seeing the play, "Clive of India," which will be Colman's next. Zanuck will fly to Capri on the 28th. He will return to London and then leave for the United States, as his next picture is scheduled to start in Hollywood in August.

Schenck said George Arliss' next for 20th Century would be "Richelieu."

"The Count of Monte Cristo," which has been completed, will start off the new season. The second on the list, "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," starring Jack Benny, is partly finished.

All six for the new season will be released by United Artists, the first three definitely during 1934-35.

Robert Donat, brought from England to play the lead in the Dumas classic, will make one more for Reliance, Goetz disclosed. Another player imported by Reliance is Sydney Howard, British and Dominions comic, who has a part in "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round."

Radio Starts Work On New Season List

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.—Radio has started two features on its 1934-35 list and will put five more in work before July 16, according to the present plan. This will be capacity.

The two under way are "The Fountain" and "The Age of Innocence." Those scheduled for an early start are: "The Gay Divorce," "Wednesday's Child," "Richest Girl" and "Anne of Green Gables."

Postpone I. T. O. A. Suit

The I. T. O. A. suit against Campi and local code boards was yesterday postponed by Judge John M. Woolsey until June 29. The action was taken on recommendation by William Whitney, attorney for Campi, who said he was only served with papers yesterday morning and could not answer the charges on such short notice.

"If, on the other hand," it was declared, "industries and code authorities ignore the fact that the entire NRA is an experiment in industrial self-government, fostered and checked by Government, and bearing, it is true, the cloak of Government authority, but primarily intended to give aid to industry in its self-government, but conceive it to be an opportunity to set up industrial dictatorship, which tendency has appeared in some instances on the part of code authorities, then it is inevitable that such codes are bound to fail and the authorities granted them must be withdrawn."

Next Thursday's session will be a closed affair with only administration work to be taken up. At this time, Code Authority will approve a panel of about 50 names of men who will sit with Campi members on individual committees. These groups will meet four days a week.

St. Louis Board Handles Big List

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—The clearance and zoning board has denied a request of Publix Great States Theatres that its first runs in Quincy, Ill., be granted 14 days over Palmyra, Mo., and Barry, Mo. Likewise, the board has refused the Publix houses prior run rights over theatres in Mount Sterling, Carthage and Hannibal.

Publix Great States had also sought 14 days for its first runs in Springfield, Ill., over Pawnee, Waverly, Edinburg, Chatham and Tallula, Ill., and a prior showing over Beardstown, but this was turned down.

In Publix Great State's application that its theatre in Wood River, Ill., be granted 14 days over the Ritz in East Alton, Ill., the board decided the clearance of Publix's first runs in Alton, Ill., should govern without any specific clearance rights being given Wood River over East Alton. A few weeks ago the board gave the Alton house 30 days clearance over Wood River and 45 days over East Alton.

The board has granted S. E. Pirtle's Orpheum, Jerseyville, Ill., seven days over Ross Denny's Bijou in Carrollton, Ill.

In the case of Christ Zotos, operator of the Roosevelt, against George Pliakos of the Criterion the application was not allowed. Zotos had protested against the 14 days clearance now enjoyed by the Criterion over the Roosevelt.

In the cases of Ed F. Clarke's Majestic and Kerasotes Brothers' Strand and Senate, Springfield, Ill., against the Fox Lincoln and Fox Tivoli theatres, Springfield, the board ruled first runs should have 35 days.

In two other cases the board decided St. Louis first runs should receive 28 days over the Grand and Princess in Alton, Ill., and Harry Redmon's Majestic, East St. Louis. The Grand and Princess theatres had asked that the St. Louis first run houses be merely given priority over Alton while Redmon was willing to concede seven days. In each of these cases the St. Louis houses had had 28 and 35 days.

The board ruled also that Redmon's Majestic, East St. Louis, be given prior run over Collinsville and Granite City, Ill., pro-

Leo's Boys Get Together

CHICAGO, June 22.—While the more serious aspects of the industry were being discussed at the Drake, Mary, the Rhino, tied up traffic on Michigan Boulevard and refused to eat her spinach until directed by Mrs. Volney Phifer, who is recognized as something of an adept at making Mary mind her manners.

Unfurling of the flag and the singing of JOHN PAYNE GASSER followed an impressive tribute to the memory of Marcus Loew during which the delegates stood in reverent silence.

By any and all odds, WILLIAM R. FERGUSON, M-G-M's exploitation chief, was an easy winner as the busiest man at the convention.

FRED BARTO, local publicity dispenser, was sporting a wide grin after being told something could be done for his bald pate.

G. C. PARSONS and his delegates from Los Angeles were odds on sporting the best coat of tan.

J. S. MACLEOD and SELWYN LEVINSON of New York were the first conventionites to pass the turnstiles at the world's fair.

FELIX MENDELSSOHN, Chicago manager, almost succeeded in appearing nonchalant when introducing his son TEDDY, who is a Metro city salesman.

SIDNEY H. SHIRLEY, Chicago district manager, found himself in the spot of the one-armed paperhanger as general host to the visitors.

The press department, says BARTO, will not be responsible for goods left over 30 days, which is meant as a gentle reminder to FRANK DREW, Cleveland, to reclaim his hat from Room 674.

ED CARRIER, in charge of the traveling studio and sound car, was known in former years as the boy "who sang to beat the band." He was prevailed upon to render a few of his old tunes.

Anyone who knows Chicago's MAYOR

KELLY will agree that in FRED QUIMBY the local chief has found his double.

Looking fit as the proverbial fiddle is WADE WILLMAN, Indianapolis branch manager, who recently emerged from a period of illness.

After trying to cover the fair in one evening, TOM CONNOR, southern divisional chief, and CHARLES KESSNICH, southern district manager, are agreed that the life of a pedestrian is a tough one.

W. H. ("BIG BILL") WORKMAN, Minneapolis, is the Carnera of the organization—but in size only.

WILLIAM ("BILL") SCULLY, New England and southern district manager, is flanked by his New York and New Jersey crew wherever he goes. JACK BOWEN and DAVE LEVY just won't let Scully alone.

RALPH PIELOW, Albany manager, remembers the time when he worked in the New York exchange, but says he'd rather live in Albany.

MARIGOLD BALL, fashion magazine contact, and GRACE ROSENFELD, HENRY GINSBERG's eastern representative, arrive from New York Saturday enroute to the coast. They will attend the last day of the convention to see what it's like when all M-G-M salesmen start boasting of their accomplishments.

JACK BYRNE, New Haven manager, is challenging all and sundry to the M-G-M handball title. If he can't get any takers, he'll try boxing.

JAY A. GOVE has three secretaries ready to take down for the record all that's said by the speakers. It's for Distributor, the company house organ.

JOHN MACLEOD, whose principal purpose in life at the present moment is getting exchange forces acquainted with the code as it pertains to fire prevention, will talk briefly on exchange maintenance.

vided that pictures are played within 21 days after availability. The Majestic was given seven days over Duplo, Lebanon, Madison, O'Fallon, and Waterloo, Ill., provided pictures are dated 21 days after availability, but it was decided that the Majestic should have no clearance over Belleville, Ill. Redmon had sought seven days over Belleville. He has taken an appeal. Publix Great States has appealed from the ruling giving St. Louis first runs 28 days over the Grand and Princess, Alton. Other appeals are: Publix Great States Theatres, Springfield, Ill., vs. subsequent runs in Springfield; Joseph Desberger's Gem Theatre, Upper Alton, Ill., vs. Publix Great States, Alton; and S. C. Holloway's Apple Blossom, Hardin, Ill., vs. Publix Great States Theatres, Alton.

Producer Nominees Sought from Coast

With Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt already having named his 10 appointees to the writers' and actors' code committees in Hollywood, Campi yesterday advised Major J. R. Donovan to submit a list of producers' representatives to be named to the same committees. The list will be approved by Campi Thursday.

loans will not be made when the proceeds are to be used to pay existing indebtedness. In expending funds, borrowers will be required to make purchases only from code adherents.

An incidental portion of a loan may be applied, under certain circumstances, to payment of taxes on properties necessary for the operation of the business.

"In general," it has been ordered, "loans will not be made when proceeds are to be used primarily to finance new construction. When funds are required chiefly for working capital purposes, but where it is necessary for the applicant to make replacements or to make minor repairs or improvements to plants in order to enable the applicant to operate more effectively, a small portion of the loan may be applied to such purposes."

Portland Meeting Set

PORTLAND, June 22.—A meeting of exhibitors and distributors in this territory with members of both code boards has been called for June 26. Double billing has been discussed by the grievance board without a decision. Robert White in a grievance against the Hollywood charges reduced admission. Sam Fleishman replaces Phillip Blaumauer on the board.

Loew-Warner Offer Lure to Fox Met Group

Loew's and Warner representatives on undecided issues are scheduled for Monday. Pending this, and possibly a second meeting on Tuesday, further court hearings before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack were adjourned yesterday until June 27.

Morton G. Bogue, counsel for the bondholders' committee, who told Judge Mack Thursday that he would recommend rejection of the Loew-Warner offer to the committee, altered his stand at yesterday's session. Bogue previously had advocated a sale of the Fox Met. bonds for $4,000,000 cash, thus leaving it to Loew's and Warners to develop their own plan of reorganization for the circuit. The Loew-Warner offer contemplates purchase of the Fox Met. assets from the bondholders after the latter have acquired them at a reorganization sale.

J. Robert Rubin of Loew's presented the offer to the bondholders' committee yesterday. Warner Marshall, Jr., who has been secretary of the bondholders' committee throughout the Fox Met. receivership period, resigned that post yesterday. He was succeeded by J. Howard Carlson of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

industry's plan to stiffen self-regulation in Hollywood. His statement said: "At the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the M. P. Producers & Distributors of America, Inc., action was taken to amend its system of self-regulation in order to eliminate appeals from the decisions of the Production Code Administration to the jury of producers in Hollywood.

"Additional local authority has been assigned to the production code administration in Hollywood, of which Joseph I. Breen is the director, and the personnel will be amplified. Any appeal from the decision of the production code administration rests only with the board of directors of the M. P. P. D. A. in New York, which assumes final responsibility for the character of the pictures to be made.

"There is but one answer and one answer only to reasonable objections to pictures, and that is the pictures themselves. It is recognized that the solution of the problem of the right kind of screen entertainment rests solely with the quality of the product and these strengthened arrangements are directed to discharging that responsibility more effectively."

The plan was published in detail in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on June 18.

He insisted the board's action was in keeping with Ohio's censor laws specifying that any picture must be moral, harmless, educational, or amusing, to gain approval. The picture was advertised for opening today in practically all the leading cities of the state.

M-G-M Pacts May Call for 15¢ Minimum

Business Increase Will Justify Scale—Feist

CHICAGO, June 24.—M-G-M's new season contracts may stipulate a 15-cent minimum admission in most territories despite the fact that Felix F. Feist, general sales manager, does not regard 10-cent admission houses now as any special problem for the future.

This was brought out here in an interview with Feist at the close of M-G-M's annual sales convention yesterday.

Feist predicts that a 15-cent minimum next season will be justified by continued business improvement throughout the country within the next six months, and that the same factor will automatically eliminate 10-cent houses as a problem of the future in most localities. He pointed out that the Administration is still committed to public works and relief programs which will put $1,500,000,000

Look for Strengthening Of Para. Partnerships

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Although it was not officially admitted that the Paramount sales convention included a session of theatre partners, it is understood that as a result of the gathering Paramount will continue its partnership operations. Company officials consider experience of their theatre associates valuable in any reorganization plan.

Paramount will not buy out its partners, it was learned.

Sam Dembow, theatre executive, and Barney Balaban of B. & K. said in advance of the sessions that nothing would be decided here, but it is understood that partnerships in certain localities will be renewed at Paramount's option, but these details, like the Trendle arrangement in Detroit, will be decided later.

Warner Drive Set for Jump In Admissions

HOLLYWOOD, June 24. — Warners will launch a nationwide campaign for an increase in admission scales, declared Gradwell Sears, western and southern sales head, upon arrival here with a group of executives who had been attending the two-day sales convention in San Francisco.

Complete elimination of duals will be sought at the same time.

This is a part of the company's policy of withholding product from houses charging less than 15 cents for matinees and 20 cents evenings.

Sears points out that the average minimum admission in foreign houses is 25 cents.

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—When the two parties to a complaint are in different territories, the code board located in the respondent's territory gains jurisdiction, is the principle established by Campi in referring a clearance action from St. Louis to Kansas City.

The question arose on a complaint filed by S. Bank, Fulton Theatre, Fulton, Mo., who seeks to eliminate two weeks' clearance over Fulton given Jefferson City, Mo., theatres. Since Fulton is served by St. Louis exchanges, the complaint was filed there. The Dubinsky circuit, which operates the Jefferson City houses and was named defendant, challenged

A proposal for assessing holders of the 3,380,121 shares of Paramount Publix stock outstanding on the basis of $2 per share to create a fund which would be employed for retirement of the company's bank obligations in the reorganization of Paramount is understood to be part of the reorganization plan, it was learned Saturday.

It is contemplated that the proposal would provide a cash fund from which $5,000,000 would be paid, pro-rata, to the 12 banks which provided Paramount, through its subsidiary, Film Productions Corp., with a $13,000,000 credit fund in 1932. Skouras Stays as An Operator Here

George Skouras is definitely set to continue local theatre operation despite current indications that he may lose around 40 Fox Metropolitan Playhouses if Loew's and Warners are successful with their joint bid.

In addition to operating the group of Fox Metropolitan houses, Skouras Theatres Corp. also has in its circuit six houses which are not affected by pending deals. These are:

Astoria, Jamaica; Academy of Music, Riverside, Nemo, Riviera and Japanese Gardens in Manhattan.

In the event Skouras loses the Fox Met units, it is likely he will pool his group with another important independent exhibitor.

Loew Denies Warner Will Get Theatres

David M. Loew yesterday denied any intention on part of the Loew circuit to turn over its houses in Newark, North Bergen and Jersey City to Warners provided the Loew-Warner bid for Fox Metropolitan circuit is accepted by the court.

The reported plan also provided Warners turn over its Broadway and Brooklyn houses to Loew. Charles C. Moskowitz denied the report Thursday.

Skouras Turns to Philosophy As Fox Met Hangs in Balance

While the future of the Fox Metropolitan group he operates is in the balance, George Skouras has taken to the philosophy of George Santayana and the latter's commentary on the works of Dante, Goethe and Lucretius.

From Lucretius, Skouras is most absorbed in the following passage:

"To the Greek, insofar as he was a Greek, religion was an aspiration to grow like the gods by invoking their companionship, rehearsing their story, feeling vicariously the glow of their splendid prerogatives, placing them, in the form of beautiful and very human statues, constantly before his eyes."

to have the banks declared creditors of Paramount with the same status as other general creditors of the bankrupt. Whether the $5,000,000 payment to the banks contemplates a victory for the trustees with settlement of the $13,000,000 claim for $5,000,000, or whether it merely contemplates a partial payment with renewals of the balance due could not be learned on Saturday.

Under the reorganization plan, holders of $25,000,000 of Paramount bonds are expected to receive some form of new paper for their holdings. The new issues to be exchanged for the old may be either straight bonds, income bonds or bonds carrying a privilege for conversion into new common stock.

Paramount's assets at current valuations are said to approximate $100,000,000, representing a mark down from more than $150,000,000, the amount at which they were listed by Paramount at the time the company went into receivership early in 1933. Liabilities are reported at an estimated $60,000,000, of which $25,000,000 is owed to bondholders, $13,000,000 to banks and $22,000,000 to general creditors. The last estimate contemplates the expunging, withdrawing and reduction of many claims which remain unsettled at this time.

On this basis, it is believed, the valid creditors' claims in the amount estimated could be taken care of either through issuance of new stock or by a dividend following a reorganization sale. The reorganized Paramount could operate without the necessity of new bank loans, it is believed.

G-B's "Select 12" Listed

An announcement book listing 12 completed Gaumont-British productions selected for the American market from the company's current list is being distributed to exhibitors this week. A number of the attractions feature American players or British stars with a following here. The list is diversified and tastefully presented.

more into general circulation before the end of the year, as a result of which stimulated public spending will make it possible for exhibitors to initiate the movement away from 10-cent admissions.

Feist expressed enthusiasm over what he predicts will be a further turn toward normalcy in business within the next six months, and stated that the industry already feels a public trend toward acceptance of admissions of 15 cents and up.

As to double featuring, M-G-M is as much opposed to the policy as ever from a distribution standpoint, Feist said.

"Duals are an admission of weakness on the part of the exhibitor and are ruinous to business," he commented.

Feist declined to say whether the eight specials announced for next season by M-G-M would be sold on percentage only. Feist, likewise, declined to commit himself on the company's future plans for Garbo. "I have nothing to say now," was his reply to the question.

He emphasized that M-G-M's new season lineup would meet every requirement of clean pictures.

and RKO in New York providing for a split of the entire 1934-35 list between the circuits, said Albert L. Warner. About $2,000,000 is involved. Last year Warners sold exclusively to Loew's. Warner also said the company has 167 story properties which will permit enlargement of the schedule, if conditions should require it.

Protestants Join Drive

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has endorsed the Catholic Church's stand on "indecent" films and urged the cooperation of its large Protestant membership in the campaign being carried on by the Legion of Decency.

the St. Louis board's authority to hear the case. Though Jefferson City normally is in the St. Louis distribution territory, in this instance it is served from Kansas City.

In transferring the case, Campi ruled the exhibitor filing the complaint has to bring action in the defendant's territory. This decision is considered of far-reaching effect, as several instances of such overlapping of distribution territories have come to light in code board operations.

Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager, recently questioned the jurisdiction of the Des Moines grievance board to hear complaints against the circuit originating in Ft. Madison and Muscatine, Ia. Rhoden's contention, which the Campi ruling since proved was right, was that since the Fox Iowa theatres were served out of Kansas City, the cases should have been filed here. The Des Moines board dismissed both.

K. C. Board to Take Industrial Disputes to its other duties, the local grievance board is empowered to set up the machinery for arbitration of labor disputes.

As explained by the Kansas City NRA compliance office, the grievance board, acting under its new functions, is to create a three-man board with one representative each for industry and labor and an impartial member representing the public, or the consumer. The personnel would be subject to approval, presumably by the administrator. Decisions by the board would be subject to appeal to the NRA compliance director and, subsequently, to the administrator, it is believed.

Establishment of the local grievance board as the industrial adjustment agency for this territory effectuates the powers it already has, according to the local NRA office. It is authorized to handle trade practice complaints in the first instance and administer all other normal functions under the code except those dealing with production, vaudeville and presentations and labor complaints.

Claim Ad Violation

HOLLYWOOD, June 24.—Claiming violation of the advertising code, the Florence Theatre has filed a complaint against the Castle with the grievance board. The Florence claims the Castle conducted a house-to-house campaign while it was showing "Little Women" at 15 cents.

Expect Film Blast in 3rd Darrow Move

Code Changes Looked for As Review Board Ends

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Further attack upon the film code is expected to feature the third and final report of the National Recovery Review Board which is to be submitted to President Roosevelt this week.

Several of the codes on which reports have already been made will be discussed anew in the final document of the Darrow board, largely with the view of driving home the charges which are made against the methods and personnel of the National Recovery Administration.

With the submission of its forthcoming report, the board will end its labors, and it is anticipated the recovery administration will then proceed with the revision of codes to eliminate some of the provisions which have been severely criticized, but which Administration officials have refused to admit have been inequitable.

London Hears Catholic Movement Will Now Become International

The Catholic campaign against objectionable films is to be world-wide, the United Press quoted the London Daily Express as stating yesterday.

The newspaper declared its information was obtained from a high Vatican source which outlined the Pope's instructions to Roman Catholic churchmen throughout the world as follows:

1. Formation of local associations to be known as Leagues of Decency.
2. Organization of protest meetings against films held by vote to be objectionable.
3. Utilization of the power of boycott.
4. Publication in the whole Catholic press of lists of films under ban.

Union Offices Protestants Raided; Books Mapping Fast To Grand Jury Film Cleanup

A general investigation by Assistant District Attorney William Kleiman of Kings County of the various modes of procedure of operators' unions was ascribed as the reason for the raids of three union offices yesterday by detectives and the seizure of records and arrests of officials. The records were rushed to the Kings County Grand Jury, which is hearing testimony in an investigation of the unions directed by the district attorney's office.

Eighteen detectives and three representatives of the district attorney's office made up the raiding parties (Continued on page 11)

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The first "cease and desist" decision rendered by the grievance board is the case of P. R. Touney, Princess Theatre, Waseon, against Guy Johnson, operating free shows in Lyons, Metamora and Otrakee, O., and against M. On many fronts, church campaigns, linking various faiths, are raging against objectionable films. Latest developments are covered on page 11.

Para. Theatre Partner Deals Short Termers

Renewals Are Timed for Reorganization

In the expectation that Paramount will be reorganized by fall or early winter deals with the company's theatre operating partners are being renewed by the Paramount Public trustees for terms of less than one year, it was learned yesterday.

This policy, it was stated, will permit the heads of the reorganized company to make their own permanent theatre operating deals or to operate theatres themselves wherever advisable, as all deals now made, or in the making, have been timed to expire within a brief time after the date by which reorganization can be reasonably expected to have been concluded.

In accordance with this policy of short term renewals George Trendle's option on an agreement for operation by him of Paramount's Detroit theatres has been extended to June 1, 1935. The original agreement expires July 16.

Majors Keep Names From Air Programs

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—As a forerunner to a concerted drive on the part of major producers to keep big names from the air, both Paramount and M-G-M have induced Mae West, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland to cancel their eight-weeks' agreement to appear on the Lehn & Fink Hall of Fame program.

M-G-M has refused to let Lionel Barrymore appear on the Campbell's Soup Hour.

This move comes as a result of protests pouring in from exhibitors in all parts of the country. It is believed every large company will join the move.

N. Y. Censors Ban "It Ain't No Sin"

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—Advices from the east today stated the New York censor board had banned Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin." As a result, the objectionable scenes will be remade.

John Hammel, in charge of censor matters at Paramount, last night stated a detailed statement will be issued at noon today on the Mae West situation.

Ohio censors last week also banned the film.

Horror Films Given Big Play in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—Local exhibitors are giving horror pictures a big play. Two recent features are prizes in this respect. They are: "Fantasmas del Convento" ("Ghosts of the Convent") and "Pulpo Humano" ("Human Octopus").

It is said these were produced as a result of the success of such imports as "The Black Cat" and "King Kong."

The horror films here are exploited with parades with floats bedecked with imitation skeletons, mummies and other funeral ornaments.

Columbia's Mexican Film Must Get O. K.

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—The Mexican Government has given Columbia permission to film sequences in the Pacific port of Mazatlan. Directors, cameramen and other technicians can be brought into the country for the work, but the understanding requires that prints must be sent here for State Department inspection and approval before forwarding to Hollywood.

McDonough Here

J. R. McDonough, president of Radio Pictures, is in New York for the first time in many weeks. He plans to remain for a time and then return to the studio.

Following the company's Chicago sales convention last week, all home-office executives have returned to New York.

Insiders' Outlook

M-G-M made no fuss over it, but its 1934-35 schedule is up six pictures as compared with the lineup for the season now ending. In other words, 52 as against 46. Shorts, described as "Junior Features," drop from 91 to 77, or a drop of 14, and much fuss is to be turned loose on those in Technicolor. Thirty-five per cent of the 77 will bluish in natural hues, including all cartoons, of which there will be 13 produced by Harman-Ising.

FitzPatrick Traveltalks will drop from 12 to eight, all in three-color Technicolor, under a deal which Leo claims is exclusive with him—for that type of production. Hal Roach will make less shorts, also. His total will shrink from 42 to 32. Paring in volume imposes a million dollar sales handicap before the selling starts. M-G-M men were told in Chicago, where the reason for the cut was described as "concession to changed conditions which loads large obligations on the sales organization." Name value and other kinds of value will make up the difference, Leo seems to be certain. . . .

Those two "All Star Features" are planned to replace the Jack Pearl and Ed Wynn vehicles, not too successful, on the '33-'34 program. "Marquee Productions," as the all-featured opuses are sold, will jump from nine to 14. Cosmopolitans remain at four and the Laurel and Hardy features, Roach-made, at two. Hearst Metrotone News, on its own now and facing Fox Movie-tone News as direct competitor with the other newsreels not exempted, will be speeded out of a different laboratory, which will hasten delivery on specials. So

M-G-M feels and so it told its field forces. . . .

All this wordage, printed and verbal, about the head of reorganized Paramount means little at this time. About 25 names have been suggested to individuals in groups and groups themselves who would have something to say about any selection. Any and all suggestions, however, must represent a compromise of some nature, unknown now, but to be determined, involving bondholders, not to overlook the holders of those several millions of shares of common stock. . . .

Hollywood fun: A local wag who attended the preview of Jesse Lasky's latest, and the next night listened to the heavy-weight championship bout over the radio, sallied forth with the quip: "Lasky produced 'The Grand Canary' and Maxey Baer reduced 'The Grand Carnera.'" . . . Talk of "revolutionary" newsreel deals over at Fox. One of "vast importance" is the tidbit dangled before the trade and the Fox sales department. . . .

The Capitol-Paramount pool may be signed tomorrow, after all that's been said and done, too. Legal difficulties, nature not entirely clear, are reliably reported to have gummed the works to date. . . . The deal under which the RKO booking office does ditto for Skouras theatres, such as the Jefferson, Academy of Music, Coliseum and Audubon will not be renewed when it runs out shortly, the decision being RKO's. George S. is having plenty of worries these days as a Greater New York theatre operator. . . . KANN

THE MERRY WIDOW

Waltz down your aisles and vision your packed theatre spell-bound as MAURICE CHEVALIER with delicious gayety flirts, sings, conquers the rich and merry widow, exquisitely portrayed by JEANETTE MACDONALD. ERNST LUBITSCH, * sly maestro of love's magic, makes a glorious screen holiday of this beloved romance, now at last on the talking screen. Its vivacious Franz Lehar melodies are brought to audiences by six different symphony orchestras. Additional cast names are: Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, George Barbier, Minna Gombell. And the genius of Thalberg guides it to glory!

DAVID COPPERFIELD

1934-35 will be known as "The year of David Copperfield!" The heart of humanity beat faster when the news was flashed that M-G-M would bring its unlimited resources of talent and physical equipment to the production of Charles Dickens' beautiful soul-stirring novel. A special trip abroad was made by Producer David O. Selznick with director George Cukor (he made "Little Women!") and Howard Estabrook, scenarist. Thousands of tests were made of characters, architectural details copied and research such as no picture ever enjoyed has been under way for months here and abroad. A cast of sixty-eight characters will bristle with big names! A final master stroke was the signing of Hugh Walpole, noted author and Dickens authority, to lend counsel during the filming. A monumental enterprise is under way. Only M-G-M could attempt it!

THE GOOD EARTH

No other story property, whether a novel or stage play, was ever so desired by all producers! M-G-M is honored to be the means whereby Pearl S. Buck's thrilling novel is to be brought to the screen. It is an honor because "The Good Earth" is the most widely read book of our times . . . an obligation to far-flung millions whose heart-throbs, smiles and tears were showered on its unforgettable pages. Such humanity-in-fiction requires the unmatched production genius of a Thalberg, the screen-writing talents of a Frances Marion, the directorial flair of a George Hill (a combination that gave you "The Big House" and "Min and Bill"). For four months Director Hill and a huge staff traveled in little known parts of China, accumulating materials, backgrounds, facts . . . to make this heart-drama real, vibrant, true!

CHAINED

It is an occasion for dancing in the streets when JOAN CRAWFORD and CLARK GABLE unite their magnetic personalities to tell a screen story of glamor and allure! Picture audiences recalling with delight the romantic sweep of "Dancing Lady" will be there when you announce their new co-starring love story. The director is Clarence Brown who guided these two stars to triumph in "Possessed." He also directed "Sadie McKee" and "Letty Lynton" among many others. In the cast are Otto Kruger, and Stuart Erwin. Hunt Stromberg is the showman-producer!

THE BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET

NORMA SHEARER'S popularity, heightened by absence, flamed into box-office brilliance in "Riptide"... but that was just the beginning! A vehicle that most nearly approximates the tenderness of "Smilin' Through" is that romance which has given Broadway its most glorious stage thrill of the decade "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." NORMA SHEARER and FREDRIC MARCH* (weren't they incomparable in "Smilin' Through"!) are the Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning of the stage hit. CHARLES LAUGHTON,* Academy Prize Winner, star of "Henry the VIII" has come from abroad especially for this picture! Sidney Franklin of "Smilin' Through" fame is the director. Thalberg is producer! What a screen audience awaits this biggest stage hit of 15 years which played Broadway for two solid seasons and presold America with two unbroken years on the road!

MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY

CLARK GABLE, WALLACE BEERY, ROBERT MONTGOMERY head the pageant of box-office stars who are making an entertainment that will rank at the very top of next season's amusement calendar! The popular appeal of "Mutiny on the Bounty" is reflected in its long listing as best-seller and its subsequent serial story fame in the Hearst newspapers. Frank Lloyd will direct this mighty romantic spectacle. Thalberg is producer.

MARIE ANTOINETTE

Why did M-G-M purchase this many-editioned best-seller by Stefan Zweig as a starring vehicle for NORMA SHEARER? Because no book of recent years gave its public such a soul-thrill! Because this book tells Marie's queenly story with new sympathy... not that of the baby doll queen, but the youthful beauty starved of her rightful heritage of love... seeking in profligate grandeur an outlet for heart-hunger... finding romance in one of the deathless devotions of history! Because this book gives CHARLES LAUGHTON a role equal to his brilliant "Henry the VIII"... because this book gives HERBERT MARSHALL* opportunity for his most appealing charms. Three big stars! A production of magnificence unparalleled in talkies! Thalberg is producer.

NAUGHTY MARIETTA

It has been the privilege of M-G-M to immortalize famed musical comedies and operettas... most recently "Cat and the Fiddle"... and notably next season's "The Merry Widow." How fitting that M-G-M selects Victor Herbert's deathless love songs in "Naughty Marietta" for the singing star JEANETTE MACDONALD who with handsome operatic-favorite NELSON EDDY brings this drama of Old New Orleans to the screen. "Ah—Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I'm Falling In Love With Some One"... typical songs of infinite heart-thrill! Robert Z. Leonard is director. Hunt Stromberg is producer.

Protestants Mapping Fast Film Cleanup

denominations. This will be followed within the next 10 days by communications to the women's organizations.

Dr. Worth M. Tippy, executive secretary of the council, says there are 90,000 Protestant churches in this country having pastors and approximately 2,000,000 young people in organized groups. The church press is also to be used in the campaign.

Another phase of the plan is to have a Sunday in October devoted to discussions of films from Protestant pulpits. Material will be supplied pastors for their use in discussing the social and educational as well as the entertainment value of pictures.

"The council," said Dr. Tippy yesterday, "has been very guarded in its treatment of films thus far. It has realized their importance. It feels there has been great technical improvement, but no betterment in moral quality. We feel that our protests have been ignored and that the time has arrived to do something about it."

Other developments throughout the country follow:

Ohio

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The Ohio Council of Churches has joined the Catholic campaign for clean pictures and has agreed to co-operate in the movement "by focusing public sentiment on the censorship board and demanding that bad pictures be completely rejected." In a letter to all of the Protestant ministers in the territory, R. L. Lamb, executive secretary, asks that as many signatures to the petition as possible be secured and sent to Dr. B. O. Skinner, head of the Ohio Censor Board.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, estimates that if this move against salacious pictures keeps only 10 per cent of the people of Ohio away from theatres, loss to exhibitors of the state will be in excess of $3,000,000.

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—Petitions being circulated by Protestant ministers throughout Ohio, which when signed, are to be forwarded to Dr. B. O. Skinner, head of the censor board, to whom they are addressed, read:

"We, the undersigned citizens, desire to register our disapproval of many motion pictures that have been shown in our state with the approval of your Board of Censors. We do not want to be understood as protesting against clean, wholesome entertainment through the movies, but we are certain that the welfare of our young people demands the complete rejection of all pictures portraying virtue as vice, or vice as virtue.

"We protest against your approval of pictures including licentiousness, crime and debauchery shown in attractive forms, with little or no reference made to the penalties which must inevitably follow evil.

"Facts recently brought to light by investigation indicate that certain kinds of motion pictures have had harmful and even disastrous effects upon child life. There is, as you know, increasing alarm among the good citizens of our State concerning the motion picture situation. Cutting out small portion of film does not suffice in cases where whole pictures need to be rejected.

"We, therefore, urge you to reject completely pictures that have a bad influence upon the development of good citizenship and clean moral living."

Texas

HOUSTON, June 25.—The Catholic drive against "indecent films" climaxed in Houston in a vitriolic address by Father Youngblood delivered in the Miller Memorial outdoor theatre in the city's largest park to an audience estimated at 10,000. This was the seventh in a series of addresses by young Catholic priests of this diocese against "current evils." Father Youngblood declared film men are "going too far when they say that what is being shown today on the screen is demanded by the public." He said direct action and not legislation "to clean up the movies" is the aim of the Catholic churches.

Houston Catholics have responded to the organization of the League of Decency, and in large numbers boycott the films publicly condemned by their pastors. However, theatre trade has not suffered.

Illinois

CHICAGO, June 25.—Protestant churches in this city have joined hands with Catholics in the fight on objectionable films. A committee representing the Chicago Church Federation has sent its constituents suggestions on a course to be pursued.

The Federation fashions a policy for practically every Protestant church in the Chicago area and claims a membership of 1,000,000. The League of Decency pledges are being used.

New York

ALBANY June 25.—Films are due for a virulent attack when the annual convention of the Atlantic District of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states meets get under way here Tuesday. Dr. Theodore Graebner of St. Louis is expected to lead the onslaught. "Criticism will not mend matters," he declared today. "There must be action to strike at the box-office. The industry must learn there is force behind the action for suppression of the open sewer of America."

Maryland

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 25.—The Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, representing churches in Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, has denounced "as enemies of God and society" the makers of bad films. The conference expression of opinion came in the adoption of a report of the committee on moral reform and social service, presented by the Rev. J. H. Lynch of Lynchburg, Va. In adopting the report the conference said it "shall continue to list moving pictures among modern evils as long as they continue to exalt the gangster and glorify the woman with a questionable past."

Michigan

DETROIT, June 25.—Active support of the principles of the Legion of Decency has been recommended to the Christian Endeavor Union Convention. The convention committee has approved adoption of the declaration of the Legion, which was organized by the Catholic bishops of the nation and which pledges the signer to remain away from objectionable motion picture films.

In urging the youth of Michigan to adopt the declaration, the Christian Endeavor committee is acting in the line with the recent move of the Detroit Council of Churches.

Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, June 25.—The Legion of Decency, so far as New Orleans is concerned, is not affecting to any appreciable degree business of various theatres, although grosses are a trifle off owing to extreme warm weather and numerous outdoor attractions.

Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Directors of the Philadelphia Federation of Churches have endorsed the Catholic Legion of Decency boycott of indecent films.

Union Offices Raided; Books To Grand Jury

which descended upon the following offices:

The Empire State Motion Pictures Operators' Union, Brooklyn.

Local 306 of the I.A.T.S.E., Manhattan, and the Brooklyn branch of Local 306.

The raids were made simultaneously, and grew out of warfare between the unions and independent theatre owners in Brooklyn.

The district attorney's office has submitted testimony to the grand jury regarding purported transactions between the unions and gangsters. The name of Dutch Schultz, fugitive gangster, appears with that of equally well known characters in the district attorney's survey.

There are charges that an underworld chieftain received $7,500 from one of the unions; that a detective agency was given $25,000 and that lawyers received exorbitant fees. More than $200,000 has been spent by Local 306 during the past year on so-called "rehabilitation" work, it is charged.

Harry Sherman, president of Local 306, last night declared:

"It's a lot of baloney. Just another one of those things which was tried in Washington. The story has been on the ice the last two weeks.

"The district attorney had no complaint nor warrant and the papers he took amounted to nothing."

A protest will be made against the district attorney, Sherman stated, for forcibly entering the union's office without a warrant. "The whole thing has been inspired by exhibitors at odds with the union," he said.

complaint. In this instance, Campi upheld the New York grievance board in granting Rogowsky 22 films, but added that Skouras did not overbuy.

Code secretaries throughout the country have been asked to submit names of various exhibitors prominent in local territories for Campi's appeal panel from which members of the 10 committees will be selected and approved Thursday. The first appeals committee gets into action next Monday.

A joint meeting of committees on clearance and zoning and grievance meets today at authority headquarters.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Treasure Island"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—An interesting production of Robert Louis Stevenson's adventure classic, done in good taste, with some imagination and salted spasmodically with humor.

As filmed, Stevenson's saga of the "Yo ho, and a bottle of rum" days is crowded with incident, but a lusty yarn it still is, chock-a-block with pirates bold and bloody, buccaneers questing for pieces-of-eight and doubloons.

Long John is played by Wallace Beery, Jim Hawkins by Jackie Cooper, Billy Bones by Lionel Barrymore, Doctor Livesey by Otto Kruger, Captain Smollett by Lewis Stone, and Ben Gunn by "Chic" Sale.

Known to man and boy, the ageless Stevenson characters enacted by these screen players should attract audiences. When trimmed the production should appeal to lovers of clean adventure pictures. Barrymore and Beery make vivid and colorful the pirates each portrays. Jackie Cooper is warm as Jim.

Scenic and photographic values of old England and sea scapes are well done. Victor Fleming directed from John Lee Mahin's screen play. Running time (preview form), 115 minutes.

Looking 'Em Over

"Return of Bulldog Drummond"

(B. I. P.-Lou B. Metzger)

Thrilling action and suspense aplenty prove in this melodrama that the British producer can make them fast and melodramatic. It is a story of the famous "Bulldog Drummond," based on the Sappers' novel, "The Black Gang," and from start to finish snaps along with a speed, dramatic intensity and audience interest that will make it highly satisfactory entertainment for any audience.

The production, as a whole, rates well from both dramatic and technical standpoints. The story deals with the efforts of The Black Gang, a heroic organization headed by Bulldog Drummond, which seeks to combat a gang of international conspirators who are endeavoring to stimulate a war spirit for the purpose of selling armament. Drummond is the leader of The Black Gang, and in situation after situation outwits the highly organized crowd that he is fighting, as well as the police, who suspect his activities, but who are unable to prove his actions. The story reaches a climax in the kidnaping of Drummond's wife and his capture in his endeavor to rescue her after he has been cleverly anesthetized with an unusual drug and is ostensibly murdered when his car is driven through an open drawbridge.

The part of Drummond is portrayed by Ralph Richardson, a competent actor, whose effectiveness improves as the picture progresses. An important impersonation carried through the picture by Claude Allister, who has won considerable success in comedy roles in Hollywood. Adaptation, scenario and direction are by Walter Summers. The picture was produced by British International at Welwin Studios and distributed in England by Wardour Films, Ltd. It is the first picture to be presented by Lou B. Metzger, who has just taken over British International films in the American market.

"Let's Try Again"

(RKO-Radio)

Sophisticated in appeal, this attraction is designed particularly for "A" houses. While Pandro S. Berman has produced a fine picture, it lacks a definite amount of punch to get it over with neighborhood audiences. Diana Wynyard, Clive Brook, Irene Hervey, Helen Vinson, Theodore Newton and Arthur Hoyt are talkative in their respective roles, but somehow the net result lands short insofar as mass appeal is concerned.

Delicately handled, the theme of a doctor's wife becoming bored with marital life after 10 years and both finding an outlet for their romantic desires elsewhere might be an every day story in the medical profession. The writers have injected an interesting angle to get them together again by having Miss Vinson, Brook's lovelight, walk out on him for a dancing career and Newton, who had found a way to Miss Wynyard's heart, returning to Miss Hervey and assuming an obligation made at a moment of indiscretion. Running time, 67 minutes.

"Cavaliers," Fight, Bernie Chicago Lead

CHICAGO, June 25.—The first rush of fair visitors hit town last week and grosses jumped sharply. The Palace led, with "Cockeyed Cavaliers," the Baer-Carnera fight and Ben Bernie and his orchestra. The $30,000 take was $8,000 up.

"Little Miss Marker" and a stage show at the Chicago grossed a fine $36,000. "Merry Wives of Reno" was strong at $17,000 in the Oriental.

Total first run business was $136,500. Average is $137,600.

Estimated takings:

Rosenblatt to Defer Coast Trip for Time

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Desiring to see that the new actors, writers and producers committee gets off to a fair start, Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt will not leave for the coast until the committee is fully organized and working, it was learned today.

No information has been made available as to what problems or difficulties are awaiting his personal attention. Discussing the work of his division today, Rosenblatt declared progress is being made with the salary report, due in the hands of Administrator Hugh S. Johnson on July 7.

An amendment of the code to cover employees of companies having maintenance contracts with theatres, however, is in abeyance until additional factual material has been submitted by the American Building Maintenance Co., which protested proposed changes at the hearing earlier this month.

Difficulties are being encountered in passing on the recommendations of the extras committee in Hollywood because of friction between some of the recommendations and dissension which arose after their submission. The NRA is trying to bring about an agreement on the proposals, but it is expected some time will be required.

No compromise on these basic viewpoints has been made yet by either side, it was reported yesterday.

If the Loew-Warner offer is rejected, the bondholders would proceed with their own plan of reorganization which continues Skouras and Randforce as operators of the circuit.

H. M. Warner Coastbound

Harry M. Warner left yesterday for the coast for conferences on the new season's product with Albert L. Warner and Gradwell Sears. Others of the company executives who are traveling in reverse are S. Charles Einfeld, Norman H. Moray, Carl Leserman, Al Schwalberg and Harold S. Bareford.

Schaefer Enroute Here

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—George J. Schaefer, vice-president of Paramount, left here today for New York by train, arriving Saturday. He presided at the company's convention here last week.

B. P. Schulberg Here

B. P. Schulberg, independent producer for Paramount, has arrived in town for a short visit. He plans to return to the coast later this week by plane.

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—B. P. Schulberg's unannounced trip to New York is understood to be due to the fact that his contract is quite cold. It is understood that he wants to produce independently and would like to make a deal with Erpi.

Smith Here on 2 Deals

William Smith, partner of Charles Burr in Burr Prod., is here negotiating a major release of three features based on "Emo Crime Clues." Smith also is negotiating state rights release for six other features Burr plans.

Insiders' Outlook

INOCULATED against unusual and usual vibrations, Hollywood, silent by surface indications at least, awaits the further impact of the church campaign now being waged against its major industry. Producers are advancing with the word "caution" echoing from all points of their compasses. Large and small, executives refuse to rewrite or reverberate by their own mouthings the onslaught for publication. Most producers even angle away from "off record" discussions. . . .

From any and all sides, the next blast is being awaited. What comes across the continent by way of reaction seems to be best described as stoicism, nestling in an atmosphere filled with a static of queries and trepidation. Decision of the higher-ups to make the production formula bristle, thereby making Joe Breen even more important than he has been to date in those parts, ties in with a number of questions, all natural follow-ups and all requiring an answer of some kind or other. . . .

Prevailing queries now rifting the ozone cover a wide range of questions, expressed inwardly, if not outwardly, by producers, directors, writers, technicians and even white collar help. Most asked, perhaps, is what such-and-such company is going to do with and about such-and-such vehicles acquired at such-and-such prices? Another: If they make them, will their release be a signal for longer and louder blasts, even if film minds concur that material considered objectionable is routed out? Number three: If they don't make them, how will the loss involved be offset and will stockholders, interested primarily in dividends, be content with moral balm in place of financial? . . .

There are others. For instance, will it be possible always to adapt and change proscribed properties to meet code requirements? This ties in with Number Three. A fourth wonders if this will mean producers are to be compelled to turn to the classics or, even worse in some opinion, become 100 per cent Pollyanna, like a Rotarian? Still more: Will it be possible to mirror life, 1934 style, on the screen in the future? Will the church element be inclined to dictate entertainment policies of the industry? Says one man, who thereby insists he poises still another: "If we filmed the Bible, isn't it a fact certain portions would have to be eliminated?" . . .

And another: "How can such-and-such company announce a platform of clean pictures only and then announce such-and-such production as a climax?" He was basing his opinion on the product lineups as officially designated by several major producers. These are some of the up front posers that seem to have no takers out where they make 'em. On all sides, Hollywood, long-distanced through the telescope, is watching, waiting and using caution as it practices both. . . .

Current activity in the theatre division at RKO is designed to strengthen the circuit's already strong New York hold no matter how those Fox Met. theatres may swing. Practically all, if not all, of the new theatre align-

This does not mean that exports to France from this and other producing nations are to be limited to 94 pictures. As a nation which imposes no quota against France, that government returns the courtesy and permits the importation of as many American pictures with super-imposed titles as the industry here may care to send in or for which it can find a market.

A statement to stockholders issued by H. M. Warner says a further amount not to exceed $200,000 "will be received under certain contingencies which will not be determined until April 26, 1937."

"In addition to the above sums, the books and records of Warner Bros. Kahane's first step was to issue a lengthy letter in view of the present religious campaign toward clean pictures, wherein he quoted the code and stated in part "the line of demarcation between good and bad taste is not always clear. All minds do not meet as to what constitutes proper screen material, but, if we, in good faith, observe the letter and spirit of the production code which was prepared several years ago, our productions will be acceptable to a vast majority of fair minded patrons." He expressed the hope that other companies would follow this stand.

the Lutheran Synod which closed its convention by adopting a resolution "deeply deploring the motion picture industry's utter disregard of complaints and protests."

Buffalo Boycott Widens

BUFFALO, June 26.—The Council of Churches of Buffalo and Erie County has endorsed the Catholic Legion of Decency fight for clean films. The Protestant group also has asked President Roosevelt to reopen the film code for further study of block booking and blind buying. The churchmen are opposed to this trade practice.

Yesterday's developments in the churches' campaign against objectionable films follow:

Nebraska

OMAHA, June 26.—Thirty-one films have been viewed by the local Catholic standards committee since the movement against salacious films was inaugurated here a month ago, with 16 pictures blacklisted and one given a white-wash.

In addition to blacklisting films, the committee this week reached out and attacked the advertising of Bert Smith's Varieties playing at the World along with a feature film. The World has been on the "nix" list for the past three weeks, playing one blacklisted film each time.

Pictures listed as objectionable this week: "Many Happy Returns," "Born to be Bad," "Hollywood Party," "Smarty," "Affairs of a Gentleman," "The Merry Frinks," "Springtime for Henry," "The Life of Vergie Winters," and "Sadie McKee."

Ohio

CINCINNATI, June 26.—Blacklisting of producers and directors of undesirable pictures, in preference to censorship, is the solution of the film problem advanced by Lawrence Grant, actor-member of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, when asked for an opinion here.

He recommends committees composed of members of various churches, together with business and professional men for each city, to take action after the picture has played first run and subsequent houses. If the picture is objectionable, the committee should publicly disapprove it, especially emphasizing the producers' and directors' names, Grant said.

WOOSTER, O., June 26.—Resolutions in support of a movement aimed at making cleaner pictures were adopted by the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio in session here. The resolution was presented by Rev. J. B. Andrews of Cincinnati, chairman of the synodical committee on Christian education. In connection with the resolutions, churches were urged to use petitions now in the hands of the ministers.

BALTIMORE, June 26.—Protestant congregations here are endorsing the Catholic Legion of Decency drive on films. Latest to make a move is Rev. King D. Beach, pastor of the First M. E. Church, who has sent a letter to his congregation in which he says: "It seems to me that Will Hays' organization, rather than having any power to do anything about the character of motion pictures, is acting as apologist for the type now being shown."

Iowa

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 26.—More than 90,000 Legion of Decency cards have been sent out by the chancery office of the Dubuque archdiocese in the drive "to combat obscene entertainment especially motion pictures," those in charge report. More than 12,000 children have been enrolled.

the joint bid was made. He was referred at the time to Saul E. Rogers, counsel for A. C. Blumenthal, who acted in behalf of Loew's and Warners in paving the way for the joint bid. Rogers, who was general counsel of Fox at the time anti-trust laws were invoked to cause that company to relinquish its controlling interest in Loew's, declared that he did not believe "there was the slightest danger of an anti-trust law violation should the Loew-Warner offer be consummated."

Meanwhile, Loew's and Warners' representatives have hopes of reaching an agreement this morning with the Fox Met. bondholders' committee which would lead to approval of their joint offer for the circuit. Negotiations were continued with the committee yesterday and sufficient progress was reported to have been made to warrant the belief that the committee will come to a final decision on acceptance or rejection of the bid in advance of the hearing scheduled for this afternoon before Judge Mack. No postponement of the afternoon hearing had been sought up to last night.

describing Kleinman's seizure of the union's records in its Brooklyn and New York offices as "high handed outrage and usurpation of authority." Tuttle said no search warrant or court order was obtained.

The order requires Kleinman to show cause why the records should not be returned immediately.

At the same time that Local 306 offices were raided the headquarters of Allied Moving Picture Operators' Union were also raided. A union and theatre controversy has been in progress in Brooklyn for months.

Validity of Memphis Sunday Closing Hit

MEMPHIS, June 26.—The constitutionality of the Sunday closing law was attacked in a petition filed here today in the Chancery Court on behalf of the Orpheum. A hearing has been set for tomorrow.

The petition points out that the city itself operates municipal golf links, tennis courts, riding amusement devices, etc., and seeks a permanent injunction to restrain the city from interfering with Sunday sandwich shows.

In the meantime, Manager Charles Mensing has again been fined $25 in City Court for a second Sunday's operation of "Cinema-Teria." He already has an appeal to the Circuit Court pending on the first fine, with little likelihood of an early hearing. About 3,600 customers attended his show Sunday.

"Melodrama" $9,500 Draw In Montreal

MONTREAL, June 26.—"Manhattan Melodrama," on a double bill with "Harold Teen," was the best grosser of the week here. It ran over par $500 for a $9,500 gross at the Capitol.

A new angle developed in the first run situation with the reopening of the Imperial under the direction of Howard Conover, former manager. The first bill included "Wine, Woman and Song" and "The Pride of the Legion." The take was $6,500.

"Journal of a Crime," which was released here as "Remorse" at the request of the censors, brought Loew's up to $8,000. "Hollywood Party" pulled $9,000 at the Palace. Cool evenings helped business.

Total first run business was $39,000. Average is $43,000.

Expect Government To Avoid Film Row

WASHINGTON, June 26.—A hands-off policy will be maintained by the National Recovery Administration with respect to the campaign for clean films until the question of the Administration's responsibility is brought up. Administration officials today said that no complaints had been received from either the industry or any reform group.

The matter is viewed as being one for Code Authority to deal with, since the code contains a pledge to observe right moral standards and virtually all producers have signed. While the problem is not considered as merely a trade question, it is felt that the industry should have an opportunity to deal with it before the Federal government intervenes.

It will be remembered that Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt, during consideration of the code, made it clear that he was not in favor of including any detailed statement of morals, viewing it as impracticable and burdensome to enforce, as well as possibly offering some question of constitutionality.

Code Authority is believed to have all the power necessary to do anything it deems proper under the circumstances. Not until the matter is brought formally before the recovery administration will that body consider the use of its enforcement powers, particularly in view of the known attitude of the Roosevelt administration and Congress toward censorship.

Looking 'Em Over

"Of Human Bondage"

(Radio)

From "Of Human Bondage," which an influential section of authoritative literary opinion believes will live as one of the classics of this century, Radio has made a poignant and thoroughly worthwhile attraction.

W. Somerset Maugham's novel, which is supposed to have sketched many of the highlights in the author's own life, has been followed with fidelity, telling as it does of the affliction, a club foot, that not alone leaves its physical brand on the life of Philip Carey, played intelligently and understandingly by Leslie Howard, but its invisible cross on his mental and emotional being as well.

Aspiring to be a painter of renown, Howard abandons the palette when he learns he has no chance and determines to follow his father in the field of medicine. As a student in London, he meets a tearoom waitress—Bette Davis, cheap, unmoral and entirely unworthy of the vast love he develops for her. She countenances him only through sullen toleration, throws him over without a qualm to run off with Alan Hale and, when the latter ditches her, comes back to Howard for care of herself and her baby, born later.

He knows she does not rate his blind affection, yet, try as he may, Howard cannot divorce her from his mind. Miss Davis virtually does everything in her power to wreck his life and succeeds in setting back his medical studies when, in a rage, she burns the securities left by an uncle to finance the course through school. He tries solace in other women friends, discovers the effort is only temporary. Ultimately comes the time when an operation to make his foot normal is undertaken and is successful, when he meets Frances Dee and eventually marries her after Miss Davis, tubercular and shot, dies and thereby erases her hold on Howard.

The star does a splendid job as the gentle, sensitive cripple, subject to unkind jibes at the hands of thoughtless companions. Howard makes his role believable and touching. Miss Davis here emerges from a series of innocuous roles which have been hers in other pictures and delivers a bang-up performance which, this reviewer thinks, will precipitate some discussion of her hitherto unrevealed ability as an actress of parts. Reginald Owen, as a sort of bluff and hearty English philosopher, is so good it is regrettable the script failed to give him more to do. Alan Hale, too, is very effective. In lesser capacities, Kay Johnson, Reginald Denny and Frances Dee are competent.

Direction by John Cromwell is appreciative of the novel and marked by fine craftsmanship. K A N N

"Murder in the Museum"

(Marcy)

In this case the museum is a street carnival, the murdered man is a reformer who visits the place with the police commissioner, and the man who solves it is a reporter who has fallen in love with the police commissioner's niece.

The picture is slow getting started as the carnival barker leads the spectators from one freak to another and dialogue is used to plant the idea that the manager and a Mexican knife-thrower are engaged in dope smuggling. The police commissioner is suspected vaguely when the reformer falls wounded.

The reporter, John Harron, is aided by tips from Henry B. Walthall, a magician. One exciting sequence comes when Harron, peering through a hole in the floor above the carnival, is attacked by a mummy. The other is when he invades a deserted house where the carnival manager is waiting to repel an attempt to hijack his dope.

It finally develops that Walthall has committed the murder in revenge. He commits suicide.

Mildly entertaining, with both adult and kid appeal. The love interest is carried by Harron and Phyllis Barrington.

Summer Hits B'way Takes Hard Wallop

Mid-summer, or something, hit Broadway grosses last week. Even the much-talked-about "Life of Vergie Winters" and "Men in White" failed to stir up heavy money. The former had $67,000 at the Music Hall and the latter reached $35,200 at the Capitol.

Even in its 14th week at the Astor "House of Rothschild" held up to $10,600, which was much better than some of the other houses along the main stem with new attractions.

Irving Trust RKO Trustee Under New Act

situation favored the naming of Irving Trust," adding that the court was in sympathy with their views.

The attack on the appointment of Irving Trust as permanent trustee was made by former Federal Judge Edwin L. Garvin, counsel for Walter Reade's Broadway & 47th St. Corp., which has filed a claim of $764,167 against RKO for non-performance of the lease on the L'Avair. Garvin also represented Joseph H. Basker, Boston, and J. Louis Rome, Baltimore, both of whom were described as unsecured creditors of RKO. He told the court that Irving Trust had been requested repeatedly to initiate action against RKO executives over the purchase of Pathe which, Garvin said, "took four or five million out of RKO in return for which it received practically nothing." He urged the appointment of "someone like Samuel Seabury or former Judge Thomas D. Thacher" as a second trustee to serve with Irving Trust.

Judge Cox denied this motion on the grounds that it would add an unnecessary burden of expense to the estate.

Garvin also attacked the legality of RKO's petition under the new bankruptcy laws on the grounds that its filing had been authorized by the RKO board on May 18, whereas the law had not gone into effect until June 8.

The attack on the constitutionality of the new bankruptcy laws was made by F. J. Sullivan, counsel for James Young, a writer, who, it was said, has pending a $2,000,000 plagiarism suit against RKO. He declared the new laws were "confiscatory and deprived creditors of due process of law."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Here Comes the Navy"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Those who missed the recent naval maneuvers, who thrill as Uncle Sam's men of war plough through white caps with guns booming will get body out of this one.

Besides the naval spectacle the yarn conflicts hard bitten James Cagney, joining the navy to settle a score with a petty officer, Pat O'Brien. Cagney, in love with O'Brien's sister, Gloria Stuart, overstays his leave and accepts his navy punishment sulkily. Disliked by his shipmates, detesting the navy, brawling with O'Brien, he nevertheless wins a decoration for saving the lives of his gun crew. Transferred to the dirigible service, he is faced with a rope hanging from a blimp and with O'Brien picked up by the rope in midair. Cagney descends the rope and parachutes to safety with O'Brien, and then marries O'Brien's sister.

Frank McHugh supplies comedy relief with running gags on his mother's false teeth. Dorothy Tree, with Miss Stuart, contributes the romantic interest.

Lloyd Bacon directed from Ben Markson's story.

The production is aimed to capitalize on current navy interest, which, plus the he man story, should attract fans not too squeamish about heart interest or love. It should do acceptable business. Running time, 80 minutes.

Looking 'Em Over

"Hollywood Hoodlum"

(Regal)

Cleverly worked out satire on gangster pictures with Frank Albertson carrying a fast comedy role. It's a behind-the-Hollywood-scene story on the way a producer happens to start a gangster picture and how the publicity director works up his campaign by seeming to try to avoid it.

June Clyde furnishes the feminine appeal. The love interest is minor, but is strong enough to hold the interest of the younger set. Action is sustained throughout.

Albertson, the studio publicity director of Supreme Pictures, is summoned by Tenen Holtz, president, to be fired because he has sold John Davidson, a foreign director, the idea he ought to do "The Racketeer." Albertson works fast to get his job back and convinces Davidson he should have a real gangster. He stages a brawl in a restaurant where Jose Crespo socks Stanley Price, a big shot in the underworld.

Davidson insists he shall be the star and the phoney tough guy insists Miss Clyde, Albertson's sweetheart, shall be the leading lady. The real gangster starts out to get Crespo, and Albertson gets the country all worked up in opposition to having a real gangster in a film. At the finish Price, the gangster, nearly gets Crespo in his own home in a bangup fight. Breeze Eason directed. Running time, 61 minutes.

"Barbary Coast" Put On Shelf by Goldwyn

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—After several months of preparation during which several writers have worked on the story and William Wellman has been under contract to direct, and Sam Jaffe and Gary Cooper have been waiting to play opposite Anna Sten, "Barbary Coast" has been shelved indefinitely by Samuel Goldwyn. The move has been influenced by the clean film agitation.

Goldwyn says the story is too good to sacrifice during the present clamor. It will be just as good 10 years from now, he says, so he will hold it until it can be done with what he regards as full justice to its dramatic possibilities.

Cooper will be released to Paramount, while Miss Sten will be cast in "We Live Again." Later she may appear in "The Wizard of Oz." Wellman will return to 20th Century.

Payette Refuses to Hear Several Cases

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Because of objections raised at the last session of the clearance and zoning board John J. Payette today refused to sit as a member while certain cases were under consideration.

The complaint of the Vineland Theatre against clearance afforded the Carolina and Academy Theatres, Washington, was postponed.

J. Louis Rome, operating the Gwynn, Baltimore, won elimination of clearance enjoyed by Frank Durkee's Forest. The board decided the houses were in the same zone. In a second case Rome asked that the present seven and 14-day clearances be made consistent for the Rialto, Schanze, Fulton and Metropolitan theatres. The board found the four houses in the same zone and decided that whichever theatre played first runs in this zone would be entitled to 14 days' clearance.

Educational To Tip Short Costs by 20%

the country. Due to doubles, there have been thousands of theatres that have shown few, if any, two-reel comedies.

"During the last year I have felt that the end of doubles is close at hand. Educational made a definite attempt, which exhibitors tell us was successful, to improve the quality of the product.

"At the present time the hopes I have had for the return of the ideal program—a single feature and quality shorts—seems about to become an actuality. Educational is tremendously heartened by the recent decision of Cleveland and California exhibitors to show only single features, and it feels that other localities will inevitably follow in their footsteps. Because of this I have instructed our production department to increase the budget 20 per cent."

Shooting was completed yesterday at the Eastern Service Studio on the Educational-Tom Howard comedy, "The Wrong Bottle." This is the fifth of a series being made by Al Christie.

Tom Patricola has been signed by Educational for a comedy with a navy background under the direction of Al Christie. Scenes were shot the day the fleet left New York. Interiors will be made at the Eastern Service Studio.

Campi Expects to Clear Up Appeals

With the first hearings before Campi appeal committees starting July 2, Code Authority expects to have 48 cases now pending cleaned up by the end of next month. Meetings will be held four days a week. Of the 87 appeals originally filed, 39 already have been heard with only the U.A.-Egyptian, DeKalb, Ill., decision up for disposal tomorrow. The session will be closed and only administrative matters will be discussed.

Yesterday, the joint clearance and zoning and grievance committee met on the Los Angeles schedule. J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, appeared before the body and expressed approval of the plan. Attending the session were Charles L. O'Reilly, R. H. Cochrane and Jack Cohn. The schedule will be discussed again tomorrow by the main body.

Several administrative orders affecting the code are being rushed in Washington and may be ready by tomorrow's session.

"Glamour" and Ted Lewis Get Big K. C. Take

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—Local first run aggregate business reached its highest point in weeks, chiefly because of a banner $23,000 gross marked up by Ted Lewis with his band and stage show at the RKO Mainstreet. Lewis proved the season's outstanding stage hit. An additional draw was the Baer-Carnera fight film, which arrived three days after the week opened. The screen feature was "Glamour."

The Tower augmented its stage show because of the Ted Lewis opposition and with "Upper World" on the screen finished on the black side with $6,400. "Smarty" and Fight Go Big In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, June 26.—"Smarty" and the Baer-Carnera fight films on the RKO Palace bill sent the take there up to $13,500, topping par by $3,500. Cool weather was a help, too.

Total first run business was $37,500. Average is $34,000.

May Work Out Fox Met. Deal By Next Week

End of Third Delay May See Decision

Hope of an agreement being reached on the Loew-Warner offer of $4,000,000 for the Fox Metropolitan circuit within the next few days was voiced yesterday by representatives of the bidders in obtaining a third postponement of the hearing on a plan of reorganization before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack yesterday.

Over the objections of counsel for Frisch & Rinzler, co-operators with Skouras Bros. of the Fox Met circuit, Judge Mack postponed the hearing until Tuesday.

Deal Struck, Loew to Drop Theatre Plans

Reports were current yesterday that Loew's had abandoned its plan to build theatres in Northern California. Reason for the shift is that M-G-M had finally gotten together with Robert McNeill, president of United California Theatres and associated companies such as Golden State and T. & D., Jr., Theatres, on the entire new lineup.

According to Loew's building program, now understood discarded, subsequent run houses would have been built in principal San Francisco resi-

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—Production mills have been slowed up materially in the past few days for a closer scrutiny of scripts and scenes suspicious of dubious hue as direct evidence of the seriousness with which studios regard church activities against objectionable material.

Production in many major studios is marking time while changes are being made in scripts previously completed. In other plants, the greatest form of current activity revolves about the re-shooting of questionable scenes and the cutting of the actual or potential risqué.

Where pictures are already in production, or finished, they are being carefully checked and, where the slightest doubt arises, changes are immediately effected.

An alternative, suggested in the bulletin and cited as having been successful in some localities, is the adoption through local clearance and zoning boards of delayed availability of pictures for double featuring houses.

Insiders' Outlook

FOLLOWING on the tidal wave of church criticism, political censorship, now curiously and diligently active, opens itself to the suspicion of pulling the old wheeze of attempting to clamber on the bandwagon. It would be funny, if the situation which has developed in the last couple of weeks were not so seriously endangering expensive negative investments. . . .

By their several acts, New York and Ohio scalpel experts, to concentrate upon them for the moment, are endeavoring to indicate a revived recognition of their duties and a greater diligence in their jobs through suddenly stepping down and out on a number of important attractions. No more conclusive proof of the inadequacy of political censorship could be possible as a result. If these boards had been on deck, as theoretically they are, why have they allowed earlier pictures, as bad as those they are cracking down on now may be, to get by? . . .

As a matter of faithful observation, the moral tone of pictures has been, and is, improving. The production code administration, formerly known as the Studio Relations Committee, has grown more powerful as it has taken on age. What it has been insisting that producers in Hollywood must do has been, and is being, listened to with more and more attention. The result, as obvious as it is true, has been that off-color material, chiefly wisecracks superfluous to the development of whatever story is being told, has been shrinking, not gaining in volume. . . .

Get no impression that all, therefore, is orderly on the Hollywood, the New York and all other fronts between both points. Dissipate any thought that this forum is attempting to tell you or anyone else that pictures are as clean as the much quoted hound's tooth. They are not, as all those who can dish out the truth know. But unfair is the use to which political censorship power is now being diverted in singling out new pictures as the scapegoats for all those that have gone before. . . .

The industry is moving rapidly in its task to observe the pledge of a more rigorous code administration. The Mae West picture, viewed by Paramount men as the mortgage lifter for the summer, goes back to the studio for dry cleaning and a new name. Warners will finecomb "Madame Du Barry," hopefully regarded in that direction as a real grosser during the hot spell, before it gets into distribution. . . .

Hollywood is on its toes, realizing either through an understanding long delayed, of what's going on in the world or through having been told. It is pulling back pictures ready for shipment, scanning them, re-shooting and re-writing to make certain impending releases hurdle the moral line. The situation is one with which Hollywood cannot spar. This is no trade problem, susceptible to solution by conferring from within. The one factor on which the industry depends for its life and which it cannot control, is aroused in large numbers and clamoring for reformation. It must be forthcoming. . . .

production of "Barbary Coast," taking an estimated temporary loss of $75,000. M-G-M has definitely abandoned production of "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and of "Professional Correspondent," screen title for the novel, "Man and Wife."

Other studios have shelved stories where they believe the material might be looked upon as "off color." For the purpose of taking added precautions, M-G-M is withholding preview of Jean Harlow's "Born to Be Kissed" for five days of laundering. The picture will not be previewed until next week.

M-G-M is also giving similar consideration to "The Green Hat" and Garbo's next, "The Painted Veil," although not yet started, is receiving careful preliminary treatment in keeping with the production code administration.

Caution on All Sides

Other society dramas in preparation are receiving slow and careful scrutiny and will, in many cases, be set back on production schedules in favor of the inoffensive and outdoor stories, such as "David Copperfield," "The Good Earth," "Death on the Diamond," "West Point of the Air" and others, indicating that this type of story will dominate production for the next six months.

As for RKO Radio, a planned effort to avoid suggestive or offensive themes is under way in earnest under the direction of B. B. Kahane. The script of "The Fountain" is the first to feel the scalpel.

At Warners, two reels of "Madame Du Barry" have been remade, eliminating a sequence in which scantily robed girls were shown participating in a wedding festival.

Paramount is treating the dialogue of Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin," and one sequence of the picture is being changed entirely. No complete stories at Paramount or Universal have been abandoned yet, although changes from original treatments are being made in several instances to avoid any possible objection from state or municipal censor boards or religious bodies.

The Hays office here reports that scripts are arriving in decidedly cleaner form than heretofore.

May Work Out Fox Met. Deal By Next Week

appeared for the bidders and sought the postponement in conjunction with Morton G. Bogue, counsel for the Fox Met Bondholders' committee, with whom the Loew-Warner group is negotiating. It was stated by both representatives negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily but additional time is needed to discuss disputed points of the deal. Both sides are compromising original attitudes on the deal, it was said, and an agreement between the bidders and the bondholders is expected before Tuesday.

Counsel for Frisch & Rinzier urged that a decision before Friday was essential and stated that losses to be charged against cash on hand held by the receiver for Fox Met were mounting daily. A previous ruling by Judge Mack permits Skouras and Randforce to charge operating losses from June 20 to the estate.

Seeking New Zoning Pact in Cleveland

sentative of all subsequent runs in Greater Cleveland, is asking new availability for the city to be effective with the advent of the new season.

He seeks an availability date of 49 days after first runs for houses charging 20 cents, 63 days for 15 cent houses, 180 days for 10 cent houses and 365 days for houses playing duals. In the event circuits play second runs ahead of their own second run availability dates, he asks they waive the same measure of protection to all subsequent.

This proposal differs from the protection agreement operating here now only insofar as 20 cent, 10 cent and double bill theatres are concerned. First runs ask 35 days protection, 56 days over 20 cent houses and 365 days over both 10 cent and dual bill houses. They agree to waive protection on all subsequent if and when they forego it in favor of their own second run theatres. Whatever schedule is adopted it is understood will supersede the current agreement which expires the end of the year.

In the meantime, the pact to end doubles on July 8 is imperilled by the entry of new exhibitors. Victor Wolcott is one. Not an exhibitor when the agreement barring duals was signed, he will open the Temple Friday with duals at 10 cents.

Magnificent Obsession

Said the New York Times of this great novel: "The fault with many a modern novel is that nothing happens in it. It is one merit of Magnificent Obsession that IT REALLY HAS A PLOT! Incident follows incident with impelling force. Love, finance, accident, injury and death all play their part in depicting a character controlled by a great ideal" . . . Showmen, the book is excellent, but the picture will beat it!

BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN

An illustration of the Frankenstein monster, a large, dark, muscular figure with a flat-top head, standing next to a woman in a white, ruffled wedding dress. The woman is looking up at the monster with a look of awe or fear. The background is dark and moody, with a large, glowing circular light source behind the text.

Out of the ruins of shattered box-office records rises the Frankenstein monster—to claim himself a bride, and to work further havoc with record theatre grosses! . . . Can you imagine the advertising you can do on this one? The mere thought of the monster seeking a bride makes a showman's fingers fairly itch to write the flaming lines that will pack any theatre in the world. Add the bride idea to all you've had before, and you've got a "tremendousity" of appeal—and in plain English, THAT'S PLENTY!

Authorized to Put Its Stock on Sale

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Submission of registration certificates for Major Film Prod., Inc., Los Angeles, was made public today by the Federal Trade Commission.

The company was organized in Delaware May 3 to produce and distribute pictures and proposes to issue 3,000 shares of six per cent participating preferred stock of $100 par value each, the proceeds to be used as working capital, the statements disclosed.

The stock is to be sold to Blanchet & Co., New York, the underwriters, at $85 per share. Officers of the company include Fred Church, San Fernando, Cal., president; Samuel I. Saunders, Los Angeles, vice-president; William D. DeLong, Los Angeles, secretary-treasurer.

Blanchet & Co. yesterday refused to comment on the new company or to make any statement concerning their plans, referring all queries to DeLong.

Fund Elects Officers

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—At the annual meeting of the M. P. Relief Fund last night, Marion Davies was reelected president; Ronald Colman, first vice-president; Mary Pickford, second vice-president; Will H. Hays, third vice-president; Samuel Goldwyn, fourth vice-president; M. C. Levee, treasurer and F. X. Baur, executive secretary.

The new trustees, elected for three years, are Irving Thalberg, Janet Gaynor, Frank Craven, Fredric March and Joe E. Brown. Those trustees reelected for three years are Richard Barthelmess, Miss Davies, Cecil B. DeMille, William Randolph Hearst and Carl Laemmle, Sr.

Plans were also completed for an intensive campaign to raise $200,000 for current relief work.

Ties in Kidnaping With Union Activity

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—W. Lee Vaughan, Kansas City, Kan., exhibitor, believes the kidnaping of Mrs. Laura Ellis is the latest of a series of gestures by sympathizers of the operators' union that has followed his refusal to employ union operators. Mrs. Ellis is a friend of Vaughan, who said he had been harassed by the union the last three years and that, besides himself, threatening letters had been received by his daughter and by Mrs. Ellis.

Kuykendall to Talk

PHILADELPHIA June 27.—Ed Kuykendall is scheduled to speak Thursday before the meeting and luncheon of the M. P. T. O.

In view of the recent formation of the I.E.P.A. in the territory and the contrasting views of the two bodies, the meeting promises significant developments, in the opinion of local exhibitors.

Roumania Goes National

BUCHAREST, June 27.—A domestic picture industry at the expense of American and other producers is planned here by the government, it was learned today. The plan calls for an increase on duties on imported film. About 200 American pictures are shown in Roumania yearly.

Looking 'Em Over

"Black Moon"

(Columbia)

Mildly entertaining is this story of voodooism and how it gets under the skin of Dorothy Burgess to the point where she is ready to sacrifice her daughter to satiate the continuous tom-tom of native drums. However, Jack Holt sacrifices his wife, Miss Burgess, rather than let her kill the baby while under a voodoo spell.

The plot moves slowly, but the last reel has a good deal of suspense and action to make up for some weak points. A number of black girls at times forget they are supposed to act like natives and have a silly grin on their faces. The photography is fine and direction fair. The main drawback is the story itself.

Fay Wray, who visits the tropic island with Holt and his wife, originally starts out as secretary, then becomes guardian and finally a secret lover of Holt's. When the hero kills his wife to save the baby, this clears the way for Holt and Miss Wray.

Cora Sue Collins as the child is capital, Arnold Korff as Dr. Perez, uncle of Miss Burgess, also is very good. Other minor players do nice work, too. Running time, 68 minutes.

"City Park"

(Chesterfield)

Laden with human interest and hokum, "City Park" should prove pleasant entertainment for neighborhood audiences. There are many amusing moments and the acting is adequate.

Sally Blane, a small-town girl in the big city, is down on her luck. A love affair to which her parents by adoption objected has something to do with her leaving home. In the hope of finding food and shelter in jail, she accosts a detective in a park, knowing he will turn her in for soliciting. To her rescue come Henry B. Walthall, an old soldier living with his wealthy son, and two of his friends. Walthall pretends she is his granddaughter out to get material at first hand for an article on sociology.

The three old men take her under their wing and dedicate themselves to her welfare. When Walthall's grandson (Matty Kemp) trails the old fellow to the girl's room he suspects him of having an affair with her. The youth berates the girl, but when he learns the truth he falls in love with her. When the home-town lover shows his face Miss Blane decides to marry him though she really loves Kemp. She is impelled by a strange sense of self-sacrifice that is not exactly convincing. At the crucial moment the old boy friend is revealed as a crook. This clears the way for Kemp.

Other players are Hale Hamilton, Gwen Lee, Lafe McKee and Judith Voselli. Richard Thorpe directed. Running time, 72 minutes.

Bennett Film Delayed

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—Due to Joan Bennett's bronchial trouble, Paramount has postponed production of "The Road to Happiness" until July 2.

Richardson Expects To Quit Para. Post

The increasing pressure of personal affairs was cited by Charles E. Richardson, temporary Paramount Publix trustee, yesterday as making it necessary for him to consider the advisability of declining a permanent appointment to the post on July 10, the date on which the Federal court here is scheduled to name permanent trustees under the new bankruptcy laws.

Richardson denies that he has resigned as temporary trustee, but indicated that he had requested counsel for the Paramount trustees to advise the court at the proper time of his attitude toward a permanent appointment. Indications are that if the court follows Richardson's inclination in the matter a new trustee will be named to replace him on July 10.

So far as could be learned yesterday, Charles D. Hilles and Eugene W. Leake, the other trustees, are not averse to permanent appointments.

Richardson said that the same personal reasons which impelled him to resign as treasurer of Fox in 1932 were still in existence and had been made more urgent by neglect. In the event of his retirement next month he will reside in Philadelphia.

5 Plays Lined Up

Five plays have been lined up by Columbia for next season's program. Bryan Foy Prod. will make "That's Gratitude" by Frank Craven. Others are "Eight Bells," by G. Mandley; "25 an Hour," by Gladys Unger and Leyla Georgi; "Sure Fire," by Ralph Murphy; "Spring 3100," by Argyll Campbell.

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—June Knight left the hospital yesterday for the second time this year. She emerged with chestnut hair instead of the usual toffy top. It will be three weeks, however, before she is permitted to dance in "Wake Up and Dream," B. F. Zeidman musical production starring Russ Colombo for Universal.

Price Tussle Choking K.C. Code Machine

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—The local price war has resulted in numerous complaints piling up on the grievance board charging exhibitors with reduced admission, playing pictures ahead of the spot at a price below contract stipulations and jumping clearance in double billing.

The first complaint by Fox Midwest since the boards went into operation cites a contract violation by reduced admission on the part of H. H. Barrett of the Ritz, which recently cut from 20 to 10 cents. It is charged Barrett played "The Meanest Gal in Town" at 10 cents 21 days ahead of clearance, and on a double bill, which would set the picture back still further. Complaint was filed by Leo J. McCarthy, Fox Midwest district manager.

Pleading for the circuit recently in a reduced admission case involving the Fox Isis, McCarthy contended no clearance schedule existed for this territory since the old schedule has gone by the boards as a result of widespread price slashes and no new plan has as yet been adopted. He also insisted Fox Midwest contracts do not stipulate exhibition price. The grievance board found a clearance and zoning schedule did exist for Kansas City and issued a cease and desist order against the Isis.

Mrs. A. Baier of the Lindbergh, secretary of the I. T. O., who has been given power of attorney to file complaints for the association, said she would file reduced admission complaints against theatres admitting children for five cents at Saturday afternoon children's matinees. She said she was preparing to bring charges this week against Fox Midwest theatres staging special matinees for the Br'er Fox clubs. A complaint she recently filed against the Fox Gladstone on this charge was dismissed because the picture cited was not played.

Dickinson, Outside Code, Would Cancel

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—The Dickinson circuit of 20 houses in Kansas and Missouri has not assented to the code, but is seeking to take advantage of the 10 per cent cancellation privilege. In the list recently made public by Campi of non-assentors taking cancellation rights, the names from the Kansas City territory were all of Dickinson houses.

Since Dickinson has not assented, a complaint filed by one of his managers is not being considered by the grievance board. The complaint, by the Dickinson at Hiawatha, [Kan.], charges the Liberty in nearby Horton advertised in the Hiawatha paper that "Wild Cargo" would not be shown in the latter town. Such advertising was termed unethical in the complaint.

A number of complaints filed with the grievance board have been returned because either the complainants were non-assentors, or the required forms were not used. In the latter instance, the complainants have not taken the trouble to file again.

It is believed the number of assents in this territory would be increased if Campi would extend the privilege.

Passes on Rogers to Stockyards Stopped

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—Passes handed out on a Will Rogers' picture to the stockyards in Parsons, Kans., must stop, the grievance board today informed the Dickinson circuit whose Uptown in that town has been indulging in the practice. C. B. McAleer of the Orpheum, same town, filed the complaint.

The board ruled Dickinson was evading the code by distributing 375 passes to the stockyards for "David Harum," supposedly in exchange for the stockyards meeting the cost of a full page newspaper ad which the board found the Uptown had paid for itself.

The same theatre also was found guilty of running dual bills at 10 cents in violation of its minimum contract clause.

Reuben Finkelstein of the Belmont here was found guilty of showing "Flying Devils" (Radio) at a children's matinee for five cents, thereby violating the minimum price clause in his contract which stipulated low admission must be a dime. T. R. Thompson, Radio manager, denied Finkelstein's contention the exchange had permitted him to drop the admission scale.

Campi Confronted by Busy Session Today

Several important matters will be disposed of today by Campi, despite the fact the tribunal will not hear appeal cases. On the tapis are appointment of committees in Hollywood, naming of the panel body to sit with Code Authority members hearing appeals, the U. A. 10 per cent cancellation issue, which Campi found itself without sufficient data to decide and then turned it over to the legal committee for ruling, new assessments paid and the Los Angeles clearance and zoning plan. Harry Hicks, president-elect of the I.T.O.A. of Southern California, flew in from the coast yesterday to attend today's discussion on the schedule which will be made available for protests.

The NRA in Washington has turned over to Campi distribution of blue eagles which are being sent only to exhibitors and distributors assenting to the code and paying levies.

Not Banned in Ohio

Contrary to a telegraph dispatch from Columbus, O., in Monday's edition of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, "It Ain't No Sin" has not been banned in that state. In a wire to John Ham-mell of Paramount, Dr. B. O. Skinner, director of education in whose province censoring falls, said yesterday:

"Mae West's picture never presented to censor board of Ohio. Anyone who stated he got information from this office that it had been banned misrepresented the fact. Only one reporter inquired and I told him it had not been presented."

End Frisco Regional

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Paramount's two day sales regional has been brought to a close. Fifty delegates from Seattle, Portland, Salt Lake, Los Angeles and San Francisco were given an outline of new product in addresses by Neil F. Agnew, Charles M. Reagan, Myke H. Lewis and Hugh Braly.

Portland Zoning in Snarl; New Plan on

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27.—Zoning proposed out of this exchange is all snarled up. Sixty exhibitors and distributors in this territory held an all-day mass meeting yesterday to fully discuss all angles of the tentative clearance plan prepared by the code board. Both first and subsequent run houses have rejected the proposal.

Robert White, representing Allied and claiming to speak for 31 houses with a $5,000,000 investment, argued his constituents were entitled to more liberal clearance. Manager Gallagher of the Paramount and Gamble of the Broadway, both first runs, declared they had been consulted when the schedule was prepared.

Out of the welter of talk, a committee composed of White, Gamble and Pete Stewart of Warners was named to meet the clearance committee with an idea of drawing up a new plan.

Duals were decried by all factions and discussed at length with no decision reached. Practice of adding vaudeville to a single feature was regarded by some exhibitors as constituting a double bill.

Move On to Clarify L. A. Zoning Scheme

Differences among California exhibitors over the Los Angeles clearance and zoning schedule are now being ironed out at informal meetings at Campi headquarters.

J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, and Harry Hicks, president-elect of the I.T.O.A. of Southern California, yesterday conferred on the new clearance and zoning schedule. The plan is to be aired at the regular Code Authority session today and following this, the schedule will be subject to public protests for 30 days.

Sullivan plans to remain here indefinitely on new season's buys while Hicks leaves Sunday.

Manhattan Zoning Plan Is Up Today

Exhibitors with theatres located between 59th and 110th St. from Central Park West to the Hudson River meet today at the New York clearance and zoning board in an effort to draft a new schedule for this zone.

The meeting was called because the board failed to decide recently in clearance protest by the Edison against Springer & Cocalis.

Next Monday, Long Island theatres will get together and work out a new plan.

Rosenblatt After 4 More Houses in N. J.

Leon Rosenblatt, operating 10 houses in northern New Jersey and Staten Island, is negotiating for four more across the Hudson. He recently took over the lease on the Orpheum, Jersey City, from George Brenon.

Form Theatre Company

ALBANY, June 27.—Buffalo Theatres, Inc., a Delaware company, has been authorized to transact business in this state. Vincent R. McFaul, general manager of the Shea theatres in Buffalo, is president. Three hundred shares of no par value stock are listed.

Duals, Rebates Escape Ban in K.C. Clearance

KANSAS CITY, June 27.—The drastic provisions contained in the initial clearance and zoning schedules for the Kansas City territory which were designed to eliminate or sharply restrict double featuring, premiums, rebates and similar price reducing practices, were eliminated from the new clearance schedule set up by the local zoning board late today. The schedule applies to Greater Kansas City, including Kansas City, Mo.; Kansas City, Kas., and North Kansas City, Mo.

The new plan is more liberal than the initial schedule, which was vigorously protested by the downtown first runs and independent suburbanans when promulgated several weeks ago. It makes no mention of trade practices which the first clearance schedule sought to regulate. Neither does it impose shorter protection for houses using stage shows, as originally proposed.

The board today also completed the Wichita, Kas., and St. Joseph, Mo., clearance schedules. While the new schedules, which go into effect next season, will not be made public until tomorrow, it is learned that the Kansas City plan classifies theatres according to their admission schedules, making first run admissions the basis for clearance. First run protection is graduated according to admissions instead of the generally prevailing 28 days over first suburban run. This is designed as an incentive for increasing first run scales above the prevailing 25 cents, houses which continue that top in the future to have protection reduced to 14 days, it is understood.

The board waited today for Jay Means, I. T. O. president, to submit his expected recommendations based on an anticipated agreement among independent suburbanans establishing a 15-cent minimum admission and restricting double features to one program weekly, but Means failed to appear. Exhibitors controlling eight houses have refused to sign the agreement and are holding out for price or dual concessions on the part of competitive houses.

Darrow Report Ready Now; Hits Film Code

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The third and final report of his board will be submitted to President Roosevelt tomorrow, it was made known this afternoon by Chairman Clarence Darrow.

Although the report, like its predecessors, has been surrounded with secrecy, it is known it will revive the attack upon the film code, apparently in support of recommendations that changes be made in organization and methods of the National Recovery Administration.

Engel on Code Board

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Joe Engel, who has succeeded Mike Landow as manager for Universal, succeeds also to Landow's post on the grievance board.

Opposes Any Protestant Boycotting

ecclesiastical dictation and therefore any attempt at a film boycott by the Protestant churches will be a failure."

His assertion is considered significant because the local Council of Churches this week was to consider the call of the Federal Council of Churches for a nation-wide crusade similar to that of the Catholic Church. Rev. Deer is the local representative of the Federal Council and was chairman of that body's recent social work conference here at which speakers approved the Catholic boycott.

"The plan of boycotting objectionable films has to face two difficulties which have not as yet been solved, namely, who is to judge whether or not a film is to be patronized, and how this judgment shall be made effective," said the minister.

"Protestants are adherents of the principle of the right of private judgment and individual interpretation. They are not accustomed to ecclesiastical domination. For this reason it would be next to impossible to regiment them for a boycott."

"In the last analysis, it seems to me there is only one permanent solution, the lifting of the public taste to a point where there will be vast numbers of individuals who will insist on clean pictures and who will know how to discriminate intelligently. Some good may be achieved by a regimented boycott in those circles where millions are willing to accept mass guidance and control. The very genius of Protestantism, however, is a revolt against such domination."

Enumerating other methods for achieving a higher moral status in pictures, Rev. Deer declared that while censorship "does not seem to be as successful as its advocates had hoped it would be, there is no doubt that an honest, intelligent and aggressive board does accomplish much in eliminating objectionable features from films."

Another plan, he said, is that of co-operation by the public with the producer and exhibitor in securing the kind of films desired by the community, using the admission ticket as a ballot to be cast only for clean pictures.

"That plan has broken down in several respects," he continued. "The industry, through elaborate advertising campaigns, has pushed the kind of pictures which the cooperating individuals and organizations do not wish to patronize. Through the system of block booking, the local manager claims to be unable to make his own selection and therefore is unable to comply with the desires of his local clientele."

Move Was Launched By Catholics Here

committee of Catholic bishops is an independent American effort which was not directed, and has not thus far been recognized, by the Vatican.

While purposes of the campaign are understood to be favorably regarded at Rome, it is nevertheless declared to be a fact that the campaign originated here and that no formal sanction of it has yet been issued by the Vatican.

Yesterday's developments in church campaigns against objectionable pictures include these:

Illinois

CHICAGO, June 27.—"The Movies Are Scared" is the heading over an editorial in The Christian Community, official organ of the Community

Churches of America published here by the Community Church workers of the U. S. A.

"Talking pictures produced in Hollywood are being talked back to by the forces of decency," says the editorial. "The movies have been on a wild ride of indecency both in form, content and advertising. Now comes the Legion of Decency of the Roman Catholic Church and says: 'Clean up or we will boycott your shows.' Each one who joins signs a pledge to stay away from all shows."

"The way of coercion for Catholics is perhaps right and proper. The way of persuasion for others will seem more fair."

"We have visited good pictures recently. The list is a clean and satisfactory one. We may choose rather than boycott. 'Little Women' is a fine picture. So is 'Wild Cargo'. . . . 'Stand Up and Cheer' is relieving. 'David Harum,' while in the grand manner, is Will Rogers at his best. 'Itchy Scratchy' is an animal picture, vivid and entertaining. 'You're Telling Me' is good comedy. 'Carolina' is at least innocuous. And so the list grows."

"We deplore indecency as do all good lovers of 'the greatest educational force in American life,' as some one calls the cinema. Let people of the churches use and choose the better pictures, boycotting only the bad, and they will clean up."

"Communities need to be more vigilant about their own shows, whether pictures or legitimate stage. The right choice is still with individuals. So let the producers beware. America has passed from sophistication to discrimination."

Missouri

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 27.—While other Protestant denominations are calling for a screen cleanup, the 104th general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, meeting here and representing congregations largely in the South, refused to take any stand. A resolution condemning "the degrading moving picture show" and requiring the body to ask other denominations to join in a demand for Federal censorship was stricken from the agenda without discussion.

Massachusetts

BOSTON, June 27.—Campaign of the Knights of Columbus against objectionable film calls for a division of the state into three parts, each in charge of a director. Each council will be assigned one or more parishes. Each parish will appoint committees to work with the council committees and the pastor of each parish will be asked to serve as honorary chairman of the parish committee. Members of the parish committee will distribute to each family in the parish a printed form giving the information to be disseminated.

Nebraska

OMAHA, June 27.—An attempt to achieve some compromise between the local Catholic Standards Committee and distributors and exhibitors of Omaha came to a stalemate at a meeting held in the Catholic diocesan headquarters at the invitation of the Catholic group today.

More than a dozen neighborhood managers complained that the Catholic boycott of films came after first runs had finished and Charles Williams, president of the Nebraska M.P.T.O., made an appeal that the boycott be either made by a national board before the films are released or locally before the pictures play first runs. The committee promised to rush criticisms as far as local films are concerned.

A. Mendenhall, Paramount manager, explained that producers have taken recognition of the necessity of action and assured the committee that a new cycle of clean pictures is on the way.

One committeewoman admitted to Mendenhall that she had not seen a picture for four years and that she was instrumental in banning "Many Happy Returns," playing the Orpheum this week.

Evert Cummings, local manager for the A. H. Blank chain, spoke for the exhibitors. The meeting lasted three hours with no results other than each side explaining their positions.

Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 27.—It appeared likely a new board of censors for Oklahoma City will be formed soon. Pat McGee, district manager for Standard Theatres, said he and Bishop Frances C. Kelly of the Oklahoma City and Tulsa diocese of the Catholic Church have been conferring.

McGee is for full co-operation with the Legion of Decency movement. In a formal letter to the legion, McGee pointed to the efforts of his company along these lines in special Saturday morning matinees for children. In a surprise move, he offered season passes to a legion board of censorship, suggesting that weekly lists of the objectionable and non-objectionable pictures be made public.

Fox Met. Deal Delays Film Selling Here

Shift of Control Might Shuffle First Runs

Pending decision as to who is to get control of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, all product deals are being held up in this territory. A realignment of the Fox Met. houses may change the entire first run situation and distributors cannot sell subsequents until the priority run deals are disposed of.

Some exchanges are selling major circuits all of their product, while

Complications Grow On Cleveland Duals

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Efforts to eliminate duals here are becoming further complicated.

Aside from the plan of Victor Wolcott to open the Temple Friday with duals at 10 cents, three other groups, not in exhibition when Greater Cleveland exhibitors signed the pact providing for singles after July 8, are reported getting set to open double bill houses at the same price scale.

Para.-Capitol Pool Awaits Only Detail

The Capitol-Paramount pool on Broadway is set except for minor details, Austin Keough of Paramount stated yesterday. One of the reasons for holding up the deal is the Mae West picture, "That St. Louis Woman." No date has been reached when the deal goes into effect.

Charles Moskowitz yesterday concurred in this view, stating another reason for holding up the deal is the fact attorneys for both parties are busy with the code and Fox Met. negotiations.

Columbia Three-Day Meet Starts Monday

Columbia Pictures will hold its annual sales convention at the Ritz-Carlton, Atlantic City, starting Monday and terminating Wednesday.

Managers and the sales forces from Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Atlanta, Charlotte, Dallas, Memphis, New Orleans, Oklahoma City and the Canadian offices, will be in attendance.

Jack Cohn will welcome the visitors, after which Abe Montague, general

$25,000 Fines Planned Under Production Code

Pictures Are Pleasing 95% of Public—Warner

ALBUQUERQUE, June 28. — "We are pleasing 95 per cent of the public," declared H. M. Warner here tonight during a pause of the westbound Chief in discussing the nationwide agitation for clean films.

"The present objections are coming from five per cent, which is a small but militant vocal minority," he went on.

"If this minority is sincere and broadminded and wants to cooperate with company heads, the problem can be solved, but if its motives are selfish and ulterior and designed to destroy the theatre because it competes with the church for the public's attention, then the crusade will fail."

The fact that some companies came through the depression without bank-

Hollywood, June 28.—As a safety measure against the current movement for cleaner pictures, Samuel Goldwyn is having two different versions shot of several scenes in "Resurrection."

Para. Holders Outline Fight On Assessment Clearance Not To End Coast Duals, Belief

Whether or not Paramount stockholders will oppose any assessment on their holdings for reorganization purposes will depend upon a report of Coverdale & Colpitts, consulting engineers. The firm has been delving into Paramount affairs for the past two weeks and is expected to submit a report within the next two weeks.

First indication that the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. reorganization plan, which has been in work for several months, contemplated a stock assessment of approximately $2 per share for the pur-

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—Although Campi in New York today voted evenly on the local clearance and zoning schedule, the general opinion here is that duals will not be eliminated.

There is a clause in the clearance plan which provides a penalty of 182 days for theatres doubling. Objections have been raised locally by two distributors and independent exhibitors. In addition to the 182 days' penalty, twin bill houses lose all right to priority of run.

As a result of Campi's action, the Campi Asks More Facts On U. A. Cancellations

Due to lack of sufficient facts, Campi yesterday referred the U. A.-Egyptian, DeKalb, Ill., 10 per cent cancellation issue back to the Chicago grievance board for additional information. A rehearing of the case has been ordered.

Code Authority holds that all the facts in the case have not been presented and hence no decision can be rendered. What Campi particularly wants to know is whether the exhibitor was offered all U. A.'s product. If he did not buy all the films offered, it is held he has no case.

The legal committee is now drafting a report on the U. A. cancellation

Distributors Will Pay Penalty for Taking Films Not O.K'd

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—A fine of $25,000 in cash is to be exacted from any distributor member of the Hays organization releasing any picture that violates the production code or one in which ordered changes, corrections or modifications have not been made after production code administration has so decreed.

On unimpeachable authority, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned today this drastic method has been determined upon to put teeth into production code administration and to demonstrate that the formula newly developed in New York as the organized industry's answer to church demand for cleaner pictures will function in deed as well as in theory.

It is understood the fine puts the responsibility on the distributor and will compel him not only to review pictures before his producing factor makes deliveries, but virtually guarantees that the code will be observed in order to escape the cash penalty. The plan will bind producers additionally in view of the fact that practically all of the major companies are their own producers anyway.

Unger May Be Named As Waite Successor

J. J. Unger, who has temporarily taken over the duties of the late Stanley Waite, will most likely be appointed to Waite's former post. Unger is eastern division manager and is expected to continue present duties under a new appointment.

Unger is now attending Paramount's regional meets and will also be one of the principal speakers with Neil Agnew at the New York session, slated for July 5 and 6 at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Ontario Premier for Federal Censorship

TORONTO, June 28.—Mitchell Hepburn, new Ontario premier, is in favor of abolishing the whole Ontario censor board and the creation of Federal film censorship covering all provinces to cut out the duplication of the eight boards now operating in the Dominion.

It would also reduce expenses, he contends. The trade is interested because it might make possible the elimination of two or three exchanges.

Bareford, Leserman And Einfeld Return

Harold S. Bareford, Carl Leserman and S. Charles Einfeld returned to New York yesterday from the coast, where they spent several days following the company's final sales meet in San Francisco. Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone executive in charge of shorts and trailers, left Hollywood with them, but stopped off in Chicago for a brief business stay and is expected in New York Monday.

Major Albert Warner and Gradwell Sears remain at the studios for a while.

Futter Here on Deals

Walter Futter is in town from the coast negotiating with three major companies on distribution for a series he plans next season. Futter will remain here two weeks and will then decide whether to return to the coast or sail for England.

He has not determined whether he will produce abroad or on the coast.

Samuelson in West

GENEVA, Wis., June 28.—Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied, has arrived here from Buffalo to confer with unit leaders in connection with expansion plans. He will remain here for several days returning east early next week.

Dixon in from London

P. McNeil ("Pat") Dixon, who handles theatre advertising and publicity for Gaumont British, arrived in New York yesterday from London. The trip is essentially a holiday.

Insiders' Outlook

IT all ended in a blank. Efforts to check at this end the significant yarn which developed at the other end of the business, meaning Hollywood, got nowhere yesterday. There was speculation, all of it natural enough, following the decision to sharpen the teeth of production code administration by transferring the right of appeal from Hollywood to New York. The speculation began and ended in one sentence: How will the majors make their own decision work? . . .

The answer developed yesterday. They propose a fine of $25,000 per violation and the distributor will be the goat if he's shortsighted enough to have himself manoeuvred into that position. Why the distributor? He sells them, doesn't make the product. Why not the producer? While the proposed plan would sock the distributor in reality it allows no escape for the producer. It does place the policing job on the former, it is true. But since he is the factor who makes available to the consumer the product over which the consumer, in very large numbers, has been complaining, the job will go where it belongs. . . .

It will be up to the distributor to see that each picture is code-approved. If it is not, he will refuse to handle it, for if he does, he parts with 25,000 iron men in cash money, not promissory notes. Obviously, the distributor will see to it full well that the producing end of his enterprise conforms. Paramount, Fox, Universal, Metro, Columbia, Radio and Warners make their own pictures anyway and any patrolling, therefore, will be easy.

United Artists, as a selling organization, has contracts with producing companies and, by merely insisting that the code must be observed to the letter, rounds out the to-be-applied method where the distributor per se has nothing to do with the making of the pictures he handles. Outside product acquired by any or all of the above fit into the same division as U. A. . . .

One of the weaknesses of the Studio Relations Committee, or forerunner of the production code administration, has been that it had no enforcement powers. When Joe Breen, who becomes a much more potent factor now than he has been—and this is anything but a slight to the power he has been wielding until now—today serves notice that a particular attraction violates the code, he cannot go beyond informing the producing studio that the picture is minus his endorsement. Now that disputes are to be adjudicated by the Hays directors in New York, the decision will be handed down in atmosphere less susceptible to favoritism and one-sided judgment. . . .

Now that violators are to be punished by the fine system, considerably more judgment will enter any final decision to tell the code to go places. In other words, the setup turns the code into a powerful and effective brake on producers who have been difficult to keep in line. It serves notice on them that "bad boy" tactics won't go any longer and that this job of housecleaning is a serious, earnest endeavor to transform promise into action. . . .

In the event of violations, the cash thus gathered will not be turned over to the treasury of the Hays organization, but be set aside in a special production code administration fund to strengthen the formula and augment its activities and functions.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY's informant here also suggested that the fund which may grow out of code infringements might be used for hiring code scenario editors who would write suggested scenes in any scripts for those under fire. Where recalcitrant producers might assume the stand specific and objectionable scenes could not be rewritten, production code administration, under this plan, then would turn to its own scenarists to demonstrate how it can be done.

Diligent efforts to line up comment or reaction from ranking studio executives failed to get very far today. Over the telephone, B. B. Kahane of Radio stated this was the first he had heard of any such plan and naturally could not make comment. Jack L. Warner stated he knew nothing of any such proposal. Emanuel Cohen of Paramount and Winfield Sheehan at Fox would neither confirm nor deny, declaring they had no official notification of the existence of such a plan.

Louis B. Mayer said he had never heard of the idea and added it sounded illogical. Samuel Goldwyn was another who professed to be in the dark.

Harry Cohn, president of Columbia Pictures, today said, "If they have decided on that it's a damned good idea."

U. S. Judge Nields Criticizes Pictures

WILMINGTON, June 28.—Films produced here and exhibited in foreign countries which give a false and distorted idea of the manner in which the people of the United States live and of their standard of morals were severely criticized by Federal Judge John P. Nields of Wilmington before a naturalization class in the U. S. District Court room here.

"Eighty per cent of the films shown in foreign nations," Judge Nields said, "come from America and give a false and highly distorted picture of life and morals in the United States." He said more than 10 years ago the spokesman of the producers of this country had promised that "the films that shall go from this country abroad shall present to the world in proper manner the purposes, the ideals and the life of America."

"This promise," he asserted, "has not been kept and the American film board is a serious problem with which foreign born citizens should be concerned."

Iowa, Nebraska ITO Endorses Film Drive

OMAHA, June 28.—Approval of the Catholic drive for clean films has been voted by the I. T. O. of Nebraska and western Iowa, meeting here. Block booking was condemned at the same time.

ruptcy or receivership and showing a profit is proof they must have satisfied public entertainment tastes and demand, he said.

The industry plant is geared to produce any sort of entertainment called for, he continued.

"If the public wants clean entertainment, we can turn it out, but we can't do it at a loss. During last season Warners turned out two absolutely clean pictures, but they failed throughout the country, and it is doubtful if we will even get the negative cost out of 'As the Earth Turns.'"

"Conceptions of morality, what is clean and unclean, are mental and we can't make pictures to suit everybody's taste. Regardless of any measures we take to satisfy reformers, we will still be censured by some elements. The industry's sole reason for existence is to make entertainment, which has been recognized to be as essential to present day life as food.

"Moral standards are much higher than several years ago."

Answering the criticism that the screen influences child behaviour, Warner said:

"We don't produce pictures exclusively for children, but I don't know of any Warner picture I wouldn't want my own children to see. However, we have recognized the child angle by having special Saturday matinees."

Warner indicated that literature, even the Bible, contains many references to sex, but it is not subject to wholesale condemnation for this reason.

Kansas City Bishop Enters Film Drive

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, head of the Kansas City diocese, today joined the clean film drive by issuing a pastoral letter to be read in Catholic churches next Sunday.

The diocese includes 80,000 Catholics in Kansas City and 24 western Missouri counties.

Calling for League of Decency pledges, Lillis said the move had been ordered by the hierarchy of America. He accused the industry heads of bad faith in that they had violated pledges to produce only clean pictures. He also declared that Catholics will continue the boycott until proof is furnished decency has been restored.

New developments in the campaign against objectionable films follow:

Illinois

CHICAGO, June 28.—Approximately 2,600,000 Catholic children in parochial, grammar and high schools will be enrolled in the League of Decency campaign on advice of Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati. The archbishop is chairman of the Catholic Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures which conferred with industry representatives in Cincinnati last Wednesday and Thursday and was informed of plans to strengthen the production code administration.

In a statement, Archbishop McNicholas declared:

"We are assured by the production industry that this week part of the code has been abrogated, that the appeal jury has been transferred to New York, a jury of the presidents of the producing companies," he said. "There is promise in this, but at the same time the church must be vigilant. You must be vigilant. If the jury does its work in New York as badly as it did in Hollywood, there is nothing to do but continue aggressive action."

There will be no compromise with the industry in the League of Decency fight against unclean films, according to Rev. George F. Dinneen, rector of St. Ignatius church, now a member of the national committee of priests leading the movement.

Father Dinneen, for many years, has been active in motion picture work and has frequently appeared in connection with differences within the local industry over problems of censorship. He has also been active in directing the film programs at Loyola University Theatre.

Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—Mississippi's Catholic women, acting through the board of the Natchez Diocesan Council, have lined up squarely behind the recently inaugurated campaign against objectionable pictures. The Right Reverend R. O. Gerow, Bishop of Natchez, and a prime mover in the drive in this state, attended the semi-annual meeting of the board here and drew satisfaction from the wholehearted assurances of co-operation given him by the women's council. Frances Donovan, of Vicksburg, secured the signature of every member of the board of resolutions endorsing the drive for cleaner films.

New York

A resolution indorsing the protests of various church groups against indecent pictures, introduced by Rev. Geo. A. Crapullo, pastor of Irving Sq. Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, has been unanimously passed by the Presbytery of Brooklyn-Nassau. The resolution also condemned block booking.

Tennessee

NASHVILLE, June 28.—Southern Baptist ministers, 12,000 strong, have been requested by their denominational leader to join actively in the movement against films and "picture places which are destructive of home and religious ideals."

British Columbia

VICTORIA, June 28.—Members of the Catholic Women's League, meeting here, have been urged to remain away from sex and gangster films. A Canada-wide movement, non-sectarian in nature, is being considered to further the move against objectionable films.

Clean 'Bordertown' Story

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—Warners are making every effort to clean up the "Bordertown" script. The story deals with Mexican border towns and is slated for Paul Muni.

Segall Named New Head of Penn. MPTO

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—Following the resignation of all officers of the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware an entirely new slate was chosen with Charles Segall as president.

Others named were: First vice-president, Harold D. Cohen; second vice-president, Michael Egnal; treasurer, Mike Lefty; financial secretary, Marcus Benn; secretary, George P. Aarons; board of managers, which was increased to 12, Ed Jeffries, Benn, Morris Gerson, Luke Gring, Leonard Schlessinger, Abe Sablosky, Morris Spiers, Lou Felt, Joseph Conway, I. Hoffman, Morris Handle and Fred Leopold.

Lewen Pizor was made an honorary member of the board with a right to vote. The members also voted to remain with the national body and to retain the present name.

Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. head, reviewed the code situation and defended the M. P. T. O. A. He insisted it was necessary to give the code a fair chance. He declared there was great danger from outside the industry and cited proposed film legislation in a number of states.

M. E. Comerford called on the meeting to pass a resolution asking producers to clean up films and to watch advertising. He expressed the opinion that churches would be fair to films, if they were cleaned up, and said he believed about 80 per cent of the present complaints were justified.

At a luncheon which followed the meeting George Dembow of National Screen Service brought up the subject of distribution of trailers by M-G-M, and said he had copies of protests from 750 circuits and individual exhibitors representing 4,000 theatres. He said distributor participation in trailer selling would soon raise another score charge problem. A resolution was passed asking M-G-M, in view of economic conditions, not to lay an added expense on exhibitors by launching its own trailer service.

The meeting closed with a testimonial to Lewen Pizor by Segall, the new president.

Council Lining Up Program for N. E. A.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Meeting at the call of Mrs. August Belmont, president, and former Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, a group of members of the M. P. Research Council today opened a conference at which will be developed a definite program with respect to the religious movement for clean films.

The meetings are being presided over by Dr. Charters of the School of Education of the University of Ohio. Results attained will be laid before the convention of the National Education Ass'n. to be held here next week.

Officials of the council explained that the conference was called to devise a program which will meet the "emergency situation" brought about by "public opinion."

others are contracting for only half to one circuit and the balance to another.

Recently Randforce and Skouras tried to enter negotiations for new product and were told by distributors nothing could be done until the court decides who will get the circuit of 87 houses.

If Warners and Loew's get the houses, RKO may find some of the distributors' product now playing its theatres switching to Loew's and Warners. RKO, in rebuttal, is lining up a number of independent houses on booking and operating deals.

No new developments took place yesterday between bondholders of Fox Met. and attorneys for Loew's and Warners. No meeting was held but it is likely an agreement will be reached prior to the court hearing before Judge Julian Mack next Tuesday.

Tower Publications Gives Medals on Best Film Work

Tower Publications yesterday presented gold medals to the producers, directors and players whose motion picture contributions during the past year were acclaimed by the Peoples' Academy to be the most meritorious.

Universal's "Only Yesterday" was acclaimed the best romance; Warners' "Kennel Murder Case," the best mystery; Radio's "Little Women," the best human interest story, and M-G-M's "Dinner at Eight," the best feature of 1933.

Paramount's "Duck Soup" took top honors for being the best comedy while Warners' "42nd Street" got a gold medal as the best musical. Walt Disney and United Artists won the award for the best short subject with "Three Little Pigs," and Paramount took a second medal for the best newsreel.

To Frank Capra went the award for the best direction, on the merits of Columbia's "Bitter Tea of General Yen." Katharine Hepburn and Fredric March were each awarded a medal as the best performers of the year.

The presentations were made by ex-Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, who is now director of the United States Mint. Louis Nizer of the New York Film Board of Trade was the toastmaster, and addresses were made by Miss Catherine McNelis, president of the Tower Publications, by Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of M-G-M; Arthur De Bra, representing Will H. Hays, and Mrs. Constance Spurborg, head of the east coast previewing group of women's associations, and an executive of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The presentations were made at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor, attended by Robert F. The keynote of the speeches was the significance of the type of product selected by the public to the so-called "clean pictures" movement, the votes reflecting the preference for this type of feature, it was said.

No More Charges in New Darrow Report

WASHINGTON, June 28.—No additional charges are made against the code in the third and final report of the Darrow Board, shortly to be submitted to President Roosevelt, it was learned upon good authority today.

While the code is discussed to considerable extent in the report, it was said, no new complaints are lodged and it represents merely a restatement and expansion of the original criticisms, accompanied by a vigorous condemnation of the National Recovery Administration for its failure to make the changes recommended.

Since presentation of the original report, it was revealed, a number of additional complaints and criticisms have been received, but most of these were found to apply to matters studied by the board during its investigation.

Fox and Warners to Avoid Studio Rushes

The five will be divided between the Western Ave. plant and Westwood.

Warners are inaugurating the same policy for the same reasons. In Warners' case, as with Fox, production will be divided between their Burbank and Sunset Ave. studios.

Para. Holders Outline Fight On Assessment

pose of raising $5,000,000 for partial retirement of bank loans was contained in MOTION PICTURE DAILY last Monday.

Stockholders, basing their knowledge thus far on trustees' reports, take the stand that the company is not insolvent and that an assessment is not necessary. A spokesman for the protective committee points out that the $25,000,000 in debentures, the $30,000,000 in subsidiaries' debts and the $13,000,000 in bank loans can be carried for about $4,000,000 a year, and it is estimated that the producing and theatre companies will have an income this year of $8,000,000 or $9,000,000.

Under the new bankruptcy law, it was pointed out, the court has wide discretion in deciding reorganizations. If the court decides a company is insolvent, two-thirds of the creditors and security holders can decide a reorganization plan; if it decides a company is not insolvent, consent of a majority of the stockholders is needed.

Admonished

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—This is a follow-up on the story of the two producers who got into an altercation in the locker room of a swank golf club, exchanged words, shook fists, and chased each other around the locker alleys nude as two babies.

The sequel occurred when first producer attended the preview of a film in which his opponent was interested.

After the showing, the first producer inadvertently ran into his adversary face to face in the lobby and remembering the admonitions of his wife, sputtered:

"It's a fine picture—God forbid."

'Marker' Ban Throws Bombshell in Omaha

OMAHA, June 28.—Exhibitors here, as well as the Paramount exchange, were rocked and shocked today when the Catholic Standards Committee banned "Little Miss Marker," slated to open at the Orpheum Friday. The Catholic Standards Committee, however, stated it is not always in agreement with the Federation and could not accept its recommendation in this instance.

Loew Willing To Join K.C. Price Boosts

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—Considered the stumbling block toward working out reasonable price schedules in Kansas City, Loew's is now willing to join Publix, RKO and Fox in raising first run tariffs from 25 cents to a minimum of 40 cents at night, provided the independent suburban agree to hike their scales. The Tower, independent downtown first run, plans to increase its price from 25 cents to 35 cents if the city wide agreement goes through.

Double bills, now the policy at two downtown first runs and virtually all suburban, will be banned under the agreement, which calls for maintenance of normal admission scales, with a suburban minimum of 15 cents.

The proposed agreement provides that each house have a set price. For instance, instead of theatres with an admission stipulated in film contracts as 20 cents cutting to 15 cents and double billing at least two nights a week at 10 cents, the price would be maintained at 20 cents, without double bills. At several Fox Midwest houses, the normal price is 25 cents, but they cut to 15 cents much of the time.

Suburbans charging 25 cents have been forced to slash and dual feature in self-defense. The price war which has gripped local houses about two years has intensified competition between three price and policy classifications: First runs, which have slashed to 25 cents; suburbans, which cut to as low as 10 cents, and suburbans, which have sought to maintain their scales near normal and as high as 25 cents.

Suburbans charging 25 cents are practically all Fox Midwest. Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager, is now one of the prime movers in the renewed attempt to establish normal scales.

Rhoden, representing first runs on the local clearance and zoning board, sought to arrive at a solution through a new clearance schedule. But because it was protested as too drastic and discriminatory by a number of independents, who also questioned the board's authority to restrict duals and premiums, Rhoden took the initiative in the current move for some voluntary agreement.

Theatre Men Converge on Campi Office

Campi is becoming a veritable camping ground for exhibitors Fridays when appeal cases are heard. Theatre owners throughout the country converge to thresh out complaints and arguments.

Within the last few weeks important exhibitors visiting Campi either as spectators or as litigants were: Martin Mullin, Sam Pinanski and H. Le Baron, the latter two receivers for the Mullin & Pinanski circuit in New England; Charles Waldon of the Tivoli and John A. Cunningham of the State, Miami; Louis Turnick of the Brooklyn and Walter Pacey of the Pacey's Garden, Baltimore; M. Lichtman of the Booker T. and Regal, Norfolk, Va.; Ben Amsterdam, Stanley, Bridgeton, N. J.; Lester F. Martin, Nevada, Ia.; Aaron Saperstein, Chicago; Edward T. Bloomberg, Strand, Gloucester, Mass.; Tom Saxe, of Saxe Amusement Management Co., Inc., Milwaukee; Frank Durkee and J. Louise Rome, Baltimore; H. F. Kinney and Robert Wilby, Atlanta; Herbert Zimmerman, De Luxe, Baltimore; Joseph Levenson, Brookline, Mass., and Milton Frels, Texas.

Attorneys from all parts of the country also have been before the board. Among these are Charles Buckley, representing Fox West Coast in Los Angeles; Sam Boyd, for Lichtman theatres, Washington; Fred Kent and Sidney Meyer for Sparks and Wometco circuits, Fla.

Script Books Banned By Minnesota Board

MINNEAPOLIS, June 28.—S. F. Heath, operator of the State at Wells, Minn., has been ordered to discontinue issuance of script books or coupons beginning July 1, following hearing of a complaint before the local grievance board. The complainant was F. E. Rolloff, operator of the Pastime at Mapleton.

The board's ruling held that Heath's practice tended to lower admissions and was unfair competition at Mapleton, Easton, Waldorf, Delavan and Minnesota Lake.

Capital Cases to Campi

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Three clearance cases involving Warners were ordered submitted to Campi for decision by the local zoning board today. The first was that of Lloyd J. Wineland, operator of the Fairlawn, Anacostia, D. C., vs. the Avenue Grand. The second was J. H. Hoser, State Theatre, Bethesda, Md., vs. the Avalon, the same town. The third was U. P. Hollingsworth of the Capitol, Capitol Heights, Washington, vs. the Avenue Grand.

Dismiss Ad Complaint

ALBANY, June 28.—The grievance board has dismissed a complaint by C. Dayton La Pointe, operator of the Crandell at Chatham, against the Hen-Wil-Hen Corp., operators of the Playhouse, Park and Rialto at Hudson. La Points contended that the Hen-Wil-Hen advertising in Chatham was an unfair trade practice.

Clearance Hits Denver, Milwaukee Dual Billing

MILWAUKEE, June 28.—The proposed clearance schedule for Milwaukee county presented to between 50 and 60 exhibitors and distributors divides the county into nine zones. In all instances, any theatre in the downtown zone charging less than 25-cent matinee and 35-cent evening admission receive pictures in accordance with the subsequent run schedule.

First runs charging 55 cents top are given 45 days over subsequent runs charging 35 cents, 52 days over those charging 30 cents; 59 over 25 cents; 73 days, 20 cents; 129 days, 15 cents, and 365 days, 10 cents. The same first run house showing pictures with stage shows is given 35, 45, 52, 66, 122 and 300 days over subsequent run prices as classified above.

Any theatre showing duals at 35 cents evenings, will get film on the basis of one-half of the regular evening admission and a subsequent run single feature theatre shall have pictures made available to it in its admission price classification.

Playing of duals in subsequent run houses on any day of the week, or the giving of rebates, such as premiums in the form of gifts, classifies such a house as a double feature spot with pictures made available 195 days after the first run to subsequent charging 35 cents; 202 days to those charging 30 cents; 209 days for 25-cent admissions; 223 days for 20 cents; 279 days for 15 cents and 515 days for 10 cents.

Any subsequent run with stage acts a part of the performance on any day of the week is classified with those using acts the entire week and its classification is in the next admission bracket below the lowest evening admission charged on any day of the week.

Asks K. C. Board to Rule Upon NRA Ads

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—The local grievance board has been called upon to decide whether an exhibitor has the right to advertise his operations are "100 per cent NRA" if he has not assented to the code. The complainant is C. B. McAleer, Orpheum, Parsons, Kan., against the Uptown, a Dickinson house.

McAleer's complaint is on cut-rate admissions, and the NRA advertising feature is brought in incidentally. The charge is the Dickinson theatre runs double bills at 10 cents two days a week, an alleged contract violation. McAleer charges the Dickinson house advertises it gets the crowds because its price is low and the ads also state it has subscribed to the NRA.

"I want to know if they have the right to say that, inasmuch as they haven't signed the code and I have," McAleer requests of the board.

Cincy Grand to Close

CINCINNATI, June 28.—The RKO Grand, vaudefilm, goes dark at the end of this week, with indications of reopening with a similar policy in September. Shuttering of this house leaves the town without vaudeville. The RKO Capitol, straight films, has closed for the summer.

DENVER, June 28.—Double feature houses are penalized, exchanges are granted the right to sell previous runs to theatres in the same price class, and houses having low matinee or low balcony admission prices after 1 P.M. are given less protection than if their entire house sold at the top main floor price via zoning proposed here.

In establishing a basis for protection the board decided that where the matinee and balcony admission price after 1 P.M. was less than 70 per cent of the highest main floor admission price, then the protection for that house would be based on 70 per cent of the lowest main floor admission price. Under this rule three first runs lose in their rating. The Aladdin falls into the 35-cent class, as do the Denham and Paramount. Protests are looked for.

The board inserted a rule that "any theatre, regardless of classification, using double features on the same program, will lose one-half of its admission price classification." Many exhibitors charge the board exceeded its authority in penalizing double bills.

The clearance schedule was drawn up as the result of numerous protests over the setup that has been used in the past. There has been no set protection, each theatre getting what it could from exchanges.

The board recognized the demand of exchanges that they be permitted to sell prior runs in any price classification in any part of the city. The board placed the limit of protection on this class of runs at 14 days.

First runs have been enjoying an average protection of 45 days on most films, and more on some. Under the new setup, effective with the 1934-35 films, the protection for a 50-cent (without tax) house will be 49 days over 30-cent houses, the top subsequent price in Denver; 45-cent houses will have 42 days; 40-cent houses, 35 days, and 35-cent houses, 28 days.

The Denver and Orpheum are the only first run houses retaining the full benefit of their top price, 45 cents, in the protection. Their matinee prices are 35 cents from 1 o'clock to 6 o'clock, and 45 cents, tax added, at night, all over the house.

The following protection is granted for Denver: (First figures are days protection and second are admission prices): 45-cent houses get 42 days protection over 30-cent houses; 56-25; 98-20; 133-15; 175-10. Thirty-five-cent houses get 28 days clearance over 30-cent houses; 42-25; 84-20; 119-15, 161-10.

The Gothic at Englewood, a Denver suburb, and the Grand at Littleton, Col., 10 miles out, are included in the Denver zoning area.

Postpone Oklahoma Cases

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 28.—Four cases scheduled for the first meeting of the grievance board were postponed by request.

Overbuying charges have been filed by A. B. Momand of the Momand Theatres against the R. and R. Theatre Enterprises in Muskogee and the Griffith Amusement Co., Shawnee. Momand is also filing against A. M. Abbott, owner of the Kihekah of Pawhuska on the "bank night" count.

Albany Board Holding Off On Zone Case

ALBANY, June 28.—The clearance and zoning board has reserved decision on the clearance complaint of Frederick W. Mausert, operator of the State, Glens Falls, and the indirect complaint of theatre operators in Hudson Falls, Lake George, Fort Edward, Bolton Landing, Granville, Schuylerville, Warrensburgh, Whitehall, Chestertown and Luzerne, against the Schine Theatrical Co., Inc., of Gloversville, operators of the Empire and Rialto, Glens Falls, and the Paramount, Glens Falls, operated by George E. Brown, for Upper New York Theatres Corp.

The indirect complainants were brought into the action as the result of the desire of the board to zone this territory.

N. O. Adopts Final Form of New Zoning

NEW ORLEANS, June 28.—The final zoning plan for the city has been adopted by the clearance and zoning board. It follows:

Zone 1, Saenger, Loew's, Orpheum, St. Charles, Liberty, Tudor; zone 2, Wonderland, Newcomb, Globe; zone 3, Lafayette, Lyceum, Coliseum, Isis; 4, Laurel, Napoleon; 5, Laurel, Garden; 6, Fine Arts; 7, Washington, Garden, Happy Hour; 8, Coliseum, Happy Hour, Isis, Granada; 9, Granada, Lincoln; 10, Tivoli, Lincoln; 11, Poplar, Ashton, Roxy; 12, Poplar, Mecca; 13, Metairie; 14, Gem, Westwego, La., Jefferson, Marrero, La.; 15, Hollywood, Greta, La., Folly, Algiers, La.; 16, Victory, Harvey, La., Hollywood, Greta, La.; 17, St. Maurice, Fiorito's Dream; 18, New Bijou, Fiorito's Dream; 19, Piety, New Bijou, Avenue; 20, Dreamland, Famous, Avenue; 21, Dreamland, Gaiety, Casino; 22, Capital, Plaza, Casino, Arcade; 23, Arcade, Rivoli, Bell, Imperial; 24, Gentilly, Peacock; 25, Carrollton, Cortez, Escorial; 26, Escorial, Queen; 27, Prytania, National.

Cincy and Columbus Zones Up to Campi

CINCINNATI, June 28.—The local clearance and zoning board has zoned the Greater Cincinnati and Columbus territories, subject to approval of Campi.

Remaining territories will be zoned at a meeting to be held soon.

See Minnesota Appeal

MINNEAPOLIS, June 28.—Appeal is expected to be taken from the first decision of the Minneapolis grievance board which has just stepped hard on merchandise tickets in the vicinity of Wells, Minn.

S. F. Heath, Wells exhibitor, has been ordered to stop passing out tickets good at reduced prices. H. J. Rolloff of Mapleton filed the complaint. The order becomes effective July 1.

Canton Scale Is Cut

CANTON, June 28.—First deviation from the 35-cent uniform admission adopted several months ago by Loew's, Warners, Alhambra and the Palace, has been made by the Palace, which has put into effect for the summer a dual first run policy at 25 cents top, plus tax, 15 cents for balcony and 15 cents for matinee, plus tax, with children's scale remaining at a dime.

Clearance Not To End Coast Duals, Belief

schedule today starts a 30-day test for protests against it.

Columbia and Universal are understood ready to initiate court action to stop the plan from being put into effect, if approved by exhibitors and Campi.

J. J. Sullivan, film buyer for Fox West Coast, now in the east, is believed to be negotiating new deals to include double feature privileges. Charles Skouras is said to have ordered him to buy with the dual understanding.

Harry H. Hicks, president-elect of the I. T. O. A. of Southern California, is in New York holding daily sessions with Campi affiliates. He is understood to be in favor of the clearance and zoning plan with the dual proviso. He will return here early next week.

Other provisions of the clearance and zoning draft have runs scaled according to admissions. Under the plan no first run house charging 15 cents top will be permitted to play ahead of a 25-cent theatre.

For houses charging 25 cents, availability follows 49 days after the first run. Ten-cent houses will have to play 182 days after first runs. Houses charging 20 cents will play 72 days after first runs.

One or two independents are understood dissatisfied with the way the zoning schedule is set up and are expected to be among the first to protest.

Campi yesterday denied it had disapproved the Los Angeles clearance and zoning plan, stating the reason it asked for a copy of the schedule was to see what was in it before it was published.

Code Authority holds the plan, except for two minor details, is a great piece of work. Coast exhibitors can now go ahead on protest hearings. One will be held Monday by the I. T. O. A. of Southern California.

Harry H. Hicks, who flew in from the coast to confer on the schedule, flies back tomorrow to discuss possible changes with his unit. It is most likely several will be made following the protest hearings.

H. M. Hicks Undecided Over ITOA Presidency

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—Whether or not Harry H. Hicks, president-elect of the I. T. O. A., intends to relieve Ben Bernstein, incumbent, is problematical.

Hicks is understood not willing to take the job and so expressed himself to organization members when offered it. He is now active in the association's work, being in New York on the clearance and zoning plan for the local territory.

Rule on Wisconsin Labor

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—Under the terms of a Supreme Court decision just handed down here it has been established that employers cannot interfere with their employees who wish to join unions other than company unions. The decision was handed down under the state labor act

Chicago Case Seeks Forcing Of Dual Sales

CHICAGO, June 28.—An unusual case filed before the local grievance board is that of George Gehring of the Rosewood, seeking to force major distributors to sell him on a double feature policy and asking the local board to render a decision as to whether collusion has been practiced by the distributors in regard to local restriction of twin bills.

Since all major distributors are made defendants to the complaint this would involve them sitting in judgment on an action directed against themselves. The impossibility of the local board hearing such a complaint was readily apparent. After some debate the board decided it could neither dismiss nor certify the complaint, and it was decided the only solution was to transmit it through the local secretary direct to Code Authority without any kind of action.

New Clearance Takes Place of Franchises

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—New clearance schedules to be set up in this territory will supersede protection terms written into franchise agreements, the local clearance and zoning board has concluded. The question was raised informally by one of the circuits with respect to whether franchise agreements would be binding with the distributors regardless of the clearance setup.

The board's opinion was that new schedules would take precedence over this year's franchise. However, to obtain further clarification, the question was passed on to Campi. John C. Flinn, Campi secretary, sent word back that Campi prefers to wait until the question comes up on appeal from a formal ruling by the local board on a complaint.

Only a few franchises are held in this territory, according to distributors.

issue and will determine whether U. A. films come under the 10 per cent clause or not. It is stated that questions arising on the U. A. matter will have to come before compliance committees of local grievance boards. Campi will decide whether refusals to grant cancellations are violations of the code.

Six opinions were handed down yesterday and 11 decisions were made.

No appointments were made by Campi to the writers' and actors' committee on the coast, recommendations from the Hollywood bureau not having been received as yet. Additional help for working out reclassification of 20,000 extras was approved.

A list of distributor representatives to sit on appeal hearing committees was approved. The first meeting of the first committee gets under way

Campi Boards Have Held 290 Sessions

Indicating that local clearance and zoning and grievance boards have been working at top speed, a recapitulation of cases filed, heard and disposed of has been made by Campi as of June 15.

The 31 clearance and zoning boards throughout the country have held a total of 146 meets, 460 protests have been filed, 310 decided, 37 appealed and 150 remain to be heard.

Grievance boards have held 144 sessions during which 289 complaints were heard and disposed of and 57 appealed. There remain 63 cases to be heard and 16 complaints have been certified for determination by Campi.

Campi itself has a total of 94 appeals and 16 have been certified directly to Code Authority for determination by local boards and of the 39 appeals heard, 19 have been passed.

Chicago's Ad Cases Settled in a Bunch

CHICAGO, June 28.—Cases of premature advertising loaded the grievance board docket this week. B. & K. had filed complaints against a dozen exhibitors on this charge. In addition, there were a number of independent cases.

The cases were cleared in a hurry after provisions of the code were read by Chairman Felix Mendelsohn with all the defendants pleading guilty.

Max Baer will be the guest of the M. P. Club today and will give a demonstration of sparring with Louis Nizer, who will be the toastmaster. Benny Rubin and Jimmy McHugh will also be on hand to entertain.

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—Kay Kamen, Inc., of New York, which controls the merchandising rights to the Walt Disney characters, will open an office in Toronto July 1 for contacts with Canadian manufacturers and advertisers, according to Williston P. Munger of Kansas City, who will be in charge.

Jersey Code Case Is Lost By Willentz

David T. Willentz, attorney general for New Jersey and representing Allied of New Jersey on code matters, yesterday lost his first case before the New York clearance and zoning board.

Willentz represented the Ellwood, Newark, which protested the 14 days' clearance Warners' Regent, Newark, and Capitol, Belleville, have over the independent house. Willentz argued the three houses are non-competitive and each should have equal availability. The board held the houses are in competition with each other and the 14-day protection period stands.

During the hearing the New Jersey attorney general objected to attempts on the part of Warners to shunt the case to the grievance board. Willentz had a brief prepared on the subject, but withdrew it after Louis Nizer, who substituted for I. Levinson, of Warners, stated he wanted the clearance and zoning board to decide and none other.

At another point Willentz said: "I don't know of any other industry which needs a code of fair competition more than this one." He stated that the attempts to shift the complaint to the grievance board may be because "this is a leaky boat." "This is an effort to strangle the little fellow," he said, referring to his protest.

Referring to Nizer's previous testimony, Willentz stated that "if clearance is bought, then we don't need code boards or courts."

After Nizer had brought out the fact that it would cost distributors $750,000 annually for extra prints to serve all theatres on open availability, Willentz retorted:

"It isn't going to cost $750,000 to give us a square deal.

"We're not going to be laughed out of this," he added, referring to the smile on Nizer's face, "not here or any other place."

The Manhattan zoning schedule was discussed. No action was taken, since the board decided to study the plan and meet again on it in two weeks. Harry Shiffman presided.

Cincy Board Passes U. A. Case to Campi

CINCINNATI, June 28.—The grievance board has passed on to Campi a demand by Frank W. Huss, Jr., operator of the Park here and the Highland, Newport, Ky., for 10 per cent cancellation privileges on United Artists product.

Contemplated 10-cent admissions are not a contract violation, the board ruled. Lou Holleb, New Theatre, Columbus, notified Paramount he intended to cut his scale to a dime and Paramount refused to furnish film on the ground it would be a violation of the 15-cent minimum specified in the contract. The board ruled there was no violation until Holleb had actually charged a dime.

On complaint of Daco Theatres Corp., operating the Strand, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Semelroth, operating the Salem, were ordered to discontinue premature advertising.

Duals Set Back Sharply In Arranging Zones

Expect More Delay on Fox Met. Transfer

Slight Progress Is Made With Negotiations

Slight progress made yesterday at a meeting between representatives of Loew's and Warners with a sub-committee of the Fox Metropolitan bondholders' committee indicated that another postponement of the Federal Court hearing on the $4,000,000 Loew-Warner offer for the circuit may be sought next week.

Spokesmen for the bidders reported yesterday that the situation remained unchanged and that negotiations with the sub-committee would be continued on Monday. Indications are that a final decision on the offer may be reached by the bondholders' committee some time next week, but whether it will be before the Federal Court hearing scheduled for Tuesday appears doubtful.

Split Is Seen in Coast's ITO Ranks

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—A split is seen here in the ranks of I.T.O. of Southern California with the formation of a new independent theatre organization for houses south of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino counties by operator allies of Fox West Coast.

Incorporation papers under the name of Theatre Owners' Ass'n of Southern California were filed yesterday at Sacramento, with Sherill Cohen, Elaine Waldman and G. A. Metzger named as directors.

This is said to mark a split in I.T.O. of Southern California insofar as Fox West Coast operators are concerned and was primarily designed for this purpose.

Clearance Dual Ban Stirs Up Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, June 29.—Many local independent exhibitors have taken exception to certain clauses in the proposed clearance and zoning schedule for this territory and have declared they will not adhere to it in its present form. Approximately 25 local houses are playing double features full or part time.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Old Fashioned Way"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—Hilarious comedy throughout. It never let the preview audience fully recover from the first laugh explosion until the fadeout. Shades of Sennett and Christie slapstick, with W. C. Fields' label predominating.

Fields characterizes the great McGonigle, head of a band of traveling troupers who collect offerings of over-ripe fruit and leave behind a string of unpaid bills. Fields' daughter, Judith Allen, and Joe Morrison, wealthy college youth with histrionic hopes, both are in the show and romantically inclined.

Morrison's father tries to break up the romance and send him back to college. Fields has his hands full keeping the sheriff away from the door, but by playing ball with the wealthiest old gal in town who wishes to become an actress and is engaged to the sheriff, Fields browbeats the sheriff into letting the show go on.

Riotous fun occurs at the dinner table when Baby LeRoy dips Fields' gold watch in molasses and plasters him with whipped cream.

Morrison brought spontaneous applause for a vocal number with a voice and presence something to rave over. Jane Dugan is outstanding as the rich widow.

William Beaudine's direction is smooth and vigorous. Gordon's and Revel's music is tuneful and catchy. The cast is excellent. Customers should like this one plenty. Running time, 72 minutes.

"Jane Eyre"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—Charlotte Bronte's famous novel of English country life comes to the screen in tune with the trend for clean, wholesome entertainment.

Having enjoyed a circulation well over a million as a book, the film has a large following awaiting it. The classic story traces Jane Eyre from an orphan child to a governess, showing her drama and heartaches along the path and her ultimate marriage to the head of Rochester Manor.

Virginia Bruce gives an unusually sympathetic portrayal of Jane and reveals genuine histrionic ability and surprising allure.

The competent supporting cast includes Colin Clive, Aileen Pringle, Beryl Mercer, David Torrence and others. Jean Darling is effective as Jane, the child. Production has class values and though its tempo is slow in spots it seems in keeping with the theme and period. Christy Cabanne directed from Adele Comandinis' script.

The majority of feminine patrons should find enjoyment here with showmen getting a good program picture and the personality of Virginia Bruce to exploit. Running time, 70 minutes.

son, permanent chairman of the appeals committee. The committees will not make final disposition of cases but will hear and make recommendations to Campi.

Stanley Files First Philadelphia Appeal

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—First appeal against a clearance board decision in this territory has been filed by Stanley-Warner in the case of the Fern Rock vs. the Colney and nearby houses.

The Fern Rock asked relief from the seven days' clearance held by the Colney and the similar "and-or" contracts it held with regard to the Felton and the Lindley, also S-W houses. The board gave the Fern Rock and the Colney overlapping status and cleared both seven days ahead of the other two theatres. Stanley-Warner has filed an appeal.

In the case of the Ambassador, independent house, asking clearance clarification against the Benn, a Stanley-Warner house, the board reserved decision, finding the congestion in West Philadelphia theatres too pronounced to deliver an immediate verdict. Machinery is being set up to zone all West Philadelphia and establish a clearer clearance system.

Cleveland Suburbs Win Assessment Cut

CLEVELAND, June 29.—East Cleveland, Cleveland Heights and Lakewood theatres have won their protest for code assessments on the basis of suburban houses, not Greater Cleveland houses.

M. B. Horwitz, recently in New York on the dual situation, brought back verbal word from Executive Secretary John C. Flinn that these suburbs are to be assessed on the basis of 100,000 population and not Greater Cleveland population. Although no formal or written statement of verification has been received locally, it is understood checks from the suburbs involved already have been accepted by Campi.

The local grievance board originally had extended payment dates 30 days from June 29 during which time the method was to be determined.

tries." A questionnaire, to be drafted by Dr. W. W. Charters of the University of Ohio, Dr. Herbert Blumer of the University of Chicago and Dr. Edgar Dale of the University of Ohio, will be sent to all consular officers abroad.

Taking up where the Darrow review board left off, the council determined to make a study of trade practices within the industry and the effect thereof, which will cover not only those practices controlled by the film code, but, it was said, also will probe into practices on which the code is silent. The investigation will be conducted by Alfred Graham, New York lawyer.

Other resolutions expressed gratification with the "united front" presented to the industry by the three great religious forces and offered the resources of the council in cooperation with them. The council determined to seek "by every means possible" the abolition of block booking and blind selling; the appointment of a committee to cooperate with other organizations to formulate and secure the passage of necessary legislation, although it was explained the council is neither for nor against any particular bill; provided for cooperation with educators in developing the educational value of pictures and expressed appreciation to Senator Copeland of New York "for his recent speech criticizing the industry for not making use of the Payne Fund studies."

Officials of the organization expressed the hope that the President would be sympathetic with their aims because of his mother's interest in the work. She is an honorary vice-president.

The council, it was represented is "extremely skeptical" of the resolutions of the Hays organization to clean house, pointing out that they had heard many such promises in the past, only to see them broken.

While the organization is in favor of "proper" legislation to ban block booking, members could not say just what would be proper, but brought that every influence would be brought upon Congress to "do something."

All-British House Tried In West End

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 29 (By Mail)—Arthur Jarratt of Gaumont British seems convinced there is a need for a West End house "where nothing but British films would be featured," adding, however, "I cannot promise that second features will be home-made—there are not enough to go round." This ties in with an all-British policy at the New Gallery, starting with "Evergreen," Jessie Matthews' starring vehicle. Plan is to keep the house open to other British producers as well as G. B.

Institute of Educational Films Urged

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Development of a national institute to assemble, edit, classify, publicize and catalogue educational films; set up a convenient and economical distribution system, and produce and stimulate the production and effective utilization of such films is recommended in a report on motion pictures in education just published by the office of Education, Department of the Interior.

"In comparison with the theatrical motion picture, the non-theatrical picture in the past usually lacked technical excellence, was used comparatively little and with varying regularity," the report asserts, and the result is "chaotic and disorganized."

The principal reason for this condition, it is held, is the past policy of the Federal government to leave to private industry and voluntary endeavor many activities that the typical European government would assume.

"Private industry is deadlocked over the fact that producers can not afford to make films until a sufficient number of projectors is sold to make the work profitable, and the projector concerns can not sell their apparatus because there is no comprehensive library of suitable films available for their use," it is pointed out.

The report, originally submitted at the International Congress of Educational and Instructional Cinematography in Rome, in April, charges that three out of four of the pictures that are shown relate to sex, crime or romantic love; that the child retains two-thirds as much as the adult from his attendance at the "movies," and that pictures change children's attitudes and these changes have a lasting influence. There are in use in this country 190,000 non-theatrical projectors, including home sets, the report states.
